YOU can pay a great deal of money at some stores and your home will be filled with gaudy, unharmonious pieces of Furniture.

At this store things are different. In addition to our wonderfully popular line of substantial low priced furniture, we carry a large assortment of artistic furniture, the very newest notions in odd and novel pieces.

To the average man, the dollars come too sparingly to be spent in a manner soon to be regretted and the longer you use the furniture we sell you, you realize as comparison only teaches, that our furniture is built for service.

Occasionally a customer leaves us, but returns soon again with the same story, "I have tried elsewhere, but come back after wasting my time."

TOWN OBLITERATED.

Death, Wreck and Ruin In Wake of Oklahoma Tornado.

Whole Population of Chandler Without Shelter.

Twenty-Five Killed and Nearly Two Hundred Injured---Relief Necessary.

Chandler, O. T., April 1.—Only three buildings remain standing as a result of the cyclone which struck this place day before yesterday. The town is practically obliterated, so far as residences go. Twenty-five persons were killed outright or burned to death, and nearly 200 were seriously wounded. Probably 30 more will die. The entire population is without shelter, and the property loss will reach over $500,000. There are no coffins to bury the dead.

The storm broke upon the city suddenly. Shortly before 6 o'clock a mass of dark clouds gathered in the Southwest and whirled north. They soon developed into a funnel shaped mass and bore down upon the outskirts of the town. As the tornado touched the ground the roar was deafening. The funnel split as it struck the southwest corner of Chandler, which is situated on a hill, and one half went through the town and the other went north. Before escape was possible, the cyclone had swept through the town. Buildings were crushed or lifted high into the air and tossed in every direction. Chief Justice Dale of the Oklahoma supreme court, was holding court in the courthouse, which was crowded. He ran with his wife to a hollow, and the two protected by a boulder escaped unhurt. A moment later the structure was twisted around and crashed into the street a complete wreck. One of the occupants was killed outright and a dozen others injured. Further down Main street the Lincoln County bank building was toppled over, and was soon enveloped in flames. Here, before aid could reach them, five unfortunates were burned to death, while pinioned down by heavy timbers.

Still further down the street, three children suffered a like fate. Passing on to the residence district, the cyclone toppled over dwelling after dwelling, turned houses on their tops and made the streets unrecognizable.

A 2-days-old baby was carried four blocks and not injured, while the mother was crushed in her bed. The trail the storm left was one of wreck and ruin. With the first realization of their predicament over, the uninjured and able bodied found themselves, from fright and confusion, well nigh helpless to render aid. Finally, when an effort to send for aid was made, it was found that all communication with the outside world had been cut off, the telephone office being among the buildings destroyed. It was several hours before communication with Guthrie was established. The nature of the catastrophe, together with an appeal for aid had been communicated to the neighboring city when the wires snapped and Chandler was again shut off. In the meantime, however, a train bearing physicians and others left for the scene. The wire came up later, and appeals for aid met prompt response, and additional rescuing parties were sent out as soon as the extent of the damage became known.

The night in Chandler was one of indescribable terror. With many of its inhabitants dead or dying, and the remainder too badly injured or unable, from fright or because of the darkness, to render assistance, no order prevailed. Rain poured down in torrents. The injured in many cases vainly cried for help and lay in the wrecks of their homes until daylight made it possible for them to help themselves, or when aid from surrounding towns arrived.

By midnight some show of systematic rescue had been perfected, and the dead and dying were being released from the ruins. Improvised hospitals were erected and the unfortunates were cared for as fast as possible.

At 1 o'clock 20 dead bodies had been taken from the ruins, while dozens of persons, more or less seriously injured, had been removed to places of safety. But one of Chandler's physicians escaped uninjured, and even after aid from Guthrie arrived there was a scarcity of surgeons. Only two were able to do anything, and one of these, Dr. Wolcott, with blood streaming from a sightless eye, worked until he fainted.

Daylight brought hundreds of people from surrounding towns to assist in caring for the injured. Little progress was made, however, and it was not until noon that an organized effort for alleviating the suffering was made. The four remaining buildings were turned into hospitals and directed by Mayor Kinney, the work proceeded as swiftly as possible.

Queer sights greet the eye on all sides. Ten trees have a house roof hanging on each; clothing and household goods are scattered in the streets. Dead horses, cows and other animals are to be seen everywhere, while a pile of ruins has a piano perched on top of it. Many of the citizens wander about the streets, dazed at the calamity, and almost on the verge of insanity at the loss of family and home. Two or three have gone stark mad.

Ten thousand people flocked into the city yesterday. Many of them came to render aid, but the majority were morbid sightseers. A great quantity of clothing, bedding and provisions has been sent in, and the Guthrie club has raised $1500 in cash. The city has put to use all its cash, about $700, for immediate aid. Hundreds of tents have been sent from Fort Reno and Guthrie, and will provide temporary shelter for the unfortunates. All are homeless, however, and more substantial aid must quickly follow. Food is scarce and the supply of medicine has been destroyed.

Bay State Advisory Board Reviews Work of Order.

Boston, April 1.—The annual meeting of the state advisory board of the American Protective association was held in this city on Tuesday. There were 82 members present, representing all parts of the commonwealth. The state president, Levi F. S. Davis of Somerville, presided.

Committees were appointed to represent the 13 congressional districts of the state. The report of the executive committee was submitted and showed that at the last election a sub-committee reported in favor of W. Murray Crane for lieutenant governor. There were 739 members of the organization in the Republican state convention holding the balance of power and voting as a unit.

The report, continuing, says that very few of our members have been elected to positions of honor and trust. We have a large representation in the general court, composed of men of good character, ability and influence.

We were unusually successful in electing our members in high official positions in the several cities and towns of the commonwealth, and as members of the various political committees.

We have stood by the Republican party, because it has through its conventions recognized most of the principles of our association—restriction of immigration, separation of church and state, and no public funds for sectarian purposes.

We have in the senate of the United States and national house of representatives over 125 members of our order, many of whom have a national reputation.

The passage of the bill for the restriction of immigration by the last congress, which was vetoed by a Democratic president, was largely due to the efforts and influence of the 2,500,000 members of our organization.

The state advisory board under our constitution is organized for political purposes, therefore we have no authority to speak for the order at large, but we may be pardoned for alluding to the state president's report made a few weeks ago, in which he states that the order has not increased in membership as rapidly as in past years, but is far better in the quality of its members, and its future is bright and promising.

The estimated numerical strength of the American Protective association and kindred organizations in this state which co-operate with it, is 73,000 members, fully 90 per cent of which are voters.

American Health Association.

Concord, N. H., April 1.—Dr. I. A. Watson of this city, secretary of the American Public Health association, has issued the preliminary announcement of the 25th annual meeting of the association to be held in Philadelphia, Oct. 26, 27, 28, and 29. The following topics have been assigned for consideration and discussion: Pollution of water supplied, disposal of garbage and refuse, animal diseases and animal food, car sanitation, steamship and steamboat sanitation, prevention of spread of yellow fever, transportation and disposal of dead, relation of forestry to public health, nomenclature of diseases and forms of statistics, cause and prevention of infectious diseases, public health legislation, cause and prevention of infant mortality, transportation of diseased tissues by mail, river conservancy boards of supervision, period through which each contagious disease is transmissable and length of time for which each patient is dangerous to community; sanitation, with special reference to drainage, plumbing and ventilation of public and private buildings; some method of international agreement for protection against transmission of infectious diseases, disinfectants; existing sanitary municipal organizations of countries belonging to association, with a view to report upon those most successful in practical results.

Bay State Lawmakers.

Boston, April 1.—The house yesterday sat down on the proposition that the committees on metropolitan affairs and harbors and public lands be allowed to inspect the advantages of the dock system in New York city. The house also rejected—46 to 115—the bill to constitute eight hours a day's work for state, county, city and town employes. The senate killed a bill to allow cities and towns to operate electric light plants. It also rejected the bill to restrict the employment of persons on public buildings to citizens of the commonwealth. The committee on taxation gave a hearing on the bill to exempt school property from taxation. The committee on metropolitan affairs heard I. F. Paul in opposition to the bill to authorize the mayor of Boston to approve contracts of the school board.

New Tariff Bill, With "Retrospective" Clause, Passed by the House.

There Was No Break In the Republican Ranks.

Five Southern Democrats Braved Party Censure and Voted Aye.

Washington, April 1.—The house yesterday passed the tariff bill, including the Grosvenor amendment to make duties take effect on importations ordered after April 1.

The Republican victory yesterday was complete. They presented an unbroken front to the opposition. All the rumors that dissatisfaction with particular schedules of the bill might lead some of them to break over the party traces proved absolutely unfounded. On the other hand, five Democrats, one more than was anticipated, braved the party whip and gave the bill the approval of their votes. These five Democrats are interested particularly in the sugar schedule. Three came from Louisana and two from Texas. One Populist, Mr. Howard of Alabama, voted for the bill. Twenty-one other members of what is denominated "the opposition," consisting of Populists, fusionists and silverites, declined to record themselves either for or against the measure. The vote on the final passage of the bill stood, ayes, 205; nays, 122; present and not voting, 21, a majority of 83.

Speaker Reed added to the dramatic nature of the climax of this 10-day struggle in the house by directing the clerk to call his name at the end of the roll-call, recording his vote for the bill.

The events leading up to the final vote were replete with excitement and incident and not devoid of humor. The galleries were crowded to suffocation. The executive and diplomatic galleries, which are usually empty even on big days, were filled. Many prominent personages were present. On the floor every seat was taken. After the amendment fixing today as the date on which the bill should go into effect had been adopted against the protests of the Democrats, who contended that it was retroactive, and therefore unconstitutional, the last three hours were taken up with short speeches, most of which were made for the benefit of the galleries and the constituents of the speakers. John Allen of Mississippi, the wit of the house, regaled the members with one of his humorous efforts, which tickled the risibilities of all present.

The Democrats had yielded the question of a long debate over the Grosvenor amendment in the hope that enough progress might be made with the bill to permit the house to reach the sugar schedule, but only two more pages were read, leaving 140 unconsidered in committee of the whole. The motion to recommit with instructions to amend the bill so as to suspend the duties on articles controlled by trusts, upon which they based their principal hope of breaking through the Republican ranks, failed of its purpose. Every Republican voted against it. There was a great demonstration on the floor of the house and in the galleries when the bill was finally declared passed.

IN THE SENATE.

Hoar's Substitute Amendment to Arbitration Treaty Accepted.

Washington, April 1.—The open session of the senate yesterday lasted less than half an hour. It was productive of another Cuban resolution by Mr. Mills of Texas, calling on the committee on foreign relations for a report on the obligations assumed by the United States in insisting that Cuba should not be annexed to any European power, and should remain subject to Spain. Mr. Hale's objection sent the resolution over.

Action upon the amendment offered by Senator Hoar was the first taken, and several senators expressed the opinion that it would render any further amendment unnecessary. There were six roll-calls during the session and several votes on which ayes and noes were not demanded. The first rollcall was on Senator Hoar's amendment. It was adopted by an overwhelming majority. The final announcement was 54 to 13, but there had been four changes in favor of the amendment before this result was reached, making 17 votes originally cast in opposition. The text of this amendment is substantially as follows:

"Any difference which, in the judgment of either power, materially affects its honor or its domestic or foreign policy shall not be referred to arbitrators, under this treaty, except by special agreement, nor shall any question as to the continuance in force of any treaty which has previously been made. It is further explicitly specified and agreed that all agreements entered into by the contracting parties under this treaty shall be signed by the President of the United States, and receive the approval of the senate by a two-thirds vote before it becomes binding upon either Great Britian or the United States."

When the senate adjourned it was with the understanding that the vote on amendments should be taken at 4 o'clock today. After this time no further amendments will be in order under the agreement of last week, but there is no date fixed for the final vote upon the treaty itself.

Senator Davis made an effort to secure unanimous consent to take the vote on either Friday of this week or Monday of next week, but Senator Stewart made objections.

Senator Hansbrough gave notice of a substitute for the entire treaty, which, he said, he would offer today.

ANDERSON CLUB.

Assist F. W. Tirrell to Celebrate His Birthday.

Mr. Frederick W. Tirrell, manager of the well known carriage manufacturing firm of Tirrell & Sons, celebrated his 33d birthday Wednesday evening, by entertaining the Anderson club at his residence on the Adams farm.

The gentlemen comprising the party left City Square in the early evening on a special electric car which also brought them back to Quincy at the close of the evening.

Upon their arrival they were given a royal welcome by their host who bade them make themselves at home and enjoy themselves, which they certainly did, the evening being passed in playing whist.

During the evening the guests were given a sumptuous repast, and at its close Mr. George H. Field in behalf of those present presented Mr. Tirrell with two handsome cut glass decanters. This was the surprise to Mr. Tirrell who briefly thanked them for their pleasing gift.

Reception.

The dancing class of Miss Byrne held its closing reception Wednesday evening at Faxon hall. It was largely attended by the parents and friends of the pupils of her class.

At the end of the hall surrounded by a bank of ferns were the matrons Mrs. A. C. Drinkwater, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard and Mrs. R. R. Freeman, while on the sides of the hall and platform were the parents and friends.

From 7 to 9 o'clock the pupils gave an exhibition of dancing, their execution of the various evolutions being almost perfect and called for well merited applause, the march which opened it being led by Master Joel Sheppard and Miss Audrey Rhines.

At 9 o'clock there was an exhibition of fancy dancing by little Miss Helen Byrne, who gave the sailor's hornpipe, and Miss Marion Brunnette, who gave a toe dance. The sixteen young misses of the classes then gave the gypsy dance in costume and the exhibition closed with La Tosco dance by four young misses from Miss Bryne's Roxbury class.

The class then formed for the closing march, each couple as they passed the matrons making their adieu and receiving a pink in return.

At the conclusion of the reception ices were served and general dancing enjoyed for an hour.

Nearly Swamped.

A dispatch from Nauset harbor to the Journal reports that a heavy squall from the northeast swept along the coast early Tuesday night, kicking up a heavy sea outside, which caught a catboat bound from New York for Boston, having on board Capt. J. G. Mahoney and his little son. The craft was nearly swamped when the Orleans lifeboat came alongside. Capt. Mahoney had sent up rockets, which were seen by Capt. Charles of the Life Saving Station. The exhausted captain and boy were taken into the life boat, and the catboat was bailed out, and finally towed into this harbor, after a hard struggle. The rescued sailors were all right Wednesday, and will proceed with the first fair wind. The boat is owned by W. H. Shaw, of the Quincy Yacht club.

HOSPITAL WHIST.

The First House Party a Grand Success in Every way.

The first of a series of six "house whist parties," to be given in aid of the Quincy Hospital, was held at the residence of Mrs. Albert Keating, 95 Washington street, on Wednesday afternoon.

To say it was a success socially, faintly expresses it; financially it was a decided success, netting $18.50. Friends from Boston, Charlestown, Roxbury, Dorchester Weymouth, Braintree and Waverly were present, and every ward in the city was represented. There were over sixty ladies, which kept fifteen tables quite busy for nearly three hours.

Quite a number that do not play whist came as spectators, and expressed themselves well entertained watching the interest manifested on the players' countenances as they either lost or won points.

A novel idea of Mrs. Keating was to invite friends largely outside of the city, who are not in the way of frequently contributing to the aid of the Hospital, thus relieving for the time being those who are constantly assisting it.

The prizes were numerous, useful and fancy, all donated by her friends. First prize, a pack of cards in a monkey skin case, won by Miss Bertha Waldron, contributed by Miss Eva M. Sheldon. Second prize, silver glove buttoner, won by Mrs. Peter B. Mead, given by Fred H. Robbie. Third prize, statuette, won by Mrs. Benj. Johnson, donated by John W. Sanborn. Fourth prize, a well filled fancy candy box, won by Mrs. E. G. Pratt, contributed by A. F. Hall. Fifth prize, box of toilet soap, won by Mrs. Geo. W. Morton, given by Mrs. Samuel Crane. Sixth and seventh prizes, potted plant and cut flowers, donated by a friend, won by Mrs. Charles Huston and Mrs. Charles Burgess.

Sale and Entertainment.

The Dorcas society of the First Universalist church held a largely attended sale and entertainment at the church vestry Wednesday evening. On the side of the room were tastefully decorated tables upon which were articles of a useful and fancy nature which were sold at remarkably low prices. There were also tables for the sale of confectionery, ice cream, etc.

The entertainment which was of an interesting nature, consisted of piano solos by Miss Raymond, vocal solos by Mrs. Edgar W. Preble, and violin solos by Miss Percy Shaw. The closing number on the programme was a one act farce entitled "Champion of her Sex," the several characters being impersonated by Miss Lillian S. Gay, Miss Delia Pushor, Miss Abbie G. Barnes, Miss Alice Coburn, Mrs. Herbert F. Nye, Miss Addie Holton, Miss Maud Cudworth and Miss Clara Beals.

Young Men's Christian Association.

All cycle riders will be welcome at the informal reception tonight at the headquarters of the Quincy Triangle Wheelmen. Music, refreshments and some practical discussions, as well as exhibition of gymnastics, will make the evening a pleasant one. Fifty wheels can easily be accommodated.

At a meeting of the committee on religious work last evening it was decided to hold a meeting for young men in the Wollaston branch rooms on Thursday evenings during April, beginning the 8th.

The reserved seat tickets for the orchestra concert at Wollaston next Tuesday evening were placed at the Wollaston pharmacy last night. No extra charge is made for these. Those who have had the pleasure of hearing the orchestra at the rehearsals and at the association receptions are the ones most anxious to attend the concert. Miss Burnett, who is engaged for that evening, is a singer as well as a reader.

Successful Benefit.

The testimonial for the benefit of J. Harvey Smith at Hancock hall last evening was very successful, and quite a goodly sum will be the reward of the promoters of the testimonial. The hall was well filled and the audience did not fail to show its appreciation of every good point. "Capt. Jack," which was played so successfully in January by the St. John's society, was presented with but few changes in the original cast. Miss Ida Parks, a Neponset young lady, was seen here for the first time, and her "Aline" was greatly enjoyed. The "Blind Beggars," a laughable bit of nonsense, was given by William A. Kingstree and Alexander McKee.

Still Alarm at Midnight.

Spring cleaning has begun at the residence of Dr. J. F. Welch, and but for a timely discovery about midnight by Fenton E. Lowe, who was passing, the doctor might have been cleaned out by fire. Upon a manure heap near the stable dry leaves had been thrown and these became ignited by the heat in the manure, and the wind was blowing them about. Mr. Lowe aroused the firemen at the Central station and they were at work with chemicals when the doctor appeared on the scene. The chemicals and a sill cock stream soon extinguished the fire.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vaughn of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for cramps in the stomach" and bowels. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

THE GRANITE DUTY.

A New Schedule Likely to be Introduced in Senate.

Atherton, the Washington correspondent of the Record says, "The granite makers, those interested in monumental work, have been so untiring in their efforts to raise the rate of duty on that article, have so wearied the republican members of the ways and means committee that they feel as if they would soon be in their graves, and therefore in need of having some of this monumental work erected over their resting places. The work of the granite men, however, will bear fruit. The present rate and schedule on granite will be changed in the house. Senator Proctor of Vermont, who owns granite quarries in that State knows the whole subject from A to Z and handles the granite schedule in the way that the seven-year-old boy does angel cake in a Morris chair. The senator will submit a revised granite schedule when the tariff bill gets to the body of which he is a member. It will be satisfactory to all granite interests. It will probably levy a specific duty. This is what some of the granite dealers want, and most of them will be content with such a settlement made, which I hear is apt to be the outcome of all this agitation just now.

Rev. Elmer Hewitt, D. D.

Many clergymen of the Universalist denomination were in attendance Wednesday at the funeral of the venerable Rev. Elmer Hewitt, D. D., of South Weymouth. Rev. Anson Titus, a former pastor, repeated the opening portion of the burial service as the remains were taken into the church, and also offered the invocation and read the Scriptures.

Rev. Thomas J. Sawyer, D. D, of Somerville, 93 years of age, spoke of the work of the deceased, President E. H. Capen of Tufts college paid tribute and there were remarks by Rev. G. H. Emerson of Boston and Rev. Mr. Titus. Selections by a choir were interspersed. The pall bearers were Mr. John Thomas, Mr. John Blanchard, Mr. Franklin Derby and Mr. David S. Murray. The interment was at Fern Hill cemetery, Hanson.

More Trains.

Mayor Quincy of Boston in an address to the Old Dorchester club Wednesday evening touched on the improvement likely to be made in suburban service, and stated that his idea of reform in this direction would be to have local trains, especially at the morning and evening hours, run at intervals as cars do on surface lines and not on time table schedule. This, he believed, would have a favorable effect upon outlying suburban territory.

CUTTERS OUT.

Want The Hardwick Manufacturers to Pay 45 Cents for 8 Hours.

There are troubles among the granite cutters of Barre and vicinity, says a dispatch to a Boston daily, and to settle them Mr. E. R. Fletcher, of the Fletcher Granite Company, at St. Albans, was Wednesday in conference with the Executive Committee of the Barre Granite Manufacturers' Association, of which this firm is a member. Men employed by the Fletcher Company at Hardwick left work Wednesday because the company had not agreed to a new scale of prices.

Mr. Fletcher states that in December last the local cutters' union notified the company that it would want a new schedule on March 1, but no changes were specified. On this latter date the company received an official notice that the union would insist on the company signing the regular agreement in figuring on the work for the Chicago Post Office, which included an item that wages should be 45 cents an hour for an eight-hour day.

The company is a member of the New England Granite Manufacturers' Association, and is obliged to abide by a schedule of prices adopted by the Barre Association and Barre Union.

The result of Mr. Fletcher's conference was that the committee objected to his signing any individual agreement, as it would be the initial step toward granting an eight-hour day for granite cutters. The Fletcher Company is willing to sign the union's new agreement if other manufacturers will do likewise, but there is no evidence of a movement to this effect in other localities.

MORE BREAKS IN LEVEES.

Thousands of Acres Along Mississippi Now Inundated.

Memphis, April 1.—A heavy rainfall, accompanied by a strong gale from the west, has added to the gravity of the flood situation in the Mississippi delta. There are four breaks, and each is letting in a stream as large as the Ohio river at Cincinnati, or the Hudson at Albany. This tremendous outflow has caused a fall of only one-tenth at Vicksburg immediately below the last break. The rain and wind will probably cause more breaks. The river is now like an inland sea. All the forces of nature are against the people. The rainfall and wind intensifies the danger.

On the Arkansas side the levee from Helena to Arkansas City is as full of holes as the outer wall of a fortification after a siege. A break at Westover occurred yesterday. One thousand men were at work on the levees when the crash came. In five minutes a gap 50 feet wide and six feet deep was torn in the wall of the earth. The break grew until it is now several hundred feet wide.

The Laconia circle country, a few miles below Westover, is under water. Gunnison, Miss., Rosedale and a dozen other small towns are under water, and the prospects are that the whole country will be inundated. Already the loss of cattle has been enormous. Corn had been planted and growing, and is under water, and preparation for cotton planting was well under way. The ploughed earth will be swept into the Yazoo, and thence into the Mississippi. It is difficult to estimate the loss. A thickly settled country containing an area of about 4000 square miles, dotted with farmhouses, negro cabins and small villages, will be flooded. Labor will become demoralized, and negroes cannot be secured in sufficient number to cultivate the crops when the water subsides.

Japs Making Trouble In Hawaii.

San Francisco, April 1.—The steamer Rio Janeiro brings Honolulu advices to the effect that the Hawaiian government has had serious trouble with the Japanese consul over the question of Japanese immigration. Two Japanese steamers recently arrived at Honolulu with large numbers of Japanese laborers. The collector of customs, after an investigation, decided that 446 of the immigrants must return to their native country, claiming that they failed to come up to the requirements of the treaty stipulations. The Hawaiian court sustained the collector, and the coolies were ordered to return to Japan. The incident created considerable excitement among the Japanese colonists, and at a meeting they adopted resolutions calling upon their government to investigate the case. Japan's representative at Honolulu has sent a request to Tokio for a war vessel, and has advised the captains of the steamers to return the rejected immigrants to Japan, promising that the company shall be reimbursed if Hawaii has violated its treaty. The whole trouble has been caused by the local immigration companies, which have attempted to bring men in without proper authority. The Japanese openly say they intend to cause trouble for the Hawaiian government over the restriction of immigration. The latest infraction of the law is the brutal murder of an interpreter in the island of Maui. Four Japanese, ringleaders in the affair, were arrested. Later a mob of 400 Japanese marched 10 miles to liberate the murderers, but were prevented by 50 white men, called out by the sheriff.

Postal Extension at Newton.

Boston, April 1.—Important changes are looked for in the near future in the postal service in this city, to make way for the extension of the free delivery service, which is to take effect on July 1. The free delivery will be extended through all the Newtons. Yesterday afternoon, Postmaster Morgan of the Newton office and Inspector Snow of Boston began to plan out a system. It is expected that three independent offices will be established, at Newton, West Newton and Newton Centre. Auburndale will be delivered from West Newton, and Newtonville from the Newton office. Newton Highlands would come under the Newton Centre office. The villages of Chestnut Hill, Waban, Upper and Lower Falls, will remain under the old system. This reorganization will mean a large increase in the force of letter carriers, which at present numbers seven, Newton proper and Nonantum only having free delivery. Delivery of mails by trolley mail carriers from Boston and the suburbs now reached by the West End mail cars is also planned.

Gas Explosion Investigation.

Boston, April 1.—The attendance at the gas explosion hearing yesterday was again confined to those directly interested in the investigation. The testimony introduced during the morning hour was largely cumulative, and came from the occupants of buildings in the neighborhood of the accident. It appeared that the complaints to the gas company of escaping gas were frequent, and repairs were always made, but without any appreciable relief.

Rivera Will Be Shot.

Havana, April 1.—"Religions perish when they have no longer followers who will die for them," said Ruis Rivera on his stretcher at San Cristobal yesterday. "I expect to be shot. Well, it may help the cause. Other considerations are not important." Rivera will be tried by summary court-martial, and may be shot at once, with the gallant Bacalao, though suffering from his wounds. Such are said to be General Weyler's orders.

Governor Powers Will Go.

Houlton, Me., April 1. — Governor Llewellyn Powers has accepted, in behalf of himself, his staff and his council, an invitation to be present at the dedication of the Grant mausoleum at Riverside park, on the Hudson, April 27. Secretary of State Byron Boyd has gone to New York to make preparations for the entertainment of the governor and his party.

Lynn Federal Appointment.

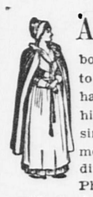

Lynn, Mass., April 1.—A telegram from Washington announces the appointment of Herbert S. Townsend of this city as disbursing officer of the new public building in this city. Mr. Townsend is cashier of the Lynn Institution for Savings.

The Debbins Case.

Medford, Mass., April 1.—The detectives at work on the Debbins murder mystery have been unable to get any tangible clew to the perpetrator. Every rumor has been followed up and nothing developed.

THREE GOOD MEALS.

Daily Evidence That Puritana Cured Him.

A MAN'S case is really desperate when his neighbors are daily expecting him to die, when his physicians have given him up, and when his system revolts at the simplest sort of nourishment. Yet this was the condition of Mr. Charles E. Phelps, who is a life long resident of Sterling, Mass., having been born there 53 years ago.

For the past 17 years Mr. Phelps has been tax collector and constable, and is also sexton and the proprietor of a livery stable. He is a prominent Odd Fellow, and his acquaintance extends widely into Clinton, Lancaster, Leominster, Boylston and Worcester.

Mr. Phelps was dragged down to the door of death by a serious stomach trouble. He was fighting for his life without much hope for his poor pain-racked body. He was fighting alone against starvation in the midst of plenty, against constant loss of weight and increasing weakness, against dreadful nausea, against pressure on his chest, against belching of wind, sourness of the stomach and terrible pain.

He had all but lost the fight, when Puritana saved him. Mr Phelps is enthusiastic. His friends and neighbors marvel at his wonderful recovery, and another link is added to the long chain of evidence in favor of Puritana. His remarkable letter is as follows:

The Puritana Compound Co.,

Dear Sir—For ten years I have had a very bad stomach trouble. One year ago I had a hemorrhage of the stomach which left me in a still worse condition. My system got entirely run down so that I could eat scarcely anything. A small piece of bread would cause severe pains across my chest and in my bowels, and I would have to go to bed and call a doctor.

My condition kept on going from bad to worse, and last summer I was given up to die. My weight ran down from 140 pounds to 123. After eating, frequently I would vomit everything up. I had employed doctors, but still retained no permanent results. Last summer my attention was called to Puritana, and as a "drowning man" grasps at a straw, so I commenced the use of Puritana.

The results in my case are marvelous. Instead of being in my grave, as many predicted I would be before this time, I am attending to my active business pursuits, and sit down to three good meals of victuals a day, enjoy eating them, and afterwards experience no pains, attacks of indigestion, vomiting, belching of wind, sourness of the stomach, or anything of the kind. Puritana I consider the most wonderful of medicines and am recommending it to many of my friends.

WILL ATTACK CANEA.

Greek Commander In Crete Will Retaliate on Admirals.

Insurgents Driven Back by Foreign Shells.

A Report That Powers Have Agreed to Blockade Greece.

Athens, April 1.—Colonel Vassos, commander of the Greek forces in Crete, has heliographed the following message to King George: "Contrary to their promises the admirals have permitted bands of armed Mussulmans at Candamo to pillage and burn houses outside the town, while every act of defense on the part of the Christians provokes bombardment by the foreign warships. The admirals send their governments false dispatches, declaring that I am guilty of cruelties; that I have massacred the prisoners taken at Malaxa, and that, despite my solemn declaration to the contrary, I intend to attack Canea. I shall address to the admirals an energetic protest."

Cretans Driven Back.

Canea, April 1.—The insurgents, by a bold stroke, occupied the hill on the south side of Suda bay Tuesday evening. They were promptly shelled by the British, Austrian and Russian warships. At daybreak yesterday the firing was resumed and the Cretans were driven from their positions. As soon as the firing ceased they made another attempt to recover the ground, and the warships promptly resumed the firing, which was very heavy for several hours. During the cannonade three Turks were killed and five wounded.

The Russian consul at Retimo reports that when he communicated to the Cretans at Sipopulos the proclamation of the admirals inviting them to lay down their arms, the Cretans replied that the only boon they would accept from the powers was political union with Greece.

Powers Will Act Immediately.

Berlin, April 1.—It is semi-officially announced that the powers have arrived at the conviction that the situation in Crete and on the Thessalian frontier must not be allowed to continue, and that steps must forthwith be taken to stop the agressive attitude of Greece. Their decision was hastened by the action of Colonel Vassos in aiding the insurgents in hostilities against the powers.

The blockade of Greece has therefore been decided upon with the consent of all of the powers, and will be enforced at an early date.

Sultan Ordered to Withdraw Troops.

Berlin, April 1.—A dispatch to The Berliner Tageblatt from Constantinople says that five of the powers, not including Germany, delivered a note to the sultan yesterday requiring the immediate withdrawal of the Turkish troops from the Thessalian frontier.

Will Try to Run Blockade.

Larnica, April 1.—The Greek steamer Klene has embarked a number of Cypriote volunteers and Greek reserves for the island of Crete. She will try to run the blockade of that island.

Procrastination of Powers.

London, April 1.—At the banquet given in his honor last evening at the National Liberal club, Lord Kimberly, leader of the Liberal party in the house of lords, severely arraigned the powers for their systematic procrastination in dealing with the Greco-Cretan affair. He complained that every action was taken too late to accomplish the end designed. "The sultan," he said, "should be required to remove his troops from the island of Crete instanter, and if he refuses then the powers ought to remove them. The feeling in this country is that the whole might of Great Britain should be used promptly and effectually for freedom and for peace."

The Times has a dispatch from its Paris correspondent advocating the appointment of Prince George as governor of Crete, and emphasizing the great importance which attaches to the visit of the dowager czarina to Copenhagen. He says:

"The dowager czarina is the chief support of such an arrangement. She has great influence over the King of Denmark and the King of Greece. The latter is unfavorable to his son's candidature, for he wishes Crete to be added to Greece, and fears that if autonomy is proclaimed and the prince appointed governor, neither Cretans nor Prince George will endeavor to bring about annexation.

"Autonomy would increase Cretan taxation, but annexation would cost the islanders still more, in addition to a share of the burden of the Greek debts. This fact explains why, as it is understood, the King of Greece opposes his son's candidature, and is an additional reason for the journey of the dowager czarina, who will endeavor to induce the King of Denmark to persuade King George to waive his objections.

"Germany opposes the candidature of the prince, but from the very outset Germany has raised some sort of objection to every suggestion made for the solution of the difficulty. She opposes all measures that are proposed, prevents promptitude of decision among the powers, retards the execution of plans, and sometimes by her attitude and language embarrasses those who are deputed to direct or negotiate for common action.

"So frequently has this been the case that the question has been asked here, not whether Germany will abandon the federated action of the powers, but whether the European hindering policy which Germany, intentionally or from the hesitation inherent in her international policy, has practised from the very beginning of the present complications, will be continued.

"The most immediate result of the conference between Lord Salisbury and M. Hanotaux will be that the powers, or at any rate a majority of them, will take resolute measures to put an end to the abominable situation in the interior of Crete, which has excited and encouraged Greece."

Senatorial Deadlock Unbroken.

Frankfort, Ky., April 1.—After several ballots for United States senator yesterday, the joint assembly adjourned without an election. There was no material change in the situation.

END OF UNITED PRESS.

News Service Will Be Discontinued Next Week.

New York, April 1.—The following notice has been issued by the assignee of the United Press:

"To whom it may concern:

"The news service of the United Press will be discontinued after the night of April 7, or about 2 o'clock in the morning of April 8. No news dispatches will be received from correspondents, reporters or news agencies, or paid for, and the services of all employes will be dispensed with after that time.

Brazilian Troops Massacred.

London, April 1.—A letter received here from Rio de Janeiro gives some particulars of the serious defeat in the state of Bahia, Brazil, of a government force, commanded by Colonel Moreira, early during the present month. It appears that a religious fanatic named Conselheiro has collected a large number of followers, whom he inspired with the greatest awe and reverence. Colonel Moreira, with 1500 men, was about to enter Canudos, Conselheiro's stronghold, when his troops were suddenly encircled by 6000 fanatics. The attempt of the troops to retreat was disastrous. Colonel Moreira, two other colonels, 30 officers of minor rank and 600 of the troops were killed, including the wounded who were left on the field, and who were massacred and mutilated by the fanatics. The troops were also compelled to abandon all their artillery.

Nazaire Survivors Reach Hamburg.

Hamburg, April 1. — The British steamer Maroa, which signalled the Lizard on March 27 that she had picked up the captain, chief engineer and two of the crew of the French line steamer St. Nazaire, has arrived here with the four survivors. They are Captain Paul Jaqueneau, Chief Engineer Philippe Mariani and Herbert and Saona, able seamen. Their boat, containing nine persons, drifted until March 13, when the four men mentioned were picked up by the Maroa. The five other occupants of the boat died from the effects of drinking sea water. Of these, two colored men died on the second day, and the stewardess and two others died on the fourth day after the sinking of the St. Nazaire. The survivors suffered terribly, and were helpless from exhaustion when picked up. They have completely recovered.

Mayflower Society Expresses Thanks.

Boston, April 1.—The Society of Mayflower Descendants was addressed last night by George W. Stone, treasurer of the American Unitarian association, on "A Study of the Pilgrim Era." Resolutions were offered and accepted expressing thanks to Senator Hear and to the bishop of London and the ecclesiastical authorities of that diocese for the return of the Bradford diary to this country, and to the effect that the library of the state of Massachusetts was the most fitting repository for this valuable work.

Last Jameson Raider Released.

London, April 1.—Major Sir John Willoughby, who, together with Dr. L. S. Jameson, Major R. White, Colonel H. F. White, Colonel R. Mutiny In Boston Harbor.

Boston, April 1.—Three members of the crew of the British steamer Greetlands, now taking in her cargo at East Boston, mutinied and engaged in a small sized riot on board the steamer yesterday afternoon and were ironed and taken to jail, after a fierce struggle, in which nearly every member of the crew, including the officers, were more or less wounded. The men who are under arrest are Samuel Mulvey, Henry Gilman and Thomas O'Brien, and all three appear to be desperate characters.

Death's face is not a pleasant thing to look upon, yet thousands of men and women go about daily with the reflection of death in their faces. The dull eyes, the sallow complexion, the sunken cheeks, the emaciated form, all tell the story of the insidious advances of that implacable foe—consumption. Doctors have declared that consumption is incurable. It is not. Thousands of consumptives have testified to their complete recovery after they were given up by the doctors and all hope was gone. It is simply a matter of going to the seat of the trouble which is imperfect and improper nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does this. It corrects all disorders of the digestion. It invigorates the liver. It makes assimilation perfect. It fills the blood with the elements that build new healthy tissue in every organ of the body. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. All good druggists sell it.

H. Gaddis, Esq., of No. 313 S. J. Street, Tacoma, Washington, writes: "I was taken ill in 1882 with headache and pain in my back. I called in a doctor and he came three times. He said I was bilious, but I kept getting worse. I took a cough so that I could not sleep only by being propped in bed. My lungs hurt me, and I got so poor that I was skin and bone. I thought I was going to die. I saw the 'Golden Medical Discovery' recommended for a cough. I tried a bottle of it and it did me so much good that I tried another one and it made me sound and well, so I recommend it to everybody. It saved my life."

A headache is a symptom of constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, promptly and permanently. They do not gripe. Druggists sell them.

Two Diseases That Cause Their Victims to Be Shunned by Their Fellow-Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.
GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

CUBA COMES UP AGAIN

Senate Unexpectedly Precipitated Into Debate on Revived Question.

Four Resolutions Taken Up In Succession.

Morgan Will Call For Final Action on Granting Belligerency Rights.

Washington, April 2.—The senate was plunged into a warm debate on the Cuban question yesterday. Senator Hale started the ball rolling and Morgan assisted him. Senator Hoar opposed the radicals, and said some very sharp things to the "firebrands who are looking for the approval of certain newspapers."

Four distinct Cuban resolutions were brought forward in rapid succession. The last and most important one came from Senator Morgan of Alabama. It declares that a state of war exists in Cuba and announces the policy of the United States to accord both parties to the conflict full recognition as belligerents. Mr. Morgan gave notice that he would call up the resolution at the next meeting of the senate, with the expectation of securing final action.

Of the other resolutions two were agreed to. One of these, by Mr. Morgan, calls on the president for the letters of General Gomez to himself and Mr. Cleveland, and for other information on Cuban affairs. The other, by Mr. Mills of Texas, instructs the committee on foreign relations to report what obligations the United States has assumed by compelling Cuba to remain subject to Spain. Both resolutions were passed without opposition. Still another resolution came from Mr. Allen of Nebraska, and proposed a protest against the reported purpose of the Spanish authorities to try General Ruis Rivera the Cuban officer, by military drumhead court-martial.

This led to an animated controversy beween Mr. Allen and Mr. Hoar. The latter critised "inflammatory resolutions" and declared that the freedom of Cuba had been retarded mainly by the "prodding" and "goading" resolutions directed against Spain. The resolution went over to come up with the resolution for the recognition of Cuban belligerency at the next meeting. The senate adjourned to Monday.

Immediately after the journal was read the tariff bill was received from the house and referred to the committee on finance.

The senate in executive session concluded its consideration of all amendments to the arbitration treaty. The voting on additional amendments began after three hours of general debate, and in the hour and a half which followed about a dozen propositions were passed on. Two only were adopted, except some making verbal changes. Of those adopted, one, offered by Senator Bacon, exempts the claims against Southern states from the operation of the treaty, and the other, introduced by Senator Morgan, eliminates article 8 of the treaty. Much of the debate of the day turned upon these amendments. No day was fixed for a final vote.

The senate, in executive session, confirmed Anson Burlingame Johnson to be consul of the United States at Amoy, China; Charlemagne Tower of Pennsylvania, to be minister to Austria-Hungary; William S. Shallenberger of Pennsylvania, to be second assistant postmaster general; Penrose A. McClain of Pennsylvania, to be collector of internal revenue for the First district of Pennsylvania; Alexander Montgomery Thackaray of Pennsylvania, to be consul at Havre, France, and several promotions in the army and marine corps of the navy.

Flagship Sent to Hawaii.

San Diego, Cal., April 2.—Rear Admiral Beardslee received orders from Washington yesterday to proceed at once, with the flagship Philadelphia, to Honolulu. The order was followed by a number of cipher dispatches. Great excitement prevails on board the Philadelphia. The Philadelphia will coal and get away about next Wednesday. None of the other vessels will go. The news that Admiral Beardslee has been ordered to proceed to Honolulu is taken as an indication that the government is apprehensive of trouble in Hawaii over the Japanese question. The latest advices from the island state that the Japanese are greatly excited over the determination of the Hawaiian government to prevent illegal landing of Japanese immigrants. The Japanese are already the dominent power on the island, as far as numbers are concerned, and Japan has been credited with encouraging immigration to Hawaii, until the Japanese are in control.

Ball Tossers May Strike.

Chicago, April 2.—There is imminent danger of a huge disruption in the National league. The players are up in arms against the magnates, and are openly talking of a strike. The trouble has arisen over the new contract that every player in the league signed this spring. The change in the contract is small and makes the pay of the players commence April 15, instead of on April 1, and ends Oct. 15, instead of Oct. 1. The players claim that the contract is framed to rob them, and that when they signed they did not understand the full purport of it. The players of the Chicago team have been, for three days, discussing the matter and making threats of open rebellion. Anson says he cannot see where the difference is, as the men get the same money for playing the same length of time.

FRED GRANT URGED TO ACCEPT

Position of Assistant Secretary of War by President McKinley.

Washington, April 2. — Colonel Fred Grant of New York, the eldest son of President Grant, was yesterday morning tendered the position of assistant secretary of war by President McKinley, and has the question of his acceptance under advisement. Colonel Grant was summoned to Washington by Mr. McKinley for the express purpose of allowing the president in person to make the tender. It was entirely unsolicited by Colonel Grant, and came in the nature of a surprise to him. Although the host of callers was great at the White House when Colonel Grant arrived about noon, he was ushered into the cabinet room by the private entrance and remained with the president over half an hour, while representatives and senators cooled their heels in the ante-room.

Secretary Alger came over from the war department, and the president formally made known to Colonel Grant the nature of the honor he desired to bestow upon him. He spoke feelingly of his friendship and esteem for General Grant, and of the pleasure he was sure the country would manifest at so appropriate a selection for this important post. Secretary Alger joined heartily in urging Colonel Grant to accept. Colonel Grant at first was disposed to decline the honor, explaining that he was comfortably situated in New York as police commissioner. His children are at school in New York, and he was inclined to think that a transfer of his residence to Washington would involve too much He expressed his deep gratitude for th honor involved in the tender. At the request of both the president and Secretary Alger he decided to withhold his final decision for a day or two, and then left to visit his mother, who resides in thi city. Should Colonel Grant refuse, can be stated with positiveness that Mr. McKinley has another selection in view, and the appointment in any event will be made early next week.

Gas Company's Defense Outlined.

Boston, April 2.—There were not more than a score of men present yesterday at the continued hearing of the committee of the legislature appointed to investigate the gas explosion of March 4. The defense of the gas company was suggested by the examination of District Chief Ryan of the Boston fire department, the first witness called, when Mr. Morse directed his efforts toward proving that the packing used by electric companies to protect their wire in the street generates a highly inflammable and explosive gas, which accumulates in large quantities along the whole length of the wire. The afternoon session was taken up in hearing the testimony of two police officers who were near the scene of the explosion. Officer Bresnahan smelled gas a few minutes before the explosion, as he was passing over the place of the upheaval Officer Whalen stated that after smelling gas more or less during the morning, he notified the gas company by telephone at 10:50 a. m. There were two explosions, close together.

Oliver Optic's Books Excluded.

Boston, April 2.—Not a single volume of "Oliver Optic's" works is to be found on the shelves of the public library. They were excluded seven years ago at the suggestion of S. A. B. Abbott, then president of the board of trustees. Mr. Abbott argued that the books were "trashy" and of so juvenile a nature as to be unworthy a place on the shelves of the library. Mr. Abbott, at a meeting of the board of trustees, intimated that books of the Oliver Optic sort were too sensational and smacked too much of the "wild and woolly West." He was sustained in his opinion by the other members of the board of trustees, and the "Oliver Optic" books, so dear to the heart of the average American boy, were thereafter excluded from the library.

POWERS UNDECIDED.

King George's Threat to Declare War Checks Blockade Extension.

Turks Would Win on Land but Lose on Sea.

Matters Are at Standstill at Larissa and on Island of Crete.

London, April 2.—The Times' Vienna correspondent says:

"A council of the admirals was held yesterday to determine whether and when the gulf of Athens is to be blockaded. All the powers have now consented to that proposition, though nothing has been decided with respect to the blockade of Greek ports.

"It is no secret that King George has formally stated to the powers that a declaration of war against Turkey will follow immediately an extention of the blockade to the Greek coast. This fact cannot be left out of consideration. It is believed in some quarters that, if the gulf of Athens is blockaded, popular excitement will compel the king to declare war, even if his own judgment and that of the cabinet were opposed. This has been a leading cause of the delay in securing a unanimous agreement between the powers. There is no doubt that in the even of a Turko-Greek war the intervention of the powers would be suspended.

As Viewed at Athens.

The Times' correspondent at Athens says:

Whether, in the event of war, the powers will abstain from a blockade, and leave the Greek fleet unfettered, is debated here with great interest. It is pointed out that should war ensue, the powers colud not, as neutrals, hinder the operations of the Greek navy, which might bombard Smyrna and Salonika and capture the islands of the Aegean.

In case the Turks should be victorious on land, which is not expected at Athens, Greece would be more than compensated by victories on the sea. It is assumed, of course, that Europe would never permit the Turkish army to advance to Athens. Thus, whatever happens, Greece stands to win, at any rate not to lose. These calculations would be completely overthrown should the powers compel the Greek fleet to remain inactive. But this course, it is contended here, would be tantamount to an offensive alliance with Turkey, against Greece.

A number of Italian volunteers have arrived here from Crete, having safely run the blockade. They say that there is no bread in the island, except in the camp of Colonel Vassos, which is provisioned for three months. Olives, milk and lambs' flesh are the principal articles of food of the inhabitants. The insurgents are not organized, but consist of bands of armed peasants who leave their homes for a day or two during active operations and then return to them. No commissariat exists.

The real head of the Greek army of occupation in the island, according to the statement of the Italian volunteers, is Colonel Limbriti, who directs all the movements of the insurgents.

An English friend of mine, who was present at the battle of Malaxa, and was captured by the Cretans, says that their exasperation against Europeans is intense. He was guarded, with three Turkish prisoners, by a Greek soldier, but in spite of his guard he was twice fired on by the Cretans. My friend adds that the attack on Malaxa and other outposts was intended by the insurgents as a counter demonstration against the proclamation of autonomy.

Vessels Seized Outside of Blockade.

Athens, April 2.—Three Greek sailing vessels, carrying cargoes of provisions consigned to Crete, have been captured by a British warship. The capture took place outside the limits of the blockade.

Stateroom Converted Into Cell.

San Francisco, April 2.—A first class state room in the cabin of the steamer Mariposa has been turned into a prison cell, and in it Murderer Butler will be taken to Australia. All that remains in the room is the lower bunk, in which the murderer will sleep. A strong steel ring has been riveted to the floor to which the prisoner will be fastened, if he should show a surly disposition. Three Australian detectives will take turns in sitting in that room with the prisoner, day and night, until he leaves the vessel at Sydney. The prisoner will be given some exercise on the deck at night or in the early morning, when the other passengers are in their bunks. He will then be chained to two of his captors.

Hon. Darwin E. Ware Dead.

Boston, April 2. — Hon. Darwin E. Ware, a prominent lawyer in this city, died last night. Mr. Ware was born in this city in 1831, graduating at Harvard in 1852. He served on the commission to codify the statutes of the commonwealth, and was for a number of years a member of the harbor and land commission. He was a prominent member of the New England Tariff Reform league and the Massachusetts Reform club.

A DECREASE of the government debt is good news from the McKinley administration for the first month of the new administration.

WELL! WELL! The Metropolitan Park Commission is now advertising for proposals for bathing suits. They want over four thousand.

Fabulous Prices.

The homestead of William Panton on Hancock street was sold at auction by Henry L. Kincaide on Thursday for the Quincy Real Estate Trust. There was a good attennance at the sale but bidding was slow, the building being sold to a Mr. McLaughlin for $30. By the terms of the sale the building must be moved within ten days and work has been commenced getting it in readiness to be moved to its new location on Field street. The smaller building, recently occupied by Mr. Gillis, was sold to Mr. Cashman for $10, and is being torn down.

Boats Must Not Be Used.

Chap. 184 passed by the present Legislature has been approved by Governor Walcott, and is an act for the better protection of wild fowl. Section 1 reads: "Whoever within the limits of that portion of Boston harbor lying westerly and southwesterly of a line running from Deer Island to Point Allerton, including the waters of Dorchester bay, Quincy bay, Weymouth bay and Hingham bay, shoots at, kills or pursues any wild fowl from or by the aid or use of any boat or floating device propelled by any mechanical means shall be punishable by a fine of twenty dollars for each offence."

Quincy Triangle Wheelmen.

An enthusiastic meeting of Quincy Triangle wheelmen was held Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. After music by Mr. Bradford and refreshments served by the Women's Auxiliary, there were speeches by officers and members. Several bicycle dealers were present and offered special inducements.

The following officers were elected: Captain, H. A. Thompson; 1st Lieut., Theo. Hermanson; 2nd Lieut., W. G. Spargo; Secretary and Treasurer, W. Lamb.

The next meeting will be Wednesday evening, April 7. Four new members were elected.

Good News.

It is in the air that the long felt want of a large public hall in the centre is to be gratified and that a commodious building for a public hall is about to be erected. The movement is well under way and it will probably be definitely settled by Saturday night, as to whether the hall will be built. Let us hope that the movers in the enterprise will go ahead with their plans and give us the hall before another season.

Golden Wedding.

The fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bicknell of North Weymouth was celebrated on Wednesday evening. Many friends called, and it was a happy occasion for the guests and the aged couple. There were several tokens of esteem, including gold coin. Mr. Bicknell attends to his labors daily, but Mrs. Bicknell has been an invalid for some years.

April Magazine.

The romances from real life in the April Romance are, as usual, the most striking series of stories in the book. Walter Beverly Crane writes an Easter story entitled "The Second Epistle of John." Aimee Neil writes a characteristic tale; Alice Marchant contributes a story entitled "One Woman's Way" which will be read by every married woman in America; and Gilson Willets, the editor, gives us a romance of Baden-Baden unequalled in point of novelty, and unexpected in dramatic effect.

QUINCY OF QUINCY.

Boston's Mayor Still a Resident of This City.

A Boston Paper Says Alderman Dyar Should Seize City Hall.

The Quincy & Boston Street Railway Reports Cause the Breeze.

The Boston Traveler has sprung a little sensation, in presenting proof that Josiah Quincy is still a resident of Quincy and not Boston, and is therefore illegally mayor of Boston.

The law of the state, says the Traveler, requires street railway corporations to make an annual report to the Railroad Commissioners, and these reports must be signed and testified to by directors in the same. According to the latest report of the said commissioners, the Braintree Street Railway Company in Oct. 31, 1896, filed with them a report in which is the following: "Names and residences of board of directors: John F. Merrill, Quincy, Mass., John R. Graham, Quincy, Mass., Josiah Quincy, Quincy, Mass."

This report is certified to as follows: "We hereby certify that the statements contained in the foregoing report are full just and true." Josiah Quincy not only signed this report, but took oath to its correctness before Frederick H. Smith, justice of the peace.

In the Quincy & Boston street railway report, also filed Oct. 31, 1896, Mayor Quincy also gives his residence as Quincy, Mass.

Josiah was either a resident of Quincy when elected mayor in 1895, or has changed his residence to that city since election, for the above reports were made in 1896.

If he was a resident of Quincy when elected was his election valid? If he was a resident of Boston when elected could he change his residence to Quincy and still hold the office of mayor of Boston?

If Josiah is not legally mayor, are his appointments valid? These are interesting legal questions, and Corporation Counsel Andrew Jackson Bailey will find in their exposition full scope for his judicial mind.

If Quincy is not legally mayor, it is to be presumed that the duties of the office he is occupying should devolve upon Chairman Dyar of the Board of Aldermen, who is qualified by law to serve as acting mayor in event of the disability or absence of the chief magistrate. If the corporation counsel renders an opinion adverse to Josiah, the people will expect Chairman Dyar to stand for his rights, assume the responsibility and exercise the power of his delegate office. He is a soldier and should therefore be brave.

The Traveler might suggest that Mayors Quincy and Adams exchange; the latter having his residence in Boston the greater part of the year.

The Great Increase in Crime.

It is not easy to realize the changes which have taken place in recent years in regard to the character and number of the inmates of the penal institutions of Massachusetts. Mr. Warren F. Spalding, secretary of the Prison Association, in a phamphlet just published, says that "In 1833 there were almost as many commitments for debt as for crime, and all the commitments for debt and crime, outside of Suffolk county, numbered only about 2000 a year. In that year the entire number of prisoners in all the counties, excluding Suffolk, was only 171. On the first of January, 1897, the same counties had 2609 prisoners in their prisons, and the commitments number nearly 15,000 a year. If the prisons of Suffolk county are included, the number of inmates of county prisons on the first of January, 1897, is to be 5161. The number of commitments is about 26,000 a year." It was such facts as these that led the special commission appointed by Gov. Wolcott to report that the changed condition of things made it necessary to put all the county prisons under one management, in order to secure classification of the prisoners.

GOMEZ BREATHES VENGEANCE.

He Is Sorry That Senor Morote Was Not Put to Death.

Havana, April 2.—Diaro De La Marina insists editorially that the policy of President McKinley and his cabinet is altogether hostile to the plans of the insurgents. It prints also a letter from General Maximo Gomez to Senor Morote, the correspondent of El Liberal of Madrid, which runs as follows:

"Army of liberation, headquarters of the general-in-chief:

"Senor Luis Morote, correspondent El Liberal, Madrid:

"Upon your leaving my presence I owe you an explanation, especially as you write for the newspapers which call upon Spain to drown in blood our just aspirations. I cannot be sanguinery, but I feel sorry that under the special circumstances you were not sentenced to death while in my camp. It is but natural that we should feel that there must be much shedding of Spanish blood to heal the pain caused by the bloodshed at Punta Brava.

"The machete blow that killed Francisco Gomez will never be forgotten in Cuba, Puerto Rico, Santo Domingo or probably in other parts of America. The machete strokes dealt when heroes fell at Punta Brava cannot be forgotten by one who has pardoned thousands of Spanish prisoners and cured hundreds of Spanish wounded. Meanwhile go your way to Spain, pleased at the thought that you have been a witness to the ruin of poor Cuba, and have plunged our feet in the blood of innocent Cubans.

"Do not forget that we shall continue fighting for liberty. Do not forget that justice will descend from above and will end the struggle now sustained by Spain to her dishonor and disaster.

"M. Gomez."

STATE MESSAGES NOT SECRET

Charge Made That Spanish Have Key to United States Cipher Code.

New York, April 2.—A special to The Mail and Express from Havana, via Key West, says:

"On authority which your correspondent believes to be trustworthy, it has been learned that certain Spanish officials here are in possession of the key to the cipher code used in telegraphic communication between the consul general and the state department at Washington. If this be true, the nature of all the confidential dispatches that pass between the government of the United States and its representative in Cuba is known, not only in Havana, but in Madrid, for the home government is kept closely in touch with the most minute details of Cuban affairs.

"The code used in the consular service is complicated, and is believed to be absolutely secret. It could not, it is said, be studied out, even if part of it were known, so that if the Spaniards have the key, they have probably obtained it from some one in Washington. The story is not vouched for, but the respectability of its author is such as to warrant its publication. The charge is an extremely serious one."

Mexican Congress Convenes.

Mexico City, April 2.—President Diaz opened congress last evening and began his message with a review of the foreign relations. He remarked that this country has no difficulty with any foreign government. In reference to Cuba, he said that whenever Mexican citizens have been arrested and imprisoned in Cuba, charged with being implicated in the insurrection, the Mexican consul at Havana has been successful in obtaining their release. With respect to the United States, he referred to the extension of the term for the completion of the work of the international water boundary commission by an agreement between the two governments concluded at Washington in November last. The extension is for one year, and the subject for this commission to settle is the controversy arising from changes in the bed of the Rio Grande river and in that portion of its course where it forms the international boundary. He also stated that the same commission had reported on the plan for the construction of the dam of the same river above El Paso, and said that the Mexican minister at Washington was negotiating a treaty with the United States government upon lines recommended by the commission. He also remarked that the two governments have agreed to submit to the arbitration of the Argentine minister at Madrid the claims against Mexico of Charles Oberlander and Barbara Messinger, growing out of the arrest of the former by Mexican officials.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 2.—Chief of the matters discussed by the house yesterday wa the Municipal league bill for the consolidation of the two branches of the Boston city government. A report made to the senate favored sending the recommendations of the special commission on charitable institutions, in so far as they relate to reformatories and prisons, to the next general court. The committee on banks and banking reported a new draft of the trust company bill. The new bill provides that the capital stock of trust companies shall be not less than $500,000, nor more than $1,000,000, except in cities and towns having a population of less than 100,000, where companies incorporated may have a capital stock of not less than $250,000. No trust company shall engage in business without a certificate from the savings bank commissioners. The house ordered to a third reading the bill for a single board council in the city of Boston. The senate substituted for an adverse report a bill for the extension of Cove street in Boston. The senate passed to be engrossed a bill to increase the capital stock of the Whitman mills of New Bedford to $2,000,000.

Arguments In Marsh Case.

Montpelier, Vt., April 2.—The opening argument for the state in the Marsh poisoning case was made by Z. S. Stanton, who reviewed the evidence and stated the law applicable to the case. The first argument for the defense by Speaker William A. Lord required all yesterday afternoon. He argued that the testimony showed that the autopsy was carelessly conducted, and no one should be sent to the gallows on such testimony, and that the intimacy between Mrs. Marsh and Buzzell did not furnish a motive, as Marsh made no effort to prevent it.

Dr. Moore Goes to Prison.

Manchester, N. H., April 2.—Dr. Joseph C. Moore, ex-financier, was yesterday sentenced to four years' imprisonment, and immediately taken to the state prison at Concord.

A WOODS FIRE

Considerable Territory Burned Over Near Wilson's Quarry.

The alarm from box 138 at 10.35 this morning was rung in to secure the aid of the fire department to extinguish a brisk fire that was sweeping through the woods off Center street near Wilson's quarry. The ground was covered with dry leaves and shrubbery and the fire had spread over a large territory and was threatening several houses in the vicinity. Not only were the woods mentioned above burning, but over toward Braintree another woods fire could be seen. Upon the arrival of the department a line of hose was run from the chemical on the combination wagon and this with the aid of brooms and pine trees in the hands of the firemen soon prevented the fire making further headway. The fire was a hot one and the smoke was so dense as to be almost suffocating.

The alarm at 2.10 this afternoon from Box 443 at the corner of West and Hayden streets at West Quincy was for another woods fire.

HE SAW WASHINGTON

NOAH RABY ALSO HEARD HIS COUNTRY'S FATHER MAKE A SPEECH.

A Man Who Claims to Be One Hundred and Twenty-five Years Old—Born In 1772—Smokes Regularly, but Has Been Drunk Only Three Times.

There is a queer little old man in the poorhouse supported by Piscataway township, near New Brunswick, N. J., who claims to be the oldest man in the United States, if not in the world, having just completed his one hundred and twenty-fifth year. He has been maintaining for 25 years that he passed the century mark on April 1, 1872, and people who have listened to his life story are struck by the truth of what the old man says. "I was 125 years old on April 1," says Noah Raby as soon as he is engaged in conversation.

His story, in his own words, is this:

"I first saw the light in the little village of Eatontown, Gates county, N. C., April 1, 1772. My father's name was Andrew Bass, and my mother's Sara Raby. I never went to school. I learned to read from the Old Testament and hymn books, but could never write even my own name. When I was 6 years old, I began to smoke. My mother used to let me light her pipe for her, and I grew to like the smoke and would sometimes smoke it myself. It never made me sick, and I have smoked 120 years. I have drunk whisky as often as I have smoked, and it overcame me only three times.

"When we lived in Carolina, my mother had a house made of pitch pine poles, notched in the end and plastered with mud. When I was 7 years old, my mother married, and I was bound out to a farmer, who lived in Virginia, just over the line. He had lots of slaves. One, known as Big Tom, was the strongest man I ever saw. The old man was offered lots of money for him, but he didn't believe in selling slaves.

"When I was 21, Widow Penelope Parker took me to work with her. I staid with her for five years, and she paid me $200 a year. Then I went to work for her daughter-in-law, Sarah Parker. She owned a big plantation with a whole lot of slaves. I thought possibly I could marry her, and it would all be mine. This plan was all right, but we were never married. I was afraid to ask her.

"One day my half brother came to see me. I told him that I was in love, and he advised a trip to sea. I went without settling up my accounts. Later I got leave of absence and came back. The young woman paid me in full and asked why I left so suddenly. I up and told her, and then she said:

"'Faint heart never won fair lady.'

"Why didn't I marry her then? Good reason—the man who took my place as overseer of the plantation had married her two weeks before. I never fell in love again and have always thought myself lucky that I didn't. I wouldn't have lived so long perhaps.

"When I was in Norfolk, I heard General Washington speak. I don't remember just what he was talking about, but I know he was angry. One thing he said has stuck in my head ever since. It was:

"'Go on, fellow citizens, as you have been going on, and I assure you we shall have the devil to pay in this republic, and no pitch hot.' That's what he said, and no mistake.

"I didn't want to go to war, so I left the navy. I've lost my discharge papers, and I'm sorry, for I could have got a pension by them, and then they'd have proved my age. I've nothing to complain of now. I've had enough to eat all my life and had a good time too."

On April 1 Noah had many callers to congratulate him on reaching so great an age. He looks forward to his birthdays with pleasure.—New York Journal.

Under the Channel.

The British government is seriously considering the construction of a submarine tunnel between England and Ireland, and a syndicate has been formed which offers to undertake the construction of the tunnel in return for a state guarantee. It is estimated that the cost of the tunnel will amount to $35,000,000 and that the interest upon this sum, together with the working expenses of the tunnel when once completed, will be about $38,000 a week. There is every reason to believe that the traffic would yield returns more than sufficient to cover this amount.

MARCONI'S DISCOVERIES.

A New Form of Energy That Sends Messages Through Thick Walls.

Within the last few months the scientific world has been gradually waking up to the immense possibilities of a recent discovery by a young Italian named Marconi, who lives in London. This discovery promises not only to develop a practical usefulness equal or superior to that of Roentgen's, which it resembles in some respects, but also to give fresh stimulus to a variety of fascinating and fruitful researches in other directions. The radiance which the Bavarian professor found, it will be remembered, is invisible and will penetrate many opaque substances and yet possesses some of the properties of ordinary light—that is to say, it produces photographs and it will become luminous when it falls on a certain class of substance called fluorescent. What Marconi has discovered is a form of energy which must be called "electric waves" at present and which was at first confounded with the so called "Hertzian" waves, but now proves to be quite different.

This is what Marconi has actually done thus far: With a very modest battery (of eight volts and three amperes), and with his transmitter and receiver placed over 300 feet apart, he sent a message through seven or eight solid stone walls in the general postoffice building in London. Another dispatch was sent 1¾ miles across Salisbury plain with the same apparatus and without any connecting wire. Marconi tells his interviewer that he believes that with proper instruments a message could be sent through 4 miles of city buildings, and perhaps 20. Indeed, he is not willing to declare transmission from London to New York impossible, although at present he does not see his way clear to accomplish such a feat.

Incidentally it may be remarked that so long as the Marconi radiance is permitted to spread equally in all directions from the generator, like light from a lamp, it would be possible for anybody to pick up a message telegraphed by the new system if he only knew the exact rate of vibrations employed and had a receiver precisely tuned thereto. There would seem to be some difficulty, therefore, about maintaining that secrecy which is usually desirable in telegraphic correspondence. But this difficulty can probably be overcome.—New York Tribune.

Solid Petroleum In Place of Coal.

The improved process just originated by Dr. Henry R. Brissett of Lowell, Mass., for solidifying crude petroleum so that it may be used in place of coal makes the usual claims to superior utility for that purpose—that is, the inventor claims that it is less bulky, leaves little or no ash, requires no kindlings and possesses the absolute safety which petroleum in a liquid state does not and can be made in such sized cubes as will suit the purpose for which it may be wanted, whether domestic or heavy stoking, as for large mill plants, steamships, locomotives, etc. Further, in the making of steel such a product has the preference on account of there being absolutely no sulphur. The heat given off by solid petroleum is well known to be very great, and the cubes in question burn on the surface without smell or smoke, retaining their shape until consumed and requiring only the minimum amount of draft.

An Electric Sentinel.

A new invention is an electro-magnetic sentinel for detecting the approach of a mass of magnetic material, particularly armor clad warships. The special object is to provide a device readily stationed in commanding positions that will automatically give warning of the presence of battleships in that vicinity and thereby enable a submerged mine or torpedo to be exploded by a switch, operated either by hand or automatically, at the moment the hostile vessel is above the explosive.—Popular Science News.

Nitroglycerin For Vomiting.

A contributor to the British Medical Journal recommends nitroglycerin as the most positive remedy for controlling vomiting he has ever employed. He has found it will control all forms of vomiting, whether in adult or infant, acute or chronic. He has found it of great service in controlling the vomiting of gastric catarrh, and in alcoholism it acted almost as a specific. It also proved useful in controlling the vomiting of pregnancy.

A textile school has been established in Lowell, Mass. The city appropriated $25,000 for its support, and the manufacturing concerns of the place contributed $50,000 in machinery and other facilities.—Engineering News.

MILTON.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday morning the Milton police received word from Mrs. Frances Cunningham that there were two men laying upon her lawn. Chief of Police Pierce and Officer Tucker went up and found two young men asleep on Mrs. Cunningham's lawn. About the fellows on the ground and in their clothing was a miscellaneous collection of goods, among which were fancy cakes, eggs, cigars, tobacco, a can of tomatoes and corned beef and a partly empty bottle of liquor, all of which gave evidence that they had raided some store. The two fellows were placed under arrest and locked up as tramps. The fellows gave their names as William Sullivan, and James F. Hogan. Hogan said he lived with his aunt at Sharon Heights, that they went to Boston the day before and bought the goods and the liquor and started to walk home. They had something to drink before they left Boston and when they got to Milton they felt tired and laid down. They were arraigned in court at Quincy today for being tramps, and were sent to the State farm at Bridgewater. When sentenced Hogan made a scene, crying to God that he was innocent and to have mercy upon him.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. TWO MORE DIPLOMATS

General Draper and Professor White Nominated For Ambassadors.

Butterworth to Be Commissioner of Patents.

Chandler Hale of Maine, Secretary of Embassy at Rome---Other Selections.

Washington, April 2.—The president yesterday sent to the senate the following nominations:

Ambassador to Italy.

William F. Draper of Massachusetts, ambassador to Italy.

General Draper has had a successful career as a soldier, statesman and man of business. He is a native of the old Bay State, and as a beardless youth of 19 entered the army and served throughout the war for the Union, being promoted successively from the rank of second lieutenant to that of brigadier general. He was a gallant soldier, and bears upon his person the scars of battle, having been shot through the body at the battle of the Wilderness, and wounded at Pegram's farm. After the war he engaged in the manufacture of cotton machinery, and, with his brothers, who were associated with him, amassed a fortune. He took much interest in politics as early as 1876, when he was a delegate to the Cincinnati convention. He was president of the famous Home Market club of Boston in 1890. Although a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in 1888 he never held public office until elected to the Fifty-third congress. He was chairman of the committee on patents and a member of the committee on foreign affairs. In the former position he pressed successfully through congress the bill to revise the patent laws, and the bill to protect the copyright of theatrical and operatic productions. As a member of the foreign affairs committee his course was distinctively conservative. While stalwart in his Americanism, he opposed hasty action, which might embroil this country in foreign complications. For this reason he opposed the resolution to recognize the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents during the first session of this congress, and made a speech against it on the floor. Mr. Draper is a gentleman of commanding presence, genial, yet dignified in manner, a polished scholar and a pleasing and forceful speaker.

His wife has been during the past four years one of the conspicuous figures in the social life of Washington, and their home on K street has been the scene of many notable and fashionable entertainments.

Ambassador to Germany.

Andrew D. White of New York, ambassador to Germany.

Andrew White was born in New York in 1832, and was educated at Yale college and the University of Berlin, Germany. He was professor of history and English literature at the University of Michigan from 1857 to 1862, and was made president of the Cornell university in 1867, remaining until 1885. He was once a member of the state senate in New York, and in 1871 was one of the commissioners to San Domingo.

Among his literary works are "Lectures on Mediaeval and Modern History," and the "Warfare of Science." He is one of the scholarly men in public life. He has been minister to Russia and Germany, and was one of the members of the Venezuelan arbitration commission. The appointment of Mr. White is known to be most satisfactory to Germany.

Commissioner of Patents.

Benjamin Butterworth of Ohio, commissioner of patents.

Benjamin Butterworth, the new commissioner of patents, is widely known throughout the country. He began his congressional career as member of congress from Ohio in 1878, and served until the end of the Fifty-first congress in 1891. He was one of the leaders of the Republican side and one of the ablest and readiest debaters in the house. In 1883 he was appointed commissioner of patents by President Arthur, and served until he resigned to take his seat in the Forty-ninth congress. At the close of the Fifty-first congress leading Democrats of his district joined with Republicans in urging him to accept the nomination for the Fifty-second congress but he declined for business reasons and accepted the position of solicitor general and secretary of the World's Columbian exposition, and went to Europe as the president of the commission to interest foreign governments. The commission visited every government in Europe, and was largely instrumental in inducing them to participate.

It is believed by his friends that a new department of industry and commerce will be created, and that he accepted the commissionership to promote that object.

Other Nominations.

Other nominations were:

Chandler Hale of Maine, secretary of the embassy at Rome.

Samuel L. Gracey of Massachusetts, consul at Fuchan, China.

Anson Burlingame Johnson of Colorado, consul at Amoy, China.

Oliver L. Spaulding of Michigan and William B. Howell of New Jersey, to be assistant secretaries of the treasury.

Mayor Gleason Signs Charter.

New York, April 2.—Patrick J. Gleason, mayor of Long Island city, has signed the Greater New York charter and forwarded it to Albany. The charter must still be signed by the mayors of New York city and Brooklyn, and Governor Black before it can become law.

Albert Bell Located.

Haverhill, Mass., April 2.—Albert Bell, the provision dealer, who disappeared with his little daughter, a week ago, has been found in a Connecticut town, but there is no trace of the child. Mr. Bell's departure from home is yet unexplained.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

FIFTY MILES WIDE.

Five Counties Will Be Under Water For a Month---Situation Improved.

Memphis, April 2.—The flood situation in the Mississippi delta above Greenville is decidedly improved. The half-dozen crevasses on the Arkansas and Mississippi shores between Helena and Greenville have drawn an immense volume of water out of the main channel, and it is spreading over the lowland, yet not rapidly enough to cut off the escape of the inhabitants of the low countries. The river shows a decline from a point below Helena to the Wayside crevasse. The decline above Greenville is in many places as great as 10 inches. Helena, Ark., is not, however, out of danger, for the water from the St. Francis basin in Arkansas is swelling the channel of the main river from the mouth of the St. Francis to a point south of Helena. The worst at Helena will be over by Thursday.

The damage to the farming country in the delta cannot be estimated. Five counties will be for the most part under water for 30 days, and the main line and branches of the Yazoo Valley and Mississippi road will have more than 100 miles of track inundated.

Opposite Perthshire, the upper crevasse, a mile of track has been completely washed away. Probably 20 railroad stations and small towns are flooded. But the danger is now to the south of Greenville, and the levees from Wayside to the mouth of the river will begin to feel the pressure of the movement of the water back into the channel from the delta, the White river country and the St. Francis basin. From Memphis to Crawley's ridge the river is now 40 miles wide. A line cast and west on the water across Rosedale would probably be 50 miles long. All of this water must pass out between two walls of levees, in many places but a few miles distant from each other. The local relief committee has sent a steamboat carrying supplies to the St. Francis river country. It is said that destitution in the territory to be covered is pitable, but news of it did not reach Memphis until yesterday.

The campaign in the levee district has cost $120,000, 600,000 sacks and 1,000,000 feet of lumber have been used, and 10,000 men employed on the work.

CABLE SPARKS.

The Spanish queen regent has cabled her congratulations to Captain General Weyler on the capture of General Ruis Rivera.

The cruiser Liguria will represent Italy at the dedication, on April 27, of the monument erected to the memory of General U. S. Grant, at New York.

Johannes Brahms, the famous musical composer, who has been seriously ill at Vienna for some time, is now in an extremely critical condition, and only slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The French chamber of deputies has adopted the port dues bill, imposing a tax upon foreign vessels of 1 franc, 25 centimes per metric ton upon merchandise, and upon each head of cattle or passenger landed.

Dr. Von Stephen, secretary of state for the German imperial postal department; Herr Fritsch, departmental chief of posts and Privy Councillor Neumann will represent Germany at the international postal congress in Washington

At a French cabinet meeting yesterday, the minister for the colonies, M Lebon, was authorized to present to the bureau of the chamber of deputies a bill providing for the expenditure of $0,000,000 francs with which to build warships, the expenditure to be spread through 10 or 15 budgets, the sum of 8,500,000 francs being provided for in the budget of 1897.

DEATH RECORD.

Henry J. Mowery, one of the leading business men of Syracuse, is dead.

Thomas L. Littlefield, a well known builder in Haverhill, Mass., dropped dead yesterday.

Frank J. Lord, one of the best known members of the Maritime and Produce Exchange at New York, died yesterday.

Colonel George Duryea, who served with the famous Duryea zouaves during the Civil War, died yesterday, at New York, of disease contracted and wounds received in the peninsular campaign He was 65 years old.

Real Admiral John H. Russell, retired, died at Washington yesterday. He was born at Frederick, Md., in 1827, and entered the navy as a midshipman when only 14 years old. He saw much active naval service during the Mexican War and later achieved distinction in connection with the opening of Chinese ports to commerce, delivering dispatches in person to Chinese officials, by which American and English envoys were admitted to audience. He was complimented by the navy department for services in cutting out the privateer Judah at Pensacola, in September, 1861, and participated in all the operations of Farragut's fleet in the Mississippi, up to Vicksburg.

SPORTING ITEMS.

John Brewer, the champion wing shot, won a $100 wager by killing 95 birds out of a possible 100, at Allentown, Pa.

The Flaherty-Erne fight is not definitely arranged, as the men have not agreed upon the desirable weight. Erne proposes 128 pounds and Flaherty prefers 126.

The northern New York Horse Breeders' association, which will hold its grand circuit trotting meeting at Glens Falls in August, has received over 400 entries from Colorado, Georgia, Canada, Ohio, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York.

Manager Charles Yapp of the Capitol driving park, at Concord, N. H., announces a card of races for stakes aggregating $5600 to be held Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive, the entries to close May 1. The trotting classes are 2:40, 2:35 and 2:25 for $800 purses; and 3-year-old and 2:50 for $400 purses. The pacing classes are, 2:35, 2:27 and 2:19¼ for $800 each; and 3-year-old and 2:40 for $400. The races will be mile heats, best two in three, other conditions as usual.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists

The "life tree" of Jamaica is harder to kill than any other species of woody growth known to aboriculturists. It continues to grow and thrive for months after being uprooted and exposed to the sun.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

Experiments with plants tend to show that in clear weather the evaporation by night as compared to that which takes place in the day appears to be in the ratio of 1 to 5.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—can and should be removed; P. P. P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

TALK RIGHT UP!

How Many Times a Year Will You Want a Large Hall?

This is Quincy's Opportunity to Secure What Has Long Been Needed.

An Up-to-Date Hall That Will Seat about 1200.

It almost took the breath of many last evening to read in the DAILY LEDGER that there was a good prospect of Quincy securing a large hall, for which the LEDGER has been persistently hammering for months, for years. It is not an idle rumor as will be shown in a few days, but much will depend on the organizations of the city whether the fond hopes of all are realized.

As a step in the right direction return postal cards were issued this morning to prominent members of societies and clubs, and for the good of the cause the LEDGER gives the contents a free advertisement. The postals read :

QUINCY, MASS., April 3, 1897.

DEAR SIR:—It is proposed to erect a building with a large Hall, 60x120, with Stage and Ante Rooms. Seating capacity about twelve (1,200) hundred. Price approximated:

Concert until 10.30 o'clock, $35 00
Dancing Party until 12 P. M $50 00
Ball uutil 4 o'clock, A. M., $75 00

Please indicate on postal card attached if in your opinion your society could use such a hall. If so, how many times a year, and kind of entertainment? Building to be ready September 1st, 1897. Please fill out postal and return by next mail. Yours truly,

A. G. DURGIN.

Name of Society,
Kind of entertainment,
Could use hall times a year.
If ball, state the hours.
Remarks:

Those who have been overlooked in the hurry of issuing these postals will assist the good work by promptly notifying Mr. Durgin, today if possible, how many times their organizations may use such a grand hall during a year.

It is evident to all that a large hall will not be a bonanza to anyone, therefore none should hold back for fear it will, but give all the information promptly, and at the same time all the encouragement possible.

The Odd Fellows will surely want the hall once at least for their grand annual ball. Put them down for $75.

The Firemen's Relief Association will also want it for their annual concert and ball.

The Quincy Hospital will be one of the best customers and at the same time will receive the greatest benefit. Put the Hospital down for the society ball of the season, a grand bazaar for a whole week, and two or three concerts; a rental of over $300 per annum sure.

Clan McGregor is another organization which feels the need of a large hall and may safely be counted for two grand balls and other entertainments.

The Republican and Democratic City Committees will want it for at least a couple of rallies each, and the No-License Committee for one or two more.

The Quincy Yacht club has inaugurated annual entertainments and may be put down for one night.

The St. John's society and auxiliaries give many entertainments during the year and will doubtless encourage the movement.

It is said that the Quincy Musical society was dissolved because the city had no proper hall for a grand concert, and if reorganized it will want the hall for two or three concerts.

The Young Men's Christian Association also desires a large hall three or four times a year.

Then there are the Quincy Club minstrels, the High School reunion, the church fairs and entertainments, concerts and dramatics, and whist parties.

With a good stage and ante rooms, more travelling troupes will visit Quincy, and the surprise will be that the city denied itself so long the enjoyments of life. All hail the new hall.

NEURALGIA

He Is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

FROM FAR JAPAN.

From far Japan a pretty fan
Hath come my lady's joy to plan,
With rapture her sweet face to scan
From far Japan.

To touch the velvet of her hand
It journeyed over sea and land,
To flutter 'neath her lustrous eyes
Forsook the glow of orient skies.

And yet I know it must be so—
The fan is happy. I would go
For her forever to and fro
From far Japan.

—Robert Loveman in New York Tribune.

MR. HARBERTON.

"No, old man, of course I don't believe in spirits or nonsense of that sort. Yet something that I never quite understood once happened to me. You all know about that kind of thing, and perhaps you can explain it.

"After I left Oxford—without honors—I spent a lot of time loafing at home. It was a slow part of the country, nothing much to shoot, and mother, an invalid, couldn't stir out of her room.

"I didn't mean deliberately to deceive her, but what life is there for a healthy young man, stuck down there, hanging round a sickroom from one month to another? He must come to the surface to breathe, whether the air be wholesome or not. At first, when I cut for a day or two, I would call it business, but the mater knew old Findlay had always managed the investments, and the money and all that. So when I took a run up to town and didn't return at night I had to invent a friend and to pretend I had put up with him. That came as easy as lying always does. Only mother, who had little to interest her, insisted on hearing all the particulars—how my friend looked, what he said and the rest. I got into a lot of tight places at the start, till I thought of a man I had known two years before and kept to a description of him.

"Harberton was his name. He was cruising on the Mediterranean for his health when I was on the Sayonara with the Blakes. He was a queer chap—believed in occultism and rot of that sort, and we all laughed at him for it. We never thought him ill, merely lazy. One moonless night after dining on his yacht we lounged on deck, with those myriads of stars making us feel jolly small.

"Harberton lay on a steamer chair—he used to pass the night there—gazing at the sky with his inscrutable eyes. We had all been laughing and chaffing when he came on deck. But somehow the immensity of it all had sobered us, and we were quiet and solemn, when Harberton, pointing heavenward, said in his languid, affected drawl, 'Tomorrow I shall know what these have to tell.' We believed it to be merely one of his poses, but in the morning we were horribly startled by the news that he was dead. He had died, lying there in his chair, during the night.

Well, Harberton's name occurred to me when I was forced to invent a story to satisfy mother, and, though I couldn't write a story to save my life, whenever I began jawing about him everything came quite pat. Often I blessed his memory when I could go off for a few days, have a good time and return to find mother quite pleased.

"This went on for awhile, till mother began to bother me with a request to ask 'my friend' to visit us at Frampton Glemsford. I tried hard to get her off the notion. I said that he was busy or ill; that entertaining guests would hurt her, and all manner of things. But she seemed set upon it—talked nothing else. The doctor said it was a sick fancy; that in her weak state any craving must be humored.

"Thus cornered, I wrote a letter urging 'My dear Harberton'—I hadn't the remotest idea what his Christian name was—to come to us even for a day. Mother insisted upon adding a line—she who had not penned a word for months—begging him to come that she might have an opportunity of thanking him for his friendliness toward her son. I did feel mean when I took the invitation into another room and burned it.

"I would have given anything to have been able to produce an impostor But Harberton had been described so minutely the mater knew him by heart, as it were, and would have detected a fraud at a glance. Besides, I have never seen any one who at all resembled him. I told her I had heard from him that he was coming. I dreaded she would ask to see his letter, but it chanced to be one of her bad days, and she didn't.

"Next morning he was to arrive. I meant to fake up a telegram somehow, giving an excuse for his absence when I went to the station on pretense of meeting him. My mother was strangely well that morning. Her customary lassitude and pain had vanished. She was reclining on a couch drawn close to the open window. Her cheeks were almost rosy, and there was a lace arrangement over her white hair that made her look prettier than I had ever seen her. She was all impatience to see Harberton and hurried me off to the station half an hour too soon.

"It was a lovely June day, and our private footpath to the railway lay through shady ways, but I was wretched and ashamed, wishing the thing over. The remembrance of the sparkle in mother's eyes, even of the effort she had made to appear in full toilet, disturbed me. Of her health the doctor had spoken gravely on the night before. With a heart affection such as hers might not the shock of Harberton's nonappearance be too much for her?

"I suppose one ought to believe in Nemesis or retribution or that sort of thing. I don't much; but, I confess, that summer morning I came nearer suffering for my sins than I had ever done before or have ever done since.

"Now, you needn't believe what follows unless you like. I often doubt it myself. I knew something was to happen as I heard the sound of the coming engine, and as I watched the train sweep around the curve of the line I wanted badly to run away, but couldn't. Of course there are seldom many passengers for Glemsford. This time there was but one. I caught a glimpse of his face at the window of a carriage where he sat alone, and my heart seemed to stop beating. A moment later he stood before me. It was Harberton. He was exactly as I remembered him. There was nothing in his appearance or manner to account for the dread in me. We exchanged greetings, but no word passed between us. We traversed the leafy lanes as in a dream, but they and myself were visionary—he alone was real. And all the time the memory of the telegram I had omitted to send kept recurring to my half paralyzed brain.

"I knew it could not be Harberton, yet felt convinced it was none other. Dull wonder whether or not mother would see as I did ran through my mind, but I was in reality too stupefied to be capable of anything like consecutive thought.

"The path we trod led through the orchard into the rose garden, whereon the low windows of my mother's summer parlor opened. As we entered the garden she saw us—saw him—and waved her thin hand in welcome. And Harberton, or what I took to be Harberton, who till then had done nothing but make me dread his presence, waved in return courteously, almost gayly.

"I can tell you how that day passed. It seemed like a long drawn out nightmare. I kept saying to myself: 'I am asleep. I shall awake soon.' Harberton sat in my mother's cool, darkened room, talking of me, as I gathered while pacing restlessly within and without, or smoking in a chair outside the window. She seemed to speak anxiously about my future—I suppose, like most only sons reared by mothers, I had been rather wild—and he appeared to reassure her. She was quite soothed and happy in his company. I moved about. I would go to the stables to speak to the men or wander aimlessly about, but there was ever that awful sense of all being an illusion. I fancied I must be mad, and I feared the sound of my own voice.

"It was a perfect day, still and balmy, the air being heavy with the fragrance of the roses, but to me it seemed endless. Still, it came to a close at last. In the gloaming Harberton bade mother farewell. She blessed him as they parted, I standing dumbly by, and he, holding her hand, said gently, with his old, soft drawl, 'I shall return soon.'

"Harberton went as he came, through the byways carpeted with moss and overhung with brier roses, still holding no speech with me, who followed doglike. Midway down the lane the evening haze caught radiance from a shaft of the sunset, and into the glory of it he passed alone. For a moment I dared not enter. When I did, he was gone.

"Well, in a short time I was able to laugh at the occurrence as absurd. Mother seemed to feel happy in some sort of delusion. I didn't care to ridicule. She never asked me to send for Harberton again. She always said, 'When it is time, he will come.'

"She got more fragile daily. One night she looked so ethereal that, fearing to leave her, I sent the nurse to bed and staid in her room. All was hushed, and I must have dozed off, to be roused by mother's voice saying gladly: 'Oh, you have come for me! That is so good of you!'

"The light of the harvest moon filled the room, eclipsing the feeble glow of the night light.

"Mother had raised herself to a sitting position and was looking up eagerly, joyfully, her thin hands extended. Bending over her, I saw distinctly the figure of Harberton. Starting forward, I rushed toward her, but before I could reach her side she sank back inert. Harberton had vanished, and the moonlight revealed only her dead face lying peacefully smiling on the pillows.

"That's a lot of years ago now, but I've never been able to reduce it to common sense. Can you, old chap?"—Black and White.

Crystal Sky Columns.

An explanation of a curious optical phenomenon sometimes witnessed on frosty nights which is called the "pseudo aurora," is offered in Science by Mr. Goode of the Chicago university. The phenomenon takes the form of beautiful columns of silvery light standing over electric arc lamps and other bright lights and sometimes appearing almost to reach the zenith. Mr. Goode says that sometimes the evening star has a bright shaft below as well as above, while the rising moon stands in a broad column of light. These appearances are due to floating frost crystals which keep their reflecting faces horizontal. On examination he found that the crystals concerned in the exhibition were thin six sided plates of ice, never more than one millimeter in diameter. When the wind blows, these little plates are upset, and the columns of light, caused by reflection from their surfaces, disappear.

A Pin In His Heart.

The old time idea that the slightest touch of a foreign substance on the heart means certain death was shattered years ago. One of the most remarkable cases ever heard of, however, was that described in a paper read before the Association of American Physicians some years ago by Dr. Peabody. It was of a case where a pin was found in a human heart after having been there for an indefinite period. The point of the pin was distant above five millimeters from the external surface of the heart. The pin seemed eroded and was broken by the scissors in dissection, without becoming displaced. There was no evidence of recent local inflammation, but that part of the heart in the neighborhood of the protruding head of the pin was greatly thickened and snow white and firmly adherent to the edge of the head.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 4. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Lessons from Christ's miracles.—Math. xi, 2-6; John xiv, 8-14.

The word miracle is derived from miror, which means to wonder, and therefore signifies primarily that which excites wonder. The miracles of Christ are sometimes called wonders. They must certainly have aroused the wonder and amazement of all who witnessed them. To define a miracle so as to apply to every wonder is a difficult thing to do. But Christ's miracles were performed contrary to the natural laws of the world. The testimony in favor of these divine miracles is substantial. Eyewitnesses competent of judging have narrated the wonderful events. The character of Christ and His mission in this world corroborate this testimony. There is no more reason for doubting the miracles of Christ than any other part of His life. The fact is, the miracles were performed to dispel doubt and unbelief.

The lessons that come to us from Christ's miracles are contained in the purpose of miracles. Miracles were not only wonders, but also signs. God confirmed His word by them in both the old and new dispensations. The sacred writers in both appealed to these wonders as proofs that they were the true servants of God. In the New Testament it is said that God confirmed the testimony of the apostles by signs and wonders. In his pentecostal sermon Peter tells the Jews that Jesus Himself was approved of God by "miracles and wonders and signs." Christ constantly appeals to His works to prove His divine mission. "The works," He says, "which the Father hath given Me to finish, the same works that I do, bear witness of Me that the Father hath sent Me" (John v, 20, 36). "The works that I do in My Father's name, they bear witness of Me." "Though ye believe not Me, believe the works" (John x, 25, 38).

The purpose of miracles, therefore, being to prove the divine character and mission of Jesus Christ, their greatest lesson is to the weak in faith and to the doubting. It was in this character that Christ used them in both of the topical references. In the first instance John, discouraged and disheartened in prison, sends his disciples to Christ to ask Him if He was indeed the Messiah, and Jesus said to them, "Go and show John again those things which ye do see and hear—the blind receive their sight and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up." Here Christ uses miracles to strengthen weak faith. In the other case He appeals to doubting Thomas to believe Him "for the work's sake," if for nothing else. God has confirmed the claims of His Son and our Saviour. Our faith should be strengthened, our doubts should all be removed, for that Jesus Christ was and is the Son of God and all He claimed to be has been proved by wonders, signs and mighty works.

Bible Readings.—Math. viii, 5-13; ix, 27-35; xiv, 22-33; xvii, 19, 20; Mark ii, 3-12; viii, 22-25; Luke v, 1-11; xvii, 11-18; John ii, 1-11; iv, 46-54; v, 36; ix, 1-4; xi, 1-4; Acts ii, 22-24; Heb. ii, 3, 4.

Better Than Success.

Success is not always to be measured by money, position, reputation, although these visible marks of achievement are the usual spurs to ambition. In what the world calls failure God often stores the richest success. We judge by the finished building, the completed work, the rounded career. But it is to some of us given to be but torsos, fragments, suggestions only, that under other conditions might have attained successful development, but are now failures to men, although not to Him.—Jewish Messenger.

Overdoing.

Overdoing is undoing. A cake burned to a crisp is as much a failure as a cake half baked. An audience wearied, confused and vexed with too many points in a sermon or too many addresses at an anniversary is an audience hindered instead of helped. It is a great faculty to "make things go," but one of the ways to do it is to stop before going too far. —Churchman.

All For Our Good.

Many things happen that we cannot understand. But if we love God we have a right to believe that He is in all of them, and just as surely as we have that belief it will give us constant and perfect peace. Not a trouble can come to us in this life while we are trusting in God that we will not thank Him for when we get to heaven.—Churchman.

What Juniors May Do.

What one company of children can do is well illustrated by the 11 months' work of the Juniors of the Mount Morris Baptist church, New York city. They have sent a library of 114 volumes to a western Sunday school, have collected 13,620 canceled stamps and have made other benevolent and missionary gifts to the amount of $100.

Judging Christianity.

Do not judge Christianity by the conduct of the professors of religion who violate its precepts.—Christian Uplook.

Golden Rule Nuggets.

The next time you take part in a prayer meeting—which will be next week of course—do something new. Get out of your own ruts.

Spiritual frost has bitten the society that would rather be well represented at a union rally than at its own midweek prayer meeting.

The next time you visit that neighboring society which meets on a different night from your own tell who you are and whence you are.

A pastor of a church without a Christian Endeavor society sent his young people to a recent Kentucky district convention. He knew how to arouse them to active work.

CUBA WILL BE FREE.

SPAIN IS VIRTUALLY VANQUISHED, AND THE WAR WILL SOON END.

Efforts to Crush Insurgents Are Practically Abandoned—Weyler Recognized as an Utter Failure—Rebels May Buy Cuba or Take It by the Sword.

Spain is at the end of her string, and Cuban independence is in sight. It is an open secret in diplomatic circles that Spain has practically abandoned the effort to crush the Cuban insurrectionists. Forces stronger than the waning political and military power of that decaying empire have compelled Spanish statesmen to choose which they shall save—Cuba or the Philippines—and the decision is in favor of the latter.

The war in Cuba has now reached the negotiation stage. The question of the future is as to whether the people of the island will buy their independence or whether they will win it by the sword. They may easily do either.

Information warranting these statements has been received at Washington from time to time during recent days. It is official information, supposed to be secret, but the secret is not well kept. It is well understood in the higher diplomatic circles that the end is near in Cuba. The prediction is freely made that within a short time the Spanish government will initiate negotiations with the United States looking to a settlement of the Cuban trouble.

It is no secret that General Weyler's campaign in the provinces to the east of Havana has been a failure. It is as much of a fiasco as was his pacification of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas provinces, in every one of which the insurgents are still provokingly active. He marched out at the head of a great army two months ago, and he has not had a battle. He has accomplished literally nothing. This is admitted by the Spanish press of Havana and of Madrid and is not denied by the Spanish minister in Washington. Weyler made his boasts that he would crush Gomez, but he has not even engaged that wily chieftain's force, and there is little chance of his doing so. There is not a province in Cuba in which the revolutionists are not strong in the field. They still control two-thirds of the island. This is the military situation at the beginning of the third year of the war.

A single regiment of United States regulars could have crushed the insurrection in a month.

But as fast as Spain poured in troops the rebellion spread. It overran the island, province after province. It threatened the capital itself. It shut the Spaniards up in the cities. They have since, under pressure of public opinion at home, sallied forth in Pinar del Rio, in the extreme western province, and Weyler has marched out through Matanzas and into Puerto Principe. But there are more insurgents there than ever before. They hover around the Spanish columns. From 500 rifles they have grown to 25,000. Thirty expeditions have been landed by their friends in the United States. The insurgent army grows in strength, while the enormous importations of royal troops dissolve through disease. The royal troops are disheartened. They are poorly provisioned and in arrears in pay. Their officers lead them not to battle. The climate is deadly.

In a few weeks the hot and rainy season will come on, and that will mark the end of Spain's efforts. Then will ensue the months of waiting, in the course of which the statesmen at Madrid will seek to save what they can out of the wreck, already tacitly acknowledged. The coming summer will bring on the end. There can be but one result. Spain will squirm for a time and seek to hold a titular sovereignty with autonomous rule, but will ultimately abandon the contest, and Cuba will acquire her independence.—Walter Wellman in Chicago Times-Herald.

Ninety-nine Years Old.

In the little college town of Granville, O., an event of rare occurrence was celebrated recently. It was the ninety-ninth anniversary of Mrs. Susan Rose, who belongs to one of Granville's earliest and most prominent families. The family unto the third and fourth generations gathered to celebrate the event.

Mrs. Rose was born in Virginia, but the greater part of her life has been spent in Granville, which she has seen emerge from the rugged pioneer state in which she found it to its present state of progress, it being generally recognized that Granville is not only the prettiest college town in the state of Ohio, but at the same time one of the most progressive.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Ladies Can Now See Their Ribs.

The latest exploit with the Roentgen rays is reported from Lisbon. It was at the instance of the queen of Portugal, who takes a keen interest in science, that the ladies of her court submitted themselves to the searching action of these vibrations. The ladies have been startled at the sight of their distorted ribs and bones, the result of tight lacing. Henceforth they have determined to be three women. Corsets are to be cast aside.

Bushels of Rattlers.

Henry Moseley, who is at present a resident of Wolcott, Conn., captured more than a bushel and a half of semi-torpid rattlesnakes at the foot of Rattlesnake hill, below Thomaston, recently. The snakes were being thawed out by the rays of the warm spring sun. The haul was an unusually large one even for the famous snake country.

Getting Religion.

I ain't much on religion nor prayer meetin be side,
I've never j'ined the church as yet nor ain't been sanctified,
But a tender sort of feelin draws me nearer to the skies
Since I got a peep of heaven through a pair of trustin eyes.

Time was when nothin moved my thoughts above this sinful world.
No preacher's words could stir me up, in wrath an fury hurled,
But lately I've been driftin nigher to the better land,
An the force that leads me upward is a little dimpled hand.

Seems like the bad thoughts sneak away with that wee chap hard by,
An cuss words that were handy once won't come when he is nigh.
Fact is, it sort of shames me to see those clear, blue eyes
Look at me, when I'm gettin riled, in pity an surprise.

I don't know much of heaven or angels an such things,
But somehow when I picture 'em it ain't with harps an wings,
But with yeller curls, all tangled, an tender eyes that shine,
An lips that's soft an lovin, like that little chap of mine.

Then, when he folds his dimpled hands in his little bed at night,
An whispers "Now I lay me," why, there's somethin ails my sight,
An my throat gits sort of husky when he blesses me, an then
I'm dead sure I've got religion by the time he says "Amen!"

—Ida G. Morris in Louisville Courier-Journal

New Rays.

Will men still say the light is good
When nothing lies from it concealed;
When, thrown on living flesh and blood,
It shows a skeleton revealed?

We aye have loved the softened rays
Which will not let us see too much,
But wrap, as in a kindly haze,
The things that shrink from human touch

We hide our skeletons away
When they have played their living part
And shut them from the light of day
Within the twilight of the heart.

And all the wrongs that shock and shame
Our tender feelings or our pride—
The sullied honor, tarnished name—
In dim forgetfulness we hide.

But now we dread lest some fierce beam
More strong than our resistance prove
And make us look where only seem
Unlovely relics of our love.

And yet, it may be, we were wise
To welcome each new ray of light
And face with frank, courageous eyes
What now we bury out of sight.

'Tis not, perchance, the self control
Nor any part of charity
To shut the windows of the soul
'Gainst all we do not choose to see.

New light which shines on earth may tell
How brighter rays which shine above
Can touch the lowest depths of hell,
Yet touch with tender tints of love.

Lively Runaway.

There was a lively runaway last evening and the only wonder is that more damage was not done. The runaway team was that of J. Keniley. The horse which was attached to an open wagon started somewhere on Washington street, and as he came up toward City Square at a breakneck speed, he struck the carriage of Dr. Gordan, but fortunately did no damage. The animal continued up Washington street into Elm and School streets and turned down Franklin street. Coming up Franklin street was an electric car at one side of which was Councilman Field in a buggy. The runaway attempted to pass between Mr. Field and the sidewalk. In doing so he struck Mr. Field's buggy removing some of the paint. The force of the collision overturned the open wagon and the horse continued on with the forward wheels. He turned into Water street, thence into Quincy avenue and then into School street again and headed for West Quincy. The same electric car was met on School street and it lost some of its paint as the horse speed by. The animal continued up School street where he was finally captured.

WORK OF THE CITY.

The Annual Report for 1896 Just Issued:

Commissioner Knowlton Makes Several Recommendations.

A Large Amount of Uncollected Taxes for Past Years.

The annual City Book for the year 1896 has made its appearance and is a volume somewhat larger than that of the previous year and would have made interesting reading for our citizens if issued earlier in the year.

The City Treasurer reports cash on hand January 1, 1896, of $19,519 31, and the total receipts during the year as $947,678 57. The expenditures $931,683 55, leaving cash on hand Dec. 31, 1896, of $15,995 02.

The balances of the several funds on hand Dec. 31, 1896, were: Rock Island fund, $1,018 48; C. C. Johnson fund, $2,082 69; Perpetual care fund of burial places, $9,415.84.

The City Auditor reports the total public debt Dec. 31, 1896, as $306,335 61, of which $64,720.57 falls due this year. Total water debt, $716,500. Playground debt, $47,000. Sewer debt, $65,000.

Commissioner Knowlton in his report states that a large amount of work has been done by his department, and besides the regular work 45 special orders of the Council have been looked after. He thinks that the Commissioner should not be held responsible for the condition of public streets and property, but only for the wise and economical expenditure of money intrusted to him by the Council.

Speaking of drainage he says: "Surface drainage is one of the greatest factors in increasing the permanency of our street construction, and every dollar spent in this direction brings lasting results. One of our most eminent engineers, when asked what were the three most essential things for proper road construction, replied: 'First, drainage: second, drainage; third, drainage.' It is a well establishd fact that a road of poor material properly drained will last longer than a road constructed of good material without drainage."

The time has arrived when it is for the best interest of the city to have a city engineer. Grades should be established on all street lines run out and proper bounds set, Assessors' plans made, designs and plans made for a system of surface drainage, and designs and plans made for a system of proper street construction, so that the Commissioner of Public Works may have a system to work upon and technical assistance. All this work in connection with the amount of engineering necessary in the extension of sewers and water-mains, would seem to demand that office be created, but it may be wise to wait until the Sewer Commissioners have nearly completed their main intercepting sewers. Then the city will be in possession of a vast and valuable amount of data to work upon.

In relation to street lighting he says: "Our street-lighting system cannot prove satisfactory while we have such a lax method of ordering and locating new lights. Usually they are asked for and the location named by a petition to the Council, and when granted they must be located where ordered. Thus we find lights located at irregular distances, and on some streets, a combination of arc, incandescent, oil and gas, that produces very unsatisfactory results. No plan has been formvlated, but I should suggest that a movement be made to adopt some on method of street lighting and to relocate the existing lights, at a more uniform distauce apart."

Speaking of advertising, printing and stationery he suggests that the heads of each department include in their estimates the amounts needed for this purpsse and held individually responsible for the expenditure of the same, for it does not seem right to hold the Commissioner responsible for the economical management of the appropriation when he simply approves the bills and the ordering is done by the different heads of departments.

Nearly all the cities in the State of the size of Quincy appropriate annually from five to twenty thousand dollars for sidewalks under the provisions of the above act, and it would seem a good policy for us to adopt their method; i. e., select certain streets radiating from the centre to outlying districts, construct a portion each year, relocate all telephone and electric light poles along the line as work progresses, and whenever trees interfere with proper construction and width cut them down and set out new ones on the curb line.

Some of the routes suggested would be Hancock School and Franklin streets to Independence square on one side; Granite and Copeland streets to West Quincy depot on one side; Hancock street to the High school on both sides; Adams street to railroad bridge on one side; Washington street to South street on one side; Chestnut and Bigelow streets to Elm street on one side.

He also suggests that the appropriations for fountains and hydrants be made direct to the Water Commissioners thus decreasing the number of accounts on the books of the Auditor and Treasurer.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

The Thieves Pursued and Captured and in Court Today.

Mrs. Harriet V. Littlefield and Mrs. Percival Gibson were walking on Mattapan street, Milton, Friday afternoon when they were approached by two young men. One of the fellows grabbed the handbag of Mrs. Littlefield, which contained among other things $7 in money, while the other attempted to get possession of Mrs. Gibsons pocketbook which she carried in her hand. The two ladies shouted for help, at which the two fellows started on the run toward Milton woods.

The ladies' cries soon attracted a crowd who started in pursuit, and after an exciting chase succeeded in catching the fellows, and they were turned over to the police who locked them up.

At the police station they gave their names as John Devlin and James Leslie, and their residence as Brooklyn. N. Y. The police, however, believe that the fellows belong in Boston and in this they are probably correct, for later in the evening the police received word that they were wanted for a break at Dorchester.

They were arraigned in the District court at Quincy, this morning.

Miss Corlew's Reception.

The closing reception of Miss Corlew's advanced class in dancing presented a pretty scene in the attractive Savings Bank hall last evening, the only regret of the fond parents and friends being over the failure of many to see the dancing. There was a large attendance of society people, who were ushered by Mr. Frank S. Corlew.

The matrons were Mrs. Sylvester Brown, Mrs. Theodore Hardwick, Mrs. F. L. Holbrook, Mrs. J. C. Randall and Mrs. H. Lawton.

The young misses were dressed in fairy creations, mostly of white muslins and silks, but others with enough colors to make each number a pretty scene. The masters were young men indeed in their white gloves, standing collars and pretty ties.

The young misses of the class were Mollie Brown, Penelope Willard, Rachel Doble, Helen Sayward, Marion Johnson, Dorothy Fay, Marjorie Fay, Lucy Holbrook, Clara Totman, Edith Alden, Helen Blair, Helen Josselyn, Marjorie Barnes, Helen Barnes, Marion Bagley, Janet Carr, Cornelia Weeden, Eleanor Randall, Louise Randall and Bessie Higgins.

The young men were: Wallace Carr, Sidney Carr, Richard Pattee, Carl Doble, Ralph Doble, Morton Smith, Merton Alden, Avah Gilson, Lorenzo Gilson, Freeman Higgins, Frank Wood, Fred Thayer, Winthrop Fenno, Frank Higgins, Brooks Keyes, Lyndon Hardwick, Jesse Corlew, Arthur Slade, Avard Sproul, George Brown.

When the classes marched in many of the members presented Miss Corlew with pretty flowers, but a beautiful bunch of "Jacks" from the class as a whole was most prized. Attached to it was a long green streamer plainly marked in gilt, "Class of '97.

Miss Corlew wore a white silk gown with pearl trimmings, with a large bunch of violets at the waist.

The seats reserved for the class were tied with white ribbon and there were palms and ferns from the greenhouses of Hendrie in front of the platform.

Nothing in the line of dances seemed too difficult for this class, for the order included marches, polka glide, two-step, Berlin, Lanciers, waltz, caprice, waltz, polka, German, minuet, schottische and yorke. There was also introduced a Spanish dance by two couples, Wallace Carr and Penelope Willard, George Brown and Dorothy Fay, which was a feature of the evening. The music by Mrs. Annie L. Bynner, the pianist, added to the pleasures.

At the close a prettily ladened table was brought in and ices and cake were served to the class, and the prettiest children's dancing school party of the season came to an end.

This evening Miss Corlew's class of beginners give their reception at the same hall, and all are pleased to learn that Miss Corlew will resume her classes next September.

Needless Alarm.

The alarm from Box 52 at 9.55 this morning was entirely unnecessary, having rung in for a grass fire on Farrington street. It seems too bad that the Central station apparatus should be called out and given a long run simply for a grass fire. If assistance is needed to extinguish a grass or bush fire a telephone message to the Central station would be sufficent.

The Noted Spiritualist.

The funeral of Joseph D. Stiles at Weymouth yesterday was attended by many from Boston and neighboring towns including Henry Chubbuck and William G. Prescott of this city. It was conducted by Mrs. Sarah A. Burns, assisted by Miss Carrie Loring of East Braintree. The singing was led by Miss Amanda Bailey. Mr. Stiles was the author of "Twelve Messages from spirit John Q. Adams to Josiah Brigham, now in the public library.

Something New.

The Dearborn window chair is a new and useful article. It allows one to sit comfortably and wash the window on the outside as easily as on the inside. It is made to fit any window and is said to be very durable.

Spring Medicine

Experience teaches the importance of special care of the health.

And fixed among the important principles of hygiene and health is the acknowledged necessity of a good Spring Medicine.

Just as firmly established by the experiences of millions of people, is the positive fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is "far and away" the best blood purifier and spring medicine ever produced.

The necessity is found in the impure condition of the blood at this season, owing to the close confinement and breathing vitiated air in office, store, shop, house, schoolroom or factory; excessive eating and drinking too rich and hearty food; late hours and social indulgences. With the blood thus thick and impure, the machinery of life grinds hard.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, builds up and strengthens the nerves and tones the stomach. It oils up the machinery of the whole body; the liver takes up its work anew, the kidneys resume activity, the ache goes out of the back, the bowels are regulated, the appetite restored, the food is relished and assimilated.

Don't wait till you are thoroughly sick before you begin to take a Spring Medicine.

Lock the door before the horse is stolen.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now as a preventive and it will pay you a thousand fold in health and strength through the coming summer.

"We always take several bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family in spring as a tonic and blood purifier and we find that it overcomes that tired feeling gives new life, and keeps us well summer." WM. RINGEL, 813 5th Ave., Peoria, Illinois.

Excellent Spring Medicine.

"For a number of years I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring, not for any particular ailment, but on general principle, that the system needs a tonic at this time, and I have always found Hood's Sarsaparilla a most excellent spring medicine." HAKON HAMMER, Engineer, Pottstown, Pennsylvania.

That Tired Feeling.

"I was troubled with that tired feeling all the spring. I purchased three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken about half of it I was feeling well again. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be an excellent blood purifier and tonic." MISS ORA E. MORGAN, Busey, Illinois.

Builds up the Health.

"We take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a tonic in the spring. Two of our children had tonsilitis and their blood was in bad condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla built them up, and we have taken it again this spring with much benefit." MRS. P. J. CAHOON, Pleasant Lake, Mass.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead. There is no substitute for Hood's.

BURGLAR STOLE HAIR.

While a Pretty Widow Slept She Lost Her Crown of Glory.

The widow is an attractive woman of 25. Her glory was in her hair, which was of a fineness rarely seen and which fell nearly to her knees when it was loosened. The glory is now departed. Her tresses have been stolen.

At 2 o'clock in the morning of a recent day Mrs. Anderson was awakened and felt a hand resting firmly on her forehead.

"Mother, is it you?" she said.

The hand was removed, and she heard some one stepping lightly and quickly across the room. She sat up in bed, and in the dim light that streamed in from a distant electric lamp she distinguished a form. At that moment the person who was in the room stumbled over a chair. Mrs. Anderson heard a masculine voice exclaim, "Damnation!"

Then she did what women generally do under such circumstances. She screamed, and jumping from the bed ran to the door. As she opened it and ran into the hall she heard a window being quickly pushed up, followed by a crash on the tin roof of the porch.

By this time Mrs. Poston, mother of the widow, had lighted a lamp and come to her daughter's assistance.

"Why, Birdie," exclaimed the mother, "what's the matter with your hair?"

She put her hand to her head, then looked around in a dazed manner. Then she raised her hand again. There was nothing left save a shaggy bunch, such as a boy might wear. The hair had been cut off close to the head. The job had been neatly done, and the burglar had taken every tress.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WHEEL GIRLS OF 1897.

Their Costume Is Fetching, and the Derby Hat Is Its Jauntiest Feature.

The 1897 bicycle may properly be said to have made its debut. Of greater interest than the 1897 wheel is the debut of the 1897 bicycle girls. The brisk wind makes their cheeks rosy, and the air is still keen enough to give zest to the sport. If anything more is needed to make the girls interesting, it is found in the gayer hues of the 1897 cycling costumes they wear.

There is a feature of the 1897 outfit which will make the year historical in wheeling. It is the derby hat. A few wheelwomen wore this favorite headgear of commonplace man last year. Now nearly half the young women seen on the popular cycle paths have them on. With such a start it is fair to assume that before long the derby hat will be firmly established.

When worn with the bloomer costume, the hat causes confusion in the minds of those who dislike to make a mistake in addressing a rider as mister or miss. Nevertheless the derby hat has come to stay, at least for this season.

Cumbered With Icebergs.

The transatlantic route is still cumbered with icebergs, as is shown by the report of Captain Santelli of the French steamship Touraine, which arrived in New York recently from Havre. The vessel fell in with three bergs during her journey, sighting the first on March 25 in latitude 44 degrees 12 minutes north, longitude 50 degrees 48 minutes west. The other two were seen on the same day and a bit farther to the westward.

These are undoubtedly the same three bergs that have been reported at this port during the last week. One is of extraordinary size, measuring, according to description, 1,000 feet in length and 500 feet in height. Captain Santelli's report shows that they are drifting to the south and west.

Colonel Shaw's Monument.

A monument to the memory of Colonel Robert G. Shaw of the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts volunteers, the first colored regiment of the war, will be unveiled on Boston Common on next Memorial day. Colonel Shaw's military service began in the Seventh regiment of this city. He afterward joined the Second Massachusetts volunteers, serving therein until February, 1863, when, the Fifty-fourth having been raised, Governor John A. Andrew, the Old Bay State's famous war governor, commissioned him its first commander. On July 13 following Colonel Shaw met his death as he led his regiment in the celebrated charge on Fort Wagner.—New York Tribune.

Tamagno's Triumph.

Signor Tamagno's utter failure in New York has evidently not had any effect on his European prospects, for his services are in demand everywhere in Europe, and he is still said to receive the largest salary paid to any foreign tenor. Now an artistic compliment has been paid to him, which is a more striking indication of the opinion held of his talents. He is to go to Paris to sing in Verdi's "Otello," which is to be revived at the Grand Opera House, and for the sake of Signor Tamagno the opera will be given in Italian.

Boutell's New Book.

A valuable contribution to American biography has recently been made by Lewis Henry Boutell of Chicago in his "Life of Roger Sherman" (McClurg). Roger Sherman was one of the clearest thinkers in the constitutional convention of 1787, and in this book Mr. Boutell has rendered a lasting service to history by establishing for the first time the fact that it is to Sherman we owe the existing system of proportional representation in the house of representatives and of equal state representation in the senate.

Playing Weyler.

Though I hear a frightful rumpus—
And a riot, and a row,
Not one bead of clammy horror
Starts out on my placid brow.

For there is no fire or slaughter,
And of scilled blood not a jot,
'Tis just Dickie playing Weyler
With some boys in our back lot.

A GREAT GAME.

Quincys Put Up Total of 2491, But Lose by 43 Pins.

Fratus Had a Single of 255 and a Total of 626.

The Granites of Quincy Lose to the Shawmuts by 157 Pins.

The Quincy's made a great bid for the final game in the City league last evening with the Shermans, and it was a grand struggle from first to last. Fratus was a wonder, bowling a single of 255 in the first string which he followed up by 193 and 178, making a phenominal total of 626.

The Quincy's lost the first string by 17 pins, although they put up a total of 878, but at the end of the second, they led by 26 pins. The Shermans braced up while the Quincy's fell behind, and the last string was won by the Shermans, 835 to 766, and this gave them the game by 43 pins.

TRADE IMPROVEMENT.

Bradstreet's Weekly Review Says Business Is Gradually Improving.

Failures Decrease In All Sections Except New England.

Manufactories Are Starting Up and Thousands Thereby Gain Employment.

New York, April 3.—Bradstreet's says: The course of general trade shows some improvement, notwithstanding an almost complete stoppage of business in the south Mississippi valley by washouts, overflows and floods. The condition of country roadways throughout central Western states and the Northwest is such as to still further delay collections and check demand from interior merchants. Another drop is recorded in prices of Bessemer pig iron and steel billets, and in wheat, flour, coal, coffee and lard, which is, in part, offset by increased activity and higher prices for wool and for woolens, for corn, oats, sugar and petroleum. A heavy movement of fertilizers is reported in the South Atlantic states; interest in lumber and shingles has increased on the Northwest Pacific coast, and Galveston is exporting cattle to Europe direct. The most favorable trade reports are from Northwestern spring wheat states.

There were 4042 business failures in the United States during the past quarter, compared with 4512 in the first quarter of 1896, a falling off of about 11 per cent The decrease is reported from all sections except New England and the territories. The larger number of Eastern state failures are small ones, for total liabilities of those failing in the New England states are about 22 per cent smaller during the past quarter than a year ago. Liabilities of all individuals firms and corporations which failed amount to $62,513,000, a falling off of 16 per cent from the corresponding total last year.

Special reports from 50 cities with reference to revival in activity in industrial lines indicate there are at work at those centers probably not to exceed 100,000 in excess of the number employed in November last. The increases are largely among employes of manufacturers of woolen goods, shoes, clothing, machinery, engines, agricultural implements, bicycles, carriages, furniture, iron, steel, glass and ship building. Depression still exists among some branches in the woolen goods industry, in coal mining and cotton goods manufactures.

Bank clearings for March at 82 cities throughout the United States show an increase of 1.8 per cent, compared with March one year ago, the first monthly increase over a corresponding total one year ago since April, 1896. The March gain over February this year is 14 per cent, but the decrease from the January total is 6.3 per cent. Compared with March, 1895, March this year shows a gain of more than 4 per cent, and with March, 1894, it is nearly 12 per cent, but compared with March clearings in 1893 two months prior to the outbreak of the panic, last month's total shows a falling off of 22 per cent.

The weeks clearings, amounting to $906,000,000, were 2.3 per cent larger than the total last week, 5 per cent smaller than that in the week a year ago, 10 per cent less than in the like period of 1895, 4 per cent less than in 1894, and 13 per cent less than in the last week of March, 1893.

Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from St. John, N. B., this week, amount to 2,464,635 bushels, compared with 1,749,000 bushels last week, 1,693,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 2,853,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 2,778,000 bushels in the like period of 1894, and as compared with 3,635,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1893, the largest week's total exports of wheat and flour since the first week of February last. Exports of Indian corn amount to 4,970,127 bushels this week, compared with 5,862,000 bushels last week, 2,199,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 781,000 bushels two years ago, 1,174,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 944,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

Wool Still Booming.

Boston, April 3.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin says of the wool market: Another booming week is to be recorded. The sales would have been larger had not so much wool been withdrawn. The features are large sales of scoured wool. Over 1,000,000 pounds have been sold this week. The London auctions close today. Purchases for America are expected to reach 75,000 bales. Already the wool growers are reaping the benefit. Utah wool growers are getting 12 cents on the sheeps' back, against 7 cents last year, and the faulty San Joaquin wools of California are selling there at 8½ cents, against 5 cents last year.

Marsh Case Goes to Jury Monday.

Montpelier, Vt., April 3.—The arguments in the Marsh murder case were not completed yesterday, so Judge Rowell will not charge the jury until Monday morning. The plea for the defense by ex-Governor Dillingham was so powerful that a majority of the audience was moved to tears. Hon. Frank Plumley closed for the state, and his argument was apparently as effective, both with the audience and jury, as that which preceded it. While Mr. Plumley was speaking Mrs. Marsh stared steadily at the floor, while Buzzell was uneasy and kept constantly in motion. Buzzell shows the mental strain much more than Mrs. Marsh, and has aged considerably.

LOSS $50,000.

Bad Blaze In Lumber District at East Boston.

Boston, April 3.—A number of small manufacturing firms on Border street, East Boston, dealing mostly in carpenter supplies and musical instruments, together with the lumber yard of Samuel T. Manson & Co., suffered a loss of $50,000 last night.

For half an hour after it was discovered, the fire increased in energy, rapidly spreading from the four-story brick mill occupied by the Bay State Manufacturing company, where it is supposed to have started, to the adjoining lumber yard of Manson & Co., and so threatening did it appear that four alarms were rung in, summoning a large number of engines from the city proper.

The fire was soon surrounded by a battery of apparatus, and a greater portion of the lumber yard saved from the flames. In the brick building the flames were confined to the two upper of the four floors, but here for nearly an hour they had full sway, completely destroying some $10,000 worth of phonoharps, as well as a large amount of dressed wood in process of manufacture. The building was also considerably damaged on these two floors, and the roof completely destroyed.

Murderer Butler Attempts Suicide.

San Francisco, April 3.—Frank Butler, the alleged Australian murderer, made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide yesterday in the presence of two guards. They paid no special attention to their charge until a peculiar noise made by Butler's arm, which rested on a table, caused an investigation. Butler lay half covered by his blankets, his face smeared with blood. With his long thumb nail he had made a ragged incision, half an inch long, near the temporal artery. The wound went through the flesh almost to the bone, and would have been serious had Butler been more successful in locating the artery. He is all right now, and his guards will not again relax their vigilance.

The Southern bicycle circuit opened at Memphis yesterday.

The Yale baseball team will play their first game of the season today, meeting Johns Hopkins at the Yale field.

From developments which have come to light, the indications point to the Yale field as the scene of the Yale-Harvard football game next fall.

A Boston syndicate has offered a purse of $15,000 for a limited contest between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, to be held in New York.

The London Daily Mail prints a dispatch from Cape Town saying it is reported there that Delagoa bay has been leased to Great Britain for 30 years at an annual rental of £500,000, and that the Transvaal government was not aware of the arrangement until completed.

An immense crowd witnessed the annual field and track games between the Oxford and Cambridge teams yesterday at the Queen's club grounds, London The Duke and Duchess of York were present, and a numerous sprinkling of the nobility. Hundreds of ladies appeared in spring toilettes, and the scene was very gay.

It is almost settled that the race between Ras Rogers of Worcester, Mass. and Champion Gaudaur will be rowed at Orilla, Ont. The Worcester man refuses to increase the stakes higher than $500 a side, and Jake refuses to go away from Orilla for that amount. Orillians will give a purse of $100 to the winner, provided the race is rowed on May 24.

Chief Consul Fred Patee of the Illinois division, L. A. W., has demanded of President Potter that George K. Barrett, who got out the political circular intended to pledge the wheelmen's vote to Carter Harrison for mayor of Chicago, be suspended from the league. Members of the joint L. A. W. and A. C. committee sustain Consul Patee in his request.

CABLE SPARKS.

A great sensation has been caused at Pretoria by the report of impending naval demonstrations by the Cape and West African squadrons in Delagoa bay.

The publication of the Russian budget discloses the fact that there has been a deficit in the last 12 months of 80,000,000 roubles, but that this has been covered by a withdrawal of bullion from the treasury. The expenditures, which occasioned the deficit, included 50,000,000 in gold for conversion fund and 26,000,000 for gold transactions at the reichsbank.

After an animated debate the German reichstag has adopted a motion to reintroduce in the courts the administering of the oath according to the different religious denominations. The Conservatives, Imperialists, Reform party and Centrists supported the motion. The imperial chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, voted with the minority. A Centrist motion in favor of the complete abrogation of the Jesuit exclusion law was hotly debated and finally adopted.

The Cape Town parliament opened yesterday. The speech from the throne said in part: "Through a period of exampled difficulty my ministers have continued their endeavors to exercise a moderating influence and to maintain peaceful relations with my neighbors. I am happy to say that these efforts have met with encouraging success. And this policy of peace and conciliation will be continued so that ultimately, by the general concord of various interests, the common welfare of South Africa will be promoted."

Five hundred employes of clothing manufacturers at St. Louis have struck for higher wages.

The Master Painters' association of Lynn, Mass., has decided to offer to the striking painters $2.40 a day for an 8-hour day. The painters demand $2.50.

T. D. Barry & Co., shoe manufacturers at Brockton, Mass., will remove their business to North Easton by July 1. This step is taken by the firm as a result of difficulties with employes.

The satchel factory of John D. Wood at Westport, Conn., which has been idle for the past few weeks, will resume operations at once under the management of a joint stock company. The factory employs about 300 hands.

Messenger Beaten and Robbed.

Chicago, April 3.—A daring robbery was committed in the business district yesterday. A messenger employed by a wholesale woolen firm was robbed of $3500 after being beaten into insensibility by two men, one of whom had been sent with the boy to protect him and the firm's money. Detectives are searching for the robbers. The messenger is in the hospital at the point of death. He is Chris Schultz, a 17-year-old lad, who was the trusted messenger of the firm. One of the robbers was Edward Wilson, employed by the firm as a teamster. The other assailant is not known. Both Schultz and Wilson have been in the employ of Kuh, Nathan & Fisher for several years, and were always sent to the bank together, sometimes with thousands of dollars at a time. Schultz and Wilson were sent to the Metropolitan National bank to collect $3500. Taking a light delivery wagon the two drove to the bank, where Schultz procured the money, which he put into a small satchel. The two then started back. In front of the Rock Island depot, at Pacific avenue and Van Buren streets, a stranger called to Wilson, and after a few words of greeting, got into the covered wagon, taking a position directly back of Schultz, who was on the seat with Wilson. Suddenly Schultz was struck a blow on the head. Before he could cry out he was struck a second and a third time, and fell back unconscious into the wagon. The two men then tied his wrists and feet and placed a gag in his mouth and tied a gunny sack over his head. Then they drove rapidly to Twelfth street, where they stopped, and, taking the satchel containing the money, disappeared. It was over an hour afterward that some inquisitive person discovered the unconscious boy in the wagon.

Cuban Hospital Authorities Arrested.

Havana, April 3.—Dispatches from Cienfuegos, province of Santa Clara, announce that Captain General Weyler has ordered the arrest and imprisonment of the chief of police there, Senor Merina, several police inspectors and 35 other persons. It appears that the captain general, while visiting the marine hospital, which contained 20 patients, made inquiries which elicted the information that the rations there were of a poorer quality than those served in the military hospitals. Thereupon he issued orders to the effect that, while all useless expenditure was to be avoided, all persons convicted of depriving the sick of what is due them will be severely punished.

Flood In Northwest.

St. Paul, April 3.—The river last night reached 17 feet, three feet above the danger line, and the unoccupied flats on the west side of the river are flooded, while the water has surrounded many small shanties on the upper flats. Reports from all over this state and from the Red river valley and the valley of the Jim river in South Dakota are to the same effect. Throughout the western and northwestern parts of Minnesota, and in South Dakota, many trains have been abandoned and many towns have had no mail for three or four days. Loss from stoppage of business and from damaged property will be heavy all over the Northwest.

Chinese Protest.

New York, April 3.—The Chinese of this city have forwarded to the senate finance committee a memorial protesting against the clause in section 7 of the Dingley tariff bill, in which the privilege of importing at the present rates of duty from April 1 to the date of passage of the act by the senate and signing by the president is restricted to citizens of the United States only. The memorial declares that the Chinese are refused admission to citizenship, consequently, even if they desired, there is no escape for them from this exception, and further that they are the only people in the world who are so placed.

Water Scarce In Cuba.

Havana, April 3.—There is a great scarcity of water at Santiago de Cuba, and the authorities there have been compelled to reduce the water rations of the prisoners and sick persons in the jail and in the hospitals. A merchant of this city named Michelson has ordered a Philadelphia steamer, bound for Santiago de Cuba to load minerals, to carry water there for the thirsty residents. Four hundred casks of water arrived there as ballast on the steamer Erndale, and thousands of persons gathered about the wharf in order to obtain some of the water.

President Will Take Short Rest.

Washington, April 3.—President McKinley has in contemplation a brief vacation from his official duties. The month in the White House has been a trying one, and while not in any way indisposed, he feels that a few days' rest will greatly benefit him. Nothing has been determined, yet it is probable that he will avail himself of the presence here of the dispatch boat Dolphin and go down the Potomac river for a couple of days about the middle of next week.

General Sewall Summoned.

Boston, April 3. — A special to The Herald from Bath, Me., says: General F. D. Sewall, who was commissioner of internal revenue under the Harrison administration, left yesterday afternoon for Washington in response to summons from the secretary of the treasury. It is reported that Mr. Sewall has been formally tendered the office that he filled four years ago.

There is no prettier sight in the world than that of a healthy, happy mother at play with her robust and rollicking baby. It is a sight entirely too infrequent. Too often the baby is puny and peevish and the mother sickly, fretful, and nervous. The woman who neglects to take proper care of herself and who therefore suffers from weakness and disease of the organs of womanhood cannot be healthy and amiable. Her children will be puny and ailing and happiness will pass by on the other side. There is no reason why every woman should not be the healthy, happy mother of robust and playful children if she will take the proper care of herself. Proper care means, first of all, proper medicine for her ailments. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will make any woman strong and well in a womanly way. It cures all weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism. It prepares a woman for motherhood. It insures the health of the baby. It makes parturition easy and nearly painless. Over 90,000 women have testified to its virtues, in writing. Druggists sell it and have no substitute "just as good." The druggist who tries to force something else upon you is not an honest man. He is trifling with your life and happiness for the sake of a greater profit to himself.

Mrs. F. E. Forgey, of Carns, Keyapaha, Neb., writes: "I write to you again concerning my daughter, Mrs. D. Billings. She has taken two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and six of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She thinks the medicines did her a world of good. She was confined the 15th of February. Was sick nine hours, and now has a ten pound daughter. She got along nicely afterward. She says she never felt so well. She looks well and her complexion is clear."

The modern business world won't stand still or loiter to wait for the man who suffers from headaches, biliousness and dyspepsia, caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Of druggists.

Puritana in the Spring.

The universal custom of taking a spring remedy is founded on a natural instinct implanted in us for our own good.

The heat-producing foods of winter leave the system clogged. Confinement in warm rooms, with lack of outdoor exercise, makes all the organs weak and torpid. Those who neglect to use a remedy or fail to get the right one are inviting serious troubles. Most chronic diseases start in the spring. The end of winter finds thousands with such symptoms as these: A general unfitness for work with either head or hands. A worn-out, tired-out feeling that cannot be overcome. There is sleeplessness, or restless sleep. Numbness of hands or feet. A sense of pressure in the head, with a feeling of gloom or despondency. There may be fluttering or palpitation of the heart. Frequently a pain in the heart or under the left shoulder. There may be rushes of blood to the head, or throbbing in the ears at times.

Kidney and liver troubles may be looked for if your digestion has not been perfect. There is fulness or pain in the right side, or pain under the right shoulder. Distaste for food, with nausea in the morning. Complexion is blotched or sallow. Tongue is coated or mouth foul. There is a dull, sleepy feeling, with disinclination to breathe deeply. If the kidneys are in danger there will be pain, weakness, or soreness in small of back, and perhaps occasional sharp pains. Urine is scanty, high colored, and on standing becomes cloudy, or deposits a red sediment. There are apt to be frequent headaches. Sores and skin eruptions frequently come.

All these various symptoms are common to spring, and show that the vital organs need renovating and prompt repair. Bright's disease, jaundice, rheumatism, and heart troubles start from such conditions as these. No two persons will have the same set of symptoms, but any of those enumerated are important. The organs must be strengthened and repaired. Repair can only come through active digestion, and Puritana is the remedy to rely on. It will vitalize the entire body and give you a spring of buoyant, vigorous health. Clear complexion, sharp appetite, and the power to do things, is the sure reward of taking Puritana.

BRAVE BRITONS' DEEDS

Her Majesty's Troops Destroy Provisions In Cretan Homes.

Reported That British Flag May Float Over Crete.

Greece Notified That Her Ports Will Be Blockaded In Three or Four Days.

London, April 3.—The Daily Chronicle's Canea correspondent says:

Here are some of the deeds to which England is setting her hands today. During the week an expedition of British marines, accompanied by cannon, went to Tripete, in Spakia, and examined houses in search of provisions. They destroyed all they found, lest the insurgents should get them. A day or so later, another expedition of British marines was sent to a village, near Solino, with the object of finding flour and grain. Later two warships, one a British vessel, dispatched boats fitted with cannon to Kolumbari, with instructions to seize the small mercantile craft. The peasants refused to surrender them. The European forces threatened to destroy the village, whereupon the boats were given up.

A British detatchment was sent to Kastelli, where it proceeded to destroy the Cretan houses by chains thrown around them, fastened to the ships, which pulled till the houses collapsed.

Another instance of British measures was where a company of Bashi bazouks attacked the Greek lines at Vigla, the Turkish ships supporting the attack with cannon. After the engagement was well under way the European fleet, including the British vessels, opened fire upon the small force of Cretans, who were compelled to retreat. The Turks then entered the village and began to burn the houses, the churches and the monastery.

England May Gobble Crete.

The Standard's dispatch from Constantinople says:

Great efforts are being made in influential Turkish quarters to induce the Sultan to win England to his side, if possible, on the ground of a community of interests. Great Britain and Turkey are the two greatest Mussulmen powers in the world. Similar feelings prevail among the Moslems in Crete, including the garrison, and it is actually reported that the result of these efforts may be, ere long, the hoisting of the British flag in Crete, and the proclamation of British sovereignty. Indeed, I am told that an intimation to this effect has already been conveyed to the sultan.

Germans Command Sultan's Troops.

Constantinople, April 3.—It is stated on undoubted authority that the efficient manner in which the Turkish forces were mobilized on the Greek frontier is is due to German officers, and it is added that all the plans of campaign entrusted to them to carry out have been prepared by able strategists in Berlin. The greatest confidence, therefore, is felt in military circles here as to the outcome of any conflict between Turkey and Greece. In official circles it is declared that a direct agreement between Turkey and Greece would be hailed with the greatest satisfaction by the British government. According to a telegram received by the Turkish government, the Armenian revolutionists abroad intend to cause the resumption of rioting in Anatolia, about the middle of April, when the snows are melted. This is an intimation that further massacres may be looked forward to at about the same time.

Semi-Official Notice of Blockade.

Athens, April 3.—It is reported here that the Greek government has been notified, semi-officially, that a blockade of the Greek ports will be enforced within three or four days.

Liquor Dealers Fined.

Keene, N. H., April 3.—Twelve liquor dealers of Cheshire county were summoned before Judge Holmes yesterday by ex-Governor Goodell, representing the New Hampshire Law and Order league. The following pleaded guilty and were fined: A. J. Chapin, Alstead, $245.64; John Lee, Fitzwilliam, $121.39; George E. Sherman, Walpole, $82.28; John L. Perry, Troy, $79.88; Charles E. Hibbard, Harrisville, $64.95; Stephen Pickett, North Walpole, $53.97; Mary Exner, North Walpole, $53.73; Walter G. Vlake, Walpole, $50; C. H. Clearwater, North Walpole, $45.99. Others who appeared pleaded not guilty and were bound over to the April term of the court.

B. Boyd Jones Sworn In.

Boston, April 3. — B. Boyd Jones of Haverhill was inducted into the office of United States district attorney by Judge Aldrich in the United States circuit court here yesterday. When the court assembled, District Attorney Hoar presented the commission to the court, and moved that the oath of office be administered.

Dartmouth Instructor Resigns.

Hanover, N. H., April 3.—Professor H. E. Burton, who has been an instructor in Dartmouth Latin department during the absence of Professor F. G. Moore, has resigned his position on account of the critical sickness of Mrs. Burton. F. G. Ham, '94, now in the classical department at Harvard, will take his place next term.

Paid Greeks' Passage Home.

New York, April 3.—John D. Faimakis, a Greek confectioner of Philadelphia, who has shops in a number of large cities of the United States, called upon Consul General Botassi and paid the passage of 20 Greeks who are going to join the army of their native country. Seventy Greeks sailed on the La Touraine today.

Dick Succeeds Osborne.

Washington, April 3.—General William M. Osborne of Boston, recently appointed consul general to London, has resigned the secretaryship of the Republican national committee. Senator Hanna, as chairman of the committee, appointed Major Charles Dick of Akron, O., to fill the vacancy.

Rivera's Chances Improved.

New York, April 3.—A dispatch to The World from Madrid says: General Ruis Rivera and Colonel Bacallao, his chief of staff, will be taken to Havana for trial before an ordinary court-martial. The government so directs. It is not likely that the death penalty will be imposed upon Rivera.

FLAGMAN'S WARNING UNHEEDED

Tragedy at a Crossing Results From Old Man's Persistency.

Shirley, Mass., April 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Cutting, aged residents of this place, were instantly killed by a train on the Fitchburg, while driving across the track at Harris' crossing yesterday. They had left home to go to Ayer. Just before reaching the track they stopped for a few moments to speak with a neighbor. Just as they started on their way again, the train was heard in the distance. The neighbor to whom they had been talking called their attention to the fact, but Mr. Cutting replied that they had plenty of time to get across. The flagman at the crossing tried to induce the man not to drive on to the track, but he persisted, and the train struck the horse, partially demolished the wagon, and its occupants were instantly killed. The horse also was killed.

Mr. Cutting was 74 years old, and his wife was about 70. They recently came here from Lancaster and were living in retirement on a small place here.

Owen Curley, the flagman at the crossing, says that Cutting persisted in crossing the track, even though he tried to force the horse back by holding the bridle. The flying pieces of the buggy, as the engine struck it, knocked Mr. Curley to the ground.

The accident at this crossing, which is unprotected by gates, recalls the Maynard fatality at the same place a short time ago. Miss Maynard, the victim, lived in the house the Cuttings were going to buy.

Large Territory Burned Over.

Yarmouth, Mass., April 3.—Brush fires which did damage to the extent of thousands of dollars were set, it is said, by railroad men in this vicinity yesterday. The fires were lighted to burn off the dead grass along the railroad tracks, but the wind carried the sparks into adjoining woodland, and the flames soon got beyond control. The fire began near the Methodist camp ground near Hyannis and spread in all directions. Hundreds of townspeople turned out to fight the fire, but a territory five miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide was burned over, thousands of cords of wood being burned. The village of West Yarmouth was saved by a change of wind, but Edward A. Lewis' residence, worth $4000, and two nearby houses, were lost. The fire last night appeared to have burned itself out.

Calf Island Case.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 3.—Judge Wheeler of the superior court listened to the claims yesterday of a number of wealthy New York gentlemen who are interested in the suit of John P. Schmenger of New York against Alexander Lutz of Greenwich, in an action to foreclose a mortgage of $25,000 held by the plaintiff against property held by the defendant and known as Calf island. The property in dispute is one of the most valuable strips in the vicinity of Greenwich, and was formerly the resort of "Boss" Tweed and his political friends.

Damage Case Reopened.

Concord, N. H., April 3.—The case of Gregg & Son vs. the Page Belting company has been reopened by the supreme court upon petition for the plaintiffs for a rehearing. The suit was brought to recover for damages resulting from the breaking of a belt repaired by the defendant. The case was closed at the March term of court, the judges decreeing that the use of reasonable care by either party would have prevented an accident. From this judgment Judge Parsons dissented, and a petition for a rehearing has been granted.

Gas Investigation.

Boston, July 3.—The chief thing brought out at the hearing on the gas explosion yesterday was the discrepancy between the time at which Officer Whalen said he notified the gas company of the leak and the time at which the call was recorded at the office of the New England Telephone company and the office of the gas company. Officer Whalen says 10:45. The telephone company records say 11:14. The gas company telephone girl, Miss Harmon, says the call was a few minutes after the first call, which was received at 10:07.

Bay State Lawmakers.

Boston, April 3.—The house of representatives yesterday ordered the McCarthy aldermanic bill, providing for the nomination of aldermen in Boston by districts and their election at large, to a third reading. The state highway commission assured the committee on roads and bridges that if left to their own will they would build a state highway from Boston to Newburyport, and the committee will report no legislation necessary on the bill to direct them to do this.

Judge Brewer at Yale.

New Haven, April 3.—Judge David J. Brewer of the supreme court of the United States spoke before the Yale divinity students and their friends in Marquand chapel yesterday afternoon on "Some Suggestions to the Clergy from the Layman's Point of View." Many lawyers of this city were among the large audience in attendance.

Grace McKinley Visits Classmate.

Amesbury, Mass., April 3.—Miss Grace McKinley, niece of President McKinley, is the guest of Miss Agnes L. Collins, daughter of Town Clerk Collins, who is her classmate at Mt. Holyoke seminary. Miss Collins gave a whist matinee in honor of Miss McKinley, which was attended by 16 young ladies.

Funeral of Hon. George Mallory.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 3.—The funeral of Hon. George Mallory, one of Bridgeport's most prominent citizens, yesterday, was notable on account of the number of prominent men who were present at the obsequies.

Tired, Nervous and weak men and women find new life, nerve strength, vigor and vitality in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

DUTIES WILL BE PARED

Senate Finance Committee Will Probably Reduce Dingley's Rates.

Tariff Experts of Two Houses Disagree.

Republicans Beset With Difficulties In Final Enactment of Bill.

Washington, April 3.—The Republicans of the senate finance committee were able to devote yesterday to the Dingley tariff bill, as they will also be able to devote today and tomorrow, the senate having adjourned until Monday, but they will not finish their preliminary survey so far as to get down to actual work on the alteration of the schedules before some time next week.

The experts employed by them are now going over the bill, and the estimates of the revenue to be derived under its operation made by the members of the ways and means committee, with a view to preparing estimates on which the Republicans of the finance committee can work.

There is the usual difference of opinion between the experts in the two houses as to the probable amount of revenue to be derived from the proposed schedules, those of the senate, as a rule, considering the estimates of the house too high and using this as an argument for reduction in the rates.

While there is no doubt that the general purpose of the Republican tariff managers in the senate is to lower rather than increase the rates in the Dingley bill, it is already evident that they will have difficulty in carrying it out, for they must have the solid support of all the regular Republicans in the senate and the silver Republicans, and some of the Democrats must refrain from voting if, indeed, they do not contribute votes for the bill, in order to insure its passage, and the finance committee Republicans will find, as the ways and means committee Republicans found, that, in order to get the bill through, concessions must be made to the opposition, which is already at work to secure a reduction of duties in the McKinley schedule.

ROOSEVELT AND GRANT.

Former Will Be Offered Assistant Secretary of Navy---Latter Refuses War Billet.

Washington, April 3.—Theodore Roosevelt will probably be nominated for assistant secretary of the navy early next week. The president came to the determination yesterday to tender him the appointment.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Before doing so, Mr. McKinley had made an offer of the assistant secretaryship of war to Fred Grant, and had urged Grant to accept the offer. Grant did not regard the assistant secretaryship as at all consistent with his dignity and ambitions. He had been minister to Austria, and would like to go back to Vienna. Earlier he had regarded himself as good timber for secretary of war or some other cabinet position, and it was anything but pleasant for him to feel that his name should even be considered for the place which he was tendered. However, at the earnest request of the president, he promised to think it over. He went home to New York and wired back his refusal.

CAGE'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

Provisions of Dingley Tariff Bill Will Be Complied With.

Washington, April 3.—Secretary Gage announces that he has decided to comply with the requirements of section 27 of the pending tariff bill, providing for the retention of samples of merchandise imported under orders given subsequent to April 1, and which were not purchased and directed by the owner to be shipped for import into the United States prior to April 1. This action, however, will be taken under section 249 of the revised statutes, which authorizes the secretary to exercise superintendency over the collection of customs duties.

It is the opinion of Secretary Gage and Assistant Secretary Howell that no insurmountable difficulties will be encountered in the administration of this feature of the tariff bill. There can be no difficulty, it is said, as to articles which are to pay a specific duty, and as the whole tariff bill was framed with a general view to specific, rather than advalorem duties, a large proportion of the dutiable articles will be disposed of without the necessity of retaining samples. In some special cases, when the retention of samples would obviously work hardships to the importer, such as a large and miscellaneous invoice of furniture, it is thought that this requirement may be waived on a clear stipulation as to character and value.

Treasury Official Reinstated.

Washington, April 3.—W. W. Harrington, whose resignation as chief of the division of accounts, treasury department, was requested by Secretary Carlisle early in the last administration, has been restored to his position, and N. D. McDowell, his successor, has been transferred and appointed assistant chief in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury.

Keith's Theatre.

The dramatic stars keep steadily dropping into Mr. Keith's net, and the list who are to come to the Boston theatre during the next few months includes many names which would have been scouted if presented a short time back. The most famous among them is Maurice Barrymore, who comes the week of April 12, presenting Augustus Thomas delightful one-act sketch, "A Man of the World," in which Mr. Barrymore has scored the success of his lifetime in New York, where he is packing Mr. Keith's Union Square theatre to the doors at every performance. For the week of April 5, the leading attractions at Keith's will be: Ezra Kendall, that original, unique and laugh-provoking story teller, whose blandishments not even a stoic could resist; Hilda Thomas, the leading vaudeville soubrette, talented and popular, assisted by Frank Barry, soloist and accompanist; M. Taccianu, the famous female impersonator; and M. Bruet and Mme. Riviero, French vocalists and mimics.

The Best Family Cathartic

For a general home medicine, Hood's Pills are unequalled. They were prepared for family use and they have been found entirely satisfactory wherever they have been used. Their sale has gradually extended until today the demand for them leads the trade to look upon Hood's Pills as 'the coming pill." They relieve and cure so many troubles that they are really a whole medicine chest. They are mild and yet efficient.

—The disastrous floods in the Mississippi valley, the loss of life and enormous destruction of property are looked upon quite generally as unpreventable visitations of Providence. But the truth is that man has done much to invite the scourge of flood. By the ruthless destruction of the forests—nature's preventatives to the rapid melting of the snows, by his careless tearing down of the reservoirs nature builds to minimize floods and equalize the flow of water in our rivers, he has multiplied the intensity of floods which are his scourge at one time, and of low water and drought from which he suffers at others —The American.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. National Editorial Convention.

LETTER NO. IV.

On Thursday forenoon the convention held a long and able session, but the afternoon and evening were given over entirely to recreation and pleasure. The editors and ladies, and some of the prominent citizens of Galveston had been invited to take a sail in the Gulf on one of the large and fine steamers of Malloy Company, which runs between New York and Galveston.

Some five hundred gathered at the steamboat landing, and at 2 P. M. started down the bay, and soon were passing between two long granite riprap walls, called jetties built by the government (Uncle Sam) at a cost of about seven millions of dollars. One was built from the (city) island and the other from the north shore; and extend into the Gulf some five to six miles. They were built for the benefit of Galveston harbor, the only one of any note on the whole coast of this immense state.

Before the jetties were built the channel had but some 12 to 15 feet of water, owing to sandbars. But afterward the sand bars were removed by dredging, the current of the water running in and out of Galveston bay, has increased the depth to some 25 feet, making an excellent harbor.

A railroad track was built upon the granite walls as fast as they were extended from the shore, and hugh blocks of granite were carried out on cars and placed in the water to form the jetties. The credit for the scheme is due Captain Eads, who already had attained great fame for the jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi river, and his great bridge across the river at St. Louis.

In passing down the harbor by the life saving station, a life-boat with six men in it pulled leisurely out into the bay. Suddenly she capsized and all hands on board went under. The ladies screamed, and the men looked grave and a little scared. In a moment, however, six heads bobbed up serenely and then it was observed that each wore a cork belt. The boat lay bottom up The men climbed up on top of her, seized the ropes on one side and, dropping back into the water, with a pull, brought the boat right side up. Then the people on board understood. It was a boat's crew out practicing.

Soon we came near to the large and beautiful battleship Texas, which arrived in the harbor the day before, to receive an elegant service of silver which the people of Texas were to present to them the next day.

During the sail which was much enjoyed by the ladies, as the water was as smooth as a mill pond, we were invited to partake of a fine lunch, in the cabin; including cigars and fruit.

After sailing two to three hours we returned to the wharf and were surprised to notice the large amount of shipping. Foreign steamers were loading from the numerous elevators, and every available track along the railroad was crowded with freight cars. The total exports from Galveston during 1896 amounted to $56,000,000.

In the evening we were highly entertained at the Opera House. A complimentary concert was given for the benefit of the editors and their ladies and the officers of the battleship Texas. The organization was composed of the first families of Galveston, and besides a large orchestra of young ladies and gentlemen which rendered the first piece on the program, the other selections were rendered by a large chorus of male voices, and also by a smaller chorus of female voices, the ladies of which were attired in beautiful evening gowns, which made it especially attractive to the guests.

Among the officers present from the Texas in their handsome uniforms, was Col. Moore, a brother to Mr. John G. Moore, clerk at the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance office in this city.

Friday, the last day, was a busy and pleasant one. There was a large amount of work done by the convention. Officers for the ensuing year were chosen, the urgent request of the mayor and prominent citizens of Denver, Col., to hold the next convention in their city was accepted, and other routine business finished before dinner.

In the afternoon the citizens of Galveston, together with the Governor and Legislature from Austin, and many from all parts of the state, gathered on the large piazzas of our hotel, and around the band stand, where the officers of the Texas were seated, to witness the presentation of the silver service to the battleship Texas, for which the citizens had subscribed $5,000.

The state troops, and the marine and crew from the battleship were drawn up in martial array about the speaker's stand. Flags waved, the band played, there was a brilliant throng, and everything contributed to make the scene an inspiring one. It was a proud day for Texas. The second balcony of the hotel was reserved for the Editorial Association, from which a splendid view of the brilliant assemblage could be obtained.

The service, which was rich and beautiful, was made by the Whiting Manufacturing Co. of New York. There were fourteen pieces in all, the central and largest of which was the punch bowl, which has capacity of about six gallons. Captain Glass, the commander of the Texas, responded to the presentation speech. The affair passed of in a highly acceptable manner, and it will be a day long to be remembered in Galveston.

The presentation exercises closed our delightful times in Galveston, and immediately after they were over we commenced to pack our bags and prepare to start that evening for home, or on a supplimentary trip to the city of Mexico.

Of the New England delegates and ladies on the Wagner car Tagus, all but five of the thirty-two decided to go to Mexico—1500 miles away,—the writer with them. About 10 P. M., we started for San Antonio, Texas, and in subsequent letters we will give our readers an account of what we saw and heard. G. W. P.

BRAINTREE.

Tomorrow promises to be an unusually interesting day at the Baptist church, Rev. L. B. Hatch, pastor, will preach at the regular service at 2 o'clock, at which service Mrs. Anna Clifford Howard, of Whitman, a soprano singer of national reputation, will be present, and contribute one or two selections. Rev. R. J. Adams, D. D., of Boston, will preach in the evening. At this service also, Mrs. Howard will sing. To all these services every one is most cordially welcomed. In our next issue, an extended reference to the late successful meetings held with this society will be given.

The ladies connected with the First church fair have worked with a will to make it a success. It is rumored that a certain gentleman has offered to paint the church if the ladies would pay off the debt; and it now looks as though the church would get a spring suit.

Capt. T. D. Bagley, now of Weymouth, who many will remember as once a resident here, is at the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he has had a successful operation performed on his hand, which has troubled him for three years; said to be a malignant sore. He is doing well.

Mr. James B. Leonard, formerly of this town, died at his home in Milford, Wednesday. Mr. Leonard was a member of Company C, of the 4th regiment. He was 57 years old and is well remembered by Braintree people.

The school entertainment is to be held on two evenings, next Tuesday night in the Town Hall and Saturday night, April 24, in Armory hall.

The cutters at Williams & Kneeland's were laid off on Tuesday.

An eleven pound boy was presented to Mr. and Mrs. M. Lane on Hancock street, Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drinkwater, of East Braintree, were presented with a daughter on Wednesday.

Some sixty neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Arnold gave them a genuine surprise party on Tuesday evening of this week.

Miss Gertrude Berry has been appointed captain of the girl's brigade in the High school, under the instruction of Sergeant Spear of Company K.

The revival services that have been held at the Baptist church during the last two weeks, in charge of Evangelist Ralph Gillam came to a close Wednesday evening. The meetings have been very interesting and largely attended. Rev. Mr. Gillam and his assistant Mr. Estey have shown that their hearts are in the good work. Some 30 or more have manifested desires for a better life, and very many are deeply impressed with its importance. It is hoped the good work may still go on.

Springer Brothers' Fashions.

The wonderful variety of desirable styles found at Springer Brothers' handsome store (500 Washington street) is easily understood when we remember that they have designers of their own, and that, while they import some of the most beavtiful garments brought to Boston,—that they are not dependent on foreign authorities for styles; nor do they have to conform to the regular fashions one may see duplicated in every dry goods store in Boston. Having designers of their own, of uncommonly good taste, it is but natural that Springer Brothers should exhibit an unusually varied and handsome set of costumes.

Take, for instance, this suit of leaf green broadcloth. While there are plenty of costumes with Eton jackets in the market, the young woman who buys this will get a novelty and will not have to undergo the mortification of seeing dozens, even scores, just like it every time she goes on the street. This skirt is braided in fine soutache up the front and around the bottom. The jacket has a very jaunty pointed effect in front and is handsomely braided also. The sleeves are moderately full at the top and the whole is lined with very dainty changeable green taffeta. A taffeta under waist gives tone to the fancy lace front and the slightly flaring cuff gives the right cachet of style to the sleeve.

Another most fetching suit is of Napoleon blue, has a skirt and natty Eton jacket, both of which are braided in handsome designs with soutache braid and tinsel. There is a similiar one in myrtle green. An utter novelty is the suit of Napoleon blue, which has, instead of a jacket, a wrap that is a combination of that useful garment and a cape. It fits snugly to the figure, front and back, with cape shoulder effects. With reversg coming closely together in front and a tight-fitting collar, this garment seems to be especially desirable for many figures. Both the skirt and wrap are trimmed with bands of plain black cloth.

Then there is a cadet blue face-cloth suit all lined with pearl-colored silk, stitched with white and trimmed with tiny silver buttons—only a few in just the right places. And there is a plum colored gown with a double-breasted Eton jacket, whose trimming consists mostly of a rich looking black cord garniture across the front in frog fashion. For those who like the more ultra styles there are the most nobby Empire styles with short, square jackets and exceedingly stylish in appearance. Then, too, there is a rich plum colored canvas weave made up with a cutaway jacket with rounded fronts and slashed back and high slashed collar, all braided in fancy effect.

Castle Square Theatre.

A revival of "The Chimes of Normandy" is the attraction planned for the coming week at the Castle Square Theatre, and the popularity this opera has always enjoyed, assures another success for this organization in the revival announced. It would be difficult to name an opera in the great repertoire of the Castle Square company that appeals to such a varied public as this, its romantic story, strongly contrasting and picturesque scenes, and bright, tuneful musical numbers all combining to give it a prominence in popular favor that has been repeatedly shown wherever it has been heard. One of the interesting characteristics of the coming revival, will be the appearance of J. K. Murray as Gaspard, the Miser, a role which will still further display the rare versatality of this favorite member of the Castle Square Company.

Y. M. C. A. Concert.

The concert to be given by the Y. M. C. Association orchestra Tuesday evening in the Wollaston Congregational church is for the benefit of the educational work and will undoubtedly surpass anything of the kind ever given by a local orchestra. Prof. Chase has few equals as a conductor, as shown by the fact that the orchestra has had a constant growth since he took charge. The names of Messrs. Moorhouse, Hanson and Robinson are an assurance that the entertainment will be a success. Miss Trowbridge, of Newton, is an accomplished violinist, and Miss Burnett has the highest endorsements of such celebrities as Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Southwick, Dr. Charles Emerson and Miss Julia King.

Wollaston Golf Club.

The Wollaston Golf club has added 25 members recently and the coming season promises to be even a greater success than last year. The work upon the green will be commenced at once, the committee being Richard R. Freeman, James F. Harlow and Elbert H. Brock. The course is to be increased about 250 yards, making it 2400 yards long. The committee on games and handicapping for the season are: George F. Pfaffman, Fred B. Rice, George H. Wright, Richard R. Freeman and William Fenton. The club hopes to build a house this season.

STREET PROBLEM.

Commissioner Knowlton Makes an Interesting Report.

The City Below the Average in Higtway Expenditures.

He Recommends the Paving of Some Important Streets.

Continuing the review of the department of public works, Commissioner Knowlton says:

The demands for repairs on public buildings have been very great but only the most necessary repairs could be made. It seems that the policy of the past has been to do as little as possible each year. Now many repairs are crowded upon us that cannot be longer postponed.

The following is a list of some of the repairs that must be attended to the coming year. School buildings: painting outside of the Quincy, Wollaston and Adams; painting sashes of the Willard and John Hancock; new furnaces in the Willard and Wollaston; repairs on steam-plants of the Lincoln and John Hancock and additional radiators; improving sanitary arrangements in the Coddington and Washington; tinting walls and whitewashing in the Quincy, Wollaston, Coddington and Adams; blackboards and minor repairs in all the schools.

Much work needs to be done on the Washington building, but it is so old and has been weakened by so many alterations and repairs that on the whole it would seem good judgment to replace it with a larger and more substantial structure.

The hose houses have had their share of attention, but much has been left undone. The house in Ward Five needs painting and shingling; that in Ward Six needs a new furnace, painting and roof repaired. The above, in connection with the many minor repairs, demand a much larger appropriation than ever before.

The City Hall is in a very bad condition and it seems false economy to spend any more money trying to fix it up. Few, or no repairs, have been made the past year in the expectation that the City Council would adopt some suitable plan for remodeling and enlargement to accommodate the various city offices which are now in outside quarters and also to provide better quarters for the Police department.

STREET DEPARTMENT.

The Commissioner says the streets are one of the most important and troublesome subjects that the city has to deal with and one in which every citizen is vitally interested. We have about 66 miles of accepted streets so situated that most of them not only have to bear the traffic of our own heavy teams, but of teams from all the towns south of us going to and coming from Boston, thus subjecting them to a greater amount of wear than the streets of cities of the size of Quincy are ordinarily liable to and thus increasing the cost of repairs.

The Commissioner presents a table showing the expenditures on highways in comparison with the other cities of the State. The valuation, population, tax rate and miles of street are given, also the appropriation for roads and bridges and the amount expended per $1000 valuation and per mile of street.

From this table the Commissioner finds that while standing 20th, on the list in regard to amount expended per mile of street, we stand only 27th, in regard to expenditures per $1,000 of valuation, and we are very much below the average in both cases. Other things being equal, it is fair to presume that the condition of our highways must hold the same position as our expenditures in comparison with the above named places.

To bring ourselves up to the average we must handle this problem as other cities do and that is by putting in some permanent street construction every year until all our main business streets are paved. The cost of repairs then will be very much reduced. There is not a city that can secure granite block pavements as cheap as Quincy can, and it is surprising that there is hardly a city in the state that does not have more of this class of pavement than we. Excepting granite paving blocks, there is a lack of road material suitable for road construction. Our crushed stone and gravel are of very poor quality, and considerable trouble is experienced in obtaining from private parties material suitable for our repairs. Gravel in the Wollaston district is of very good quality, but costs considerable to buy and handle, the West Quincy district furnishes very fair gravel, while in the Atlantic district it is almost impossible to obtain any at all. If the city would purchase a pit in each of these districts, it would undoubtedly prove a wise investment. A good ledge of trap rock has been located and samples are being tested which, if proven satisfactory, may make it advisable to put our portable crusher in condition and get out sufficient to make the wearing surface of our streets of trap rock and the foundation of stone from our present quarry.

During the year this department has handled 3,400 tons broken stone at a cost of 85 cents per ton for material, quarrying and crushing, also 3362 loads of granite chips taken from stone sheds free of cost 1740 loads street scrapings and 8180 loads of gravel of which 3465 loads were bought at a cost of $329.15 and 4715 loads obtained free from the city pit, cellars, and private pits. The work has been distributed all over the city as the most urgent needs demanded without reference to the locality.

Special attention was paid to keeping the gutters clear and clean, having the roads well crowned and filling ruts and depressions as rapidly as possible. A number of streets were resurfaced and rebuilt, some were filled and some cut down to make a more uniform grade, sidewalks were graveled, curbs straightened, gutter and street paving repaired, trees trimmed and 104 street signs erected. A steam drill was introduced at the quarry, producing very satisfactory results and lessening the cost of getting out broken stone.

A system of daily reports was inaugurated whereby a record is kept of the amount of labor and material and cost of same, performed on every street or public work in the city. Four new streets have been accepted of a total length of 3,463 feet giving us a total street mileage of 65¼ miles containing 1,583,045 square yards. The cost for repairing is a trifle over 1 cent per square yard.

All complaints have been investigated promptly and relief afforded where possible. Careful attention havs been given to the condition of horses, carts, tools, etc., and everything is in first class condition except our quarters, to which I beg to call your attention. Our present stable is under the charge of the Poor department. Into this stable are crowded all the horses, cows, pigs, tools, carts and machinery belonging to the Board of Health, Highway, and Poor departments. There are no storage facilities for hay and grain except a supply for a week or ten days. One small room answers for shop, tool house, harness room and storage room for all three departments. This building is very much out of repair and it would cost in the vicinity of $1,200 to put it into shape and to enlarge for presents needs. Therefore I consider it wise to erect a new stable and set off a portion of the Poor farm, containing the gravel pit, for the exclusive use of the Highway department. This would improve the health of our horses, enable us to purchase grain in a more economical manner, improve the efficiency of the department and provide ample quarters for many years, even if the sewer work is added. This needed improvement has been asked for by every Commissioner since 1889, and I trust will be considered the coming year.

As it is quite likely the Quincy and Boston Street Railway Company will soon locate their tracks in the centre of Hancock street, I desire to call attention to the fact that this street ought to be rebuilt at the same time, using a more permanent form of construction, and also widened at the bridge over the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. As the presence of street railway tracks in our streets very much increases the cost of maintenance, it seems but right that the city should be reimbursed in some manner for this increased cost.

Many cities recognizing this fact are compelling street railway companies to compensate them in some form or other for the additional burden the city bears on account of the tracks. Some companies water the street upon which they operate cars; others assume a certain portion of the cost of maintenance and also cart away all snow; while in many cities, particularly in the western states, franchises are sold to the highest bidder, for a term of years.

Usually upon streets with moderate traffic and a thirty-foot roadway, so that the wear is about evenly distributed over the entire surface, the cost of maintenance rarely exceeds two cents per square yard; but if a car track is put in the centre, the traffic is confined to a narrow space on each side and as the wheels of vehicles constantly travel in the same place, the cost of maintenance is fully three times as great.

Mr. W. L. Dickinson, Superintendent of Streets of Springfield, in a paper read before the Highway association gives some figures on this subject which are interesting and would probably apply to every city in the state. Taking the actual cost of maintenance of thirteen macadamized streets in the City of Springfield, covering a period of fourteen years, he says the average annual cost of maintenance per square yard is increased from $.013 with no car track in the centre to $.063 with a car track in the centre.

He further says that these results are obtained by the use of Westfield and Meriden trap rock which is as good material as can be found in the country. Undoubtedly with poorer material the average annual cost would be greatly increased. In view of these facts it behooves us to consider carefully this subject.

The cost of maintaining a macadam surface is very great on Hancock, School, Franklin and Copeland streets, and I trust measures will be taken toward paving these streets with granite blocks, as I believe it the most economical thing to do.

The Commissioner shows how the appropriation for highways was expended, making fourteen divisions.

Other subjects to receive attention are street watering, and special appropriations for streets and public buildings.

A review of the other departments will follow.

Beginners' Reception.

Miss Corlew's class for beginners gave their reception Saturday evening in the Savings Bank hall, the arrangement being the same as for reception of the advanced class. These young masters and misses who had no knowledge of dancing a few months ago, delighted their parents and friends with their proficiency and with the enjoyment manifested. Miss Corlew had taken a sudden cold the night before and was present against the advise of her physician, but she could not disappoint her little friends. She was the recipient of several bouquets.

The order of dances was printed and partners were engaged in advance. The dances included the two step, polka glide, heel and toe, galop, Berlin, Portland fancy, the German and marches.

The list below includes a few who were unable to be present and some from the advanced class: Gertrude Thompson, Minnie Packard, Ella Packard, Ethel Parker, Marguerite Davis, May Durgin, Marion Weeden, Florence Smith, May Doble, Mildred Rogers, Lyndon Hardwick, Harold Curtis, Carl Prescott, Stedman Thompson, Arthur Slade, Homer Morrison, Alan Arnold, Jack Arnold, Foster Bumpus, Maurice Bumpus, Thomas Hardwick, Wallace Carr, Sidney Carr, Janet Carr and Eleanor Randall.

Ice cream and fancy cakes were served by Hendrie at the close, and bonbons were presented.

Negroes Quarrel.

There was a little stabbing affray in the negro village at South Weymouth, Saturday night, in which Billie Prince was cut in the cheek and arm by a jackknife in the hands of Jake Carter alias Jake Wagner. Prince lives with his uncle William H. Carter on Randolph street and on Saturday night was giving his uncle a concert on the harmonica, when Jake strolled into the house. Mr. Carter ordered Jake out, who responded by slapping him in the face. Prince and Mr. Carter then ran Jake out of the house. After they got out, Prince fell down and Jake turned and stabbed him twice. Dr. Granger was called to dress the wounds and the police were notified; who arrested Jake.

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

A. M. RAMSEY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this, August 4th, 1891.

J. M. LAMBERT, N. P.,
Comanche County, Texas.

BUSY WEEK AT CAPITAL

The Senate Will Attempt to Dispose of Appropriation Bills.

Arbitration Treaty Will Occupy Executive Session.

House May Be Asked by President to Grant Some Relief to Flood Sufferers.

Washington, April 5.—The week in the senate will be busy and interesting. First on the program is the bankruptcy bill, which will probably be sidetracked by the appropriations bills, which will be reported from the committee on appropriations. The arbitration treaty will receive consideration in executive session, but a final vote is not expected. Today Senator Elkins will speak on his bill granting discriminating duties to goods imported in American vessels.

Senator Lindsay will open the debate on the bankruptcy bill in its favor, and it is presumed that Senator Wilson will follow in opposition.

The appropriation bills will excite more or less debate when taken up, but they are scheduled to pass with comparatively few changes. There has been an effort on the part of some members of the house to impress the senate with the importance of passing these bills as sent over from the house without any change whatever. This suggestion is resented, and especially by the appropriations committee, which is determined to make some changes if only for the purpose of demonstrating the senate's independence of the house.

A few modifications, however, are absolutely necessary. It appears that there is an error of $100,000 in the calculation of totals in the sundry civil bill, and that one appropriation for a public building is duplicated. The committee will also restore the one for the Uncompahgre Indian reservation in the Indian bill, but will allow only one claim of Ollsonite to each individual and not two, as has been heretofore reported.

The Uncompahgre matter and the question of revoking President Cleveland's order for the creation of forest reservations in the West will occasion debate. The committee probably will make no recommendation in this matter, though there is a possibility that it may be transferred from the sundry civil to the general deficiency bill. The senators from the states affected will make an effort on the floor of the senate to have the provision in regard to this matter restored as it originally passed the senate.

The outlook is that the week will not be a busy one, and that the daily sessions will be short.

New York senators will be absent. The finance committee is pressing forward its investigation of the Dingley tariff bill, and the various parties will continue their efforts to reach an understanding on the organization of the senate committee. Some attention may be given to the arbitration treaty in executive session, but there will not be any effort to get a vote upon it during the week. Senator Elkins will speak today on his bill for discriminate duties on goods carried in American vessels.

The house will meet Wednesday and unless President McKinley requests the passage of an appropriation to relieve the Mississippi flood sufferers, will adjourn to Saturday. There are not sufficient members of the house at the capital to constitute a quorum, and a single objection would prevent the passage of any legislation.

Diplomats Watch Progress of Tariff Bill.

Washington, April 5.—The foreign embassies and legations in Washington are watching the progress of the tariff bill with great care, as it materially affects all commercial nations. Reports are being forwarded to the various foreign offices, and these in turn are being made public abroad, for the information of concerns shipping goods to the United States. Naturally the feeling among the diplomats is not favorable to the measure, as it will restrict many of the lines of foreign trade with this country. Among the representatives of the larger countries the expression is general that there will be a large decrease in imports, and that this in turn will be followed by an increase of duties against American goods. The representatives of nations which are most concerned with reciprocity do not regard the reciprocity features of the present bill with favor. Without exception, however, members of the diplomatic corps are refraining from exerting any influence towards keeping down the duties.

No Turkish Embassy.

Washington, April 5.—The state department has received notice from the Turkish government that it finds it inconvenient to raise the grade of its mission in Washington to that of an embassy on the account of the increased expense which would thereby be incurred. This decision of the Turkish government will prevent the president, under the existing law, from nominating ex-Secretary John W. Foster as ambassador to Constantinople, as it is understood was his desire.

Rear Admiral Ramsay Retired.

Washington, April 5.—Rear Admiral Francis M. Ramsay, holding the most important office in the naval service, that of chief of the bureau of navigation, was retired on account of age today.

TRIP FOR FUN.

Famous Seventh Regiment of New York Will Visit Boston This Month.

New York, April 5.—The World this morning says: The Seventh regiment is going on a junket. Not since Cleveland's last inaugural, four years ago, has the regiment been able to tear itself away from its home. But now comes an invitation from Boston. The famous Boston cadets want to entertain the New York boys for two days. The Seventh has accepted.

At its last meeting the board of officers came to this conclusion, and during the week, as each drill night came along, the various companies have been told the delightful program laid out.

The Seventh will leave New York Saturday afternoon, May 29, at 5 p. m. It goes dressed in the familiar gray uniform and white cross belts, and carrying knapsacks with the blue overcoats strapped in tight rolls on top.

A big Sound steamboat has been chartered to take the boys to Providence. It will have berths for all the 1000. The night aboard the boat will be one of the features of the trip. There will be impromptu variety shows, music by the big band, cards, singing, and a barrel of fun. At 7:30 the soldier boys are due in Providence, where trains will be taken for Boston.

Arrangements have been made for the reserving of 500 rooms in the best hotels in Boston for the regiment.

All this fun for 1000 men cannot be done for nothing. It will cost $15,000 for transportation and subsistance, to say nothing of the amount that each individual will spend.

The state will not lay out a penny. The regiment always pays its own way. Each man will contribute $15.

LILIUOKALANI'S ABDICATION.

General A. S Hartwell Drew Document at Request of Her Legal Adviser.

Boston, April 5.—General A. S. Hartwell, a well known citizen of Honolulu, and a distinguished member of the bar of the Hawaiian Islands, is in Boston for a few days. In speaking of the abdication of Queen Liliuokalani, he said:

"I drew Liliuokalani's abdication at the request of Paul Newmann, her legal adviser, who was a Hawaiian; Samuel Parker, her last premier, who was also a Hawaiian, and Charles B. Wilson, the last marshal under the monarchy. I did not act in the matter as the legal adviser of the Hawaiian government. I was utterly inexperienced in drawing royal abdictions, but did the best I could, with the few precedents accessible to me. The gentlemen who requested me to draw the instrument assured me that Queen Liliuokalani was sincere in the matter, and when I informed them that, if I draw it, there would be no reading between the lines, said that that was what was wanted. I was present when the ex-queen signed and acknowledged the document, which she did in a perfectly calm manner and distinct voice. She thoroughly sanctioned the papers which she finally executed, and which included an abjuration of the monarchy."

Polish Catholic Troubles at Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 5.—Trouble has again broken out at St. John's Slavonian Catholic church in this city, and yesterday Rev. Father Formauck was obliged to call for police protection. He was not allowed to celebrate mass. During the last week he has been threatened with violence, and stones have been thrown at his residence. Some of the windows of the church have also been broken. The trouble is of long standing. Members of the parish desire Father Formauck removed, but the bishop will not grant their request. The malcontents declare that they will not allow him to conduct more services in the church.

Scandal at Fitchburg.

Fitchburg, Mass., April 5.—Henry C. Moore, an insurance agent, who resides at 10 Cottage square, a former captain in the Salvation army, has been arrested on a warrant charging him with attempting to extort money, by threats, from Abraham T. Eddy, a deacon of the Baptist church, and a man of means. What promises to be the greatest church scandal of recent years in this city seems to be the outcome of the arrest. Moore accused Eddy of trying to assault Mrs. Moore, and according to Eddy, demanded a certain amount of money. The church deacons are investigating Moore's charges against Eddy.

The Medford Mystery.

Medford, Mass., April 5.—The police are making strenuous efforts to trace the murderer of Walter R. Debbins. Many stories are afloat of this clew and that clew, but so far no direct line has been found which would lead to the identity of the murderer. The whereabouts of a stranger, who offered a pistol for sale in Charlestown, is something the police would like to establish. It is believed this individual knows something of the crime.

Big Fire at Cincinnati.

Cincinatti, April 5.—A fire yesterday in the carpet store of the George F. Otte company extended to the cloak manufacturing establishment of Henry Rosenbaum, damaging property to the extent of $400,000. The fire department was called out, and a battle royal was fought with the flames. Otte's entire stock, valued at $300,000, and insured for $150,000, was destroyed in less than two hours. The entire interior of the Otte building was burned out, and the rear wall collapsed.

Funeral of Darwin E. Ware.

Boston, April 5.—The funeral of the late Darwin E. Ware took place yesterday, a large number of prominent citizens, including Governor Wolcott and Justice Field of the supreme court, being present. Rev. Edward Hall, former pastor of the old Cambridge Unitarian church, pronounced a eulogy on the deceased. The interment was at Salem.

Centennial of Irish Rebellion.

New York, April 5.—The executive committee of the '98 Centennial association met yesterday to make arrangements for the pilgrimage to Ireland next year, to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the great rebellion of 1798. An address to the Irish people of this country was prepared and ordered issued. The address says: "Ireland will next year celebrate the centenary of a memorable struggle for freedom, and proclaim her faith in the final triumph of a deathless cause. The Irish race throughout the world will turn their eyes once more to the old land with hope renewed, and the nations will be reminded that the claim maintained through seven centuries of struggle still demand recognition and will be pressed to a final settlement.' The principal officers are: Edward O'Flaherty, president, New York; John J. Teevens, vice president, Boston; James E. R. O'Beirne, grand marshal New York; John B. Kelly, secretary, New York.

Dr. Barrows Well Received.

Boston, April 5.—Dr. Jacob Chamberlain having returned to his old station and his former work in India, writes from Mandanapalle to the American Bible society, New York, that committees of reception formed from all classes and creeds to greet Dr. Barrows of Chicago as president of the World's Parliament of Religions, have secured for him immense audiences in all the large cities, and that he has improved the opportunity to set forth unflinchingly the Bible as the only book, and Jesus Christ as the only Saviour, for universal man. "The Bible and Christianity are more talked about among all classes of natives, and more written about in their newspapers," says Dr. Chamberlain, "than in all my 37 years of India experience. And it will not do now for us to relax our efforts to put what Dr. Barrows has set forth as the 'Universal Book' in the hands of all who read English or any of the vernaculars of India."

Haverhill Jail Filled.

Haverhill, Mass., April 5. — The capacity of the police station was tested yesterday, the local officers making 22 arrests for various offenses. Among the number were John Sullivan and John Bray, at first charged with drunkenness, but upon further developments this charge was changed to incendiarism. William Walker, who lives on the outskirts of the city, opposite the Kenoza House, an unoccupied road house owned by Frank Dodge of Woburn, saw Sullivan and Bray leave the house hurriedly, and shortly after smoke was seen coming from the windows. Upon investigation a lively fire was found in some carpets, and was extinguished with a loss of $100. Later in the day Sullivan and Bray were found intoxicated and locked up in the police station, where both were identified by Walker. Six cases of assault, 12 drunks and four men arrested for gambling was the record for the day.

Eight-Hour Day Demanded.

Cleveland, April 5.—Five thousand union workmen connected with the building trades today demanded an eight-hour day, coupled with a demand that only men having union cards hereafter be employed. The business agent of the Building Trades council says he does not anticipate much opposition on the part of the contractors to granting the shorter work days, but it is expected that objection will be raised to granting the demand with respect to the non-employment of men not members of the unions.

Impressive Church Dedication.

South Norwalk, Conn., April 5.—The cornerstone of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, South Norwalk, was laid yesterday in the presence of one of the largest assemblages ever gathered in this city. The event was also rendered more notable by the attendance of the pastors of the various Protestant churches in the city and the mayor and members of the city council. Right Rev. Michael Tierney, bishop of Hartford, performed the ceremony, and Rev. William Maher, D. D., of Milford, preached the sermon.

Shot Herself Through the Heart.

Livermore Falls, Me., April 5.—Mrs. Emma Granger, 28 years old, shot herself through the heart yesterday. She tried to kill herself with poison several times previously. Edward McCluskey, who was in her company a short time before the suicidal act, told Sheriff Dwelley that Mrs. Granger appeared to be in good spirits when he left her, and he could not account for her deed.

Now is the Time to purify your blood, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for the purpose. Thousands of great cures prove that it is the One True Blood Purifier.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

GAINS BY DEMOCRATS.

Municipal Elections In Ohio and Michigan Show Changes From Last Fall.

Cincinnati and Canton Elect Democratic Officials.

Silver Vote In Michigan Larger Than That For William J. Bryan,

Cincinnati, April 6.—Although local issues controlled most of the municipal elections yesterday, yet the general results throughout Ohio show Democratic gains. This gives the Democrats control of most of the machinery for the election next November of state officers and members of the legislature.

The election in Cincinnati was for mayor and other city officers and members of the board of legislation. The Democratic ticket, headed by Gustav Tafel, was elected. Tafel's plurality was 7320, while the city gave McKinley a plurality of almost 20,000 last November, and Caldwell, Republican for mayor three years ago, a plurality of 6755. The Democratic ticket had three Republicans on it for city auditor, treasurer and corporation counsel.

At Cleveland the returns indicate that Mayor McKisson, Republican, has been re-elected by a majority of from 1000 to 1500. This is a Democratic gain of about 2000 over the vote of last fall. All the other candidates on the ticket are elected by larger majorities.

Canton, the home of President McFinley, went Democratic, Mayor Rice for re-election carrying it by over 400. The remainder of the ticket is divided, the Democrats winning a majority of the offices.

The Democrats carried Sandusky, Columbus, Akron, Springfield, Hamilton and Newark. The Republicans were successful at Toledo, Dayton and Ironton.

Pringree Laid Out.

Detroit, April 6.—William C. Maybury (Dem.) was elected mayor yesterday by about 400 majority over Captain Albert E. Stewart (Rep.). Judge John C. Miner, Democratic candidate for [illegible] was defeated by Justice Albert F. Sellers, Republican.

Mayor Maybury's election is looked upon as a decided defeat for Governor Pingree, who practically named Captain Stewart as his successor as mayor after the courts had overruled the governor's contention that he could hold both the offices of governor and mayor.

Returns from the state indicate the re-election of Judge Charles D. Long, Republican, as justice of the supreme court, and the defeat of George L. Yaple, fusion candidate.

Charles D. Lawton and William J. Cocker, Republican candidates for regents of the University of Michigan, are also elected. The vote was light, and the free silver sentiment was shown in several of the cities more strongly than in the November election. This appears to have been especially true in the southern tier of counties. In a few cases, on the votes for city officers, Republican majorities of last fall were turned into fusion victories.

The Silver Democrats carried Battle Creek, Jackson, Manistee, St. Joseph and Menominee. The Republicans were successful at Bay City, Lansing, Petosky, Muskeegon, Soult Ste Marie and Benton Harbor.

Independent Victory at Dubuque.

Dubuque, Ia., April 6.—The Independents yesterday elected mayor, recorder, treasurer and three aldermen. The Democrats elected city attorney and three aldermen. The council will be controlled by the Democrats.

Returns from Keokuk and other towns indicate that the Republicans held their own throughout the state.

Democrats Win at Butte.

Butte, Mont., April 6.—The Democrats at the local election yesterday carried the city, winning on general offices by majorities ranging from 500 to 600 against the Republicans and Populists.

At Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., April 6.—The Democrats elected William M. Wain, Jr., and 11 councilmen. The city went Republican in November last.

Gas Investigation.

Boston, April 6.—At yesterday's session of the gas investigation, Engineer Davis of the transit commission continued his testimony, explaining to the commission the imperfection in the gas main, a section of which was in evidence. He explained the rusting process, by which pipe underground becomes corroded, the iron being eaten out, leaving a shell of rust and carbon. The other break was in the 6-inch pipe, 14 feet east of the one already described. It was clean, with no sign of rust. The metal of the pipe was more uniform in thickness than at the previous point examined. He was questioned closely as to the appearance of breaks in the mains at the point of the explosion, but he could not say that there was any defect.

Governer Wolcott Receives Legislators.

Boston, April 6.—Governor and Mrs. Wolcott gave a charmingly informal reception yesterday afternoon to the members of the legislature and their wives at their winter residence on Commonwealth avenue. The governor and his wife extended a most cordial greeting to their guests, and there was a delightful lack of formality with which the different members chatted with his excellency and were made to feel quite at ease.

SEAGOING BATTLESHIP.

The Iowa Is Without a Peer In the Great Navies of the World.

Boston, April 6.—The result of the preliminary trial of the new United States seagoing battleship Iowa, which took place yesterday, was most gratifying to her builders.

The Iowa made a magnificent performance, although it was abruptly brought to a close by the tantrums of New England weather. Built under the contract requirements of 16 knots an hour she easily added a full knot and a fraction to that figure, with conditions not altogether in her favor. There were wiseacres aboard who have set the mark of the Iowa's official performance far beyond the builders' expectations, and there is much to support their predictions.

The start was finally made shortly after 11 o'clock, and by compass the course was laid. The run was over one leg of 6.6 knots, one leg of 19.8 knots, and another leg of 6.6 knots, or 33 knots for the full course. The speed was timed at an average of 17.1 knots, and on the long leg it approximated 17.4, with the wind nearly astern. After passing the Boon Island can buoy, the ship was circled for the return, occupying 24 minutes, 35 seconds. The wind had hauled a trifle and became dead ahead, which aided the draft for the fires. The average of 17.1 plus, with a favorable wind, gave promise of a better run home. The first leg back was 15 seconds slower than for the same distance up, but such a little matter hardly received a thought. But ahead there was a white bank of fog, whirled along by a spanking breeze. It enveloped the Iowa, shutting from view the surrounding waters. Captain Sargent held the ship to her course until it was evident that the next can buoy could not be seen. Then the speeding was declared off and the ship was headed out for more sea room. The ship was slowed dwn, and for nearly two hours she ran at normal speed on a course for Boston lightship. Bye and bye the fog cleared away, and the Iowa was headed for Boston light, anchoring outside.

The Iowa will remain anchored today, when the board of inspection and survey is expected to visit her, although an inspection has been held already at the Brooklyn navy yard. Early tomorrow morning the ship will start for her official trial, which is expected to win for her builders at least $200,000 premium.

COTTON PLANTERS ANXIOUS.

Unless Mississippi Flood Soon Recedes No Crop Can Be Grown This Year.

Memphis, April 6.—The prediction that disaster to the Mississippi delta would follow the breaking of the levee at a point on the east side of the river, north of Helena, Ark., has been terribly realized. The break at Flower lake has grown from a dozen feet in length to a thousand feet, and the entire middle section of the levee. This crevasse is at the head of the delta and will cause an overflow of the northern tier of counties in Mississippi, with exception of a part of Tunica. The question that now confronts the planters is the duration of the flood. If the water is out of the delta by May 5 a crop of cotton may be grown, but cotton planted as late as May 10 has little chance of maturing before frost. There is still another danger. These crevasses must all be closed before the June rise or there will be a second overflow. The delta country produces annually no less than 500,000 bales of coton.

Much suffering s reported from the overflowed regions. Relief steamers are making daily trips into Arkansas and Mississippi, rescuing hundreds of people and bringng them to Memphis. The local relief committee is doing everything possble for the unfortunate refugees. The committee decided to ask other cities for help, and an appeal was issued.

Dates in the national circuit will not e announced until April 20, but from present indications it is assured that it will start somewhere in the South, nota California, this year, getting East about June 20.

SPRINGFIELD FIRE.

Gilmore Opera House Block Gutted---Aged Lady Overcome by Smoke.

Springfield, Mass., April 6.—A stubborn fire, which broke out in the Gilmore Opera House at 11:30 last night, gutted the block and caused a loss of between $80,000 and $100,000. The fire is supposed to have started in the Acme laundry, and had gained such headway before it was discovered that a general alarm was sounded. Mrs. Mary Turner, an old lady, who roomed in the block, was overcome by the smoke, and Captain Boss of chemical No. 1, who was getting her out of the room, was also overcome. Both were taken out, but Mrs. Turner's condition is critical.

Charles Fonda manages the theater, which has been run as a vaudeville house this season. The members of the company had just left the house when the fire broke out. They lost all their effects.

Aside from the theater, the block which is at the corner of Main and Pyncheon streets is occupied by Taylor's music house, H. L. Haines, firearms and sporting goods; Donohue Bros., plumbers; the Acme laundry; Judd & Parsons, insurance. There were several roomers in the block, but all got out safely. There was much excitement among the guests at the Hotel Gilmore adjoining.

For Public Purposes.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 6.—By the will of Miss Eliza A. Haven of this city Harvard college will receive $25,000, the Portsmouth athenaeum, $2000; the Chase Home for Children of this city, $1000; the New Hampshire society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, $3000; land on Pleasant street is given to the city for a public park, and $5000 for the city to keep it in order. From the residue of the property she gives $9000 to Dartmouth college, and $3000 to Smith college at Northampton, Mass. The will of Miss Eliza's sister, Miss Charlotte M. Haven, gives Harvard college $25,000, Meadville Theological school, $6000; Dartmouth college, $6000. To local institutions she gives: $5000 to the church charity fund of the South parish, $1000 to the South parish Sunday school, $1000 to the Ladies' Missionary society of the South parish, $1000 to the Harvard Benevolent society, $1500 to the Seamen's Friends' society, $2500 to the Home for Indigent Women, $2000 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and to the city of Portsmouth for a public library, $6000.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 6.—After holding back for some time the decision on the petition of the Roman Catholic archbishop for authority to hold real property as a corporation sole, the committee on mercantile affairs yesterday reported a recommendation that the petitioner have leave to withdraw. A bill to make heavier penalties for bicycle stealing was passed in the house, and after a half-hour of debate the bill to provide for the eradication of roach, [illegible] was passed. The ways and means committee reported favorably on the appropriation of $25,000 for the Soldiers' Home and $30,000 for the decennial census, and various other items. The bill to exempt messengers from the civil service rules was reconsidered in the senate and then refused engrossment. Attorney General Knowlton sent to the house an opinion that it would be unconstitutional to allow schoolhouses to be used for religious worship, even if the use were granted to all denominations without distinction.

Army Nurses' Memorial Services.

Boston, April 6.—The Massachusetts Army Nurses' association met in the Second church, Copley square, yesterday, to commemorate the 95th birthday of the late Miss Dorothea Lynde Dix, and also to hold services in memory of Mrs. Rebecca Pomeroy of Chelsea, Mary A. Gardner Holland of Somerville, Helen Gilson of Chelsea, Marguerite Gilbert of Fall River, Lucy Freedly of Boston and Mrs. Wheeler of Worcester, deceased army nurses. Rev. Thomas Van Ness opened the exercises, and he was followed by Rev. Francis Tiffany, Colonel Henry A. Thomas, Rev. Charles G. Ames and Mrs. Emilie L. W. Waterman, president of the Massachusetts Women's Relief Corps.

Augusta Pension Office Not to Be Moved.

Augusta, Me., April 6. — Hon. J. H. Manley, who is at home from Washington, states that President McKinley will undoubtedly rescind ex-President Cleveland's order removing the United States pension office from this city to Boston, on the grounds of reducing expenses. Not only will the expense not be reduced, but thousands of pensioners greatly inconvenienced, there being over 2000 in the Soldiers' Home at Togus, four miles away. Mr. Manley's statement is regarded here as authoritative. The appointment of General Connor as pension agent here is received throughout Maine with much satisfaction and regarded as an eminently wise selection.

Brockton Store Burned Out.

Brockton, Mass., April 6.—The business of two large firms was badly crippled by a fire last night, which did fully $60,000 damage. This fire broke out in the rear portion of the large wooden block on Main street, near the head of Center street, occupied by H. W. Robinson & Co., dry goods, and the H. W. Robinson Carpet company. Both firms had a heavy stock of goods. The building itself, although insured for $18,000, was not damaged more than to the extent of $1500. H. W. Robinson & Co. estimate their loss at $40,000. The carpet company sustained damage of $18,500. Both insured.

Well Ventilated.

The District Police have submitted to Commissioner Knowlton the result of their tests of the heating and ventilating of the Massachusetts Fields, Gridley Bryant and Adams school buildings.

Inspector Moore says, "The two former with proper management of the apparatus should rank high among the model school buildings of the State. The latter being an old building could not be reheated and ventilated as advantageously as the other two. The change has been a great and needed improvement and if the test had been made under better conditions of temperature (to which the contractors are entitled) more favorable results would have been obtained.

"These three buildings are the best ventilated of any of the school buildings in your city and the good results obtained are largely owing to the careful personal attention and supervision given by Mayor Adams and yourself, not only to the general plans but also to the details of construction."

—There was a distinguished gathering at a special exhibition of the "Arts and Crafts" in Copley and Allston halls, Boston, on Saturday evening. It is an unique display of designs of the best obtainable examples in hand craft and machine work in New England. The exhibition opened to the public on Monday and will continue until the 16th.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Fire Department Order Debated and Passed.

Movements for a New Police Station and City Hall Remodelling.

Norfolk Downs Petitions for a Central Fire Station.

The session of the City Council Monday evening was a notable one, from the many important matters which were brought up. All the members were present.

Communications.

A communication was received from Chief of Police Hayden requesting the Council to provide a better police station than that now in use. The present quarters are about 9 by 35 feet and are in basement of City Hall. There are six cells which are inadequate. In 1889 there were 185 arrests and 864 tramps and in 1896 there were 591 arrests and 2638 lodgers. One night last week 33 tramps and 3 prisoners were confined. The communication will appear in full in a subsequent issue of the LEDGER. Referred to joint committee on Fire Department and Public Buildings.

The Commissioner of Public Works forwarded a petition stating that the best interests of the city would not be served by requiring the Quincy & Boston Street Railway to pave 18 inches outside the rail on Hancock street with pavers 10 and 8 inches and he requested that some modification be made in the order. To Committee on Streets.

The Mayor announced the appointment of Charles H. Johnson as Inspector of Animals and Provisions. Confirmed.

The Commissioner of Public Works forwarded communications for brick sidewalks from H. F. Parker, Quincy Real Estate Trust Co. and the Baxter estate. To Committee on Streets.

Petitions.

A petition was received asking that Kempton street be laid out and accepted as a public way. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from residents of Norfolk Downs for the erection of a Central Fire station in that section. To joint committees on Fire Department and Public Buildings.

A petition was received for one incandescent light on Howard street. To Committee on Lights.

The Quincy & Boston street railway petitioned for permission to use a grooved girder rail on School and Dalton streets to City Square. To Committee on Streets.

The N. E. T. & T. Co. petitioned for a location for poles on Standish avenue, Old Colony avenue, Beale street, Newport avenue, Alleyne, Franklin, Water and Foster streets, Cottage avenue, Lincoln avenue, Winthrop avenue, Warren avenue. To Committee on Streets.

Petitions for minor licenses were received as follows: J. N. Page, Jr., and Richard Rundle for pool table; J. E. Sprague to sell gunpowder; Aubry A. Nelson for common victualler's license. To Committee on Licenses.

Henry Curtis petitioned for State Aid and Lewis G. McIntyre for Military Aid. To Committee on State Aid.

The Quincy & Boston street railway petitioned for a location or a turnout on Hancock street. To Committee on Streets.

Report of Committees.

The Committee on State Aid recommended that Mary Simmonsbe paid $6 per month, and J. Q. Bent $4 per month. Adopted.

The same committee recommended that Joseph O'Grady have leave to withdraw. Accepted.

The Committee on Lights, on the petition for incandescent light on Goffe street ought not to pass, as the committee have covered this in a more satisfactory manner in another order. Accepted.

The Committee on Lights reported an order for lights on Glence place, corner of Rawson road and Billings street; Station and Wilson street; Station and Hillside streets and Glen street. To Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Streets recommended that the matter of grading and draining South Walnut street be referred to the Commissioners of Public Works; accepted.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to order for lights on Elm avenue, changing the number to 6 lights.

Councilman Pinkham had amendment would not pass. Seven lights was none too many to properly light the street.

The amendment was lost. The order was then passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing May 3 on the petition to lay out Miller's Side road as a public way. Also for a public hearing on the same date on the extension of Whitwell street from the City Hospital to Granite street. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an amendment to order for the paving of Copeland street; striking out that part relating to the street railway. Amendment adopted and order referred Committee on Finance.

Street Railway Hearing.

At eight o'clock there was a public hearing on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a location on Quincy avenue and Howard street, the hearing relative to the location from Atlantic to Squantum was declared off because of informality.

President Graham of the company appeared in favor of the Quincy avenue petition, showing the desirability of the extension, as Weymouth Landing was the largest village within three miles of Quincy. The company desired, however, to amend the order, so that the whole route should be by Quincy avenue as it had been ascertained it was not over an eight per cent. grade.

President Bryant ruled the amendment out of order as a hearing would be necessary.

Mr. Graham continued, saying that the road would be built as soon as permission was obtained.

No one else spoke for or against, and the hearing closed within ten minutes. The order was recommitted to Committee on Streets.

Copeland Street Order.

The Committee on Streets reported an amendment to the order for the paving of Copeland street, striking out all that part relating to a relocation of the railway tracks.

Councilman Pinkham desired to learn whether the committee favored a location in the centre of the street, or was it to avoid a hearing.

Councilman Nickerson said tracks should be in centre, but order was in bad shape.

The amendment prevailed and the order was again referred to the Finance Committee.

$30,000 for Water.

The Committee on Water Supply reported an order appropriating $30,000 and receipts from connections for extension of mains. Read once.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the fire department order cutting off permanent men proposed for Hose 2 and 3.

Councilman Geary wanted some reason for the mutilation of the order.

Chairman Anderson of the committee said they realized something must be done, but thought city could not do all at once. Atlantic stood most in need. As amended the expense of the fire department would be increased $654 annually, whereas about $1800 was required under the order.

Councilman Little opposed the amendment, saying the West Quincy hose need a permament man.

Councilman Phillips called for the reading of the order if amended, and then asked why there was a discrimination against Ward Two.

Councilman Anderson said committee had been guided by the suggestions of the chief engineer, who thought six men enough as the Central station could cover all parts of the ward within five minutes.

Councilman Phillips queried if it was proposed to increase the efficiency of fire department.

Councilman Nickerson was against the amendment, and Councilman Geary believed it false economy.

Councilman Cain said Wards Three and Four were the manufacturing section, and should have better protection.

Councilman Field was called to the chair.

Councilman Pinkham did not think Hose 2 was to be improved by reducing the members from 10 to 6, and providing that one should be permanent, and the cost would be doubled.

Councilman Bryant was sorry to disagree with his colleague but regarded it as all important that the hose carriage should reach the fire at the earliest possible moment. It was easy enough to get help at fires. Wollaston has one of the largest risks in the city. Quincy had been lucky but conflagration was liable to come at any time. Then nothing would be too good.

Councilman Nickerson said men generally get to fires before the apparatus, and he favored permanent men and horses.

Councilmen Little and Sprague favored permanent men.

Councilman Phillips did not see the consistency between the recommendation of the Chief in 1896 and 1897 as far as Quincy Point was concerned.

Councilman Edwards favored permanent men, and was opposed to cutting down the force.

Councilman McGrath hoped the Council would not lose sight of the fact that the Committee on Fire Department had at the outset cut down the recommendation of the Chief over one-half. What he originally wanted would have cost $4000. He did

April showers.

How green the grass is!

R. F. Claflin and F. L. Hayes ride the Humber wheel.

Mr. Edward Southworth is spending his vacation in Washington.

Many very important matters were before the City Council last evening.

The warm weather and rain has resulted in bringing out the grass nice and green.

The Boston Branch grocery has several announcements scattered throughout today's paper.

The city officials and employes at City Hall are fortunate, as their Saturday half holidays begin this week.

A law has now been passed providing for the removal of county commissioners for cause. It is chapter 224 of the new acts.

The effort to have the assessments upon cities for the Metropolitan parks fall due before 1900 has been defeated in the Legislature.

The thunder shower at noon today, the first of the season, came as a surprise. There were no strikes but some heavy bowling which shook the city.

A hot game of ball will be played at Merry Mount park Patriot's day at 10 30 o'clock between nines from the Granite City and Quincy clubs for a purse of $100.

Mr. Ernest W. Branch gave the leading address at the Boston Superintendents Union Monday evening. The Quincy Training School for Christian Service being his subject.

The continuation of the review of the City Book prepared for this issue was crowded out by the lengthy report given the City Council meeting. It will appear tomorrow.

Aubrey R. Keith of River street mourns the loss of his estimable wife who died Monday afternoon after a months illness. Four children, one an infant of a few days, survive her. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon.

The Fire Department ordinance as amended and passed by the City Council not only reduces the number of call men of Hose 4 at Quincy Point but it takes away its steward and now the question arises who will take care of the apparatus after it returns from a fire.

The proposed new hall needs only a little more encouragement to be a go. Plans and estimates are being made. The seating capacity will be nearly double that of the old Town Hall, and the floor space much larger. It is just what the city wants, and now is the opportune time.

Work laying the new rails on the Neponset line is progressing rapidly. Up to Monday night the new rails had been laid from the Neponset bridge to Squantum street. The street railway is doing a good job for the city on this line as well as themselves for they are raising the grade of the street, where it has fallen away, and are relaying all of the pavers on the street free of expense to the city.

One of the novel features of the concert tonight will be six lady ushers. While in Boston this morning Secretary Colton met Mr. R. M. Armstrong, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who began to extol the artistic ability of a young lady whom he heard read last evening for the first time. On inquiring her name, Mr. Colton found it was Miss Burnett, who is to read this evening.

INFANT ABANDONED.

Out-of-Town Parties Leave a Healthy Boy in Yard at Atlantic.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night people residing in the St. Elmo block on Atlantic street, heard infant cries in the rear of the building, and a young man named Nelson started to investigate.

He discovered that the cries came from an abandoned infant which had been left in the yard by some unknown parties. The infant was taken into the block cared for and fed, and later turned over to the police who removed it to the poor farm.

The infant proved to be a healthy boy, between two and three months of age. Its clothing was of good quality and it had evidently been well cared for. A hood was on the head of the boy and about the body was a cloak. Appearances would indicate that the party or parties who abandoned the infant came from out of town.

Officer Holloran says that upon the arrival of the 9.37 train from Boston Monday night their alighted from the train a man having in his arms an infant, around which was a cloak resembling that upon the infant found. This man was a stranger to the officer. There also alighted from the same train a woman also a stranger. The man above referred to and the woman started away from the depot in different directions but later the officer saw the two come together and disappear in the direction of the place where the infant was found.

TO SAVE GEN. RIVERA.

Allen's Cuban Resolution Passes the Senate After Spirited Debate.

Senators Hoar and Hale Made Strong Objections.

President Is Directed to Protest Against Execution of Cuban Commander.

Washington, April 6.—Senator Allen's resolution regarding General Ruis Rivera, the Cuban patriot, now a Spanish prisoner, was adopted yesterday by unanimous vote in the senate. The resolution recites that it is reported that Ruis is to be immediately tried by drumhead court-martial and shot, and expresses the judgment of the senate that the president should protest to the Spanish government against such procedure.

Although opposition was withdrawn on the final vote there was spirited opposition in the early stages of the debate and a test vote on the comparative strength of the Cuban and anti-Cuban sentiment in the senate. The test occurred on a motion to refer the resolution to the committee on foreign relations. Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.), who has been prominently identified with the opposition to Cuban resolutions, made the motion to refer, and it was supported by Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts, another prominent figure in the opposition to Cuban resolutions.

The debate was very spirited, and at time quite personal, Mr. Allen of Nebraska and Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire clashing with Mr. Hoar. The Hale motion to refer was defeated—21 to 27—and the resolution adopted—44 to 0. Mr. Hoar and Mr. Hale refrained from voting.

Another Cuban resolution comes up today, that of Mr. Morgan of Alabama, declaring that a state of war exists in Cuba and recognizing both parties as belligerents.

After the disposal of the Cuban question the day was given to speeches, Mr. Elkins of West Virginia speaking for two hours on the development of the American merchant marine, and Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky advocating the passage of the bankruptcy bill, known as the Torrey bill, now before the senate. Late in the day a joint resolution by Mr. Bate of Tennessee was agreed to, directing the surgeon general of the marine hospital service to aid the Mississippi river flood sufferers by the distribution of tents, blankets, food and medicine under the epidemic fund of 1893, and to purchase further supplies under the present epidemic fund for similar distribution.

The Cuban question came up on the resolutions of Mr. Allen and Mr. Morgan, heretofore introduced. The Allen resolution protests against the trial of General Ruis Rivera, the Cuban commander, by drumhead court-martial.

Mr. Allen urged the immediate adoption of the resolution. He emphatically dissented, he said, from the proposition that the American congress must sit idly by while this savagery and barbarous contest proceeds at our very threshold.

Mr. Allen declared that Spain's course had been one of bloodshed and cruelty. This was so notably true as to recent events in the Philippine islands and in Cuba that Spain had been made an "outlaw nation," not entitled to recognition by civilized countries. It was time for us to act, declared the senator.

"If the President of the United States will send our navy to Cuba," exclaimed Mr. Allen, "and warn Spain that she must observe the methods of civilized warfare or that every Spanish seaport would be razed to its foundation, hostilities would cease and Cuba be free within three months."

Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) responded in a calm and impressive manner. He spoke of the aspirations of the founders of the government in establishing the senate as the stay and resisting power against those passionate and fitful guests of sentiment that had wrecked every other republic on earth. He believed in the dignity and greatness of the senate in spite of ignorant criticisms and of the scurrility of the London Times. But there were some gentlemen who seemed to think that the function of the senate was to edit a daily newspaper and peddle it out at 2 or 3 cents a copy, gathering up all current reports and rumors and prophesying what was to occur. In this pending resolution the senate was asked to give an affront to a powerful and friendly nation. The symbol of the senate was more properly the sturdy and slow maturing oak rather than the mushroom which rotted in an hour. This resolution was based on mere prophecy surmise and prediction.

Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.) said that he would be willing to pass a resolution inquiring of the state department what information it had on the matter. The department was in daily communication with Cuba through its agents. The senate had had experience taking steps based on newspapers rumors, which it afterward regretted. Therefore he moved the reference of the resolution to the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Gallinger (Rep., N. H.) referred sarcastically to Mr. Hoar as having a habit of settling great questions with a wave of his hand. He quoted from a speech in which Mr. Hoar had said that but for intemperate action by the senate Cuba would have achieved her independence, and that senators who made speeches for Cuba were doing so to secure the applause of newspapers. This Mr. Gallinger spoke of as "a courteous criticism of members of this body." He read a resolution introduced by Senator Sherman during the former war in Cuba in 1870, and referred to it as one of the "intemperate resolutions so disturbing to the heart of the senator from Massachusetts."

Mr. Hoar, in a brief reply, said that the friends of the resolution seemed to be intolerant of opposition and given to misinterpreting and misrepresenting the utterances of the opposition, but that he would not follow the example. Speaking of the war of 1870, Mr. Hoar asserted that negotiations had then been in progress under the guidance of the secretary of state for the purchase by Cuba of her independence for $100,000,000, but they had been frustrated by the ill-considered action on the part of the senate.

"The misery of Cuba from that day to this has been due to the overthrow of that policy of Grant's," he declared, in conclusion.

People shudder at the tales of Monte Carlo suicides, but look on with perfect equanimity while friends and loved ones commit just as certain suicide by neglecting their health. Trifling disorders of the digestion persistently neglected lead to impurity of the blood, the tissues of the body are imperfectly nourished, and emaciation and debility follow. In the case of that dread disease, consumption, imperfectly nourished tissue is built up in the lungs forming a suitable soil for the germs of this deadly disease. One-seventh of all the deaths each year are due to consumption. This fearful death rate could be easily avoided if the proper remedy was resorted to.

A sure preventive and cure of consumption is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases. It corrects all disorders of digestion, invigorates the liver, and makes the blood pure and plentiful. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve invigorator. It gets into the blood and acts directly upon the lungs, building up healthy tissue and driving out all impurities and disease germs. Thousands have testified to its wonderful merits. Druggists sell it.

"I feel that I must write you telling you of the great benefits derived from the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Miss Laura Piersel, of East Bethlehem, Washington Co., Pa. "Last summer my friends thought I was surely going into consumption, and having tried doctors before with no satisfactory results and losing your medicine so highly spoken of, I took one bottle. My cough left me altogether with all the distressing symptoms, and in fact the cure seemed almost miraculous to all who saw me. I cannot say enough in praise of the medicine, and have done much to induce others to use it."

WILL STAND BY HIS SON

General Martin's Parental Affection Shown at Investigation.

Young Martin Accepted Money From Liquor Dealers.

First Day's Proceedings of Inquiry Replete With Sensational Incidents.

Boston, April 7.—It was a succession of sensations yesterday at the opening day of the hearing on the charges brought against the character and conduct of General A. P. Martin, chairman of the board of ponce commissioners.

Massachusetts has not had a hearing for many a year that has excited so much public interest as has this one. The importance of the case is best emphasized by the personnel of the tribunal, for no other than his excellency the governor, Lieutenant Governor Murray Crane and Messrs. N. F. Ryder and A. J. Joslin of the governor's council are the investigators.

"I propose to stand by my sons until death," was the statement made by the general which caused probably the greatest sensation, especially coming as it did after his admission that he knew that his son, Everett, had accepted $4000 from an Italian, promising therefor to use his influence in procuring for him a license, though the general also said that as soon as he had heard of it he told his son that he must pay the money back and keep his hands off in the future.

And then there was the testimony of young Martin himself, admitting that he had received money from people who supposed him to have influence, or in other words, a "pull" with his father, the understanding being that he should procure for them the longed-for license.

But perhaps the most extraordinary statement of all made by young Martin was when he testified that he had $1000 deposited in some other man's name, and he swore that he did not remember the man's name or the name of the bank, or the street on which the bank was located, though he said he had called at the bank at one time.

Water Case to Be Retried.

Dedham, Mass., April 7.—Judge Richardson of the superior court has set aside the verdict for the defendant, rendered by a jury, in the case of the Hollingsworth & Vose Co. against the Foxboro Water Supply company. The case was a suit for damages, the claim of the plaintiffs being that the defendants had tapped the water supply in Foxboro, which the plaintiffs controlled. The defense was that the Water Supply company did not obtain its water from surface drainage, but from artesian wells, which tapped an alleged underground river. Two days before the case was tried, a copy of a paper published in this town, containing an extended article on the probability of such an underground stream, was mailed to every member of the jury by one of the counsel for the defendants, and it was admitted that the article was read by the members of the jury, one of whom came from a town which would be affected by the alleged underground stream. The question of the hidden stream, which, it is claimed, flows underground from the White Mountains to Narragansett bay, will therefore have to be tried over again.

Prize-Winning Equines Entered at Boston.

Boston, April 7.—There is no longer any doubt about the success of the Boston horse show. This is guaranteed by the number and character of the entries. Last year the entries numbered 620, and this year's card shows an increase of 223, a grand total of 843 entries. There are 104 classes which have filled handsomely, with one or two exceptions. The best showing is made in the hunter classes, in which are represented all of the leading hunt clubs and huntsmen in America. Chevy Chase sends on a big list of entries, and the Geneseo, Myopia and Norfolk hunts are also well represented. The entries in these classes are far superior to those in the New York horse show. In the harness classes the New York men will be the chief exhibitors, although Boston and New England will be in the competition for blue ribbons. The prizes amount to $15,000, and in the list of entries are found the names of a number of champions who have won first honors at horse shows all over the country.

Alpha Kappa Annual Convention.

Boston, April 7.—The annual convention of the Alpha Kappa fraternity of the colleges of the East was begun yesterday at the American House. Delegates were present to the number of about 75 from Dartmouth college medical school, the University of Vermont medical school, the Long Island college and hospital and Tufts college medical school and elsewhere. Dr. A. P. Grinnell, dean of the University of Vermont and grand primarrus of the fraternity, presided, and among the other officers present were Dr. C. P. Thayer, secretary of Tufts medical school, grand president; Albert B. Bale of Dartmouth, grand secretary, and Dr. John F. Ryan of the Cambridge city hospital, grand treasurer.

Allen, Portland; grand secretary, A. E. Verrill, Auburn; grand treasurer, R. W. Jackson, Portland; grand chaplain, Mrs. M. E. Hemmett, Portland; grand guide, A. F. Warren, Auburn; guardian, J. F. Thomas, Mechanics Falls; grand sentinel, E. A. Cox, Waterville; trustees, Mrs. A. C. Ricker, Lewiston; Mrs. Annie Brickett, Portland; Michael Hayes, Gardiner; chairman finance committee, H. A. Weymouth, Saco; representatives to supreme lodge, Mrs. Josie G. Smith, Riddeford; J. W. Chadwick, Gardiner; E. C. Sturtevant, Augusta.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 7.—The senate yesterday passed to be engrossed a bill decreasing the liability of innholders for the loss of property of a guest. The bill requiring the treasurers of co-operative banks to file bonds with the savings bank commissioners and prescribing a new method of retiring shares was killed in the house. The bill to prevent the use of imitation butter in public institutions was ordered to a third reading—53 to 41. Mr. Gibbs raised the point of no quorum, and the count showed only 110 present. The sergeant-at-arms was instructed to bring in a quorum. The vote was again taken and the bill advanced—61 to 53.

Rhode Island's Election.

Providence, April 7.—The annual election of state officers of Rhode Island is being held today. There seems to be no doubt that the election of the full Republican ticket is assured. The Republicans have wasted neither time nor sentiment on the state ticket in view of its acknowledged certainty of success and the Democrats held no closing rally for the avowed reason that they realized that they had no hopes of electing any of their candidates. It is estimated that the total vote will not exceed 45,000, as against more than 50,000 a year ago. At that time Governor Lippitt had a plurality of more than 11,000.

Subway Investigation.

Boston, April 7.—At yesterday's session of the gas explosion investigation Engineer Davis continued his testimony. He stated that he did not know of any trouble with the electric light wires in the vicinity of Tremont and Boylston streets before the explosion. Only once did he discover the odor of gas during the excavating, and that was in the early part of February. He traced the odor to a joint in the 24-inch gas main, and lighted the leak with a match. Men were at work in the hole with lighted torches, but it never occurred to him that there was any danger of an explosion.

New Hampshire Attorneys Feast.

Boston, April 7.—The first annual banquet of the New Hampshire club of the Boston university school of law was held last evening, and was a notable success. John B. Cavanaugh of Manchester was toastmaster, and speeches on the life of General John Stark were delivered by Herman Foster of Manchester, on Franklin Pierce by W. H. Holman of Hillsboro, and John P. Hale by Michael R. Sullivan of Rochester. The officers of the club are E. F. Philbrick of Concord, president; John B. Cavanaugh of Manchester, vice president, and M. S. Bennett of Manchester, secretary.

New Transportation Company.

Providence, April 7.—Charles F. Hill of Clyde has obtained a charter for the Cowesett Terminal and Transportation company, and will unite with the Pawtucket, Providence and New York Steamship company by constructing direct lines from the interior of the state to Narragansett bay, where connections can be made with steamers. The plan is to make the new lines the means of rapid transit for freight, which is important from the fact that the new lines will cover the manufacturing district of this state.

$150,000 In Public Bequests.

Boston, April 7.—More than $150,000 is given in public bequests by the will of the late Miss Mary G. Morrill. The Museum of Fine Arts is given $50,000 outright. After the death of her brother-in-law, John H. Dane, who is given the enjoyment of a fund of $100,000 for life, the fund is then to be divided, and one tenth given to the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear infirmary, two tenths to the Children's hospital, and seven tenths to the Massachusetts General hospital.

Customs Officers and Smugglers.

Boston, April 7.—A combination has been effected between the special agents of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, who have to do with smugglers and smuggling at the line between the two countries, and it is hoped by united efforts to suppress illicit traffic more thoroughly than it has been in recent years.

Reappointed at Concord.

Concord, N. H., April 7.—At yesterday's session of the governor's council, George H. Moses of Concord was reappointed as forestry commissioner for four years; John W. Lowry of Pittsfield, and Horace L. Ingalls of Concord were appointed watchmen at the state house.

CUBA IN THE SENATE.

Resolution Recognizing Existence of War Arouses Hot Debate.

Morgan and Hale Exchange Usual Compliments.

Matter Was Displaced by Bankruptcy Bill and Went Over.

Washington, April 7.—Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) called up in the senate yesterday his resolution recognizing a state of public war in Cuba and began an extended speech thereon. He confessed that, after the experience of the last four years, he was utterly hopeless that any administration of the United States would reach the point of sending ships of war to Cuba to demand redress for citizens. He cited the case of Dr. Ruiz, stating he had information that Consul General Lee had reported that he had been murdered by the Spanish authorities.

Early in the day Mr. Morgan of Alabama called up his resolution declaring that a state of war existed in Cuba, and recognizing both parties as belligerents. He spoke for some time in a dispassionate manner on the resolution, but was aroused by Mr. Hale of Maine to a series of sharp retorts. It led to the declaration by Mr. Morgan that instead of sending a lawyer to Cuba to investigate the case of Dr. Ruiz, as was contemplated, the administration would do well to send a warship to Havana and demand redress.

At another point Mr. Hale questioned Mr. Morgan's statement that the Cuban prisons were "stuffed" with American prisoners, declaring that the information reaching him (Hale) showed that no such condition existed. Mr. Morgan asked where this information came from, and then hotly asserted that he knew where it came from, and the world knew where it came from, as the senator from Maine had not denied the fact that he was in communication with the Spanish authorities.

Mr. Hale indignantly denied that his information came from Spanish sources, and said it was furnished in every item by American citizens. The strain occasioned by this charge and denial was relieved by the expiration of the morning hour, which cut off the debate. The Morgan resolution lost its place and went to the calendar, but Mr. Morgan will continue his speech today, and has given notice of a motion to proceed with the Cuban resolution to a final vote.

Most of the day was given to the bankruptcy bill, Mr. Stewart of Nevada speaking in opposition. The discussion drifted to the finantial question, Mr. Chandler and Mr. Stewart having an amusing discussion on bimetallism. During the day, Mr. Earle (Dem. S. C.) introduced a resolution for the immediate reorganization of senate committees and the filling of all vacancies. He spoke briefly for the first time since entering the senate, on the injustice of keeping the new senators from committee service. The resolution went over.

President McKinley sent to the senate the following nominations: Alonzo J. Tyler of Tennessee to be collector of internal revenue for the Second district of Tennessee; Park Agnew of Virginia, to be collector of internal revenue for the Sixth district of Virginia; Theodore Roosevelt of New YYork, to be assistant secretary of the navy; Captain A. S. Crowninshield, U. S. N., to be chief of the bureau of navigation in the department of the navy; Rev. William C. Cassard of Maryland, to be chaplain in the navy.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Edwin C. Fowler of Maryland has been appointed chief clerk in the first assistant postmaster general's office. He held the same position during the Harrison administration.

Postmaster General Gary left yesterday for his home in Baltimore to remain until tomorrow. The wedding of his daughter, Ida Catherine Gary, to Francis Edward Pegram, took place there at noon today. Washington society was largely represented.

Captain Sampson, chief of the naval ordnance bureau, has been making an inspection of the plant of the Illinois Steel company with a view to its ability to turn out armor plate, has returned to Washington. He has not yet made known his conclusion.

The sundry civil bill and Indian appropriation bills were reported to the senate yesterday by the committee on appropriations. The only change of importance made restores to the Indian bill the provisions for opening the Uncompaghre reservation in Utah.

The retirement of Admiral Ramsay will result in the following promotions: Commodore Sicard to be rear admiral, Captain Kautz to be commodore, Commander Leary to be captain, Lieutenant Commander Swift to be commander, Lieutenant Winslow to be lieutenant commander, Lieutenant (junior grade) Maxwell to be lieutenant, and Ensign McCully to be lieutenant (junior grade).

The Bath (Me.) iron works has given notice to the navy department that it will be ready to run off the trial of one of the gunboats, Vicksburg or Newport, on April 19. The navy department has replied that it will endeavor to arrange for the trial, but that inasmuch as the trial board will be occupied in the trial of the Annapolis on the Long Island course on the 16th, and the trial of the Bath boats are to take place on a course off the Maine coast, it may not be possible to perfect the arrangements by the date mentioned.

Yesterday's Alarm.

The alarm from box 42 at 5.10 o'clock Tuesday afternoon called the department to a house on Arthur street, occupied by Charles Olsen. Just previous to the alarm a little girl was frying meat for supper in a dish. The fat got onto the stove and became ignited causing it to blaze up and making a dense smoke. The girl was frightened and ran out of the house and the alarm followed.

Imbibed and Embraced.

Tuesday was a summer day and George A. Merrill and Laura Edwards both of Boston evidently thought it a good day to do Houghs Neck. They drove out in a team and besides the other sundries for a day's outing they brought a supply of liquid refreshments. As a natural consequence they got drunk, so much so that the police were telephoned to come down after them. Officer Connelly started down and when he reached Mosquito woods he found the horse wandering about. Searching in the bushes he found George and Laura lying in each others arms sound asleep. He promptly aroused them and brought them to Quincy and locked them up.

Adams Academy Schedule.

The schedule of the Adams Academy baseball nine is given below. The games this year will be played at Merrymount Park as heretofore. The nine as yet is an unknown quantity, as only two of last year's team, Manning and Taylor, will play. John O. Hall, Jr., is manager. The first scheduled game is with Dean Academy on Saturday, but it is not expected that the team will do much, as Dean has one of the strongest school teams in the State, due to their custom of securing men from outside the school to play on the nine. A practice game has been arranged for this afternoon with a team composed of p'ayers from Williams, Harvard, Technology and the Bridgewater Normal school.

The schedule, which is now complete, is as follows:

April 10,—Dean Academy at Franklin.
April 16,—Technology Freshmen at Quincy.
April 28,—Boston College Freshmen at Quincy
May 1,—Hopkinson School at Quincy.
May 7,—Thayer Academy at Quincy.

A LONG SERVICE.

Miss Emeline A. Newcomb Has Taught Forty Years.

And All this Time in the Willard School of Quincy.

Has Begun to Teach Grandchildren of Her First Pupils.

It was just forty years ago today that Miss Emeline A. Newcomb began her service as a teacher in the Willard school and all through these long years she has served the School Committee faithfully, and to their entire satisfaction.

Miss Newcomb was elected at a meeting of the School Committee held on the night of March 16, 1857. She was recommended by Mr. George H. Locke, the special committee appointed to secure a teacher for the West District school, and was first assigned to the second grade which she taught for a number of years and was afterward transferred to the fourth grade of the school of which she is now teaching.

Miss Newcomb is well known to the citizens of West Quincy many of whom were her pupils. She was born in Quincy and educated in our public schools and was a pupil of the High school when elected a teacher. She left the High school at the close of the winter term of 1857 and commenced her duties as a teacher at the beginning of the spring term April 7, 1857.

At that time there were 1240 pupils enrolled in the Quincy schools who were taught by 21 teachers. Quincy has grown rapidly during these years especially in the Willard. Now the number of pupils enrolled in Quincy is 3900 and the number of teachers 110.

Miss Newcomb was one who took naturally to teaching, as well as one whom all her pupils loved and respected, and of the hundreds or perhaps thousands who received their first step in education from her, there are none now living who cannot recall some pleasant memory of her, with whom some of their happiest hours have been passed.

It must be with thoughts of satisfaction that Miss Newcomb looks back upon the years that have passed and realizes the important part that she has taken in the education of many of those who now compose the citizens of that part of Quincy known as West Quincy, and they certainly have many congratulations for Miss Newcomb as well as many wishes for future success, health and happiness.

Forty years is a very, very long time of service at teaching and it is more remarkable in one school, as has been Miss Newcomb's case, but Quincy has one other teacher who has taught in one school 42 years, and another who has taught 32 years.

A DOUBTFUL MOVE.

A Wollaston Man Who Don't Believe in Fire Department Changes.

To the Editor of the Daily Ledger:

It would seem to be a trifle hasty on the part of the Council to make such a sweeping change in the fire department as is called for by the order which was passed to be ordained at the last meeting of the Council. There is a serious doubt in the minds of many people in the city as to whether the order is not of doubtful practical value.

Take Hose 2 at Wollaston for an illustrations. The horse for this piece of apparatus comes from a livery stable close by. Excellent service is given. Under the proposed change it could hardly be bettered. The apparatus might possibly get to a fire a few moments sooner than is now possible and before any of the company has a chance to report at the house and go with it. When it arrives at the scene of the fire the driver will then have to wait for the company to show up and handle the hose. It sounds well in theory to tell how spectators would take hold and help. Knowbody knows better than a practical firemen how useless and bothersome such assistance is.

It would seem to have been much wiser for the Council to have waited until the new fire station was built on Hancock street near the Rivet Works before making any radical changes in the department. When that station is built, if the Council is then in a reorganizing mood, let it give the department a thorough overhauling and back Chief Williams up in the good work which he is doing. This spasmodic presentation of horses to the various wards is worse than that item in the recent city book where $96 was charged to insuring the central station horses in a live stock company.

Councilman Pinkham voiced the sentiment of his ward pretty well when he said at the Council meeting that he "did not think Hose 2 would be improved by reducing the members from 10 to 6, and providing that one should be permanent. The cost would be doubled." EX-FIREMAN.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vaughn of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for cramps in the stomach" and bowels. Not Exactly Right

"Not Sick Enough for the Bed or Well Enough For the Table."

A Minister's Wife Aptly Describes a Well Known Condition and Tells How It Was Overcome.

There are thousands of people in all walks of life, particularly at this season, who are "not exactly right" and yet are not sick, for whom a single bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla would do a world of good, as it has done for others. Business and professional men as well as the busy housewife are especially susceptible to this debilitated feeling. It is the peculiar combination of the best tonic, anti-bilious, diuretic and alterative agents of the vegetable kingdom, carefully and scientifically combined, which enables Hood's Sarsaparilla to reach simple as well as serious ailments when all other medicines fail. Read Mrs. Hunt's letter:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I trust that the publication of my testimonial may serve to introduce Hood's Sarsaparilla to many who need physical improvement, and lead them to give it a trial. My husband, is a corpulent man weighing 230 pounds. He has taken Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring for the last eight years with good results. With the approach of spring he has had an indescribable feeling of ill health. 'Not sick enough for the bed or well enough for the table.' In a few words,

Rev. Granville Hunt

He Became Run Down

each year from constant mental and physical action. Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved and invigorated him in every instance. Last month we purchased four bottles of the medicine. I took two of the bottles, being weak,

Without Appetite and Vigor.

After I had used half a bottle of Hood's I realized quite an improvement and soon felt quite comfortable. I gained so much that I recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla to my nearest neighbor, who has had malarial symptoms. She has also taken the medicine and its effect upon her for good was almost magic. She has now prevailed upon her husband to take it to build him up. I have also given Hood's Sarsaparilla to my two little girls, one nearly 3 years old, who is not strong, consequently languid, and the other, 15 years old, for pimples which indicate bad blood and disfigure her complexion. Both have been helped by Hood's Sarsaparilla which I am glad heartily to recommend." MRS. G. HUNT, 101 West 31st Street, N. Y. City.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

Another Success for the Young Men's Christian Association.

The first annual concert of the Young Men's Christian Association orchestra was given at the Wollaston Congregational church on Tuesday evening before an audience which filled the large auditorium. The audience was deservedly enthusiastic and received all of the numbers on the well arranged programme with loud applause. Miss Burnett's readings were so well received that it was necessary for her to respond to several encores. She is a reader of great ability.

Prof. L. Edward Chase, the director, shared the honors with the orchestra in the demonstration of enthusiasm with which the audience received the various orchestral numbers.

The special talent included Miss Elvie Everett Burnett, reader; Miss Agnes Trowbridge, violin soloist; Mr. S. P. Moorhouse, violin; and Mr. J. E. Hanson, violin.

The orchestra was composed of L. S. Robinson, E. E. Richardson, John Sheridan, E. T. Noyes, John Black, F. V. Kolb, J. M. Ransom, Edward Marnock, W. A. Mitchell, Chas. McDonald, W. P. Chase, E. A. Mansfield, George H. Critchley, C. H. Scammell, I. W. Faunce, J. F. Hall, C. D. Sargent, J. LeBleu.

The ushers were Miss Mary A. Sayward, Miss Marion H. Nickerson, Miss Lillian K. Bates, Miss Grace A. Pike, Miss Harriet V. Bates and Miss Harriet K. Sheldon.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. A writer from Atlantic says: "One of the urgent needs of Atlantic is a special officer to be present at all gatherings in Music hall. The Good Templars' entertainment, Monday evening, was greatly disturbed by the hoodlums within and without the building. They mocked the performers, whistled, cat-called and otherwise gave annoyance to the public and disgraced Ward Six. This is no unusual thing. Though the police have been notified in the past no notice is taken of the matter by them. Either it must be stopped or this class of gatherings must be given up."

Cured by Puritana

More Voluntary Testimony.

Strong men and frail women depend upon their stomachs for life from day to day.

When they are weary and weak—

When they suffer—

When they are unfitted for work or enjoyment—

When they think life is hopeless—

Then Puritana can save them.

Why?

Because it has saved others.

Puritana does not fail.

Its marvellous success is built on merit.

Here are a few specimen cures.

Thousands of the same sort could be given.

Mr. Luther P. Shattuck is a shoemaker and lives in Rowley, Mass. For years Mr. Shattuck has been troubled with derangement of the stomach. He tried a number of remedies, but derived no benefit from them until he used Puritana. He says:

"For years I have had trouble with my stomach. I was unable to eat anything without it causing me great distress. I would have severe pains across my chest and in my bowels. In the morning there would be belching of wind, and after my day's work at night, I would be troubled with sourness of the stomach, which was so bad sometimes I would be obliged to go to bed without eating a mouthful. My weight was also gradually wasting away, and my fellow workmen thought I was going into Consumption, and said I could not live long in the condition I was, and, indeed, I do not believe I could. Oftentimes after I had managed to eat a scanty meal, I would vomit up everything I had eaten. Last fall a friend urged me to try Puritana. I began to use it, and before the first bottle was gone, I knew the medicine was helping me. I kept on using it, and I can honestly say that Puritana cured me. I can now eat three meals a day without any distress. I have no belching of wind in the morning, or sourness of the stomach at night. I think Puritana a grand medicine, and shall always praise it." (Signed)

LUTHER P. SHATTUCK.

Mrs. T. Ridge of Westville, Conn., gives her own interesting experience. She writes as follows:

The Puritana Compound Co.

Dear Sirs:—

A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these lines regarding your valuable medicine. I have been sick a number of years. I was so weak that I could not walk nor do my housework. I had a tired feeling all the time; was very despondent. The food I ate did not seem to do me much good; I was dizzy, could not sleep. I have taken various medicines, but they did not benefit me but a little. They gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I read about Puritana, and thought that I would try it and see if it would help me. I am glad to state that Puritana has overcome all these obstacles, for that tired feeling is gone. I sleep good; it has given me an appetite; my head feels better than it has in years, and I am better in every way. I can work all day, and do not have that tired feeling. I take pleasure in recommending Puritana to all that are sick.

(Signed.) MRS. T. RIDGE.
19 High St., Westville, Conn.

In Spring

Puritana gives you a new stomach. It also brings to any man or woman who will take as directed new vigor and new life. Puritana produces a perfect digestion. That's why it cures from head to foot.

The Bicycle Fever.

Sooner or later you're sure to have it, for not to ride a bicycle means to be a trifle out of date. IN MISSISSIPPI DELTA.

Country Flooded For Miles and Railroad Tracks In Danger of Destruction.

Memphis, April 7.—The feature of the flood condition in the Mississippi delta is the gradual spread of water over an area that hitherto was never overflowed. The upper crevasse in Tunica county is 2000 feet wide, and so great is the outpour that the water from below the break is being drawn up and pushed over the fertile valley through the crevasse. All of the country east, to the main line of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley road, is flooded, and in many places the water has gone over the tracks, filling the Yazoo river. The fall in the main channel at Helena, Greenville, Vicksburg and Arkansas City is due to the filling up of the delta and the lower White river country. If the lower levees of Louisiana and southeastern Arkansas should hold, the emptying of the delta and St. Francis basin would be slow. If they break and the river continues to fall at Cairo, the upper St. Francis basin and the delta will be clear of water by May 5. If this should prove true, there will be no difficulty in growing cotton. But breaks in Louisiana and southeastern Arkansas will hold water in that territory until the middle of May, after the usual time for planting cotton in that territory.

The river at Memphis is stationary.

At St. Joseph, Mo., the Missouri river is rising rapidly again. The river is now 10 feet above low water mark, and indications are that it will continue to rise. Superintendent Holly of the Kansas City, St. Joe and Council Bluffs railroad, with a large force of men, is stationed at points along the river, where the Burlington tracks along the river banks are, watching and hoping to prevent a repetition of the flood of several years ago, when hundreds of yards of track went into the river.

Little change is indicated at St. Louis for two or three days, with a tendency toward slight rise. The Missouri will rise steadily. The Mississippi, north from Hannibal, Mo., will rise slowly, and fall slightly to the south.

The Mississippi shows slight rise from Vicksburg south, except stationary at New Orleans. The levees continue intact in all sections, and all interests continue the greatest vigilance to keep them up. The engineers have barges of lumber and sacks at numerous points on both sides of the river for repair of weak spots, should any appear.

The situation at Fargo, N. D., is appalling. There is much suffering among poor families, who have been practically destitute all winter, and this last blow is most serious.

Indians Dying of Starvation.

Redding, Cal., April 7.—The remnant of the Modoc Indians now living in Modoc county, in the neighborhood of the scene of Captain Jack's treachery and General Canby's death in 1872, are now in a pitiable condition, verging on actual starvation. In all there are about 200 families of the tribe. The winter has been severe, and the Indians have been unable to obtain the necessities of life. It is reported their number has been reduced one-half this winter by death, due to starvation and exposure. The Indians do not occupy a reservation, and as a consequence an appeal for aid cannot be made to the United States government.

Suing For Reinstatement.

New York, April 7.—Frank E. Bundy, controller and county treasurer of Elmira, and a man of political and business prominence in central New York generally, has brought suit against the chapter general of the Knights of St. John and Malta for reinstatement to the office of trustee, from which he claims to have been illegally removed.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

Daniel O'Connell, aged 10, and Reuben Finkelstein, aged 7, have confessed that they set fire to a barn in East Boston.

Willie Heonicke, aged 5, of Middlesex, Vt., who fell into a receptacle of boiling maple sap last week, died yesterday of lockjaw.

Z. T. Lewis, who while a banker in Urbana, O., several years ago forged thousands of dollars' worth of Dayton city bonds and floated them, has been arrested at Ypsilanti, Mich.

In Veazie, Me., Orlando Smith, aged 14, was shot in the head and killed by Alvan Wood, aged 17, his playmate. The boys were playing with a rifle, and Smith got in range just as Wood pulled the trigger.

Charles A. Collins, aged 28 years, in the insurance business at Boston, while stepping from a freight train at North Truro, Mass., was run over and instantly killed, the wheels of the truck passing over his neck. Mr Collins was married only a few months ago.

John R. Coombs, aged 28 years, wanted by the police of Malden, Mass., surrendered himself to them, and was arraigned on a charge of embezzling $450 from the Santa Mana council of the Knights of Columbus. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1000 bonds for trial.

Mrs. Mary Turner, who was rescued from the Gilmore Opera House fire in Springfield, Mass., is in a critical condition, and her physician fears that serious trouble will result from her partial suffocation. She is in a semi-conscious condition, and complains of a difficulty in breathing. Her age, 72, makes the chance of her recovery the more doubtful.

Not Exactly Right is the way thousands of people feel. It is because their blood is poor. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, will promptly set them right.

GRECO-TURKISH AFFAIR.

Both Governments Receive Warning Notes From the Powers.

Athens, April 7.—Each of the foreign representatives has handed to M. Skouzes, the Greek minister of foreign affairs, the following note:

"The undersigned, in accordance with instructions from his government, has the honor to announce to M. Skouzes, minister of foreign affairs for the Greek government, that in case of armed conflict on the Greco-Turkish frontier all responsibility will rest with the aggressors. He is also instructed to say that whatever results may arise from such a conflict the powers are firmly resolved to maintain the general peace, and have decided not to allow the aggressor in any event to reap the slightest benefit from his action."

The ambassadors at Constantinople have presented to the sublime porte a note similar to the foregoing.

Anniversary of Greek Independence.

London, April 7.—The Athens correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: The celebrations in honor of the anniversary of the declaration of the war for independence, in 1821, began at reveille with a salute of 21 guns.

The Crown Prince Nicholas and his suite, wearing Greek orders and decorations, drove through the troop-lined streets to attend service at the cathedral. The edifice was crowded and the ceremony of an expressive character.

After the service the crown prince called upon the mayor, and then returned to headquarters. The whole day passed quietly, with music by the bands, fireworks, and a general illumination at night. There was a slight demonstration in front of the residence of the crown prince, the crowd cheering and shouting for war. There are persistant rumors that today is not likely to pass without some action by the insurgent bands.

Athens, April 7.—The greatest enthusiasm was manifested here yesterday during the fetes organized to celebrate the anniversary of the declaration, in 1821, of the independence of Greece from Turkish rule. The king and the members of the royal families here, accompanied by the ministers and all the high court and other officials of Athens, attended the religious ceremonies at the cathedral, where a solemn Te Deum was sung. The king received a great ovation during his passage to and from the cathedral, and he and his ministers were showered with leaflets inscribed "Hurrah for War!"

Victoria's Choice For Governor of Crete.

London, April 7.—Truth says that it learns that Queen Victoria is doing her best to secure the appointment of Francis Joseph of Battenberg as governor of Crete.

Important L. A. W. Ruling.

Baltimore, April 7.—Chairman Albert Mott of the L. A. W. racing board has made an important ruling in connection with road racing, which virtually brings that class of cyclists under the control of the L. A. W., which now has an agreement with the Century Road club looking to the better management of the sport. The ruling was brought out by a road race which the Clifton wheelmen of this city had proposed to hold on Easter Monday. Among the entries were six professionals, a man under suspension for two years, and a score of amateurs. Upon seeing the list, Mr. Mott wrote to the club, saying that the suspended man and the professionals must be excluded, or else the amateurs would incur the penalty provided for racing against professionals. This same ruling, Mr. Mott declares, will hold good in connection with all road races, and will have the effect of hereafter dividing such contests into professional and amateur events.

Suit For $2,322,000.

Butte, Mont., April 7.—The Montana Ore Purchasing company has brought suit against the Boston and Montana Mining company to recover $2,322,000 for the value of ore alleged to have been extracted by the defendant company from the vein of the Rarus mine, in the latter part of 1894. Three hundred feet of surface ground of the west end of the Rarus is owned by the Boston and Montana. Ore was taken from beneath this portion through the workings of the Montana View mine. The plantiff claims its title to the Rarus includes the full limits for mining purposes, and that the ore beneath this portion of the surface ground belonged to it, though the ground was owned by the defendant. This is the biggest suit ever brought in the state.

May Bring About Weyler's Resignation.

Havana, April 7.—It is understood that Senor Jose Porrua, who in February last succeeded General Sura Suarez Valdez as civil governor of Havana and of western Cuba, has tendered his resignation by cable to Premier Canovas, forwarding by mail the cause of the act. Captain General Weyler is said to oppose the resignation, because he considers Senor Porrua's presence in the island expedient for the time. Senor Porrua, however, is evidently resolved, and it is not impossible that the affair may bring about Weyler's own resignation. Senor Porrua will sail for Spain on April 20.

Mormon Conference.

Lamoni, Ia., April 7.—The annual conference of the Latter Day Saints was called to order yesterday by President Joseph Smith. The conference organized by confirming President Smith in the chair permanently. Prayer was offered by W. H. Kelley of Ohio. The chair appointed a credential committee. The president outlined the past and present condition of the work, reporting 1840 baptisms. He regretted the unwillingness of the Utah wing to meet this church on a well-defined basis of established principles.

Liquor Being Sold In Kennebec County.

Augusta, Me., April 7.—The April term of the superior court convened yesterday, Judge O. G. Hall presiding. An interesting feature of the session was an address by Judge Hall to the grand jury, regarding the enforcement of the prohibitory law. He stated that he had received complaints that the law is being violated by wholesale in Kennebec county. He clearly outlined the various kinds of violations, and strongly impressed upon the jury its duty in the matter of indictments.

Mule Spinners' Convention.

Boston, April 7.—The National Mule Spinners' association opened its 15th annual convention in Phythian hall yesterday morning, President Michael Duggan of the Lowell district in the chair. The credential committee, Messrs. John Durkin of New Bedford and Thomas Doyle of Biddeford, Me., reported present 42 delegates from 28 districts, while at the previous convention there were but 24 delegates from 12 districts.

Right of Way Refused.

Oxford, Me., April 7.—At a special town meeting yesterday it was voted to table the motion granting the right of way through the town's streets to the proposed Oxford and Welchville electric road. One of the principal promoters is F. C. Wilson of Boston, president of the Oxford Central road. The opposition came from the rural voters. The promoters say the road will be built outside the town's highway.

Dover Girl Arrested on Suspicion.

Northampton, Mass., April 7. — Miss Caroline Nealy of Dover, N. H., a member of last year's graduating class at Smith college, has been arrested here on suspicion of being the sneak thief who has been systematically robbing the various college houses for the past few weeks. She was discovered in the bath room of one of Mrs. Barrister's houses, and was arrested as she was leaving the house.

Mother Dead, Babe Will Die.

Derby, Conn., April 7.—Mrs. John Lang, aged 32, hung herself at her home yesterday during a fit of melancholia, and probably murdered her 16 months child by striking it on the head with some blunt instrument. Mr. Lang is employed at the Williams typewriter factory, and the family removed here from Ballardvale, Mass., about two years ago.

United States Will Demand Indemnity.

Tangier, April 7.—Acting upon instructions received from Washington, United States Consul Burke has sent an energetic demand to the Sherifian court for ample reparation for the threat of a Moorish soldier to shoot Vice Consul Castleton at Laralche. It is believed here that the United States will demand heavy indemnity as the result of this insult.

American Minister Dying.

Lima, April 7.—The illness from which the United States minister, James McKenzie, has been suffering for some days, has developed the most serious symptoms, and has attacked the brain. His physicians have but little hope that he will recover.

Montenegran Prince Starts For Home.

London, April 7.—A special dispatch from Rome says that the Prince of Montenegro, owing to the gravity of the situation, has started suddenly on his return to Montenegro. It is understood, he believes, in the event of an outbreak on the frontier, that the war will extend to Albania and Montenegro, and he wishes to be in a position to occupy north Alabania as far south as the river Drin, including the town of Scutari.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,

Young Martin Took Money From Liquor Dealers.

Lithia Water Company's Goods Were Sold Mostly to Saloons.

Boston, April 8.—There was a succession of important witnesses in the investigation of the charges against General A. P. Martin at the state house yesterday. The first witness was Samuel B. Capen, a director of the Howard National bank, an institution to which General Martin has been a large debtor, and which owned the land in Dorchester which was sold to the Pearl Hill Lithia Spring company.

James W. Kenney, the brewer, who holds a fifth of the capital stock of the water company, explained his connection with the enterprise. He also furnished interesting testimony as to the number of licenses he controls, and the number of liquor dealers he furnishes bonds for and backs financially.

Chauncey Jacobs, a well-known colored man, who, on his own testimony, has been a professional gambler, detailed at length the circumstances connected with the advance of money by him to procure a liquor license.

Jesse M. Gove, who was counsel for Jacobs in securing the return of the money, corroborated a portion of the latter's testimony.

C. J. Maguire, a solicitor for the Pearl Hill Lithia Spring company, acknowledged that most of the water was sold to liquor dealers. He was the least positive witness the petitioners have produced, his recollection being poor on important points. He started out to convey the impression that influence had been exerted to keep him away from the investigation, but under examination by Mr. Pillsbury he weakened considerably.

There was a dramatic disclosure in the testimony of Mrs. Mollenhauer, a German woman, who had kept a restaurant on Washington street, at the South End, and whose license was revoked in November, 1895. After losing her license, she said Charlie Martin, a son of the commissioner, called at her house and proposed to get her another license for $500. She subsequently gave the $500 to E. F. Martin at his office.

Mr. Pillsbury told Mrs. Mollenhauer that Charlie Martin was in the council chamber, and requested her to identify him. She said he bore a strong resemblance to Maguire, the previous witness, and when he went on the stand she supposed he was Charlie Martin. After looking the people in the room over, she failed to identify young Martin. Maguire was not then in sight. Mr. Pillsbury told Charlie Martin to stand up, and when he did so Mrs. Mollenhauer said she had never seen him before.

The last witness was Chandler Robbins, cashier of the Howard National bank, by whom the petitioners attempted to prove that General Martin was the real organizer of the Pearl Hill Lithia Spring company.

The hearing was continued to Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Labor Crisis Approaching.

Brockton, Mass., April 8.—The shoemakers from the Grover factory held a mass meeting last night, when President Tobin of the International Boot and Shoe Workers' union, John F. O'Sullivan of Boston, general organizer, and John H. Murray of Marlboro, spoke, principally on the benefits of organization. Mr. Tobin, however, in his speech, made the statement that the shoe industry in this city was reaching a crisis; that it would only be a short time before the manufacturers would be asked to subscribe to the principle of arbitration, or reject it. He said that a conspiracy was on foot to end the existence of unions, to make all shops free shops and to cut down wages. "With free shops," said Mr. Tobin, "comes free soup."

Ninety-Eight Licenses at Worcester.

Worcester, Mass., April 8.—The license commissioners last evening granted 98 liquor licenses to which the city is entitled. All but four of last year's applicants had their licenses renewed for the ensuing year. The commissioners rejected applications for three special club licenses at Lake Quinsigamond in accordance with numerously signed petitions from members of the Christian Endeavor societies and the Epworth league. Jeremiah Mara of Boston was refused a second-class victulers' license in the ninth story of the new state mutual building, owing to a protest from the trustees of Grace M. E. church, whose property abuts on that of the State Mutual company.

His Back Was Broken.

Clinton, Mass., April 8.—John Anderson, a Russian Finn, spent some time in the house of Isaac Gelino in Marlboro, and later was found insensible on the street. He was arrested on a chage of drunkenness. He pleaded guilty, and was sent to the Worcester county jail, where a few hours afterward he died very suddenly. Upon a post mortem examination being made it was discovered that his back was broken. The police have arrested Louis Sarsville in Marlboro on a charge of manslaughter. The police believe that Sarsville pushed Anderson out of Gallno's house, which caused him to fall and break his back.

WORKING ON SHORT TIME.

Reports Read at Mule Spinners' Convention Indicate the Condition of Trade.

Boston, April 8.—At the second day's session of the convention of the National Mule Spinners' association the reports showed that the spinners had suffered from the condition of trade, and in nearly every instance they are working on short time.

In the Blackstone district the union is stronger financially than ever, but the introduction of new machinery had caused a slight reduction in wages.

In Lawrence and Lowell the spinners are doing fairly well, but in Fall River they are working but 52 hours a week. In Taunton the mills are running on short time. In Waltham many spinners have had to draw out-of-work pay because of non-employment. In Biddeford, Me., owing to dull times, 10 per cent of the looms had been thrown out, and the spinners have felt the hard times in other directions, but at present there is a better outlook.

In Lewiston, Me., Dover, N. H., and Pawtucket, R. I., the spinners are not working on full time. In Dover some of the mills are closed down completely. Mills in Taftville, Wauregan and Danielson, Conn., are doing well and running on full time.

Grand Commandery, Golden Cross.

Concord, N. H., April 8.—The grand commandery of New Hampshire, United Order of the Golden Cross, met in this city yesterday. The report of the grand keeper of records showed 54 commanderies in good standing in the state, a gain of three during the year. There have been 30 deaths in this jurisdiction during the year of members who were insured for a total of $37,500, and who had paid into the benefit fund a total of $5798. The total membership on Dec. 31, 1896, was 3183, and on that date the commandery had funds on hand of $4,927.59. The following officers were installed by Dr. Young of Winthrop, Me.: Grand commander, E. E. Hill, Milford; grand vice commander, Lady Wheeler, Nashua; grand keeper of records, George W. Flagg, Nashua; grand prelate, George W. Patten, Peterboro; grand treasurer, J. H. Towle, Nashua; grand herald, D. D. Britton, Peterboro; keeper of the inner gate, Abbie T. Emory, Rindge; keeper of the outer gate, Lady Foote, Nashua.

Conference at Manchester.

Manchester, N. H., April 8.—The 68th New Hampshire Methodist conference opened at St. Paul's church yesterday. Bishop Ninde presided. There were addresses by Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, editor of Zion's Herald, and Rev. James Cairns of Claremont. The conference sermon was delivered by Rev. C. U. Dunning of this city. In the evening Chaplain J. H. Lozier delivered a lecture upon "Your Mother's Apron Strings."

Tuberculous Milk Sent to Boston.

Boston, April 8.—The examination of cows for traces of tuberculosis continues in Middlesex county, and yesterday a drove, comprising over 70 head, near all of which were milch cows, were started for the abattoir at Brighton. These cattle were taken from farmers and milk producers in Maynard, Stow and Sudbury, some of whom have been shipping milk to Boston daily for a long time. The slaughtering of the animals already condemned has demonstrated to the owners in the sections referred to that their cattle were very badly diseased, and many surprises have been the result. In a number of instances cattle, and especially milch cows being kept by the most tidy farmers and in the best arranged barns, have, when killed, exhibited the strongest evidences of tuberculosis.

Bay State Lawmakers.

Boston, April 8.—Salary raising was the subject of discussion at yesterday's session of the house. The debate started on the reconsideration of the order for engrossment of the bill to raise the salary of a Somerville judge, and in spite of earnest words about the poor policy of a "salary-raising legislature," the bill was again passed to engrossment. Reconsideration of the rejection of the bill to allow local fire insurance agents to assent to changes of location of policies was refused. The house refused to advance the bill to divide the town of Templeton, and the senate postponed the Massachusetts ship canal matter.

The committee on public health voted to report a bill for licensing hospitals for the treatment of contagious diseases.

Question Seven Hundred Words Long.

Manchester, N. H., April 8.—In the trial of Dr. C. M. Dodge, charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Carrie H. Maloon of Raymond, County Solicitor Tuttle addressed a hypothetical question to Dr. Jay Perkins of Providence, a gynecological expert, comprising over 700 words, the longest question ever offered in New Hampshire courts. Mr. Tuttle summed up the entire case, from the state's point of view, and asked if the facts were so, what caused the woman's death. The answer was air embolism of the heart. Following the hypothetical line of questioning, Dr. Perkins was queried as to where the operation must have been performed, and the expert replied, in the place where death had occurred.

PRIDE OF NEW NAVY.

Battleship Iowa Averages Seventeen Knots and Wins $200,000 Bonus.

Result of Official Trial Most Gratifying to All.

Weather and Sea Were Favorable and Everything Went Off Smoothly.

Boston, April 8.—Under favorable conditions and to the satisfaction of all concerned the United States battleship Iowa was given her official trial yesterday over the Cape Ann course, and under the inspection of the naval board appointed for the purpose.

On the trial she made an average speed of 17 knots over the 66-mile course, exceeding her contract speed by one knot, and winning a premium of $200,000 for her builders.

The Iowa is fast, able, seaworthy and easily handled. She is powerfully armed and heavily armored. She is easily steered, turned and maneuvered, and she would give an excellent account of herself against any battleship afloat. She is a credit to the country, as well as to her builders, and she promises to be a prime favorite with her officers and men of the navy.

The Iowa by her grand work proved herself to be superior to either the Massachusetts or Indiana by a fraction of a knot, and is today the acknowledged queen of the American navy, if not the most formidable battleship afloat.

The performance of the Iowa as compared with the other two battleships from Cramps' yard was decidedly favorable to the new boat, for, unlike the others, she had a long ground swell to contend with, which constantly threw her off the course, and must have knocked a few fractions of a knot off her speed. The big boat, however, met the sea grandly, and the mighty engines in her armored hull drove her through the heavy sea in grand style.

Fifty thousand dollars depended on the speed on the last 50 feet; a delay of one second might put off a fraction from 17 knots. The Iowa just did it and that was all. She rushed across the line with not even a fraction of a second to spare. In fact so narrow was the margin that the reckoners of the trial board had to carry out their figures to the fourth decimal point in order to make the speed for the whole course an average of 17 knots an hour.

Throughout the trial the boat behaved admirably, notwithstanding the fact that she dove into the seas to some extent. The heavy turrets, placed well above the water line, gave her a much greater roll than in the case of the Indiana or Massachusetts, but other than this she was much steadier than the other battleships.

The tidal corrections will not cut the 17 knots, but on the other hand will probably increase it to some slight extent, but not enough to increase it another quarter of a knot, or add another $50,000 to the already large premium.

The Iowa anchored off Boston light and remained there all night, leaving at 5 o'clock this morning for Philadelphia.

New England Postmasters.

Washington, April 8.—There were 67 appointments of fourth-class postmasters yesterday. Of these 34 were based on resignations, 32 on removals and one on death. The changes include: Maine—Addison Point, O. A. Holmes, vice M. G. Wass, removed; Greenville, L. R. Young, vice H. A. Saunders, resigned; Perry, Frederick Brown, vice C. A. Leighton, removed; Princeton, F. A. Johnson, vice Nathan Ripley, removed; Wellington, S. E. Berriman, vice Joseph Libbey, removed. New Hampshire—West Rumney, F. A. Atwood, vice A. L. Simpson, resigned. Rhode Island—Fiskeville, W. P. Johnson, vice C. F. Fiske, deceased; Rockland, G. W. Cole, vice W. A. Hawkins, resigned; Massachusetts — Miss K. A. Dowd, vice W. J. Pendergast, resigned, Jefferson; D. Trout, vice F. P. Stanton, resigned, Wenham.

Ohio Electrocution Postponed.

Columbus, O., April 8.—Although Governor Bushnell refused to commute the sentence of William Haas, the Cincinnati rapist and murderer, the electrocution did not take place this morning. Yesterday afternoon, while a final test of the electrical machinery was being made, the dynamo was broken. The machinery had been tested five times previously, and the dynamo had carried 1500 to 1600 volts readily. As no one was in the dynamo room at the time of the accident except the prisoners detailed to take care of the machine, some of the officials suspected the dynamo had been tampered with, but the prisoners denied the imputation. The condemned man has been granted a respite until April 21. Contrary to previous customs, the death warrant was read to Haas yesterday afternoon.

Ohio Prohibition Candidates.

Columbus, O., April 8.—The state Prohibition convention yesterday nominated J. C. Holliday of Muskingum for governor; John C. Danner of Stark, lieutenant governor; O. J. Ross of Highland, attorney general; Mahlon Rouch, auditor; Samuel Wells of Hamilton, treasurer. Economic questions were not mentioned in the platform. Resolutions opposing the Anti-saloon league in Ohio were tabled.

Burglars at Houghs Neck.

Officer Connelly was on the way to Houghs Neck Wednesday afternoon looking for another find, and had reached a point nearly opposite the Adams Shore property when he saw three young men going toward the shore with their arms full of goods. Suspecting that they had been up to mischief Officer Connelly started to investigate. When the fellows saw him approaching they started to run. He gave chase but they reached their boat first and although he waded into the water after them they got away. If the officer had had his revolver with him he might have captured them, but unfortunately he had left it at home. On the way to the shore the fellows dropped part of the goods they had stolen. Further investigation showed that they had entered one of the unoccupied houses by breaking the glass in one of the windows and turning the catch. Just what was carried away will not be known until the owners, who are not known, visit the house.

No mystery about it. When the Shakers offered some time ago to give away a bottle of their Digestive Cordial to any one who might call at their New York office, there was a great rush and a great many people thought they were crazy.

Subsequent events proved it to have been a very clever advertising transaction, for although they gave away thousands of bottles, it was in the end profitable; nearly every one that took a free bottle came back for more and paid for it with pleasure, saying they had derived better results from its use than from any other medicine they had ever used.

There is nothing so uniformly successful in the treatment of stomach troubles as the Shaker Digestive Cordial, and what is better than all, it relieves at once.

CITY REPORTS.

Assessors Deducted Water Notes Payable to Reduce Taxes.

A Large Balance of Uncollected Taxes January 1.

Managers of Public Burial Places Write of the Improvements.

Continuing the review of the City Book we come to the Assessors figures which have already been published, and the report is of interest only in showing how the board decreased the levy. Some may be at loss to know why the "notes payable" were deducted from the water receipts when they had been already provided for in the $77,480.00 raised for "city debt maturing during the year."

The amount of the notes payable on water debt in 1896 was $27,500; the appropriation for maintenance was $14,500, and for interest on water debt $26,500. If the estimated receipts of the water department were $7,000 (the amount deducted) in excess of notes payable and interest, they would amount to $61,000, but by the Treasurer's report the receipts were $52,300.97. Had the Assessors deducted the maintenance appropriation of $14,500, instead of the notes payable they would have been able to reduce the levy $13,000 more. Did they blunder?

The report of the Tax Collecter shows $198,060 29 of the tax levy order to have been paid, leaving $882 15 abated and $123,366 72 uncollected. The balance due on the taxes of 1893 is $5,381 24; tax of 1894, $7,461 55; tax of 1895, $25,506 26.

The Park Commissioners expended less than half of their appropriation, returning $345.02 to the city treasury. They object to building a back stop for ball playing every year, believing ball players should take more interest in maintenance. The Commissioners are sorry that the sewer is to enter the Merry Mount park but will offer no objection. They desire that a road shall be built to Faxon park, and that the Ward Three playground be drained.

The Managers of Public Burial Places say there will be no bad bills of 1896 to collect, because work has been done only upon written order. The income was in excess of the expenditures; receipts, $4,602 15; expended $4,500. The balance from the appropriation of $4,600 appears as 64 cents, but there is some error here.

The board says: "In most all large cemeteries the cost for the care of lots is considerable, but the rules of those cemeteries are such that every lot must be kept in good condition. The price for care of lots charged by the city of Quincy is small and there seems no good reason why owners should not be obliged to take advantage of the city's terms. We can never have a pretty cemetery until every lot is under the care of the department. The price of $3 per single and $2 for each additional lot, includes mowing the grass with lawn mowers, watering as often as may be necessary and, in fact, any minor matters that will make the lot look satisfactory to all concerned. There is no need of the owner doing one thing to their lot if they contract for its care by the department. By this we do not mean that if your lot has not been cared for for several years and is now covered with moss that the city will sod it or sew it with grass seed. If your lot is given to us in fair condition, we will make it look much better. Some owners think they are practising economy by letting their lots go without being dressed. It is a well known fact that we cannot continually drain upon the natural richness of the earth without soon impoverishing it. Nature must be aided and at the proper time. Great care has been taken to secure good dressing for the lots and more money is spent now for this material in one year than was formerly in several years. The cost for dressing a lot is $1 and this price hardly covers the actual expense. The lots are dressed late in the fall and when the spring opens the ground is saturated with nourishment and the grass takes an early start and grows vigorously even during the burning hot weather of summer. It has something to feed upon and keep it in a healthy condition. It is this one neglect that makes some of the lots cared for look below the standard. It is only a matter of time, however, that owners will see it to their advantage to pay this slight expense for dressing each year.

"The board is of the unanimous opinion that no lot should be cared for in the future unless the owner will agree to first put it in proper condition. This will stop nearly all complaints of poor care, for it is invariably the case where fault is found, that the lot has been placed under our care after having been neglected for many years and, consequently the soil is worn out and the grass nearly all dead. These complaints prevent other owners from placing their lots under the care of the city, and hence, works an added injury to the cemetery. Under the heading of "Statistics," is given the number of lots cared for during the season of 1896.

"The lawn system of connecting lots has been extended this season and has greatly improved parts of the cemetery This system has met with much favor and the board is repeatedly asked to extend it to other sections of the cemetery. The small amount of money which we have, makes it impossible to comply with all the requests, but each year, by doing a section, the whole cemetery will finally be laid out on this plan. Lot owners should make their requests early in the season so that provision may be made to have the work done at the proper time. It is the object of the Board to have all the lots level, for how unsightly it is to see lots of various elevations and shapes, some covered with a few stray tufts of grass and others with moss and weeds, only to become brown and almost bare as the hot summer sun strikes down upon them. It is impossible to keep lots raised above the regular grade, in good condition. They soon become dry and parched by the sun and to be kept looking good, should have a fountain placed so as to continually keep them sprinkled."

The minor improvements during the year are noted, and the need of a chapel, superintendent's house and greenhouses mentioned. Other reviews will follow.

High School Debate.

The Q. H. S. Debating society met on Wednesday. On taking the chair, President C. L. Baker, who, by the way, is also class president of '98, called for the secretary's report. Miss Durgin, '98, as secretary, responded.

The debate of last week on the subject: "Resolved, that a constitutional amendment should be secured by which senators shall be elected by direct vote of the people," was concluded. Miss Williams, '68, Mr. Lyons, '97, and Mr. Lewis, '98 took part in the discussion.

Mr. Lewis, '98, offered his report as critic, and gave the speakers good advice.

An entertainment of unusual brilliancy followed, including:

Piano solo. Miss Hayes, '97.
Declamation, "Catiline's Defiance," Mr. MacKenzie, '97.
Essay, "Cateline's Conspiracy," Miss McGuane, '97.
Piano solo, Miss Annie Perry, '97.
Declamation, "On the American War." Mr. Nichols, '97.

The piano solos were excellent. The meetings of the Debating Society afford excellent training, not only on debate, but also in declamation, reading of essays, and the performing of musical selections. Especially valuable, too, is the practice in off-hand speaking obtained by all who take part in the general debates.

The regular debate followed: "Resolved, That cabinet ministers ought to have seats and the right to speak in Congress."

Miss Barry '97 opened the discussion for the affirmative, and was followed by Miss Duffield, '97, for the negative, and Miss Bemis, '97, for the affirmative. This debate will be concluded at the next meeting.

The Debating Society is now in its fifth year. It has been very successful from the beginning, and has become one of the most important departments of the High School.

Every one knows the biblical story of the passover. The angel of death turned aside only at the doors of the chosen people. The first-born of all others were slain. There is a chosen people today, at whose doors the angel of death turns aside and whose first-born escape unscathed while the children of others perish. The chosen people are the healthy people. Nine-tenths of the deaths among children are due to the ill-health of the mothers during the period preceding motherhood. Every woman owes it to herself, her husband and her children to keep herself healthy in a womanly way. She should thoroughly understand her own physical make-up. She should realize the importance of keeping the organs of womanhood healthy and vigorous. She can only do this by taking proper care of herself and using the proper remedy for weakness or disease of those organs.

The best remedy for weakness or disease of the organs peculiar to women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is truly wonderful in its effects on the female organism. It allays inflammation, soothes pain and restores health and vigor. Get it at the druggist's and take no substitute. Your health and your children's health depend upon it.

"Since I wrote you we have had a baby girl born to us," writes W. R. Malcolm, of Knobel, Clay Co., Ark. "My wife took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also your 'Favorite Prescription' all during the expectant period and until confinement, and she had no trouble to mention. A stouter, healthier child was never born. Our child will be one year of age the 8th inst. and she has not been sick a day. Has not had so much as the colic."

Every woman in America should own a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In its 1,008 pages she will find plain talks about all sorts of ailments. These talks are made plainer by copious illustrations. About 90 pages are devoted to woman's diseases and weaknesses. There are suggestions for home-treatment. This book has already gone into more than a million homes. The original price was $1.50. Now an edition in paper covers is being distributed FREE. Send 21 one-cent stamps—this pays for mailing only—to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If a copy bound in fine cloth is desired, send 10 cents extra—31 cents in all.

RELIEF FOR REFUGEES.

Joint Resolution Appropriating $200,000 Passed by Congress.

War Department Will Distribute the Supplies.

Headquarters Established at Memphis and Food and Medicines Purchased.

Washington, April 8.—The president yesterday sent a message to the senate and house of representatives calling attention to the widespread distress caused by the Mississippi valley floods, and suggesting that the stricken states be aided by the general government, and both branches promptly responded by passing a joint measure of relief.

In the senate the reading of the president's message was followed by the introduction of a joint resolution appropriating $150,000 to be immediately available for the flood sufferers. After brief debate the resolution was passed by the unanimous vote of the 60 senators present. The plans were changed, however, when the house resolution appropriating $200,000 for the Mississippi river and Red river of the North was received. This was accepted in lieu of the former resolution, and was passed unanimously. It was quickly enrolled and dispatched to the president.

Mr. Morgan of Alabama resumed his speech in support of the resolution declaring that a state of war existed in Cuba. It was uneventful and failed to develop any renewal of the sharp personal conflict incident to the debate on Tuesday.

House Proceedings.

The only business transacted in the house was the adoption of the joint resolution authorizing the secretary of war to expend $200,000 for relief of the flood sufferers of the Mississippi valley.

The most interesting feature of the session was a passage between Representative Simpson, the Kansas Populist, and Speaker Reed. Mr. Simpson gave voice to the opposition to the speaker's temporary policy of inaction, which has been smouldering in some quarters, by speaking to a question of privilege. He finished a fiery denunciation of the speaker by demanding that he appoint the committees of the house at once and gave notice that he would prevent any more attempts to do business by unanimous consent.

Several Republican members attempted to stem the tide of Mr. Simpson's attack, but Mr. Reed seemed to desire to hear it and declined to interfere. He listened calmly to the speech, and then, with his usual coolness and lucidity, replied that the speaker was merely the instrument of the house; that he had enforced what he supposed to be the policy desired by the majority, and that the house had power to command the speaker if it disavowed of his course. The Republicans expressed their approval by a round of handclapping.

President McKinley signed the resolution soon after it passed.

Secretary Alger Acts Promptly.

Washington, April 8.—Secretary Alger acted with the greatest promptness and has completed the arrangements for distribution of government relief for flood sufferers. By the present plan six army officers will start for Memphis today, and, dividing the Mississippi into six sections, will ascertain the needs of the people. Another detail of officers will follow, distributing rations in accordance with the reports of these officers, acting in harmony with the local relief committees. Memphis will be headquarters for the purchase of supplies and distribution.

Touching the details of the plan of distribution there was a conference at the war department between the officials and Mr. Graves, president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, and J. S. Menken, vice president of the Memphis relief committee.

The committee said that they need no blankets or tents, as they are now advised, though reports from outside points on the river may show the necessity for some of these later on. What they do need now is food and medicine.

The six districts into which the Mississippi will be divided for purposes of investigation and distribution are as follows: From Memphis down to Helena, from Helena down to Greenville, from Greenville down to Vicksburg, from Vicksburg to New Orleans, from Memphis to Cairo, from Cairo up.

Supreme Test of Levees Coming.

Memphis, April 8.—The supreme test of the levees south of Vicksburg and Arkansas City is approaching. The river at Vicksburg has been falling for some days on account of the rush of waters from the main channel through the crevasse above into the Yazoo delta. This water is again returning to the channel through the Yazoo river, and its influence is being felt at Vicksburg, where the gauge is now marking higher figures. Within a few days the crest of the rise will be opposite Vicksburg, and the channel will continue to deepen unless the levees break. The Louisiana people keenly realize the gravity of the situation. The destruction wrought in the St. Francis basin and the Yazoo delta may be repeated in the Texas basin, which begins in southeastern Arkansas and extends through the northeastern counties of Louisiana. Material and men are being hurried forward. The news of the action of congress in appropriating a large sum for the relief of the sufferers was gratefully received here and throughout the overflowed districts.

The river at Memphis is slowly falling, and the gauge at Cairo shows a decline. For the first time in 14 weeks the Kansas City, Memphis and Fort Scott railway sent its trains out over the line passing through the St. Francis basin.

Greatest Danger In Overflowed Districts.

Washington, April 8.—Secretary Alger has received the following telegram from Governor McLaurin of Mississippi: "The greatest danger to be apprehended in the overflowed districts is from the June rise of the river. With the crevasses then existant it would be impossible to make a crop, and this would cause the loss of millions of dollars, besides starvation to many poor people. An appropriation of $100,000 by congress would close the crevasses in this state, would give employment to all the needy and allow people to work land in 30 days."

Pilgrim Fathers.

Lowell, Mass., April 8.—The principal business of yesterday's session of the Supreme Colony, United Order of Pilgrim Fathers, was the election of officers. This resulted in the choice of the following: Supreme governor, J. Scolly Taft, Keene, N. H.; supreme lieutenant governor, Henry S. Treadwell, Boston; supreme secretary, James E. Shepard, Lawrence; supreme treasurer, A. V. Bugbee, Lawrence; trustees, J. H. Harriman, Boston; E. P. Lincoln, Boston; F. E. Sleeper, Sebattus, Me.; W. L. Thompson, Lawrence; John Q. Bates, Boston.

Alpha Kappa Kappa Officers.

Boston, April 8.—At the last day's session of the grand chapter of Alpha Kappa-Kappa fraternity of the leading medical schools of New England, Professor Charles P. Thayer, M. D., secretary of Tufts college medical school, was re-elected president. Other officers elected were: Dr. C. R. Davis of Lynn, vice president; Dr. A. G. Ford of the Long Island Hospital college, Brooklyn, grand secretary, and Dr. C. H. Catherwood of the French hospital, New York city, grand treasurer.

Superiority of Italians.

Lynn, Mass., April 8.—A committee of indignant citizens of this city waited upon Mayor Ramsdell yesterday to protest against the employment of Italians on work now being performed here for the Lynn and Boston railroad. Mayor Ramsdell later called upon the contractor, by whom he was assured that he was not opposed to hiring Lynn citizens, but that the men he had engaged were accustomed to that kind of work, and were for that reason superior to the average Lynn laborer.

Bequests to Schools and Missions.

Hatfield, Mass., April 8.—The will of the late Samuel H. Dickinson was read yesterday. He left an estate valued at about $75,000. Doane college, Nebraska, and the French-American college of Springfield will get $1000 each, and the American Home Missionary society and the American Board of Foreign Missions about $25,000 each.

President Goes Down the Potomac.

Washington, April 8.—President McKinley and family left yesterday for a trip down the Potomac on the Dolphin. With the party were Mr. and Mrs. Addison Porter. The president is not expected to return before Saturday.

Pingree's Declaration.

Detroit, April 8. — Governor Pingree has issued an address to the citizens of Michigan declaring that the defeat of Captain Stewart for mayor of Detroit is not a defeat for the governor. Mr. Pingree asserts that Mayor-elect Maybury is pledged to carry on the fight against the "railway combination," and will have his (Pingree) assistance.

Big Lockout at Chicago.

Chicago, April 8.—Four thousand men were forced out of employment by the closing of the works of the Illinois Steel company at South Chicago last night. This action was taken by the officials to head off a strike. Employes declare they will resist the lockout. Officials assert that the works will be reopened next Monday.

Lamont at Head of Northern Pacific.

New York, April 8.—Official confirmation is given to the report that Colonel Daniel Lamont, ex-secretary of war under Cleveland, is to become president of the Northern Pacific within the next 60 days. Colonel Lamont is at present travelling in the South, and he is not expected back in this city for several days.

Unemployed Ask For Work.

Toronto, April 8.—Hundreds of unemployed workingmen gathered in front of the parliament building yesterday and asked the Ontario government to provide work for them so that they could keep their wives and children from starving.

Uprising In Gazaland.

London, April 8.—Dispatches from Pretoria and Delagoa Bay say that the whole of Gazaland is in open revolt. Twenty-five thousand natives have rebelled against the Portuguese government. The principal rising is only about 40 miles from the Transvaal border. The Portuguese troops are mobilizing rapidly, and the situation is regarded as most serious.

Rivera Safe.

Washington, April 8.—Secretary Sherman states that he has assurances that General Riveria, the insurgent leader, will not be executed, but will be treated as a prisoner of war.

DULL ELECTION.

Rhode Island Voters Did Not Turn Out to Vote For State Officers.

Providence, April 8.—The state election yesterday was the dullest on record. The Republicans were absolutely sure of a walkover, and had there been the usual response on the part of the electors General Dyar's vote would have been one of the largest ever given a gubernatorial candidate. As it was he has the largest proportionate plurality ever received for a candidate for governor in Rhode Island, being estimated at 14,000. The Republicans have generally elected their candidates to the assembly.

In Westerly there was a fusion between the independents, Prohibitionists and Democrats, but the Republicans carried the city by 200, the principal issue being the present waterworks system.

The attempt to defeat Speaker S. W. R. Allen of East Greenwich, while not successful, yet resulted in a close vote, the speaker squeezing in by 8 plurality. The license vote in the state was generally in favor of granting licenses.

In this city Colonel R. H. Stoddard, who headed the reform ticket, was elected by 1000, while the majority of the Republican candidates for the assembly were also elected.

The election in Pawtucket resulted in a decided reaction, the Republican candidates for office, as a rule, being defeated, including the nominee for senator and member of the school committee.

Ninety-seven districts out of 105 in this state give Dyar (Rep.), 21,576; Church (Dem.), 11,628; Peabody (Pro.), 1929, and Burton (Soc.), 1118. The assembly will be strongly Republican in both houses.

General Sanguilly Arrested.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 8.—Much excitement prevailed for a while last evening among the Cuban residents, when it became known that General Sanguilly and General F. Lechuca had been arrested under a United States commissioner's warrant, upon "information and belief" sworn out by the Spanish vice consul, Senor Juan Potour. This affidavit charges these men with inciting and attempting to organize and start off a military expedition against the goverment of Spain, a country "with which we are at peace," this being the expedition said to have started from Fernandina on April 4. The warrant was served last evening quietly, but the Cuban generals were not taken into custody. They gave their word of honor that they would be present at the commissioner's office today at the hearing. General Sanguilly is indignant over the matter and insists upon a speedy trial, but the United States district attorney, Frank Clark, is out of the city and will not be back until tomorrow.

Peculiarity of Turkish Law.

Washington, April 8.—By a peculiarity of Turkish law, the authorities at Ezeroum on March 11 began to try for murder the Armenians and Kurds who murdered the American bicyclist Lenz at Chilkani, May, 1894, although none of the accused persons are in custody or were before the court. United States Consul Bergholz, in reporting the matter to the state department, says that the trial was in default, the accused Armenians being in Russia and the Kurds in hiding. He was informed on the morning of March 11 that the trial would begin at 1 o'clock that day at the criminal section of the appeal court. The governor general declined to accede to Mr. Bergholz's request that his dragoman be permitted to attend officially. However, he consented to allow the British dragoman to attend in Mr. Bergholtz's interest. The result of the trial was not known when the consul's mail closed.

Rates to Grant Celebration.

New York, April 8.—The Joint Trunk Line Traffic association has announced the following rates to those who wish to attend the Grant monument dedication: One fare for the round trip to the public and 1 cent per mile for uniformed troops or associations in bodies of 25 or upward by a solid ticket within the trunk line territory, comprising Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Salamanca, in New York; Erie and Pittsburg in Pennsylvania; Bellaire in Ohio; Wheeling, Parkersburg and Huntington in West Virginia, and points east thereof, except in New England. The rate will apply to all points in the state of New York. So far no reply has been received from the passenger commissioner at Boston in regard to rates from New England. A reply, however, is expected this week.

General Lee's Return Delayed.

Richmond, April 8. — Consul General Fitzhugh Lee has just written a friend here that he will be unable to leave Cuba April 15, as he expected, and that he will be delayed in Havana until the latter part of May or early in June. General Lee was forced to decline an invitation to deliver an address on Cuba before the United States Confederate Memorial societies on April 28.

HOTEL GUESTS PERISH.

Business Section of Knoxville Destroyed by Fire.

Property Loss Over a Million Dollars.

Loss of Life Unknown, as Hotel Register Was Burned.

Knoxville, April 9.—The most disastrous fire in the history of Knoxville destroyed the very heart of the city, including some of its largest wholesale and retail business houses, yesterday, and caused a loss variously estimated at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, with about 60 per cent of insurance.

The register of the Hotel Knox, in which 56 people were sleeping, was burned. The proprietor of the hotel says he had five or six guests who have not put in an appearance.

When the firemen thought all the inmates of the hotel had escaped a woman with an infant in her arms rushed to a rear window and screamed for help. A net was quickly stretched and the woman asked to drop the child out, but as the smoke almost choked her she told them that if one had to die both would die. The woman was finally rescued by the firemen.

From the hotel building, which is five stories in height, the fire spread east and west. A stiff wind made the flames very ugly, and the fire department was inadequate. In the wholesale hardware house of W. W. Woodruff & Co. a dynamite explosion occurred, and scores of people were hurt by flying bricks and glass.

It became necessary at last to have the walls of one building blown down by cannon to check the spread of the fire. A mountain howitzer of the Knoxville legion was called into play and a load of canister did the work, at the same time tearing up some residences in a different portion of the city.

The city authorities, realizing that the fire department was unable to conquer the flames, telegraphed to Chattanooga for assistance. An engine was placed aboard a flatcar on the Southern railway and started on the run of 111 miles, which was made in 115 minutes, with one stop for water, an average of 60 miles an hour. When the engine arrived here the fire was about under control, yet the Chattanooga firemen did some good work.

A cabinet worker named P. C. Dyer fell dead on the street from fright. A man named Robinson from Pulaski is supposed to be another victim. He was registered at the hotel, and has not yet shown up. A large force of men are at work clearing away the debris and searching for the bodies. The street car lines are completely tied up, and all the electric companies have suffered.

One Knoxville architect has already received orders for plans for 11 buildings to take the places of the ones burned. All the buildings are to be replaced at once.

The Death List.

The list of dead and injured, so far reported, is as follows:

Dead:

A. E. Weeks, Locke, N. Y.
R. W. Hopkins, St. Louis.
— Robinson, Pulaski, Tenn.
S. E. Williams, Springfield, Mass.

Injured: J. C. M. Bogle, Tennessee, burned and will die; D. M. Deane, Indianapolis, ankle sprained; Tom S. Peck, Morristown, ankle cut and sprained; Lieutenant Hood, Knoxville, cut on face and head by glass from explosion; Claude Harris, Knoxville, cut in dozen places; Policeman Asquith, burned, and cut by flying glass; Policeman Duncan, badly burned; Fire Chief McIntosh, bruised from fall; W. H. Kephart, Knoxville, internally hurt.

It is more than probable that J. C. M. Bogle, the old gentleman hurt in the hotel fire, will die. He inhaled flames.

The last man to leave the burning hotel says that he is positive that five or six persons were burned. He ran over three or four men in the hallways who were suffocated.

J. M. Deane of Kansas City, who jumped from the burning building, tells a thrilling story of his escape. He started out with only his night shirt on, and had that torn off before he reached the street.

The T. P. A. members of the local post took care of all the drummers, buying some suits out and out.

W. H. Mitchell of Abington, Va., jumped from the burning building to the bank building.

W. I. Johnson, a railroad baggagemaster, came down from the fifth story hand over hand on the water pipes before the fire engines arrived. Only one of the guests saved any of his effects.

Stoughton People Fleeced.

Stoughton, Mass., April 9.—The failure of the New York firm, the E. S. Dean company, has caused a great disturbance in this vicinity, as many of the working people, especially those at Canton, had invested heavily, and it is claimed that at least $50,000 in the aggregate had been placed with the company. This loss will be sadly felt, as it was made up mostly by bits of $100 and $200, which operatives in the factories and others had saved up, and which they were induced to draw out of the bank in the hope of gaining large returns. This "fever," as it is called by the conservative men of this locality, began to seize the people several months ago, and a prominent bank official states that he has no doubt that $45,000 or $50,000 has been sent to New York from the towns near here.

BRYAN PICKED UP UNCONSCIOUS

Piazza Roof Falls and Ex-Candidate Is Painfully Injured.

St. Augustine, Fla., April 9.—Hon. W. J. Bryan was injured here late last evening by the covering of the piazza from which he was speaking. Nearly 400 men and women were precipitated about 20 feet to the ground, and many of them injured, but none fatally.

Mr. Bryan was picked up unconscious and removed to a physician's office, where an examination revealed that he had received no injuries of a serious character. It was deemed best, however, to abandon the reception, which was to have been given him in the evening. Mr. Bryan arrived here at 4:30 p. m., and was greeted at the station by several hundred people. At 8:30 he addressed fully 3000 people from the piazza of the San Marco hotel. At the close of his speech hundreds of people flocked about him, and so great was the strain that one section of the piazza, 40 feet square, fell through.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 9.—The house yesterday passed to engrossment the bill giving the state highway commission better control of the roads it builds. Important amendments to the anti-stock watering railroad bill were introduced and some earnest speeches were made on the bill for separate departments to control the public institutions of Boston. Money for the Cape Cod canal scheme, it was said at a hearing on the bill to revive the company's charter, is ready to be deposited. The Boston Elevate railroad company explained details of its scheme for rapid transit, particularly as to the approach from Cambridge. On a rising vote—81 to 77—the Institutions separation bill was referred to the next general court. The committee on insurance reported against the bill for a speedy termination of the investigation of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association, and in favor of a bill to secure payment for services and expenses of the special investigating commission. In the senate an order for the investigation of the cattle commission's methods in condemning tuberculous cattle was adopted. The bill for the separation of public institutions was refused reference to the next general court by a vote of 103 to 92. It was then passed to a third reading.

Chickamauga Park Commission.

Washington, April 9.—The reorganization of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga national park commission, necessated by the recent death of the chairman, General J. S. Fullerton, was perfected by Secretary Alger yesterday. General Henry V. Boynton, who has assisted the commission in historical work, was transferred to full membership in the commission, and appointed chairman. General H. M. Duffield was appointed to the vacancy caused by General Boynton's promotion. The other members of the commission are General A. P. Stewart and Major F. G. Smith, U. S. A. The latter is secretary. General Duffield, the new member, is a resident of Detroit. General Boynton, the new chairman of the commission, has been, perhaps, the most active member of the commission for some years, and it was due largely to his efforts that the park was established. He participated in all the engagements about Chattanooga as commanding officer of the Thirty-fifth Ohio regiment.

Colonel Shafter Promoted.

Washington, April 9.—The president yesterday nominated Colonel William Rufus Shafter, first infantry, to be brigadier general. Colonel William R. Shafter entered the army at the opening of the war as a volunteer, being first lieutenant of the Seventh Michigan volunteer infantry, and served throughout the entire war with credit. He was breveted colonel for gallant services at the battle of Fair Oaks, Va., and brigadier general of volunteers for services during the war. In July, 1866, he was appointed lieutenant colonel of the Forty-first infantry in the regular establishment, and became control of the First infantry in March, 1897. He has held that command ever since. His present station is at San Francisco, where he has acted as commander of the department of California during the absences of General Forsythe. He is the senior colonel of the line.

Resume of Flood Situation.

Washington, April 9.—Reports from various flooded districts along the Missouri and Mississippi and their tributaries denote but little change in the situation. Railroad traffic in North Dakota is completely suspended. Bridges have been washed away and great damage done in cities and towns. Telegraphic communication is broken and the extent of damage cannot be learned. At Kansas City and Omaha the Missouri has passed all previous high water marks. Great losses will result. In the lower Mississippi district the levees are still intact, but the heaviest flood is yet to come. With the added water now pouring down from the Northwest in all probability the Father of Waters will burst all restraint.

MORGAN'S VEHEMENCE

He Declares Our Flag a Disgraced Rag If Americans Are Not Shielded.

Senator Will Conclude His Speech Today.

Bankruptcy Bill Discussed---Roosevelt Was Confirmed.

Washington, April 9.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Morgan's resolution declaring that a state of war existed in Cuba was taken up without objection, and Mr. Morgan resumed his speech in support of it. The senator reverted to the statement of Mr. Hale, that the number of American prisoners in Spanish prisons was reduced to 12. In sarcastic tones Mr. Morgan said that such releases as had occurred were the result of supplication by our government, and perhaps it would be appropriate to adopt a vote of thanks to Spain for not slaying these prisoners outright. Aside from the official testimony as to the condition in Cuba, the newspaper press had piled up a mass of testimony which established beyond question that the war was being prosecuted by Spain contrary to all rules of civilized warfare.

Mr. Morgan's speech was most vehement at times, and he closed by saying that if the "United States flag did not shelter the Americans in Spanish prisons it was a disgaced rag."

Mr. Morgan will conclude his speech on the resolution to-day and demand a vote.

The bankruptcy bill came up under special order, and Mr. Nelson of Minnesota spoke for two hours on the measure, opposing the pending Torrey bill as excessively harsh and designed as a collection agency for large creditors and urging his substitute as a measure drafted in the interest of thousands of poor debtors struggling to get on their feet.

Mr. Hoar defended the Torrey bill against Mr. Nelson's charges of harshness. There were, he said, 500,000 debtors awaiting the relief of this humane bill. The Nelson substitute Mr. Hoar regarded impracticable. Mr. Hoar declared also that the Nelson bill was unconstitutional. The constitution gave congress authority to provide a uniform system of bankruptcy, but the Nelson bill would not permit a uniform system as it left in force the state insolvency laws.

The senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations: Theodore Roosevelt of New York, to be assistant secretary of the navy; Thomas W. Cridler of West Virginia, to be third assistant secretary of state; Fenton R. McCreery of Michigan, to be secretary of the United States legation, City of Mexico; Captain A. S. Crowinshield, U. S. N., to be chief of the bureau of navigation, department of the navy; Brigadier General Frank Wheaton, to be major general in the army; William G. Cassard of Maryland, to be chaplain in the navy.

Serious Situation at Greenville.

Greenville, Miss., April 9.—The condition of affairs in this section of the Mississippi river continues serious. The Yazoo-Mississippi delta embraces 10 counties with a population of nearly 400,000 people, 70 per cent of whom are farm laborers, who depend for their bread on rations issued weekly by the planters and local merchants. Yesterday's advices gave a more extended report of the prevailing condition, whereupon many of the leading planters and business men of this section (Washington county) held council and decided to call for assistance from the general government. To that end a dispatch was sent to the governor, and by him transmitted to General Alger, secretary of war, and a similar message was sent to Congressman Catchings. The dispatch says that $135,000 worth of supplies will be needed by the flood sufferers in this vicinity within the next 30 days.

Liquor Cases at Concord.

Concord, N. H., April 9.—Judge Pike of the supreme court gave a hearing last night on the petition for the new grand jury to consider liquor cases in which the regular grand jury failed to find indictments. Attorneys Sawyer of Concord, Cox of Laconia and Remick of Littleton spoke in favor of the petition. The court took the matter under advisement, saying that the whole matter hinged upon the interpretation of the word "emergency" in the statute governing the calling of juries.

Hyde Park Founder Dies.

Hyde Park, Mass., April 9.—David Higgins, one of the 20 associates who founded this town in 1856, died yesterday, aged 69 years. Mr. Higgins was identified during his life with the growth and development of this section, and 40 years ago built the house in which he lived and died, and which in the early days of the town he allowed to be used for school purposes.

More rain.

A rainy week.

The Brownie Book coupon appears today, having been crowded out for several days.

There has been rain enough during the past few days to please the most fastidious.

The children should have pleasanter weather than today for their spring vacation.

Wilson's bicycle store is in Hardwick's block Franklin street. His leader is the White.

The pupils in German at the Woodward Institute give a play in German this afternoon in the school hall.

Mrs. Henry Sprague returned this week from Bangor, Maine, where she has been spending several weeks.

The sidewalk on Billings street, from Hinkley's corner east, is so full of water when it rains that it is not fit for ladies to walk on.

Tonight regular prayer meeting of Calvary Baptist church Franklin street. Choir practice at close of meeting. All are invited to this service of prayer.

Mr. R. D. Gordon is doubly afflicted. The funeral of his wife occurred Tuesday and on Wednesday his father died in Somerville. Six months ago his mother passed away.

Miss M. Fannie Hurley of Rockland, a graduate of the Quincy Training school, has been engaged as teacher of the Cambridgeville district school at Enfield Centre, N. H.

An eight-page LEDGER tomorrow, with all the Saturday features: social realm, story, music, Christian Endeavor column, Sunday services, illustrated humor, etc. Also an essay on "Our Children."

Mr. Thomas Gurney has purchased of Mr. Brooks Crane the large tract of land on Walker street, adjoining his store and will soon fence it in. This will be valuable property at some future time, as it is in the heart of Atlantic.

The $100 bicycle now on exhibition at Carlson's store, near the depot, will be presented to the lady or gentleman receiving the most votes before the close of the grand fair at Faxon hall, April 22, 23 and 24. Make an early start. 9 3t

Fifty ride tickets to Boston were placed on sale today at the Quincy depot. These tickets are now for sale at all suburban stations of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and will be popular. The Quincy tickets are sold for $4 50, just half the price for the 100-ride tickets.

The Granite shoe store has an attraction in its show window. A Ferris wheel trimmed with ribbon has been constructed which is operated by an electric motor in the cellar. In the boxes are images, and the whole is pleasing to children. The window otherwise is very attractive.

There was considerable mystery about the gathering at the chapel of Bethany church Thursday evening. The curtains were closely drawn and only gentlemen were admitted. It will be well to watch developments. It is said that the men are going to outdue everything ever attempted in Quincy, and that no lady will be allowed to help.

At the annual meeting of the Quincy Triangle Wheelmen twelve new members were admitted to membership and the following officers elected: Captain, Herbert A. Thompson; 1st Lieutenant, Theodore Hermanson; 2d, Lieutenant, William G. Spargo; Secretary and Treasurer, William Lamb; Ensign, Russell Badgir. CITY REPORTS.

Ten Departments Reviewed for the Year 1896.

Continuing the review of the City Book of 1896, the report of John F. Welch, the City Physician, shows 192 visit and 128 office calls.

The Board of Health report the general health of the city as very good. The number of cases of diphtheria reported was 106 from which 10 deaths resulted, against 16 deaths from 105 cases in 1895. The board recommends three teams instead of one, for the collection of garbage that two collections per week may be made in all parts of the city, and three from the central populous parts. Of the 346 deaths of the year 226 were from contagious diseases.

Health Inspector Ford reports a large number of nuisances, which upon request were promptly abated, and that the sanitary condition of the city is much improved.

The Inspector of Plumbing reports 134 inspections. He recommends that the city purchase a smoke test apparatus.

The Inspector of Animals and Provisions reports that he has inspected all stores where food stuffs were for sale at least once in two weeks, and that he has seized meat, mackerel, fruit and vegetables.

The Inspector of Milk reports very few complaints, and says the city is now well served.

The Overseer of the Poor recommends improvements in the sanitary arrangements at the Almshouse. He objects to the encroachment of the Street and Health departments in the stable and outbuildings. There were Jan. 1 at the almshouse 18 persons against 13 a year ago. During the year 128 families or 531 persons were assisted.

The Chief of Police reports 591 arrests in 1896 and gives statistics concerning them. Twelve seizures were made. The need of a police station, patrol wagon and signal service are emphasized.

The Chief Engineer of the Fire Department again calls attention to the need of better fire protection in the north part of the city. He recommends 50 new hydrants on present lines of main, in addition to the 355 at present. There were 52 alarms during the year, and $177,700 worth of property at risk, but the loss was only $21,503.15. In three years the loss has been $50,176 04. A list of the fires is given.

The Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library report 13,700 persons as using the library with more or less regularity. The board cater to the demand, rather than to fill up the library with books not read. Increasing thought has been given to juvenile literature. The circulation of the library increased 2000 the past year, and there was an increased demand for books treating upon living questions.

The Water Commissioners say the principal work of the year has been the extending of mains and laying of service pipes, and enumerate the streets. The gross receipts were $52,300.97. The interest paid was $29,709.94 and maintenance $14,323 81, leaving the balance $8,267.22. The bonded debt is $717,500.00.

Superintendent Cavanagh reports an increase of 129,517 gallons in the average daily consumption of water. Very little money was expended during the year on reservoir, pumping station or standpipe, and few leaks have occurred in mains. Over 3 miles of pipe were laid, 301 new services put in, and 25 hydrants and 42 gates set. There are now 66 miles of mains, 355 hydrants, and 2861 connections. Tables show the daily average consumption, rainfall, location of new hydrants, etc.

The report of the Sewerage Commissioners has already been published in full in the LEDGER.

MILTON.

Every part of the vestry of the East Milton Baptist church was occupied last Sunday evening, many going to hear the music by the North Shore Male Quartette. Mr. Badour of the same quartette will be present next Sunday evening to conduct the singing which will include solo and quartette numbers besides congregational singing. J. J. Wright, one of Mr. Murphys men, will occupy a little time in the evening. The service in the morning will be as usual.

TODAY'S COURT.

The liquors seized from Mary Cunniff of Weymouth were forfeited.

The continued case of James Colligan for assault on James M. Galvin was called. Galvin having acknowledged satisfaction Colligan was discharged on payment of costs.

Laura Edwards was brought into court on a default warrant and discharged on payment of costs.

DAUGHTERS PATRIOTIC.

An Appeal Saves the Old Fairbanks House at Dedham.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, Regent of the Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution occupiers of the birthplace of President John Adams in this city, the old Fairbanks house at Dedham has been saved from destruction.

The house is of historic interest as being one of the oldest houses in America, being built in 1636 by Jonathan Fairbanks, the founder of the Fairbanks family in America, ninety-six years before Washington was born, and but sixteen years after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. The frame was brought from Yorkshire, England, in 1633, at which time Jonathan, his wife and six children came to America. There being no roads at that time, there is little doubt that they sailed up the beautiful Charles river and, attracted by the resemblance of the country to the English parks, chose the site for their home in the new world.

The homestead has always been the property of their descendants, descending finally to Miss Rebecca Fairbanks, the present occupant, who sold it two years ago to Mr. John Crowley, a real estate dealer in Dedham.

Mrs. Titus inserted an appeal in the Boston Transcript, Saturday, asking patriotic people to contribute toward a fund to save the house and the following in Thursday's Transcript shows patriotism is not dead in Massachusetts, when $5500 is donated between three o'clock on Saturday and nine o'clock Monday morning, for preserving an old house.

"It is with much satisfaction that I write to say that the preservation of the "old Fairbanks House" in Dedham is assured, thanks to the patriotism and generosity of two ladies, members of the Society of the Daughters of the Revolution. In response to my appeal in the Transcript of Saturday, the mail on Monday morning brought me not only the offer from Mrs. J. Amory Codman and her daughter, Miss Martha C. Codman, of the entire amount of the purchase money, $4500, but also checks to the amount of nearly $1000 more.

"The latter will be returned to the donors with many thanks. The preservation of the "old Fairbanks House" is now assured, and Miss Fairbanks may be permitted to occupy it if she so desires.

"Thanking the ladies and gentlemen who so nobly responded to my appeal to save this famous old land mark, and the Transcript for its cordial indorsement of this patriotic work."

MRS. NELSON V. TITUS.

On Monday afternoon a chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, is to be organized at Dedham at the old Fairbanks house, and the chapter will probably have the use of the house for future meetings.

INFORMAL OPENING.

An Old Fashioned Dinner at New Headquarters of Historical Society.

In response to invitations sent out by the librarian of the Quincy Historical Society, in whose possession the old John Adams' homestead on Franklin street now is, a number of the neighbors and newspaper men gathered there Thursday afternoon at the informal opening of the house and to test the baking qualities of the brick ovens. It is unneccessary to add that they worked equally as well as when John and Abigail Adams occupied the cottage.

The dinner was cooked under the direction of Miss Maria Daniels, the well known teacher of food economics, and for some years associated with Miss Richards of the Institute of Technology.

The dinner, which was served in the parlor was a reproduction of an old time New England meal, and consisted of a shoulder of roast pork, with vegetables, baked beans and brown bread and apple sauce, Indian pudding, tea, and water drawn from the old Adams well.

Much of the deliciously cooked food was served on rare old pieces of china that had come into the possession of the Historical Society from some of the old families of Quincy and Braintree.

It was the first time for years that the old brick fire places and ovens had been used to cook a family dinner and the huge blazing logs lent a cheerfulness to the gathering that would have been impossible with the modern coal stoves.

Among those present were: Mrs. Mary A. Davis, Miss Lucy Jillson, Mrs. Helen Fitts, W. G. A. Pattee, John Adam Fenno, Master Richard Pattee, Adam Glover, Mrs. John Crane, Miss Melvina Field, Miss Eliza Ann Curtis, Miss Susanna Curtis, Mrs. Maud Davis Dewson, Miss Relief Field, Miss Margaret Saltonstall, W. G. Spear and several newspaper men.

Strangers and Newcomers.

The reception to strangers and newcomers, at the Wollaston Baptist church, Thursday evening, was a decided success, and much credit is due the young ladies who were in charge. Never was the vestry so prettily decorated before. From the ceiling hung garlands of flowers of various hues while banquet lamps with red shades and many rugs transformed the place into a fairy grotto.

The entertainment was under the direction of Mr. A. E. Brownville and consisted of readings by Miss Beckwith, Miss Mary Anderson and Miss Florence Humans; a duet by Miss Bessie Merrill and Master Percy Tabor of Quincy, and piano solo by Mrs. George H. Collyer.

During the evening lemonade and cake were served to the guests. Much praise is due the young lady who conceived the ideas of decorating and her able assistants.

Secret Orders.

Philedian Senate, K. A. E. O., departed from its usual custom Thursday evening by holding an open meeting to which the lady and gentlemen friends of the brothers were invited. Quite a goodly number responded, and after the preliminary business, the gathering was addressed by Rev. Leonard B. Hatch, Grand Senator of Massachusetts, who spoke upon secret orders in general and the Essenic order in particular. He spoke at length upon the good work that secret orders were doing, and how much they did in the way of teaching people to be sociable, for people needed to be educated to be social.

At the close of the address there was a vocal selection by Mr. Charles Tanner of Wollaston, following which there was a social dance until midnight, music being furnished by Richardson's orchestra.

THE GOLDEN KEY.

Presentation at Mock Session of the Quincy Court.

There was an unusual number of guardians of the peace from the East Norfolk District present at this morning's session and as they had no cases in court their presence was somewhat of a surprise. It soon came out that they had responded to the following summons.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Norfolk, P. S. To the Sheriff of our County of Poorfolk, or either of his legal bloodhounds, or either of his judicial bums of any city or town with said Commonpoor, Greeting.

In the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you and each of you are hereby commanded to appear on the ninth day of April, A. D., 1897, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, before the Justices of the District Court of East Norfolk, to be holden at Quincy, to dishonor the court with your presence on the occasion of the elevation of Court Officer Burns to the beknighted office of Bearer of the Golden Key and Custodian of the Den of Inferno.

Hereof fail not at your peril and be present in person on this august occasion, or your body, dead or alive, will be seized and held until such time as sufficient reparation shall be made to said court.

Witness, F. A. SPEAR,
Injustice of said court.
I. N. KSLINGER, Clerk.

A true copy,—Attest:
I. N. KSLINGER.

The presentation came after the criminal business of the court and the first intimation that Officer Burns had of the affair was when Clerk John P. S. Churchill, acting as judge ascended to the bench and called order.

John McKnight acting as clerk, I. N. Kslinger, read the summons which Patrick Butler, a police officer, swore he had served at an expense to the court of 11 cents, of which 6 cents were for doughnuts for Fitz, 2 cents were for peanuts and 3 cents for car fare.

Judge Churchill briefly addressed the assemblage, outlining the history of the District Court of East Norfolk, and ending by presenting Officer Michael J. Burns with a golden key.

The key was some three feet in length, was made of wood and was covered with gilt paper.

Clerk I. N. Kslinger in his most beautiful voice read the following poem, to which Officer Burns briefly responded:

THE KEY-NOTE.

Hail, Michael, guardian of a people's might,
Thyself, of warriors bold, the noblest knight,
The safety of our County rests with thee,
While thy strong arm upholds the magic key.

If crime and lawlessness doth talk by day,
And, under darkness too doth hold full sway,
Where else shall we from danger flee,
But 'neath the shadows of thy mighty key.

Be thou our bulwark 'gainst oppression's might,
Save justice too, from lawyers' quibbling spite,
Enforce the letter of the court's decree,
And rap for order with thy ponderous key.

When Maurice Pierce with Milton's grasping host,
Invades our court room at tremendous cost,
Which Churchill pays with evidential glee,
O then protect us with thy noble key.

When Butler, Fitz, and Michael Allen too,
Descend from Weymouth with their "mountain dew,"
And wondrous tales do tell of victory,
Aid slighted truth then, with thy golden key.

Uphold thy office with true dignity,
And O beware of Spear's sweet sophistry,
Should lawyers scoff at justice bright,
Yield not thyself to trembling fright.
Seize fast the key with thy strong arm,
Advance erect and fear no harm,
And when the judge says: "Seize that man,"
Stop not to ask what shall be done.
But act at once, thy courage show,
McKay will help you as will Hayden Joe.

And, when the scribes converse aloud,
O then restrain thy feelings proud,
Uphold the press and thou shalt be,
A worthy guardian of the golden key

Sociable.

Witham, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Chas. F. Wilde, Mrs. Elbert H. Brock, Mrs. F. D. Osgood and Mrs. Mills.

The hall was tastefully decorated with bunting and potted plants. Hanson's orchestra hidden amid palms rendered choice selections. David Goss was floor director and the aids: Frank M. Chubbuck, J. The Late Mrs. Keith.

The uncertainity of human affairs is not often so plainly shown as in the recent death of Mrs. Aubrey R. Keith. A tender mother, with a heart full of plans for the future of her family, has been, almost without warning, taken away from those to whom her life had been devoted. Three children have been deprived of the affection which had so far watched over and guided them, and the helping hand of a good wife has been withdrawn from a bereaved husband.

It is a melancholy solace that her last days were brightened by the unremitting services of her physician, the unceasing attentions of her friends and family, and the tireless devotion of a loving sister. Every possible effort having been made to save a precious life, it now remains for the afflicted ones to submit to the decree of our heavenly Father. She might well have said:

"And friends, dear friends, when it shall be
That this low breath is gone from me,
And round my bier ye come to weep,
Let one, most loving of you all.
Say, 'Not a tear must o'er her fall;
He giveth his beloved sleep'."

WANT HIDES ADMITTED FREE.

New York and Boston Leather Trade Will Appeal to Senate.

New York, April 9.—Representatives in this city of the leather, harness, shoe and kindred trades held a preliminary meeting yesterday for the purpose of taking action in reference to the duty on hides proposed by the present session of congress. Charles A. Schieren, ex-mayor of Brooklyn, was elected chairman, and William McCarroll was chosen secretary. Word was received from Philadelphia and Boston that the leather men in those cities were organizing and would co-operate with the organization here.

Chairman Schieren, in voicing the sentiments of the meeting, said: "The trade learned on reliable authority that the finance committee of the senate proposed to take hides and skins from the free list and put 2 cents per pound duty on them. Such action by the government means the utter destruction of our export trade in leather, shoes, etc. Since 1871, when hides were placed on the free list, we built up an enormous export trade, which amounted to over $20,000,000, and gave employment to over 100,000 workmen in the tanneries and shoe factories last year. The shoe men are now beginning to export their shoes to South America and other countries with great success. In leather belting we export to almost every country on the globe. Within the past two years we have been enabled to meet the prices of foreign manufacturers, especially the English and German. All this trade will revert back again to the English and Germans if our government places a duty on raw material. Hides being a by-product a duty will not benefit the farmers, because cattle are bought, not for their hides only, but for the beef. The farmer would not receive any benefit, the profit going to the cattle slaughterers."

Boston, April 9.—The board of directors and other members of the New England Shoe and Leather association met yesterday to take action in opposition to any duty being placed on hides. A telegram was sent to the meeting being held in New York for the same purpose by the shoe and leather men, and it was arranged that committees of the New England and New York trades should join with those of other parts of the country in presenting reasons why hides should remain on the free list. The following committee was appointed to act in the matter: Andrew G. Webster, Robert Batcheller, Henry H. Proctor, W. M. Bullivant, George Fred Winch, William B. Rice, all of Boston; Ara Cushman, Maine; Hon. C. C. Corbin, Webster, Mass.; Hon. Carroll S. Page, Vermont, and Albert Wallace, New Hampshire. This committee later arranged for a vigorous prosecution of the work.

RHEUMATISM

THE EXPERIENCE OF A COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and I finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P. Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst case of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

Water * * * * of Life.

A Pure * * Spring Water.

The Shawmut Spring Water comes from a fissure in the face of a hill of Cranite in West Quincy, near the Metropolitan Park Reservation.

THE great depth from which it must originate is established by the fact that there is no change in the temperature of the water during the entire year. It is very cool in summer and never freezes in winter. It is of remarkable purity, clear and sparkling, and when in closed vessels keeps without change. It can have no superior as a table water and its constant use has proved very beneficial to persons suffering from Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints, Malaria, Indigestion, etc., as it speedily removes waste matter from the organs and cleanses the blood.

CERTIFICATE OF ANALYSIS.

State Assayer's Office, 297 Franklin Street.
BOSTON, MASS., August 13, 1894.

To F. J. FULLER, West Quincy, Mass.:

The sample of water marked Shawmut Spring, submitted for analysis has been carefully examined, with the following results:

It contains in parts per 100,000, by weight.

Silica,	.5000	Potassium Chloride,	.4818
Oxide Iron and Albumina	1.0000	Free Ammonia,	.0049
Lime, Carbonate,	.6889	Albuminoid Ammonia,	.0106
Magnesia "	.3056
Sodium, Chloride,	2.0100	Total,	5.0000

This is an excellent water of remarkable purity.

H. L. BOWKER, State Assayer.

The analysis confirms in the strongest manner the long reputed purity and medicinal properties of the Water.

is on the side of a hill, with nothing but trees and rocks above it, so that no WASH from cultivated fields (containing elements of danger) or other polluted grounds. Where so much stress is laid upon the value of the pure qualities of a medicinally beneficial water, the value of this statement will be appreciated by physicians and especially by those having the responsibility for the water furnished in large public institutions.

A strong testimony to the value of the Shawmut Spring Water is found in the support it has received from local physicians, whose opportunities for an exact knowledge of its beneficial properties are the best.

DR. F. S. DAVIS of Quincy says: "I consider it the very best drinking water I have ever used."

DR. HENRY C. HALLOWELL of Quincy says: "I do not know of any water which on the whole I prefer to this."

DR. HUNTING of Quincy says: "I find it a very agreeable water of remarkable purity."

DR. HENRY BLANCHARD of Neponset says: "For drinking purposes I know of none better."

REV. EDWARD WARREN VIRGIN says: "It is superior in taste and purity to any spring water I know of."

REV. WM. H. ALLBRIGHT, Pastor Pilgrim Church, Boston, says: "It is pure, pleasant and health-giving, and a very excellent table water."

DR. E. T. TWITCHELL of Ashmont, Dorchester, says: "No better water could be used in cases of sickness."

DR. W. G. FULLER of Unity, Maine, says: I have suffered for the past five years from Kidney and Rheumatic Troubles, and lately I have drank both the plain and carbonated water copiously and exclusively, and although I have used it for only six weeks I have derived a great benefit from it."

It is also highly recommended by Dr. D. D. GILBERT, 308 Boston St., Dorchester; DR. REYNALD, 29 Monadnock St.; DR. PUTNAM, 351 Massachusetts Ave., Boston; Dr. A. T. BUSWELL, 204 West Springfield St.; PROF. COBB, 271 Columbus Ave., and many others.

Although known and used for fifty years, Shawmut Spring Water has only recently been introduced to the public.

This Water charged and lithiated is put up in pint and quart bottles. Still Water is put up in one, two and five gallon glass jars.

German Play.

The German department of the Woodward school, numbering about fifty of the young ladies, gave Friday afternoon a delightful delineation of the famous fairy story, "Cinderella, or the Glass Slipper." The dialogue was entirely in German, and given with good expression. Miss Eva Phillips made a charming Cinderella, while Miss Eva Feltis was such a fascinating prince that it was no wonder the haughtly step-sisters, Miss Helen Claflin and Miss Edith Stanley fell deeply in love. Indeed, these young ladies looked and acted their parts so well that the audience could but wonder how the prince could be so insensible to their attractions.

Miss Florence Carr as the stepmother did excellently while Miss Stella Cannon as the Herald and Miss Mary Elcock as a Courtier carried off a share of the honors. It was, however, in their case as in that of the Fairy Godmother we said all too little of them. If no mention were made of the scene-shifters or to speak more correctly the "screen-shifters," a very important part would be omitted. It was no small matter to lift four folding screens on and off the stage several times, as was necessary in lieu of a curtain. It was done by four young ladies gracefully and expeditiously.

The musical programme was as good as usual or even better. Die Lovelei, o Folk Songs being especially sweet. Parents of Quincy fortunate enough to have daughters with Miss Small and her able assistants are to be congratulated. One parent at least can testify to daily gratitude to Dr. Woodward for his benefaction, as well as to those gentlemen who have the matter in charge.

Personal.

The Times Union of Jacksonville, Fla., contained in its issue of Wednesday this item of local interest in the Hawk's Park department:

Henry P. Kittredge of Quincy, Mass., is one of the regular winter visitors. He has traveled extensively in Florida and the South for the past twelve years, and thinks the east coast and Indian river the place to spend the winter. Mr. Kittredge is an expert angler and good with the rod and reel, having landed some fine catches of fish this winter such as the sea trout, bluefish, grooper, sheepshead and cawallie. Many of these were taken on the lower Indian river while cruising and yachting near the ocean inlets.

Mr. Kittredge's friend, Frederick E. Goss, has recovered his health and made many friends during the past three months, and he, too, sings the praises of balmy Florida. They will return North next week on the steamship La Grande Duchesse, and all hope to see them another season.

BRAINTREE.

The executive committee of the Union Choral society met Tuesday night and made arrangements for the concert that is to take place in the Town Hall, April 28. The rehearsal took place Wednesday night as usual. Next Wednesday night all the soloists for the Rebekah will be present and every member of the society is urged to be there.

In place of vesper service Dr. William Gallagher, of Thayer Academy, will give a stereopticon lecture on Bible lands and scenes, in the First church tomorrow evening.

The Woman's Relief Corps, 94, met at at G. A. R. hall, Monday evening. Four new members were added to their number. Quite a number of visitors were present from Woman's Relief corps of Randolph. Cake coffee, and ice cream were served and a social time was enjoyed.

The Universalists gave an Easter supper in G. A. R. hall Wednesday night.

If we should say that the High school entertainment given in the Town Hall last Tuesday night was a gratifying success we should not be doing the matter justice. There is nothing that so interests the people as an entertainment in which the children take part, and the pupils seemed to realize this and did their best to entertain the large audience present.

HOW WEARY IS OUR HEART!

Of kings and courts, of kingly, courtly ways
In which the life of man is bought and sold,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Of ceremonious embassies that hold,
Parley with hell in fine and silken phrase,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Of wavering counselors neither hot nor cold,
Whom from his mouth God speweth be, it told
How weary is our heart these many days!

Yea, for the raveled night is round the lands,
And sick are we of all the imperial story.
The tramp of power and its long trail of pain;
The mighty brows in meanest arts grown hoary;
The mighty hands
That in the dear, affronted name of peace
Bind down a people to be racked and slain;
The emulous armies, waxing without cease,
All puissant, all in vain;
The pacts and leagues to murder by delays,
And the dumb throngs that on the deaf thrones gaze;
The common, loveless lust of territory,
The lips that only babble of their mart,
While to the night the shrieking hamlets blaze
The bought allegiance and the purchased praise,
False honor and shameful glory—
Of all the evil whereof this is part
How weary is our heart!
How weary is our heart these many days!
—William Watson.

LEADING HEARTS.

"A disappointment connected with something near your heart, and—let me see!"

She turned the cards up meditatively on the shining oak table and put her hands to her head in a pretty affectation of wisdom.

"That means love," laying her finger on the five of hearts, "eternal love—the love of some woman. It looks like an old friend, and she runs in hearts, I think. Yes, she is quite light. Can you place her?"

"As far as the coloring goes," he laughed. "I know any number of light women—yourself, for instance."

"Oh, I'm not in it! My hair is too yellow. This one is more of the demi-blond; something like Miss Maitland—bronze hair and blue eyes."

"My dear girl, Miss Maitland isn't a blond at all. If you can't do better than that for me, I'll throw up the whole concern."

She smiled and ran off a few more cards, counting every third one in quite a professional manner.

"Well, if it's not Miss Maitland," shaking her head, "you will have to fill in the name yourself. There is the ace of spades. That's bad luck and a death and— Oh, there's your wish! Have you made a wish?"

He shook his head. "You didn't tell me."

"Well, I tell you now. Make it right away, and a good one, too, for I believe it's going to come true."

"But," he protested, leaning forward and resting his arms on the table, "if I make such an important one I want a guarantee. Are you prepared to give it to me?"

"Don't be absurd, Jack; this is serious. Now, wish something good."

"Must I tell you what it is?"

"No," doubtfully. "You don't have to, but you can if you want to."

"Well—I will tell you if I get it. Now, mind, this is very important."

"Select three cards then. Does it concern a woman?"

"Yes."

"I might have known it. Is she light or dark?"

"That would be telling."

"Oh, you are too provoking!" petulantly picking up the cards. "It would serve you right if I said you didn't get your old wish at all."

"But you won't do that?"

"Be still. I will if you don't let go of my hands. See! You are making me drop all the cards."

"Nonsense! I'll help you pick them up. Just tell me if I get my wish."

"Well, I'll see. There's that ten of diamonds, and the deuce, and—ah, the ace of hearts! You will have it, sure, but there is a little disappointment just at first. I see—dear me, Jack! What are you doing? Let go my hands."

"Not until you have given me a guarantee for my wish."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean—oh, well, you have known it all along. You are my wish. No, no, don't move. Come, dear, be serious with me for once."

"But I don't want to be serious," she cried, trying to draw away from him. "You have spoiled all my fortune. Look! Here I see a gift coming."

"What do I care for the cards or anything else in the world but you? Come, Nell! Give me an answer. You must have some feeling of kindness in your heart for me, your old friend."

"That's it," she whispered falteringly, for the first time letting her eyes meet his. "We are such old friends. I have known you all my life—I —" rubbing her hand on the table nervously, "I am fonder of you than almost any one, but how can I tell if that is love? Jack, dear, can't we go on in the old way? I don't want to marry." Her fingers closed pleadingly. "Why should we spoil it all by getting married?"

He made a quick, impatient gesture.

"Oh, yes! I know it is different with men, but I would be contented to live on just as we are for years. Why, see! We would never know what it was to tire of each other. We would not have all the romance brushed off our love by the monotonous intimacy of married life. We would have all of the delight with none of the despair. I don't know why marriage should be regarded as the height and pinnacle of earthly bliss. It seems to me it is the one great institution that destroys love."

She gave a restless sigh and let her chin sink into the soft palms of her hands. The pink light from the lamp fell upon her yellow hair, where it lay in babyish rings on her forehead.

He stood looking at her a moment, his heart smothered with pain and longing and love. Then he leaned slowly forward and took both her hands from her face and held them in the firm clasp of his.

"Nell, dear," he said softly, "you talk this way because you don't know what love is. Why, do you suppose for a moment that a mere pleasant companionship would satisfy a man who loved you? He would be only half a man to accept what you suggested. As for me, I cannot go on with our friendship. I will not take a crust when I have asked for bread. You cannot help it, dear, and I must drop out of your life and live my own as best I may."

He dropped her hands, and, turning away, began to finger mechanically the little string that regulated the lamp until the flame began to flicker and finally went out.

"I beg your pardon. I have a match. I can light it again," he muttered hastily.

She watched him in silence as he struck a light and with a steady hand once more sent a soft glow over the room.

Her eyes traveled to his face, with the light shining full upon it. It was strangely still. She felt a peculiar little fluttering sensation in her throat.

"Jack," she whispered falteringly.

He turned in a sudden passion, and catching both her hands drew her near to him—so near that his white face was almost touching hers.

She did not move, but a deep flush crept over his tanned cheeks, and his arms tightened convulsively. The force of his clasp crushed and hurt her. His face came nearer, nearer. Their breaths mingled. Then, with a sharp exclamation, he loosened his hold—so quickly, so suddenly, that she almost fell backward.

"Forgive me," he muttered hoarsely. Don't speak to me. Good night. Say good night to your mother too."

He pulled aside the curtain with a rough hand and stepped into the hall. She could hear him getting into his coat. Her hands were still fingering the cards. From the force of habit she turned three up. Her eyes fell upon them as they lay under the lamplight.

A mistake—he was getting his cane now. A—the door was opening—a heartache. She felt the cool night wind on her neck and turned slightly. Then there was the sound of the closing door echoing through the silent house—a mistake.

Her eyes clung to the cards. They seemed to mock her. She stretched her arms out blindly toward the door and tried to call his name, but her lips did not move.

Then in a frenzy of pain she scattered the cards on the table. Her eyes fell suddenly upon one. She snatched it recklessly from the pack, and rushing into the hall flung the door wide open.

"Jack! Jack!" she panted.

He was half way down the steps, and as he paused and turned toward her, she impulsively threw the card at his feet. He stooped wonderingly, and raising it held it up to the light.

It was the five of hearts.

"Nell!" he cried, springing up the steps. His voice was hardly to be recognized.

A sudden flutter of nervousness swept over her, and with a throb of fear she slammed the door tight, but he knocked heavily against the panels.

"Nell, Nell, open! What do you mean?"

The door did not move.

"Sweetheart!"

Then there was a little uncertain turning of the knob and a crack of light appeared. Crushing through it, he caught the slight, trembling form in his quivering arms.

"Nell, Nell, what do you mean?"

"I mean," her words falling spasmodically from her lips, "I mean that I want to give you my—guarantee."—Leigh Ford in Truth.

The Windsor Castle Ghost.

Lieutenant Glyn, the young guardsman who recently encountered a "ghost" in Windsor castle, continues to insist that his eyes did not deceive him, and, judging from the details of his experience which he gravely gives to all inquirers, it is more than probable that he is quite right, at least so far as regards his assertion that he "saw something." It is easy to see something almost anywhere, and in Windsor castle there is a large number of people who may well have little affairs of their own which their duty as royal servitors prevents them from attending to except in ways as mysterious as possible. Be that as it may, Lieutenant Glyn courageously, perhaps indiscreetly, declares: First, that he was sitting quietly in the castle library, improving his mind by a perusal of "The History of Dorsetshire;" second, that, glancing up from this far from exciting volume, he saw a woman in black, with black lace on her head and falling to her shoulders, who passed noiselessly across the room and disappeared in a corner that was out of his range of view.

This is all there was to the apparition, and the lieutenant—wisely enough—would have thought nothing more of the episode had not an attendant come in soon after to close the library. Lieutenant Glyn told the man that there was a lady in the inner room. The servant investigated. There was no lady. And the chief librarian, who was then summoned, immediately declared that the young man had seen the specter of Queen Elizabeth. Lieutenant Glyn was willing to let it go at that, and the story has deeply impressed everybody in England except a few cynics. The dean of Windsor took pains to get all the details, "several members of the royal family" have interviewed the guardsman, and the papers have given much space to the occurrence. Meanwhile, doubtless, some young woman is blessing the superstitious tendency of her fellow countrymen, and it's not impossible that some young man is equally pleased at it.—New York Times.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic. For the Week Beginning April 11. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—"The brotherhood of man."—I John iii, 1-24. (A missionary topic.)

John is the great apostle of love. Paul emphasized faith, Peter hope, James works, but John love. In this chapter he speaks of love between man and man and argues that, as God has loved men, so men should love one another, because all men are brethren.

The Bible plainly teaches the universal brotherhood of man. When Christ taught us to pray "Our Father, the One in heaven," He not only declared the fatherhood of God, but also the brotherhood of man. All men are brothers. We have one common origin, practically one common life and one common destiny. We have all descended from one parentage, we share the common joys and sorrows of life, and we all pass away from life in exactly the same way. We have one common Father in God and one elder brother and Saviour in the Lord Jesus Christ. We are the sons of God, and, being the sons of God, we are brethren. This brotherhood extends to all men. It is universal. It is not limited by nationality, by religion, by color or by lot or position in life. The Chinese as well as the American, the black man as well as the white man, the heathen as well as the Christian, the poor man as well as the rich man, the one in low position as well as the one in high position, is our brother. He is in theory; but, alas, how seldom he is in practice! He is on paper; but, alas, how often he is not in real, actual life! But he is and ought to be in the one as well as the other.

The brotherhood of man brings important obligations upon men in relation to one another. The first obligation is love. Brethren should love one another, and, since all men are brethren, all men should love one another. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" is the second great commandment from God, and "brother" might well be substituted for "neighbor," for all men are our neighbors. Loving one another, mankind should live in peace and harmony. When there was strife between the herdsmen of Abram and Lot, Abram said to Lot, "Let there be no strife between me and thee and my herdsmen and thy herdsmen, for we be brethren." Nation and nation, man and man, should dwell together in peace and harmony, for all are brethren. The second great obligation of brotherhood is helpfulness in time of need. One brother is under obligation to assist another in the hour of his need. We cannot fold our arms and ask, "Am I my brother's keeper?" We are. "Whoso hath this world's goods and seeth his brother have need and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" This applies not only to temporal but also to spiritual needs. Our brothers the world over have need of the gospel. We have it and the power to supply their need. Our common brotherhood obligates us to do so.

Bible Readings.—Gen. iv, 1-11; xiii, 7, 8; Deut. xv, 7, 8; xxiv, 14, 15; Math. xviii, 15-17; xxii, 39; xxiii, 8; xxviii, 19, 20; Luke x, 25-39; xv, 1-24; xvi, 19-31; John iii, 16; xv, 8-14; Rom. i, 14; Gal. vi, 2; Jas. i, 27; I Pet. ii, 17.

Endeavorers Everywhere.

It seems as if one cannot go anywhere in all the world these days without meeting Christian Endeavorers. While Dr. Clark was crossing the Red sea he found no less than ten Christian Endeavorers aboard the ship, and on the Sunday evening of the voyage a delightful Christian Endeavor prayer meeting was held. Incidentally the cosmopolitan character of Christian Endeavor was shown by the fact that one of these Endeavorers was from England, two were from Canada, two from Australia and the others from four of the United States. Several of them were on their way to the foreign mission field.

Be Thou Revived.

Those who would see the cause of God prospering must attend closely to their own piety, and see to it that it is not so defective as to greatly if not entirely hinder them from successfully working for God. Unquestionably there are many who must look more to themselves than is ordinarily the case with them if they would availingly pray, "O Lord, revive Thy work." The answer of this prayer, as offered by them, must commence with them. In their own revival must be the beginning of that revival for which they pray.—Watchman.

A Ghastly Struggle.

The agony of one age is the birth of a better life for its child, and every martyr gains some good for those following. It is a ghastly struggle any way one looks at it, but it is not meaningless nor fruitless. The day breaks slowly, and the sun, as yet, hardly pierces through the banks of black cloud, but the east is glowing, and the darkest is past.—Ian Maclaren.

The Survival of the Fittest.

If we were to believe in the survival of the fittest, there would not be much chance for some of us. But the glory of the gospel is this—that God comes to the infant, to the marred and spoiled, to those who have thwarted and resisted Him, and that He is prepared to make them over, and if you will let Him He will make you too.—F. B. Meyer.

Exceedingly Rare.

The pew can do more to fill our churches than the pulpit, but where both agencies possess a drawing power an empty seat will be exceedingly rare. —Presbyterian.

Irish Endeavorers.

The Irish Endeavorers are hoping to obtain in 1899 the convention of the British union, which in 1897 will go to Liverpool, and in 1898 to Glasgow.

The Neutral Man.

The neutral man is controlled by supreme love of self. The question of right to him is nothing.—Lutheran.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. V.

Before leaving Galveston on Friday, Feb. 19th, most of the editors in our cars laid in a good supply of can goods, soda biscuit, cookies, jellies, tea, fruit etc., also small alcohol lamps. They took this precaution before going into Mexico, as we were told that the food there was not very palatable, and also because we had found it very difficult often to get food of any kind when traveling on a long journey.

We left Galveston at 10 P. M. for Houston, about 50 miles away, and from there by the Sunset route to San Antonio, 260 miles more. Southern Pacific has an excellent road bed and we rolled along so smoothly that all enjoyed a good night's rest.

We arrived at the historical city of San Antonio about 8 A. M., and found it quite a pleasant place of about 50,000 inhabitants. The weather was warm and mild, and the plaza, near the beautiful hotel where we stopped, looked very attractive.

But this ground has a history. Texas was first settled by the French in 1686, under La Salle. The Spaniards came here on the banks of the Rio Grande in 1703, and the intrigues and jealousies between France and Spain were long continued. Spain established her missions all about this territory and the buildings were strongly built to withstand the attacks of the Indians and thus afford shelter for the settlers and their friends. The most celebrated of all the missions was the Alamo, which was one of the first places we visited. A feeling of awe and reverence steals over one as he enters. The story of the battle is familiar and will bear repeating again and again.

It was in February 1836, in the struggle of the Texans for their independence from Mexico that Col. W. P. Travis, commanding the forces at San Antonio, found himself confronted with 5000 Mexicans under Santa Anna. The Alamo was an old mission, converted into a fort, and at that time comprised a stockade surrounded by a high wall as well as the fort proper. Col. Travis had but 140 men under his command, but with this slender guard the siege was maintained for some time. Thirty-two men subsequently joined the little band in response to an urgent appeal for aid, making 172 in all. They were finally driven within the walls of the old mission house. Death seemed inevitable. The Mexicans outnumbered the Americans thirty to one, and a storm of shot and shell had been poured into the doomed enclosure for more than 24 hours.

Col. Travis called his devoted band around him and said to them that three conditions were before them. One was to attempt to escape and be shot down to a man by their relentless foes; another was to surrender and meet a like fate, and the third was to die fighting to the last. For his part he chose the latter, and drawing a line with his sword across the earth floor of their fortress prison he called upon all who were like-minded to come over the line. Every man but one went over the line. Col. Bowie, the inventor of the bowie knife, was sick with tyhhoid fever and lay upon a cot in one of the cloisters. He begged that his cot be brought out and carried over the line and it was done. One man said he had a family and could not make up his mind to face such an inevitable death. He scaled the wall on the last night of the attack, and finally made his escape.

The final assault was made at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, March 6, 1836, the Texan cannon and rifles mowing down the Mexicans until an entrance was forced, and the Texans not having time to reload clubbed their muskets and fought till the last man fell. A Mexican historian who accompanied Santa Anna states that about 2000 fell in the assault on the Alamo, independent of those killed in the previous eleven days of the siege. Santa Anna delayed his march to rejoice over his victory, and while he did so the forces under Sam Houston had rallied and massed themselves, so that when they met the enemy at San Jacinto, the cause of independence was vindicated in a glorious victory, and Travis and his Spartan band were avenged.

Four women and a child who were in the Alamo were spared, and one of these women, a Mexican half breed named Madam Candelaria, is now living in San Antonio at the great age of 114 years. Many of the editors called upon her and purchased her photograph.

An attraction near the Alamo is a saloon kept by a German, who has all kinds of horns, not only those that are good to take, but those taken from animals. It is said he has the largest collection in the world; and no one visiting his place has any reason to doubt it, as it is immense, and said to be worth over $50,000.

The afternoon was largely spent in riding about the city in open street cars, and seeing the various places of interest. One of the most attractive was at Government Hill, where is located the United States military post. It is about one mile from the Alamo, on elevated grounds, overlooking the city and is very attractive. It is the headquarters of the military department of Texas, and covers some fifty acres, and many troops are stationed there. The post, with its ample parade grounds, arsenals, officers' quarters, barracks, cavalry accommodations, and workshops, make a most complete and handsome military establishment.

The city is divided by a river of the same name, into the American and Mexican quarters, and it was a curious sight to go through the Mexican quarters, although we saw more odd sights when we got into real Mexico.

An incident occurred that will be likely to make this trip remembered by one family in San Antonio for some time to come We were riding through the negro quarters in the outskirts of the city when it became necessary to stop the cars in consequence of some repairs upon the street. Of course, the long line of cars filled with visitors, attracted no little attention. One of the wondering spectators was a young mother, very black, with a four weeks' old baby in her arms. The little thing at once became the centre of attraction, and of course the ladies of the party went into ecstasies over it. By-and-by the visitors began to make the mother the recipient of small coins, and she must have realized quite a neat little sum. She was accompanied by a half naked little piccaninny about eight years old, and her shouts of laughter and wild antics of joy as she dove into the dirt to pick up the coins that were tossed to them, afforded an amusement that was continued until the cars were started.

San Antonio is the most attractive city that we saw in Texas. In fact, more so, than any city we had seen since leaving St. Louis. The climate is mild throughout the winter, which makes the city a famous health resort, and we would have been pleased to have stopped a day or two for our "delicate health," but was warned that our train left at 9 P. M. After listening to a fine instrumental concert at the hotel, we started with others for our cars, and was soon on our way to Eagle Pass, the southern gateway into Mexico.

Although the mountain path is steep and night is long and drear,
Above the clouds, in beauty grand, the stars are shining clear.
Below the surface of the sea, by tempests undismayed,
The ocean's tenants feel no storms, but gambol unafraid.
What though the clouds are hanging low and troubles sore oppress?
There is a balm for all our pain; each wrong has its redress.

Then why should erring mortals fall disheartened by the way
That winds above the hill crests dark to mountain heights of day?
Although across life's rugged path a veil of mist is drawn
And mountain tops in triumph rise, enpurpled with the dawn,
The morn of peace will dawn at last, and angels pure will smile
Upon the patient journeyers who struggled on awhile.

THE ARGUMENTS of Chief of Police Hayden in his communication to the City Council for a better police station were exceedingly well put and covered the ground thoroughly. There is need certainly of changes, but it seems unnecessary to house tramps at our police stations, if it calls for a large expenditure. It is exposing too much city property to risk from fire and endangering the health of those who have offices in the building. If some outside arrangements could be made for tramps at the Almshouse or elsewhere, the police station might be sufficiently large. If not it could be easily enlarged. We are, however, firmly of the opinion that City Hall should be remodelled and if better police accommodations can then be provided, all well and good. To remodel City Hall to make it convenient for all offices of city officials should not call for a large expenditure and it would be money well spent. The communication of the Chief will appear in full in Monday's LEDGER.

DID IT occur to the committees of the City Council in their efforts to keep down the expenses of the fire department of the city, that it might have been better to reduce the pay of the call men in the outlying districts rather than the membership? It is a notable fact that the members of some companies have not earned for years the salaries of $50 paid. If it is a fact, as stated in the Council by more than one, that plenty of help will respond at fires if the apparatus only gets there, it ought not to be difficult to get a large company for $10 or $20 per year. But at $25 each, the salaries of call men would be reduced one-half and nearly enough saved to employ one permanent man. We venture that it would be more satisfactory to the companies, and that the large companies would give better service than small ones.

MR. A. G. DURGIN has received several replies from organizations of the city favorable to the proposed new large hall, but it is a bit surprising that all the postals have not been returned ere this. An official statement or binding agreement is not required, but some tangible information which will give the promoters assurance that the people of the city really desire a large hall. Such a hall means much for the local business men of Quincy, and also the social life of the city, and there should be some patriotism shown. In the past the movement has not been encouraging to capitalists, and a large hall does not promise large returns, but public spirited citizens should be encouraged. Don't let this opportunity of securing a large hall go by default because of apathy of our citizens and our organizations.

PEOPLE WILL soon have the impression that Boston is not the best governed city in the world. There have been many startling disclosures in the police investigation, the paving department, the military and the city printing plant. Is it any wonder that the suburban cities do not want to be enrolled with Boston. There is much to be desired besides bigness; we were about to say greatness, but there is a difference. It is not usually the clumsy shoes that are the best, and it is for this reason that Quincy does not desire to step into Boston's shoe.

GOOD FOR Fitzsimmons! He knows when he has got enough, and will not fight again to maintain championship of the world. He resigns the title, satisfied with what he has made.

IT IS to be regretted that Massachusetts granite could not have been used for the new Union station in Boston, instead of Connecticut granite.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. OUR CHILDREN.

Not a Home of Happiness and Real Life Without Them.

Parents Responsible for the Character of Children.

Bad Boys and Questionable Girls Inherit Perverseness.

Rev. A. A. Brown, the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at West Quincy introduced his sermon Sabbath morning with some thoughts on "Our Children." They may be unpleasant words to some, but are worthy of consideration by the masses:

We are all lovers of children. Their innocent prattle, their credulous nature, their innumerable questions that no man can answer, amuse us, provoke us, inspire us. We love them because of what they really are; we love them because of what they promise to be. Not only are they God's most sacred and loving gift emboying in their tiny selves the sweetest, most tender and most beautiful qualities of nature, but they also take rank with the world's most effective teachers instructing us daily in faith and love and purity of life in a manner that will tell upon us throughout the longest reach of our immortality.

The home in which the footfalls of childhood are never heard, and the prattle of innocent voices never disturbs the unbroken quiet is more sepulchral than homelike, more of a place of mere abode than a place of happiness and real life. Tiny eyes will sparkle with mischief; tiny fingers will be meddlesome; and tiny countenances will be radiant with a smile at the very moment when the gravity of their mischief demands seriousness and penitence; but our patience receives a most ample requital and our forbearance a ten-fold recompense when we see a face that before punishment could be inflicted had forgotten what he wrought, and before we could make him understand he was asleep in our arms.

Yes, this is the homage that innocence pays to patience; this is the requital that childhood renders a mother's love. And is it not sufficient? Does it not more than meet the requirements of the case? What mother will contend that this restless innocence does not pay his way as he goes along. What parent is there who has had the care of his child for even a half dozen summers but that enjoys the consciousness that he is paid in full up to date, and would gladly endorse the sentiment that affirms "For value received I promise for this my child to do my best."

The very best that God can do in a world like this is Unveiled in Childhood.

Beauty incarnate is infancy and childhood. Landscapes may be beautiful. Sunsets amid cloudy mountains whose fleecy summits have been dipped in molten gold are beautiful and inspiring. The midnight watchmen that bespangle the firmament with worlds that roll at Jehovah's feet may bespeak beauty and majesty and harmony that approach the Infinite. But these are as cold as icebergs and as loveless as mountains of granite in comparison with the living beauty that sleeps and smiles in his cradle home. If you would see beauty, therefore, go not, I beseech you, to babbling brooks, or to the gardens of the gods; go not to mead or dale, forest or mountain; go not among the flowers where pansies smile, and roses blush and daffodils perfume the very air you breathe; but go to the cradle where happy infancy smiles in sleep and chubby hands for a moment are still.

But wait a moment. Is childhood all sentiment? Do beauty, innocence and love form the sum total of his life? Or is he not man in minature, greatness potential? The child is the embodiment of the genus which, when matured, embellish womanhood with grace and strength, and manhood with power and greatness. He is the foundation stone upon which is to be erected the edifice of his character. Shall this building be stately and beautiful, spacious and useful? Or shall it be an unsightly hut or hovel, a disgrace to the community in which it stands, and a blotch upon the civilization that grants it its tenure?

Youth very seldom builds a different edifice of character than that which parents or guardian has already begun. The probabilities are that when the moulding of his character is practically transferred from other hands into his own, he will but continue the building he finds already in process of erection. This being true, all we who in any way touch his life are workmen. We must study to show ourselves approved as unto God, workmen that need not be ashamed. If you would have him honest, be honest with him. If you would have him kind, be kind in in his presence. If you would have him true, be true yourself. You may deceive him a few times, but the end of such deception is already at hand. He can see through any sham that you put before him. He may forget the prayers you teach him, but he will not forget the profanity that he heard fall from your lips. He may forget the times you were sweet and kind to him, but he will never forget the time you lost your temper and scolded till the air was fairly blues and he wished he were dead.

He'll Never Forget That.

You will of course soon take him on your knee and in an apologetic strain will tell him you did not mean it. But the little whitehead merely laughs in his sleeves, for he is no longer a dupe, while down on memory's page he write this sentence, "To ill-temper add a lie for mamma, does it." Fool him will you? Not so. You may deceive the elect, but not thechildren.

The trouble with many of our boys today is they are too much like their parents. Many of you will take exception to me when I contend that nine-tenths of the bad boys and questionable girls of today received the elements of their preverseness from their parents. I would not have you understand me to mean that a criminal youth must necessarily have had a criminal father. Be such an utterance far from me! But this I do mean, that if the parent at middle life have but the elements say of deception or of dishonesty, the child begins his career with these elements, and by the time he attains middle life these milder sins have conceived and brought forth their legitimate off-spring which is little short of criminality. In other words the germ that was found in the father was developed in the son, and it will bring him to rags and poverty, damnation and hell.

If the parents are unduly gay, what else can they expect if their children be beguiled by the ballroom and emasculated at the hands of the damnable theatre. If the parent be a persistent tippler, he should not complain if his son wollow in drunkenness and strangle to death in a fit of delirium. Such a parent may be an evolutionist in theory, but he is a devilutionist in experience. He may believe in going up but he persists in going down. Thank God this is not always true! In some instances the son has inherited sufficient manhood withal which when stimulated by wholesome tuition, enables him to redeem the family whence he came. But this is exceptional and hence all the more dangerous.

The truth of the matter is the destiny of your boy is largely in your hands. He may be poor but that cannot harm him. Poverty and rags possess no intrigue sufficient to ensnare his manhood. The finest quality of American manhood has been familiar with penury and sheltered by a cabin roof. But these lads in every instance were blessed with and the youth's native qualities were reinforced with salutary precept and example As a consequence, penury was soon forgotten and the cabin home became but a memory.

Let the riches you leave your children be the riches of manhood and womanhood and the wealth of integrity and virtue. These are stable. All others are vanishing. These are more firm than the pillars of the world, and more enduriug than the stars of night. Your boy will not be happy because he is rich in bonds and treasures, but he will be happy because he is good and useful. Many of this world's most discontented people are those who are so rich they do not have to be useful. While many of the most contented and happy are those who are compelled to be useful in order to live. Manhood therefore reenforced with sterling integrity will save the boys for home and country and God.

David prayed, "Deliver me from the hand of strange children." The exegete informs us that the reference is to cruel-hearted, perverse and ill directed children. The Psalmist then asks that "Our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as cornerstones polished after the similitude of a palace." Who ever heard of a boy being as a plant or a girl as a cornerstone? Surely we had always thought it the reverse. Girls as plants with the paleness of the lily, the blush of the rose, and the sensitiveness of a touch-me-not; while we boys the firm foundation upon which all was dependent for stability and support, and if we wavered in the least, it would precipitate the entire structure into hopeless ruin.

But let us see. The inspired writer is referring to the homes of his country. Are boys to be the foundations of their homes? Is the man the foundation of his home? No, Why? Because you cannot make a foundation out of something that is never there. Two short visits during the day and a few hours at night in the home are not sufficient for its foundation. But the woman is there. She is there to abide; she becomes the foundation. But is the boy as the plant? Yes. The plant is wheat, and wheat is bread. That is, he is the provider, the business; the commercialist, the tradesman.

These then are the spheres of your children. The innocent childhood of today will be the responsible agents in the respective spheres of the activities of tomorrow. That they may do their best, shall we not do our best? That they may acquit themselves like men and women, shall we not do likewise? These little ones are the embodiments of our hopes. Like faith they are the substance of the things we hope for and the evidence of the things we expect to see. Then as teachers, preachers, parents and all, let us consider well our relation to the generation that will succeed us for what they learn from us, they in return will perpetuate in posterity.

Not Exactly Right

"Not Sick Enough for the Bed or Well Enough For the Table."

A Minister's Wife Aptly Describes a Well Known Condition and Tells How It Was Overcome.

There are thousands of people in all walks of life, particularly at this season, who are "not exactly right" and yet are not sick, for whom a single bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla would do a world of good, as it has done for others. Business and professional men as well as the busy housewife are especially susceptible to this debilitated feeling. It is the peculiar combination of the best tonic, anti-bilious, diuretic and alterative agents of the vegetable kingdom, carefully and scientifically combined, which enables Hood's Sarsaparilla to reach simple as well as serious ailments when all other medicines fail. Read Mrs. Hunt's letter:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs: — I trust that the publication of my testimonial may serve to introduce Hood's Sarsaparilla to many who need physical improvement, and lead them to give it a trial. My husband,

Rev. Granville Hunt

is a corpulent man weighing 230 pounds. He has taken Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring for the last eight years with good results. With the approach of spring he has had an indescribable feeling of ill health. 'Not sick enough for the bed, well enough for the table.' In a few words

Without Appetite and Vigor.

After I had used half a bottle of Hood's I realized quite an improvement and soon felt quite comfortable. I gained so much that I recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla to my nearest neighbor, who has had malarial symptoms. She has also taken the medicine and its effect upon her for good was almost magic. She has now prevailed upon her husband to take it to build him up. I have also given Hood's Sarsaparilla to my two little girls, one nearly 3 years old, who is not strong, consequently languid, and the other, 15 years old, for pimples which indicate bad blood and disfigure her complexion. Both have been helped by Hood's Sarsaparilla which I am glad heartily to recommend." MRS. G. HUNT, 101 West 31st Street, N. Y. City.

NEARLY DROWNED.

H. T. Whitman Shipwrecked—Resusticated with Difficulty.

Mr. H. T. Whitman had a pretty close call a few days ago. It will be remembered that he in company with Messrs. A. G. Olney and Henry M. Marsden of Wollaston went to Monomy island,—a long bleak sand dune which puts out into Nantucket sound from the elbow of Cape Cod,—a few days after brant and other water fowl. The party had an unusually good run of shooting, bringing home with them a big string of birds. But this good shooting and the risks which attended it came near costing Mr. Whitman his life, so near in fact that it appeared as though it would be impossible to resusticate him.

Mr. Whitman, who is a good shot, fired into a bunch of brant, killing one and winging another. Chase was given to the crippled bird in a cranky row boat with a fisherman bending lustily at the oars. As the boat rounded to on the bird Mr. Whitman made a grab at it, and as he did so, overturned the boat, pitching himself and companion into the water. They were quite a distance from land and no help was in sight. His companion was a good swimmer, while he was a fair one, and encumbered with heavy clothing and boots. They swam for the boat but it was so cranky that it was impossible to either clamber up on its bottom or right it. However, they managed to hang on. The minutes seemed hours as they hung there with no signs of being rescued. After some time Mr. Whitman's strength began fail and he gradually lapsed into unconsciousness. His companion clung to him and with hard work managed to keep his head above water, but it could be seen that the great amount of water which he had taken in when he went down was strangling him.

A fisherman on shore happened to be looking at the boat when it capsized. He started to launch his dory, but the tide was so far out that it was almost impossible to get the boat to the water. After about a quarter of an hour's hard work the boat was finally launched. When he reached the shipwrecked party Mr. Whitman was on the point of going under for the last time. He was dragged aboard in an unconscious state and taken ashore. A barrel was procured, and after considerable rolling over it, the water was ejected from his stomach and resustication was accomplished.

Universalist Church Notes.

The Dorcas society of the Universalist church cleared at their recent fair nearly sixty dollars. The money will be expended in grading the grounds and putting curbstones along the street side. The Violet club, a class of little girls that had a table at the fair, will have a tablet placed on the church, with time of service, pastor's name, etc.

The parish committee have sent to some of the prominent painters this week for proposals for painting the church two coats, and it is hoped that they will find the bids so reasonable that the funds that have been collected will be sufficient to pay for the same; so that they can commence on this much needed work at once.

With the building painted and the grounds fixed, Quincy will have another attractive church upon its historic streets.

A Disgrace.

A Wollaston boy makes the request that we publish the following communication in the Quincy DAILY LEDGER:

GLOBE SAVINGS BANK.

Nearly a Million Dollars Belonging to Illinois University Tied Up.

Warrants Issued For Arrest of Officers.

Many New England People Had Stock In Institution.

Chicago, April 10.—Warrants have been issued for all the officers of the defunct Globe Savings bank. The complaint charges them with felony in accepting deposits after the institution was known to be insolvent.

Developments have brought out the fact that a far greater amount of University of Illinois funds is involved in the suspension of the bank than has been supposed. Two years ago the state legislature appropriated $423,000, of which, according to the state laws, enough was to be drawn out monthly to meet the current expenses of the university. It appears, however, that in consideration of 2½ per cent interest on the funds the university trustees allowed Treasurer Spalding to withdraw the whole sum from the treasury. This is admitted by members of the board. Thus not only are $400,000 worth of school bonds missing, but $423,000 in cash is tied up, a total of $823,000. To add to the complications it is said that should President Spalding be unable to account for the funds his bondsmen will refuse to be held responsible, their defense being that a private deal of that kind between the university board, the state treasury officials and Treasurer Spalding is sufficient cause to release them from their obligations.

There is gross carelessness charged to the university officials during the latter part of Mr. Spalding's term as treasurer of the institution.

The list of New England stockholders in the Globe Savings bank, with the number of shares held by each, is as follows:

Nashua, N. H.—H. H. Davis, 10; Henry Stearns, 50; executors of Edward Spalding, 50; Miss Mary A. Spalding, 10; J. B. Shattuck, 20; C. B. Jackman, 10; Miss M. M. Woodman, 3; C. H. Woodman, 3; New Hampshire Banking company, 50; Nashua Savings bank, 200; Miss M. A. Hunt, 50; Mrs. J. N. Beasom, 5; Mrs. Laura A. Hill, 10; A. J. McKan, 5; Mrs. F. J. Spalding, 5; Mrs. E. H. King, 20; G. F. Wilbur, 20; Mrs. S. J. Proctor, 6; Miss A. W. Ingalls, 5; Mrs. A. A. Ingalls, 5; Miss Henrietta Prescott, 10; G. B. French, 10; Dr. R. B. Prescott, 10; John F. Stark, 20; L. H. Tibbetts, 5; A. A. Davis, 10. Keene, N. H.—Keene Five Cents Savings bank, 10. Hanover, N. H.—Andrew Moody estate, 10. Wilton, N. H.—C. A. Boles, 5; Wilton Savings bank, 10. Bucksport, Me.—Parker Spofford, 15. Lowell, Mass.—Miss H. Frank Tuck, 1. Hillsboro Bridge, N. H.—W. D. Forsaith, 5. Everett, Mass.—Miss Mary Lewis, 3. West Newton, Mass.—Emma G. Towne, 20. Milford, N. H.—Milford Savings bank, 50. Manchester, N. H.—Cuaranty Savings bank, 50. Concord, N. H.—Charles C. Danforth, 5.

President Averil surrendered himself and was immediately released on bonds. President Spalding is not in the city, but in a letter written to friends yesterday he says he will return Monday. In the meantime officers are looking for him.

Greater New York Charter Vetoed.

Albany, April 10.—Mayor Strong of New York has disapproved the greater New York charter. Mayors Wurster of Brooklyn and Gleason of Long Island City approved it. Mayor Strong says: "The bill submitted to me contains defects so serious and fundamental that I cannot feel it to be consistent with my duty as mayor of New York to approve of it." He calls attention in detail to the supplemental report filed by himself and Seth Low in favor of a municipal assembly, with but a single chamber, a single-headed police commission and an independent board of elections, and for granting to the mayor the power of removal throughout his entire term. He says that his power under the constitution is limited to accepting or refusing to accept the bill as a whole. Under those circumstances, regardless of the many admirable provisions contained in the bill, he is bound by duty to veto it. It is probable that the legislature will pass the bill over the mayor's veto.

More Dean Victims.

Hyde Park, Mass., April 10.—A number of citizens here have been mulcted to more or less extent through the failure of E. S. Dean & Co. of New York. Merrill Underhill, a local store keeper, was the agent of the firm in this town, and invested considerable of his own money. Only a week ago a woman sent $50, expecting to double her money in a short time. Many business men also made investments, but have refused to talk of the matter. One store keeper anticipated paying his expenses to the Knight Templar conclave in Pittsburg from the profits of his $50 investments.

Union Depot Contract Signed.

Boston, April 10.—Norcross Bros. have secured the contract for the erection of the new southern union station in Boston, and a matter which has been keeping many contractors in doubt for two weeks or more has been settled. The contract amounts to a little less than $2,000,000, and work is to be started next week. The station is to be constructed of Stony Creek granite, which will add greatly to its appearance. The contract will give employment to a small army of men. It is one of the conditions of the contract that the work is to be pushed with all possible expedition.

Paper on "Lyng."

New York, April 10.—A paper on "The Early Official Court Reporter of Massachusetts," a place held by Dudley Atkins (Lyng) during the latter part of the last century and early part of the present one, was read before the members of the New York Genealogical and Biographical society last night. The speaker was T. Dudley Atkins, a decendant of the famous court reporter, and the paper was a review of the early history of the old Bay state.

Died From Jumping Rope.

Reading, Pa., April 10.—Annie F. Delcamp, aged 7 years, died after intense suffering yesterday, as the result of excessive rope jumping. The child "skipped" the rope 57 times without stopping.

NO IMPROVEMENT.

Bradstreet's Review of Trade Finds Little Encouragement In Business Condition.

New York, April 10.—Bradstreet's says: The business situation, as a whole, shows no gain. Staple lines are only fairly active. Overflows, washouts and floods continue to do damage in the Mississippi and Missouri river valleys, throughout a greater portion of which general trade remains practically at a standstill. Rainy weather extending from the central western to northwestern spring wheat states has rendered country roads almost impassable, with the natural effect upon business. Every exertion is making to prevent the breaking of Mississippi river levees, but with the river at the top of the levees and an immense volume of unusually high water still to find its way to the gulf, the outlook is for further overflows and disaster. As the region threatened is the richest portion of the cotton belt the prospect for delay in planting a second time indicates the possibility of a heavy reduction in acreage this year, hence the advance in cotton this week.

Pig iron, steel billets and cast iron pipe are lower in price, and the demand for steel and iron is not as heavy as has been, although the price of lake ore has been fixed at a low figure and an ore pool formed. Wheat has continued as disappointing as iron as to price, dropping nearly 4 cents a bushel on Bradstreet's report of an increase in the world's visible supply last week instead of a decrease, as expected, due to a larger quantity of wheat in sight abroad. Total domestic stocks of wheat April 1 were 37 per cent smaller than one year ago, and more than 40 per cent smaller than two years ago.

Chicago has only about held its own, little, if any, improvement being reported in trade there. St. Louis, more dependent on traffic with the flooded region, reports a decrease in volume of business. Continued rains in Kansas and Missouri emphasize trade depression in that region.

There is a moderate gain in bank clearings, which reflects business for a time prior to the floods West and South. The increase this week compared with last is 12 per cent, 20 per cent compared with the like week in 1896, 65 per cent contrasted with the like period in 1895, 14 per cent larger than in the corresponding week of 1894, but the total is 15 per cent smaller than in April, 1893.

Jobbers at Omaha, St. Paul, Milwaukee and Portland, Ore., report a better demand, notably in dry goods, oils, paints, glass, shoes and leather. Prospective advances in the wool tariff are behind another rise in prices of wool and woolens, but cotton goods thus far fail to advance, because restricted production is meeting current demand. Nearly all staples, except those mentioned as having advanced, have declined.

Business failures remain at the lower level recently reported, 232 this week, compared with 212 last week, 231 in the week a year ago, 225 two years ago, and 211 three years ago.

Net railway earnings for February point to economies in operating, more than offsetting a small decrease in gross receipts.

Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and St. John, N. B., this week amount to 2,036,797 bushels, compared with 2,464,000 bushels last week, 1,764,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 2,934,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 1,955,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 2,948,000 bushels in the like week of 1893. Exports of Indian corn amount to 4,645,585 bushels this week, compared with 4,970,000 bushels last week, 1,391,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 814,000 bushels two years ago, 1,427,900 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 908,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

Roads May Cut Rates.

Chicago, April 10.—The legal advisers of the Western roads are rapidly recovering from the panic into which they were recently thrown by the decision of the supreme court regarding the right of railroads to form associations. They have advised the committee that is now working on the new agreement of the Western Passenger association, that there is nothing in the decision to prevent the roads from granting reduced rates whenever they choose, and they now declare that the roads can agree to make or maintain any and all kinds of rates as long as the rates do not interfere with the convenience of any individual road.

Australian Baseball Team Arrives.

San Francisco, April 10.—The Australian baseball players, who are starting out on a tour of the world, have arrived in this city on the steamer Monowai. They will spend a few days in sightseeing before practicing for their opening game, which will be with the Olympics a week from Sunday, at Central park. The nervy athletes, who have come thousands of miles to show how the baseball players of Australia compare with those of this country, and to learn points if deficient, are 13 in number. The team has several substitutes so they may play cricket as well as baseball.

Vermont Man Mentioned.

Washington, April 10.—F. C. Partridge of Vermont is mentioned as possible assistant secretary of war. Several people have declined this place beside Colonel Fred D. Grant. President McKinley is anxious to get a man of standing and with some private income, inasmuch as the salary is only $4500, and there are social demands on the incumbent.

Injured Bicyclist Did Not Get Damages.

Boston, April 10.—In the case of H. S. Batchelder against the Warwick Cycle company in the superior court yesterday, Judge Sherman ordered a pro forma verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff sought to recover for injuries received from the breaking of a bicycle warranted by the company.

Petition For Dingley Tariff.

New York, April 10.—At a meeting of the merchants and manufacturers' board of trade held last night a resolution was adopted petitioning the United States senate to pass the Dingley tariff bill at the earliest possible date.

Barnum's "Pot Boilers."

New York, April 10.—The sale of ancient and modern oil paintings of the estate of the late P. T. Barnum last night was poorly attended. About 70 paintings by mediocre artists were disposed of for a few dollars each.

General Ruger Relieved.

New York, April 10.—General Wesley Merritt this morning relieved General Ruger (retired) as commander of the department of the East. There were no ceremonies.

BEGINNING OF WAR.

Fifteen Hundred Greeks Cross Frontier and Fight Ensues.

Invaders Were Surrounded by Turkish Troops.

Reserves Ordered to Be Ready For Instant Action---At Canea.

Elassona, April 10.—Bands of Greek brigands entered Turkey at Kramia, near Grevana, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The Turkish troops engaged with them, and fighting was going on all day.

A dispatch from Grevana, received at the Turkish headquarters yesterday afternoon, stated that the Turks, following out the instructions from Edhem Pasha, had surrounded the Greek irregulars and a greater part of the Turkish division stationed at Grevana, under Hakki Pasha, was then advancing.

It was impossible, the dispatch said, to distinguish whether the invaders were supported by any substantial portion of the Greek regular army, as the Greeks had taken up a position in the middle of a forest, but the moment the Turkish officers ascertain the presence of the uniforms of the Greek regulars in the ranks of the aggressors Edhem Pasha will order the advance of the entire Turkish army.

Edhem Pasha has already notified his generals of division to hold themselves in readiness for instant action, and the reserves have already left the encampment here in order to move closer to the first line of defense.

London Advices.

London, April 10.—Advices from the Albanian frontier say that the Greeks and Turks have begun fighting, and that a general outbreak is about to occur.

The correspondent of The Times at Grevena says that yesterday morning 1500 Greek bandits crossed the frontier between Metsoro and Diskata, where they encountered the Turkish troops. The fighting lasted throughout the day, with some loss of life and a number of minor casualties.

The Athens correspondent of The Times says it is reported there that the invaders consisted of 2500 carefully picked men, who had been equipped by the Ethnike Hetairia.

The Paris correspondent of The Times says:

A friend who knows and likes the King of Greece, and who is well acquainted with his views on the present complications, assures me that King George has made and is making every effort to prevent war. I am convinced that this statement is the exact truth. The Greeks know as well as anybody that if war broke out it would be, according to the expression of a prominent diplomat in Paris, "Not battle, but massacre."

No one has any illusions on this matter or fails to understand the difficulty there would be in stopping massacres, in preventing the Turks from giving free rein to their thirst for carnage and preserving the Greeks from the barbarities of their conquerors.

No one supposes for a moment that the Greeks could resist the Turkish army in Thessaly. The most sanguine of their supporters merely hope that at certain well fortified and well chosen points the Greek army might delay for a few hours or a few days the advance of the conquerors. The surprising thing is that King George, his counsellors and Greece herself, knowing this, should run the risk of such horrors by marching to the frontier and seeking a collision with the Turks.

The Larissa correspondent of The Times says:

I visited Volo yesterday and found that the last consignment of supplies, mainly heavy ammunition, is being hurried to the front. All the preparations which can be made are now practically finished. The reserves continue to arrive. A part of the special corps, Mauromi Chalides, came in Thursday evening. It gets its name from its leader, a member of a family famous in the war of 1821. The body is composed entirely of picked men of good positions, who give their services without pay. The corps is self-supporting. Its members wear upon their caps the motto, "Union or Death." They will probably act as franc tireurs.

The Times publishes the following dispatch from its correspondent at Canea:

The pillaging around Canea continues. The pillagers for the most part are Mohammedan refugees from Candamo and Selino. It is rumored that arrangements are being made to migrate these refugees to Asia Minor. The Austrian consul, who has returned from Kissamo, reports that the Austrian admiral on his arrival there sent boats from the British and Austrian ships to embark the fugitive Moslems. As the boats approached the shore the insurgents fired volleys, whereupon the warships bombarded them, firing over 80 shells.

About 30 Mohammedan women and children them ran down the beach from the fort and promptly embarked. The insurgents continued to fire upon the boats while they were returning to the ships. It is believed that some of the insurgents were killed.

There are bandits nowadays as well as in the days of old. Business men have to meet what are known as business bandits. They may not commit violence with knife and pistol, but they resort to all manner of dishonest business methods and the honest business man must be brave strong and steady if he would meet and overcome them. The modern business man needs above all other qualifications—good health. Without good health, he may be naturally shrewd, bright and capable, but he will eventually fail. It takes a keen brain and steady nerves to be successful. Impure blood will befog the brightest brain and shake the steadiest nerves.

The greatest known blood-maker and purifier is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, tones the liver, makes the appetite keen and assimilation perfect. Consequently the blood is plentifully supplied with the elements of nutrition and the body properly nourished. It cures 98 per cent of all cases of consumption. All good druggists sell it.

H. Gaddis, Esq., of No. 313 S. J. Street, Tacoma, Washington, writes: "I was taken ill in February, 1892, with headache and pain in my back. I called in a doctor and he came three times. He said I was bilious, but I kept getting worse. I took a cough so that I could only sleep when propped up in bed. My lungs hurt me and I got so poor that I was just skin and bone. I thought I was going to die. I tried a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it did me so much good that I tried another one and it made me strong and well. It saved my life."

ERYSIPELAS

Two Diseases That Cause Their Victims to Be Shunned by Their Fellow-Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD,
Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly,
W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.

Puritana in the Spring.

The universal custom of taking a spring remedy is founded on a natural instinct implanted in us for our own good.

The heat-producing foods of winter leave the system clogged. Confinement in warm rooms, with lack of outdoor exercise, makes all the organs weak and torpid. Those who neglect to use a remedy or fail to get the right one are inviting serious troubles. Most chronic diseases start in the spring. The end of winter finds thousands with such symptoms as these: A general unfitness for work with either head or hands. A worn-out, tired-out feeling that cannot be overcome. There is sleeplessness, or restless sleep. Numbness of hands or feet. A sense of pressure in the head, with a feeling of gloom or despondency. There may be fluttering or palpitation of the heart. Frequently a pain in the heart or under the left shoulder. There may be rushes of blood to the head, or throbbing in the ears at times.

Kidney and liver troubles may be looked for if your digestion has not been perfect. There is fulness or pain in the right side, or pain under the right shoulder. Distaste for food, with nausea in the morning. Complexion is blotched or sallow. Tongue is coated or mouth foul. There is a dull, sleepy feeling, with disinclination to breathe deeply. If the kidneys are in danger there will be pain, weakness, or soreness in small of back, and perhaps occasional sharp pains. Urine is scanty, high colored, and on standing becomes cloudy, or deposits a red sediment. There are apt to be frequent headaches. Sores and skin eruptions frequently come.

All these various symptoms are common to spring, and show that the vital organs need renovating and prompt repair. Bright's disease, jaundice, rheumatism, and heart troubles start from such conditions as these. No two persons will have the same set of symptoms, but any of those enumerated are important. The organs must be strengthened and repaired. Repair can only come through active digestion, and Puritana is the remedy to rely on. It will vitalize the entire body and give you a spring of buoyant, vigorous health. Clear complexion, sharp appetite, and the power to do things, is the sure reward of taking Puritana.

WRECKED BY CYCLONE

Disaster Follows Disaster In Georgia and Alabama.

Trees and Buildings Levelled by Hurricane.

Searching For Dead In Ruins at Knoxville. Flood Situation.

Atlanta, April 10.—Telegrams from Ozark, Ala., and Valdosta, Ga., show that that section was visited by another gulf cyclone, sweeping northwest with terific force to the confluence of the Chattahoochie and the Flint rivers, where it divided.

Several lives were lost, among them Mrs. Powers, who was caught beneath the falling timbers of her house and crushed. Her husband was unable to save her, and was himself badly hurt. The rest of the family were rescued, among them a baby 3 weeks old, whom the mother protected at the cost of her life.

The second section of the cyclone was deflected upon the Flint, breaking across south Georgia, and passing through Arlington, where but a few weeks ago nine children were killed in the ruins of a schoolhouse. Reaching Valdosta, the storm became intensified in fury, and trees were blown down in every part of the city.

A church was wrenched from its foundation and twisted into fragments by the winds. The box cars on the Plant system were blown off the track. Lightning struck a switch board in the Western Union telegraph office and set fire to the building.

From many towns in the vicinity reports of an equally alarming nature are coming in.

NO WORSE.

Mississippi Flood Situation Unchanged But Danger Is Not Over.

Memphis, April 10.—Notwithstanding the high winds and heavy rains reported from the overflowed Mississippi delta, the situation in the flood-stricken section, if not better, was certainly no worse last night. The water, which has been flowing through five big crevasses for more than a week, is rapidly flowing into the Mississippi again at a point 12 miles north of Vicksburg, and is sweeping southward with terrible force. The strain on the Louisiana levees will be something terrific in a week.

The Sunflower river, which traverses the counties of Coahama, Bolivar and Sunflower, in Mississippi, is on a rampage. Two-third of the water from the Flower lake crevasse is rushing pell mell into this stream, and a large area will be inundated. The Tallahatchie and Cold Water rivers are gradually falling.

At Helena, the river is slowly falling and indications are that it will continue to decline. The backwaters below the Arkansas Midland levee are at a stand. The number of refugees are increasing at Helena with every hour. The steamer Maud arrived there late yesterday with more than 100 flood sufferers, swelling the list already there to 3000.

At Rosedale, nothing of special interest has occurred in the situation.

In the Bogue Phalia country, much suffering is reported. Members of the Rosedale relief committee will visit that section today and distribute provisions.

At Memphis the river continues to fall, a decline of one-tenth of a foot being reported by the weather bureau last night.

The railroads, with one exception, are again open and trains are being run on schedule time.

SEVENTEEN MISSING.

Total Number of Deaths In Knoxville Fire Cannot Be Ascertained.

Knoxville, April 10.—Of the 52 guests who were sleeping in the Hotel Knox Thursday morning when the fire broke out only 35 have been accounted for. The hotel register was destroyed, and it will probably never be known how many lives were lost. Those known to have perished in the flames are:

A. S. Weeks of Locke, N. Y., drummer.
G. W. Roberts of Pulaski, lightning rod agent.
E. A. Williams, Springfield, Mass., retired merchant.

Telegrams have been pouring in from many different cities inquiring about people supposed to have been in Knoxville.

The work of searching for the remains in the ruins is now going on, and the developments already indicate that the list of dead will be much larger than was at first thought. The charred remains were found in different localities of the ruins. Where one of these bodies is supposed to have been cremated were found a number of pocket knives, shears, razors, etc., which leads to the belief that Weeks, the cutlery drummer for the Rochester house, had attempted to carry out his sample case.

E. A. Williams of Springfield, Mass., who was beyond a doubt burned, was 63 years old, and was traveling South for his health.

Large rewards have been offered for the bodies, and a force of men are at work clearing away the debris.

Of the injured perhaps only one will die, J. C. M. Bogle of Tennessee, a civil engineer, who lies in a critical condition at the city hospital. He inhaled flames, and his limbs were burned.

Messrs. Kephart, McMillan, Hogan, Keck, Hudson and Hicks, all of Knoxville, are recovering.

An almost correct estimate of the losses and insurance has been secured. It is as follows:

Total loss, $1,611,000; total insurance, $614,209.70. Many of the firms burned out have secured temporary quarters, and the wholesale houses especially have never stopped filling orders.

FORTY THOUSAND HUNGRY.

Appeal for Aid from Destitute In Washington County, Miss.

Jackson, Miss., April 10.—The first cry of distress from the flood sufferers of the Mississippi valley was sent out Thursday evening by the citizens of Greenville, when they appealed to the government for supplies to feed 40,000 people in this county alone. The message means that the delta people in Washington county at least have thrown up the sponge and have but little hope, if any, of making crops this year.

This message was addressed to Congressman Catchings and Governor McLaurin, and asked for $125,000 for immediate use to ration for 30 days those who will soon be destitute. Reports from the Sunflower and Tallahatchie river bottoms bring tidings of the spreading of the waters every moment. At Clarksdale, Coahoma county, the water has risen three feet, and is still rising.

The wires from here are down, and there is no communication. Skiffs and yawls and rafts are making trips daily into the interior with food supplies.

War Department at Work.

Washington, April 10.—The machinery provided by the war department for the relief of the sufferers from the Mississippi river floods is now in working order, and Secretary Alger says the department is in position to cover the entire flooded district with its force of inspectors.

Merrimac Rising.

Concord, N. H, April 10.—The continued rains have caused very high water in the Merrimac river. At this point and beyond, lowlands in many places are being overflowed. No serious results are anticipated unless the rain continues another 24 hours. At all events there is no expectation of a flood exceeding the proportions of the usual spring freshet.

CRIMES AND ACCIDENTS.

Charles H. Skimmings has been arrested at Boston on a charge of forgery.

Sarah E. Lewis committed suicide at Conwall-on-the-Hudson. She had been insane since the death of her husband, last September.

The schooner W. G. Willard of Rockland, Me., collided with the schooner Gertrude Browning off Faulkners island. The Willard was badly damaged. She was towed to New Haven.

The sealing steamer Aurora has returned to St. John's, N. F., from the North Atlantic with a full cargo of seals, secured after the most severe experience of many years. Tremendous storms were encountered, often lasting days at a stretch. The ship was driven by the icefloes 300 miles southeast of Cape Race, and the men were almost always in peril of their lives. Nine hundred seals were carried away by the waves and lost.

SPORTING ITEMS.

Ashland Wilkes, a famous trotting stallion, 15 years old, and sire of John R. Gentry, 2:00½, was sold to Brook Curry at Lexington, Ky., for $7500. He sold at a private sale a year ago for $5000.

A mass meeting of students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was held yesterday, and itwas decided to put a team into the field at Worcester against the other New England colleges and send a relay team to Philadelphia.

Eddie Bald of Buffalo, who is now training in Kentucky, has accepted a challenge from Tom Cooper of Detroit to race at Detroit on May 31. The distance will be one mile, best two in three. Bald also accepted the challenge of Walter Sanger of Milwaukee to race for a purse and $1000 side bet on the same conditions.

It is said that Sir James Bell, who unsuccessfully raced the cutter Thistle against the American sloop Volunteer in 1887 for the America's cup, is negotiating for the purchase of the Dunraven syndicate yacht Valkyrie, which was beaten by the American sloop Defender during the cup races of 1895, with the view of racing her during the coming season.

Secretary Long has taken steps to secure a vessel from the merchant marine to transport corn to India, as authorized by congress.

Representative Simpson of Kansas declares that he will carry into effect his threat to block any business which the house may attempt to do by unanimous consent before the speaker has appointed committees.

Proposals are invited by the secretary of the navy for the construction of three 30-knot torpedo boats. Bids will be opened Monday, June 14. The boats must be completed within 18 months from the date of contract.

The state department continues to deny the reports that the German government has submitted a protest against the tariff bill, but whether it has been received or not, it is known definitely that such a protest has been forwarded by the German ambassador, Baron von Thielmann, acting on cable instructions from Berlin.

EFFORTS TO REORGANIZE.

Senators Striving to Reach Agreement on Committee Vacancies.

Washington, April 10.—The committees representing, respectively, the Republican and Democratic sides of the senate, resumed their efforts yesterday to reach an agreement on a bisis of reorganizing the senate committees. The Republicans have gone to work with the serious intention of taking charge of the committees, but they find that in assuming this task there are many delicate points to be settled.

In accepting the Democratic proposition to take most of the silver Republicans and Populists they find that they are compelled to assign places to old senators in those two parties which are much sought after by straight Republicans who have not been so long in the senate, but feel that they deserve to be rewarded for party service. The disposition would be to favor the straight party men at the expense of others, but for the fear that this course would have an injurious effect upon the fortunes of the tariff bill. The tariff is indeed giving the managing committee and all the Republican senators more concern than any other factor in the situation. It is doubtful whether they would attempt to proceed but for this bill. They fear, however, that if they do not take the work in hand the bill might be seriously delayed, some of the Democrats having practically warned them that they would object to any further legislation of any character unless the committees should be filled. There also is a feeling on the Republican side that any allotment which might appear to discriminate invidiously against the Populists and silver Republicans would imperil the tariff bill by precipitating an unseemly wrangle on the eve of its presentation to the senate. The committee will do its best to overcome the difficulties thus presented, but the work of making the adjustment is likely to consume more time than was expected.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 10.—The house yesterday adopted the senate order for a committee to investigate the condemnation of cattle said to be tuberculous and the committee was selected. It met and designated experts to assist them in the work. The bill for a $500,000 house of correction in Boston was killed in the house. The senate postponed the Cove street extension bill until Tuesday. The house passed to be engrossed the bill to authorize the Haverhill, Georgetown and Danvers Street Railway company to cross the tracks of the Newburyport railroad in Georgetown. A similar bill also passed the house permitting the Milford, Holliston and Framingham street railway to cross the tracks of the Boston and Albany railroad in Framingham at grade. In each case amendments were adopted providing that in case of a change of grade the electric lines shall pay 10 per cent of the cost. The house also passed the resolve making an appropriation of $12,500 for a state representation (the governor and staff and regimental militia) at the Grant monument inaugural parade on April 27 at New York under a suspension of all rules and sent it to the senate. The militia regiment will be designated by Governor Wolcott as commander-in-chief.

Wool and Sugar Coming In.

Boston, April 10.—The receipts of foreign wool at this port this week were 40,000 bales, a record-breaking number. This is due to the purchase of 95,000 bales at London by representatives of Boston merchants, which will be shipped as speedily as possible. The handling of this wool interferes with the handling of other merchandise at the various wharves, and importers find it hard to secure storage room. The largest previous receipts of wool in one week were 26,000 bales. The sugar importers have received 86,000 bags this week, with several large cargoes expected to arrive here daily.

Patriarchs Give Up Ghost.

New York, April 10.—The Patriarchs' ball is dead. After 25 years as the dancing organization of New York society it gave up the ghost at the Waldorf last evening and was relegated to the dust of memory. William C. Whitney, Buchanan Winthrop, George Griswold Haven, Elbridge T. Gerry, Edward N. Tailor, Edmund L. Baylies, Bradish Johnson, Eugene Schiffelin, Johnson Livingston, William Rhinelander Stewart and Charles Lanier met in the Waldorf's state apartments and decided, by a vote of 10 to 2, to disband the organization. This means that there will be no more Patriarchs' balls.

School Will Not Close.

Bridgewater, R. I., April 10.—The state normal school in this town will not close at present, notwithstanding the recent peremptory written order that it must do so sent to Principal Boyden by Dr. Calvin Pratt of the board of health. The decision to continue the school was reached after a conference between the board of visitors and the local board of health. During the past few weeks there have been a large number of cases of scarlet fever in the school, and the local authorities have endeavored to have the institution closed. The school board opposed the closing.

Life Insured For $1,000,000.

San Francisco, April 10.—Mrs. Leland Stanford yesterday signed the contract by which her life is insured for $1,000,000. The policy, which is said to be the largest ever issued, was written by a New York company. By the terms of the contract, Mrs. Stanford is to pay an annual premium of $170,000, and upon her death $1,000,000 will be paid by the company to the Leland Stanford, Jr., university. Should she live 10 years, and continue her annual payment of premiums, the university will receive at her death $2,000,000, instead of $1,000,000.

Keith's Theatre.

It is a rather odd coincidence that has brought the noted actor, Maurice Barrymore, into vaudeville on the very same stage, where, not so many years ago, he achieved his best triumph. That stage is Keith's Theatre, New York, where Barrymore as Orlando to the never-to-be-forgotten Rosalind of Modjeska, scored the greatest triumph of a career in which triumphs have not been few by any means. Mr. Barrymore is meeting with even greater successs in vaudeville than he ever did on the dramatic stage and there will be a great gathering of his friends at Keith's Boston theatre on Monday next to bid him welcome. His little one-act play "A Man of the World," is a gem, and has made a great hit. Other features of the Keith programme will be: Russell brothers, the famous Irish servant girls; Charles S. Abbey, formerly of the Boston Museum stock company, in an amusing monologue; Hal Merritt, mimic and impersonator. The new views in the Biograph this week were pronounced the most amusing yet displayed, and additional subjects will be added the coming week.

Spring Requires

That the impurities which have accumulated in your blood during the winter shall be promptly and thoroughly expelled if good health is expected. When the warmer weather comes these impurities are liable to manifest themselves in various ways and often lead to serious illness. Unless the blood is rich and pure that tired feeling will afflict you, your appetite will fail and you will find yourself "all run down." Hood's Sarsaparilla tones and strengthens the system, drives out all impurities and makes pure, rich, healthy blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier and the best spring medicine. Be sure to get only Hood's.

Weymouths vs. Quincys.

Thursday night the Quincys of the City league rolled a game with the Weymouth and Braintree team on the latter's alley, and received defeat in a well played game by 150 pins; W. Burrell easily carried off the honors of being high man with 546, having but one missed spare during the game. Miller of the same team finished second high, 473; closely followed by Fratus with 471. The leading feature of the game was the great spare made by Hobart, which received deserved applause from the rooters. The score:

Spring Fashions.

It is not strange that Springer Bros. of Boston, attract large crowds of ladies at their handsome store, 500 Washington street, as their exhibit is unusually varied and attractive.

The above illustration shows a very desirable costume of navy blue cheviot serge with untrimmed skirt and tight-fitting jacket closed with frogs and edged with heavy braid. This is one of the most desirable styles for wear, although the suits with single, and double-breasted reefers, of which Springer Brothers have a fine variety, will still be popular. The blazer costume also appears, with and without vests of the same, in all the new shades and will be in great demand for travelling or business purposes. There is a great variety of colorings in cloths, canvas weaves and the cheviot serges.

For those who do not care to invest in a whole suit, or are already supplied, there are plenty of new jackets. In the costumes are boleros, zouaves, Etons and mess-coats. The latter appears among the short jackets and is exceedingly fetching in every way. The scarlet ones braided in black are very popular with young ladies who can wear them, while others will be equally as fascinating in those of Yale blue, lined with cerise taffeta and outlined, like a military coat, in heavy black braid. These little affairs come in tan, Havana brown, green and black and are going to be exceedingly popular. The military coats are longer, coming below the waist line and having their seams outlined with braid.

Think not, however, that capes are gone by. Never was there a time when they showed more originality, or were more altogether lovely. There is one at Springer Brothers made of black moire velour, short and rather full, with a Watteau plait in the back, a quilled ruche of mousseline de soie around the neck and the lower edge, trimmed with jet passementerie and lined with black brocaded silk that is one of the dressiest affairs of the season. There is another little shoulder affair for mourning, made up on taffeta of rows and puffs of crepe de chine, and many plainer ones in black.

Cloth capes are unusually handsome One style is made of green or brown broadcloth with applique work of black satin outlined with jet and a full ruche at the neck. Another is entirely of lace lined with bright taffeta and a quilling around the bottom, and one of very light broadcloth has a novel trimming consisting of slashings of the cloth under which are rows of pearl colored silk with cloth diamonds appliqued over. A dainty little violet cape is lined throughout with still daintier violet silk, edged in its turn with ribbon quilling. Then there is a combination of cape and Eton jacket, with body of jetted satin and sleeve portions made of rows of quilled lace. But to appreciate this, you must go to 500 Washington street, and see it. And while you are there you will get an altogether delightful idea of the new spring fashions.

FARMS UNDER WATER,

Official Estimate of Acres Inundated by Recent Floods.

Value of Property Involved Is $65,000,000.

Crops Are Jeopardized and Over 300,000 People Affected.

Washington, April 12.—The agricultural department has issued a statement on the flood situation in the Mississippi valley, south from Cairo, Ills. The statement says:

The total area under water on April 6 was about 15,800 square miles, of which 7900 square miles was in Mississippi, 4500 square miles in Arkansas, 1750 square miles in Missouri, 1200 in Tennessee and 450 in Louisiana. This region contained in 1890, so far as can be determined in view of the somewhat indefinite boundary lines of the flood, a population of 379,685, of which 166,489, or about one-half was in Mississippi, 100,235 in Arkansas and the remainder almost equally divided between Missouri and Tennessee. Taking the entire region the colored population outnumbered the whites in the proportion of 12 to 7, the colored predominating in the flooded districts of Mississippi in the ratio of more than 5 to 1, and in Arkansas in that of 2 to 1. In Missouri and Tennessee the population of the flooded districts is largely white. In the former state in the proportion of 10 to 1, and the latter in that of 2 to 1.

The flooded districts contain, it is estimated, about 39,500 farms, of which about 18,500 are in Mississippi, nearly 10,000 in Arkansas and a like number about equally divided between Missouri and Tennessee. These farms contain a total area of about 3,800,000 acres, one-half of which is in Mississippi, and rates over one-fourth in Arkansas, the proportions in Missouri and Tennessee being about the same as in the case of the number of farms. The total value of these farms, with their improvements, farm implements, etc., is close upon $65,000,000, and here also the proportions in the dierent states are about the same as above noted.

The total number of acres improved at the taking of the last census was about 2,000,000, and about 1,500,000 acres were last year devoted to cotton and corn, to which crop nearly 95 per cent of the entire acreage cultivated is devoted. The live stock on hand Jan. 1 of the present year was valued at over $7,500,000, divided in very much the same proportions as other farm property. It is estimated that of the crops of last year over $2,750,000 worth remained on hand in the submerged region on the last of the month, cotton representing about two-thirds of this amount and corn practically all the remainder.

The largest interests at stake so far are those of the state of Mississippi, whose flooded districts represent an investment capital in agriculture alone of close upon $42,000,000. Over 18,000 farms, containing 2,000,000 acres of land of an average value of about $18 an acre, are under water in the country lying between the Mississippi and Yazoo rivers, including some of the most productive lands of the state. Their live stock, even at the present low prices, is worth nearly $3,500,000, and the farmers and planters are estimated to have about $2,000,000 worth of the crops of last year still on hand.

Arkansas stands next in the extent of its imperiled interests, nearly 10,000 farms, containing 1,000,000 acres of land, worth over $14,000,000, being submerged. These farms contain live stock to the value of over $1,500,000, and crops unsold and unconsumed to the value of nearly $900,000, the entire agricultural interests of these lands representing a value not far short of $17,000,000.

The agricultural interests affected in Missouri represent a total capital of rather over $9,000,000, the 5300 submerged farms, containing an area of about 470,000 acres, worth about $7,250,000, the live stock representing nearly $1,500,000 more, and the crops on hand another $500,000. Tennessee is not far behind Missouri in the extent of its imperiled interests, the number and acreage of the submerged farms being very nearly the same, and the entire value, including $1,250,000 for live stock and $400,000 for crops on hand, being over $8,500,000.

What effect the flood will have upon the crops of the present season depends upon the length of its continuance and the practicability of wheat planting after the subsidence of the flood. The entire region under water on April 6 produced last year about 370,000 bales of cotton, valued at close on $13,000,000; over 11,000,000 bushels of corn, worth about $3,400,000, and wheat, oats, potatoes and hay, worth over $800,000 more. The most valuable portion of these crops was raised in Mississippi, whose region now submerged produced nearly 250,000 bales of cotton, besides other products, mostly for local consumption. The counties wholly or partially submerged are among the largest cotton producing countries in the United States. Yazoo county, which alone has produced over 50,000 bales in a season, is one-half under water, while Boliver county, Coahoma, Issaquena, Washington (with a productive capacity of 100,000 bales) and other famous counties are partially submerged.

The weather bureau predicts a further extension of the flooded area, but no attempt, of course, has been made to estimate the serious possibilities of such extension.

The weather bureau publishes a map of the country flooded on April 10, and says:

The flood water now in western Mississippi is just beginning to return to the Mississippi river through the Yazoo and Millikens landing, a few miles to the north. The gradually increasing strain expected during the next few days on the Louisiana side, opposite the place where the Yazoo floods returned to the Mississippi, renders it possible that the levees may break and the flood pour through into northeastern Louisiana, in which case it is possible that much, if not all, of the area in Louisiana formerly covered by floods will be flooded again this year. Heroic work is now being done on the levees of northern Louisiana, and it is hoped that they will be held intact.

Special river bulletin—The following reports were received last night from the department of agriculture weather bureau officials in charge of river districts:

St. Louis—Expect a slow fall in rivers in this district for a day or two. Stage after that time depending on storm condition westward. On Saturday, Wise levee, opposite Alton, broke, and a number of farms flooded. Portions of East St. Louis lowlands flooded and water at the foot of the American bottom levee. Water also backed into West Venice, Ills. Little damage done and no danger with water now in sight.

Cairo, Ills—River practically stationary at 48.8, although it shows a slight rise since Saturday morning.

Memphis—River stationary at this place. In the northern portion of the Yazoo delta the situation is a little more hopeful, and in the White river valley it is becoming hourly more perilous.

New Orleans—River has passed the highest known by one-tenth of a foot. Water running over banks in lower Plaque mines parish, but no damage except to vegetable farms. Local levees continue being strengthened. Hard work and the utmost vigilance has thus far served to keep water within banks below Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss.—River situation unchanged. Light showers have fallen in the water sheds of the Ohio, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Lower Missouri and Central Mississippi rivers.

The Ohio from Cincinnati to Cairo has risen slightly. The Mississippi has fallen from St. Paul to Keokuk, except at Davenport, and has risen from St. Louis to the mouth, except that it continues stationary at Memphis. The gauge reading at Vicksburg—50.5—is 1.4 feet above the highest water of the 1890 flood. The river at New Orleans is 18 feet, which is one-tenth of a foot above that of any previous flood.

Relief Steamer Goes Down.

Grand Forks, S. D., April 12.—The government steamer Ogemaw, which started down the river Saturday night on a relief expedition, lies right side up, sunk in about 12 feet of water, 17 miles below here. The Grand Forks members of the relief returned late yesterday with the story of the disaster.

The boat was unable to get more than eight miles down the river when her side was ripped open by the rapidly moving current. She was run into shallow water, where she quickly grounded.

The crew, with Colonel Jones, remained to look after the craft. The Grand Forks people, by rowing some miles in an open boat, wading several miles and using a handcar for the rest of the distance, finally arrived in Grand Forks.

Many of the farmers who were seen are living in the second story of the houses, but with one exception had plenty of food and fuel. Most of the destitution and distress is at a point some miles beyond the farthest point reached by the steamer.

Woman Shot by Tramp.

Newtown, Conn., Dr. J. W. Gordon of this town has returned from Botsforth, where he has been in attendance upon Caroline Booth, the aged woman who was shot by one of two tramps Saturday. He stated that if inflammation did not set in she had a chance for recovery. So far the two tramps have not been captured.

Found Dead In Pasture.

Pittsfield, Mass., April 12.—Ephraim Tubbs, aged 77, was found dead in a pasture at Windsor Saturday. The body was found by a party of fishermen, who at once notified the authorities. Medical Examiner Paddock of this city made an examination and decided that the man's death was caused by exposure.

Turners Meet.

Waterbury, Conn., April 12.—The quarterly meeting of the Connecticut Turnverein was held here yesterday, 20 delegates being in attendance. Reports of various officers indicated general prosperity. It was voted to hold the annual turnfest in Holyoke, Mass., June 19 to 21, inclusive.

CRAZY FARM HAND.

Aged Farmer Terribly Assaulted by Swede In His Employ.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 12.—A young Swede, named Peter Carlson, employed by an aged farmer of Easton, named Hanford Lyon, went suddenly insane yesterday, and while the other members of the family were at church nearly murdered the old man. Carlson was finally discovered hiding in a barn, and after a violent struggle was arrested and brought to this city by Constable Tucker. The Swede fought like a demon, and it was only after he had been bound with ropes from head to heel that the 10-mile drive to this city could be begun. Constable Tucker tells the story as follows:

Carlson had been employed by farmer Lyon but a short time. Lyon's son and the latter's wife went to church yesterday afternoon, leaving their son with his grandfather. Upon their return they found the child in the road near the house, crying and moaning out that his grandfather had been killed. The old man was found on the floor of the house, only semi-conscious. He managed to tell them that he had been attacked by Peter, who had become insane, and that his life had been saved by two neighbors, who had heard the cries for help. The weapon with which the attack was made has not been found, but it was something inflicting ugly gashes in the old man's head.

Lyon will probably recover, but his condition is serious. When Carlson reached the police station here he struggled violently, but he was finally locked up.

Judge George R. Fowler Dead.

Boston, April 12.—Word has been received here from Philadelphia that Judge George R. Fowler, a prominent lawyer and jurist of this city, died yesterday. Judge Fowler was born in Concord, N. H., in 1834, and was the son of Judge Asa Fowler, one of the justices of the New Hampshire supreme court. He obtained his legal education at the Harvard law school and also at the Albany law school, where he was a classmate of President McKinley's, and from which institution he graduated with a degree of LL. D. He was admitted to the Merrimack county bar of Concord in 1866, and was clerk of the New Hampshire senate in 1867 and '68. He commenced practicing in Boston in 1870, and in 1874 was appointed associate justice of the Roxbury district court, which position he held up to the time of his death. He was married in 1873 to Miss Isabella Minot, eldest daughter of Hon. Josiah Minot of Concord.

Massachusetts Knights of Columbus.

Boston, April 12.—The state council, Knights of Columbus, sat in this city yesterday, with Edward L. Hearn of South Framingham presiding. Nearly every council in Massachusetts was represented, and State Deputy Hearn, in his opening address, advocated permanent headquarters and assessments of members to support it. The recommendations were discussed and referred. The deputies appointed for districts outside of Boston were: Dr. William F. Mercer of Pittsfield, Daniel W. Kelley of Holyoke, James E. McConnell of Fitchburg, Thomas F. Sullivan of Natick, William P. Cashman of Brighton, William S. McNary of South Boston, Daniel L. Prendergast of South Boston, William F. Kenney of Woburn, Hugh J. Molloy of Lawrence, James F. Cavanagh of Everett and J. J. Gorman of Fall River.

Methodist Love Feast.

Manchester, N. H., April 12.—Yesterday morning the Methodist conference love feast was held in St. Paul's church, followed by a sermon by Bishop W. X. Ninde. In the afternoon occurred the ordination of elders and deacons in St. James church by Bishop Ninde, preceded by an address by Dr. W. A. Spencer of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Church Extension society. The following candidates were ordained: Elders—Rev. H. D. Deetz, Newport; Rev. I. C. Brown, Grovetown; Rev. B. P. Judd, Henniker; Rev. Joseph Simpson, Center Sandwich; Rev. E. S. Tasker, Lowell, Mass.; Rev. R. E. Parker. Deacons—Rev. Edgar Blake, Salem, Mass.; Rev. A. B. Rowell, Newfield; Rev. C. J. Brown, Goffstown; Rev. J. Roy Dinsmore, Benton; Rev. H. C. Sawyer, Munsonville; Rev. W. T. Boultenhouse.

Pulpits Filled by Visiting Preachers.

Lowell, Mass., April 12.—The pulpits of nearly all the evangelical churches in the city were occupied yesterday by Methodist ministers. The principal service was in the morning, when Huntington hall was crowded to the doors to hear Bishop C. H. Fowler, who preached an eloquent sermon on the resurrection. In the afternoon occurred the ordination of deacons and elders, and in the evening was held the missionary anniversary. Today's session will be devoted to business, chief of which will be the making of the pastoral appointments for the year. It is not expected that the list will be announced before late this evening.

Row at Dog Fight.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 12.—A lively dog fight, which was pulled off at a roadhouse in Rye, called the "Jim Blaine House," early Sunday morning, by a score of sports from this city, ended in a lively row among the men, during which bottles were freely used. Several of the men were very seriously injured, and although a physician was called, the affair was hushed up to prevent arrests. The first step likely to follow the affair is the closing of the road house, which has been open for many years.

MANY ABOUT Boston share the same belief regarding greater Boston that "Howard" of the Globe writes concerning greater New York. He says: "It seems to me positively grotesque to unite so many conflicting interests, and to bring together, with a hope of an honest common wealth, places whose necessities are so varied and so opposed, simply that it may be boasted that New York is second to London alone among the civilized municipalities of the world. People of New York are just now indulging in many sober second thoughts concerning what is absurdly known as the Greater New York.

Q. Y. C. Cruise.

Commodore Sanborn and Fleet Captain Saville of the Quincy Yacht Club have informally discussed the annual cruise of the squadron. They have talked over two excellent cruises, ones that will undoubtedly appeal to a large number of the ninety captains who belong to the club. Instead of having one long cruise it is proposed to have two short ones, the first to start on Saturday afternoon, July 17, and make the run to Winthrop to take in the Winthrop Yacht Club's open race. Remain at Winthrop and join in the club's festivities that night and the next day run down the North Shore to Marblehead or Manchester, taking in the Manchester Yacht Club's open race on Monday. The squadron will return to the home anchorage on Tuesday.

For the second cruise a run down the South Shore to Duxbury on Saturday, Sept. 4, to be present at the Duxbury club's regatta, returning home on Labor Day, after visiting the Plymouth and Kingston clubs.

OUR POLICE STATION.

Chief Hayden Explains Need of New One.

A Large Increase in Prisoners and Tramps.

Women and Children Often Detained with Criminals.

The communication of Joseph W. Hayden, the chief of police, to the City Council, relative to the needs of a better police station, is given in full below:

QUINCY, MARCH 22, 1897.

Hon. Charles F. Adams, 2d, Mayor of Quincy:

DEAR SIR: As the head of the Police Department I believe it to be my duty to request you to send to the City Council a communication urging upon the Council the necessity of immediately furnishing some suitable place for a police station.

Year after year attention has been called to the miserable and disgraceful place in which tramps, and prisoners, whether guilty or innocent, male or female, are quartered with the police officers. This room which serves as a police station for a city of over 20,000 inhabitants with an assessed valuation of over seventeen million dollars, and also serves for the place of commitment for the District Court of East Norfolk which comprises the towns of Weymouth, Braintree, Randolph, Holbrook and Cohasset, was constructed in the cellar of the City Hall over twenty years ago, and is about nine by thirty-five feet in dimensions; and has built into its walls six cells.

Long before Quincy became a city it was found to be too small. However, in 1889 the Police Records of the Chief of Police showed that there was 185 arrests and 864 lodgers in the lockup during that year. This has increased greatly until we find this year that there was crowded into this cellar room 2,638 lodgers and 591 arrests.

When you consider that the tramps or lodgers only come in the winter time, you can see how it is that we have besides prisoners from twenty to twenty-five lodgers in a single night. One night last week we had thirty-three tramps and three prisoners. Had the prisoners been of a dangerous character, or had it been necessary to have kept them apart or in close confinement or seclusion, it would have been utterly impossible to have done so.

It is not unusual to have all our cells full before the last train comes out from Boston Saturday night. Sometimes with the floor full of tramps we are obliged to double up drunken prisoners with sober ones, and sometimes to put drunken prisoners together.

There is a thin partition dividing the room, but it is often necessary to put men and women into the same room, or women in a smaller room with the officers, where the doors of the cells open within three or four feet from where the officers sit.

The only change that has been made since the place was finished is the sheathing of the ceiling in a vain attempt to bottle up all the foul oders from coming up into the offices of the City Hall.

I say vain attempt because when one considers that there may be from twenty-five to thirty tramps besides several drunken prisoners quartered in this place beneath the City Hall from Saturday night until Monday morning, where there is absolutely no provision for sanitary arrangement other than a bucket, and where many of the drunken prisoners have been sick during the night previous, it is not strange that if a person should step into City Hall in the winter mornings before it has been aired, that he might recognize the stench which comes from below. Though the sheathing has undoubtedly been of some benefit to those who work above, it certainly does not improve the ventilation of those below.

When you consider also that besides the ordinary hardened criminal, tramp, or drunk, the Police Station is the place where sometimes innocent prisoners, paupers, witnesses, suspected men, sometimes insane persons and lost children are detained, it does not require further argument to show that such a place as is furnished by the City of Quincy for a Police Station is a disgrace and ought to be wiped out.

If the city is too poor to provide a suitable Station House of either stone or brick, I beseech the City Council to give us something even if it be of wood.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH W. HAYDEN.
Chief of Police.

$2000 For a Quincy Dog.

Now it is reported that Dr. W. G. Kendall of Atlantic has sold his noted Boston terrier, "Squanto" for $2000 to a Philadelphia lawyer. At the New York show, where he sold "His Nibs" for $1000, he refused $1500 for Squanto, and many thought it a mistake, but it has proved otherwise. The sum of $2000 is the highest ever paid for a dog of American breeding. Dr. Kendall has not left the field however, as he has stock from both studs.

The $100 bicycle now on exhibition at Carlson's store, near the depot, will be presented to the lady or gentleman receiving the most votes before the close of the grand fair at Faxon hall, April 22, 23 and 24. Make an early start. 9-3t

The Granite City Club Happy in New Quarters.

The annual meeting of the Granite City club was held Saturday evening and the club was never in a more flourishing condition, and the members are very well satisfied with their new quarters in the Savings Bank building. B. Packard for the loan of potted plants; and to H. L. Kincaide for loan of rug and for teaming done gratis.

36th Anniversary.

Next Thursday, April 15, will be the 36th anniversary of the rallying of the Minute Men of '61.

At 10 A. M. the survivors will meet at Horticultural hall, Boston, to renew recollections of those scenes, and to recall once more the days of "Auld Lang Syne," and elect officers for the ensuing year.

At 12 o'clock noon, the several organizations, in numerical order, will form line on Bosworth street, and proceed via State House and City Hall to Faneuil Hall, the old "Cradle of Liberty," where the annual banquet and camp-fire will be held.

The Melba Ladies' Quartet will sing war songs.

All veterans, both army and navy, who responded to the first call of President Lincoln, April 15th, 1861, for three months' volunteers, and were honorably discharged therefrom, are eligible to membership in this association and are earnestly requested to become members and be present with friends.

Arts and Crafts.

Copley and Allston Halls, Boston, present a scene of unique beauty. In Copley Hall are gathered the most choice designs and executed work in industrial art. It affords the first opportunity in this country of knowing how much originality, expertness and sense of fitness, designers, artists and manufacturers hereabouts possess. The exhibits consist of beautiful examples of gold work, wall papers, embroideries, decorative designs, printing, engraving, illustrating, wrought iron, electric light fixtures, carving, furniture and many other interesting examples of applied art. The exhibition is open from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M., and continues until April 16.

Spring

Is the season for new life in nature, new vigor in our physical systems. As the fresh sap carries life into the trees, so our blood should give us renewed strength and vigor. In its impure state it cannot do this, and the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla is imperatively needed. It will purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and with this solid, correct foundation, it will build up good health, create a good appetite, tone your stomach and digestive organs, strengthen your nerves and overcome or prevent that tired feeling. This has been the experience of thousands. It will be yours if you take

Three of the Wollaston congregations did not listened to their pastor on Sunday, the Rev. Francis Tiffany preaching at the Unitarian; the Rev. R. W. Peach at the Congregational; and the Rev. E. N. Hardy at the First Baptist.

Owing to the inclement weather yesterday the attendance at the vesper service at First church was not as large as usual. At the close of the service the clouds began to break and soon the sun burst forth casting its rays like a benediction over all.

Rev. E. N. Hardy of the Bethany Congregational church preached at the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday morning. Mr. Hardy's text was taken from Rev. 5:5, showing that although Christ had a gentle, winsome nature, yet he possessed strength, force and lion-like qualities also.

The birth-place of President John Quincy Adams was well illustrated in the Sunday Herald, and there was an interesting story in connection therewith. Exterior and interior views were shown. The cottage is now in possession of the Historical Society, and has been furnished throughout with antique furniture.

A union temperance meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., was held at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday evening. The church was crowded. Mrs. Baker delivered an interesting address discussing the temperance question with great intelligence. The services were conducted by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson and the Rev. Preston Gurney.

At Christ's church, Sunday, the rector Rev. Walter Russell Breed, preached two very eloquent sermons appropriate to Palm Sunday. The anthem, "Palm Branch," was very finely rendered, Mr. Walter Hersey singing the solo. This week the church will be open every day and there will be services appropriate to Holy Week. The Reapers Circle of King's Daughters, hold a special meeting tonight to arrange their Easter work. The other guilds do not meet.

Bicycle Gossip

TO Ride a bicycle means the modern way of building brains and muscle.

Mr. Pickwick used to say, "Always shout with the crowd, and when there are two crowds, shout with the largest."

His wisdom you can apply to the bicycle situation, for people everywhere are riding bicycles, and if you desire to be up to date, enlist at once in the bicycle army. This store is the recruiting office.

JAPANESE BAZAAR.

An Unique and Pretty Entertainment at Wollaston.

The Junior King's Daughters of Wollaston, under the direction of Miss Marden of the Wollaston school, gave an unique entertainment in the Odd Fellow's hall on Saturday afternoon and evening. The entertainment was properly called a Japanese Bazaar and it seemed as though a section of the Flowery Kingdom with its inhabitants had been suddenly transported to Wollaston. It was a veritable fairy land in its aspect as one entered the hall door and looked upon the large Japanese tea house in the centre with its attendants in costumes, and the various tables which lined the sides of the hall covered with a tempting display of Japanese wares, candy from the Orient as well as from the Occident, and colored photographs of life and scenery in this empire of the antipodes.

At the tea house Miss Adams presided, assisted by Mabel Hastings, Gertrude King and Kathlaeen Polson; at the picture table were Ida Brown, Blanche Rhodes and Ethel Parker; at the Japanese table, Miss Elizabeth Thayer, Mary Patterson and Marion Bates; at the fancy table, Edith Parker, Kathaleen Reece, Annia Patterson and Edith Porter; at the domestic table, Miss Riley of the Wollaston school, assisted by Louise Bates and Marion McLeod; at the flower table Cora Titus, Clara Ela and Edith Ward and at the candy table Harriet Fenton, Bessie Drew and Jessie Ray.

SUNDAY RAID.

Liquors Found for Second Time within a Year.

Chief of Police Hayden, Inspector McKay and Officers Ferguson, Bradley and George A. McKay raided the premises of Mary Saider, off Station street, about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and seized one quarter barrel of beer, one and one-half pints of whiskey and a two gallon jug that had contained whiskey.

This is the second time that the police have raided the Saider woman this year, the first being on Saturday, Feb. 28.

The officers also found liquor there and she was arraigned in court, found guilty and fined $50, which she paid.

This being the second offence within a year, she will, if found guilty, receive a much heavier sentence.

TODAY'S COURT.

George Anderson was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John Igo was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Leonil L Noble was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy. He was fined $5.

Patrick Crowley was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

The continued case of Humphrey Coakley for drunkenness was called and again continued until June 12.

The case of John C. Miller for drunkenness at Weymouth was again continued until Saturday.

The cases of Maurice Condon and John Harriman were called and they paid a fine of $5 for drunkenness.

The cases of Horace Packard, Hosea Packard and William Fuller for destroying a hen house at Holbrook was called and they paid a fine of $3 25 each.

The case of Maurice Dowd of Weymouth was continued for another week.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

TOOK PARIS GREEN.

A Women Attempts Suicide and Her Condition Precarious.

Mrs. McPherson, a housekeeper employed by John O'Brien, at 41 West street, attempted suicide about 9 o'clock Sunday morning by taking a dose of Paris green.

The effect of the dose she took was to make her deathly sick and Dr. Ash was immediately summoned, who ordered her removal to the City Hospital. She was pumped out and remained in a precarious condition all night, and but slight hopes are entertained of her recovery.

It is said that Mrs. McPherson had some trouble with her lover Saturday night and brooded over it all night, and Sunday became so despondent that she determined to end her life.

Clearly Outclassed.

The base ball nine of Adams Academy journeyed to Franklin on Saturday and opened the season with the Dean academy boys. They expected defeat but not quite such a dose as was administered. It came near being a whitewash as Adams did not score until the last innings.

The Adams team was made up as follows: Taylor, p.; Manning, c.; Cilley, 1b; McKenzie, 2b.; O'Hara, 3b; McGrath, s. s.; Boyd, r. f.; McConarty, l. f.; Burchton, c. f.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

A fair day for the Pratt-Baker wedding.

Henry M. Faxon's cat Cleopatra received favorable mention in the Sunday Globe and was illustrated.

C. W. Guy and W. G. Shaw distributed 250 loaves of bread Saturday among the poor families of Quincy.

Landlord Hayden of the Greenleaf has leased the Black Rock house at Cohasset and will open the same in June.

The velocity at which wild geese fly was measured by the observers at the Blue Hill observatory last week, and was found to be 45 miles an hour.

Mrs. C. E. Follett has moved from the house at the southerly end of Alleyne terrace to the house formerly occupied by Mr. Elliot Stoddard.

The ushers at the Pratt-Baker wedding at First church this evening are Daniel W. Lane, Edgar Pierce, Howard Whitcomb, Robert C. Baldwin, George S. Badger, of Boston; Walter Yates, of Gloucester; Harry L. Rice and Fred B. Rice, of this city. The best man is Victor J. Loring, of Wellesley Hills.

The talk on "Common Sense Rules of Order," at the Y. M. C. A rooms tomorrow ought to be of interest to every young man. All men ought to know how to preside over a business meeting, but comparatively few really do. Mr. Tobey is frequently called upon to speak before various clubs on this subject. All who attend will be presented with a copy of his pamphlet on the subject. The public is invited.

The new store of C. F. Derby in the Savings Bank building was opened Saturday. Mr. Derby now has one of the finest stores outside of Boston. It is large and roomy and besides the long counter that occupies one side there are numerous short tables upon which clothing of the latest style is displayed. At the end of the store are several closets where gentlemen may try on clothing and be sure of a good fit. In the show cases on the counter are all the Easter novelties in neck wear, while on the shelving is everything in the way of gentlemen's underwear, as well as the latest in hats. The store is lighted by electricity and Saturday night numerous Easter lillies added much to the effectiveness.

The Mill Tax.

Representative Thompson is in favor of the mill tax to be apportioned among the cities and towns of the State for the support of schools. It will come up for discussion in the house on Wednesday. The bill was favorably reported by the committee on education. Senator Roe and Representative Winslow dissenting. It was reported adversely by the committee on ways and means of the house, Messrs. Kenifick of Palmer and Thompson of Quincy dissenting. So the debate will come between two committees taking opposite views and two sets of dissenters.

The French Method.

The Paris Metropolitan Railroad, long under consideration, is now about to be constructed on the condition that at the end of a term of thirty-five years the entire railroad and all the rights of the company which is to construct and own it during that period are to pass into the possession of the city without any payment or compensation whatsoever. The railroad is to be forty-five miles in length. One line is circular, and follows the course of the outer boulevards, the other five lines intersecting the city at various points and forming junctions with the main route. The lines will be mostly underground. There will be 118 stations, and the company is obliged to run a minimum of 135 trains a day. The fares are not to exceed four cents for any distance, and workmen and school-boys travelling before 8 A. M. are to be carried at half-price. The cost is estimated at $40,606,000.

All the News.

In these days of wheels and wheeling the newspapers which devotes attention to the interests of bicycle riders is sure to meet with exceptional popularity. That is the case with the Boston Journal, which contains a daily department specially calculated to attract bicycle riders. All the news of the cycling world is chronicled there, and each day is published a great number of interesting and valuable suggestions to attract the owner and rider of a wheel. In addition to these features of the Daily Journal, the Sunday Journal devotes still more space to the interests of wheelmen, and all the latest news of the leading cycling organizations of New England are to be found there, while interesting photographic pictures of racers and famous riders are preserved by all who are fond of the sport. One of the special features of the coming summer will be the series of letters on base ball by John F. Morrill, the famous ex-Captain of the Boston team.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Arnold of Hyde Park, well known to many Odd Fellows of this city, observed their silver wedding Saturday evening.

☞ If you set out a tree, don't fail to cut in the top, to some extent. If the roots have been rather badly mangled, cut in pretty severely; if not, you will still need to trim some. The shock of removal is so great to the tree that the roots have not sufficient power to elaborate the sap for all the branches and leaves. If not trimmed, you can hardly expect to get a thrifty and healthy start. Don't let a year pass without "sticking in a tree."—Mass. Ploughman.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—can and should be removed; P. P P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

SPREADING THE GOSPEL.

Statistics Presented at Annual Meeting of American Tract Society.

Washington, April 12.—The Washington annual meeting of the Tract society was held last night in the West Street Presbyterian church, Senator Burrows presiding.

Rev. Judson Swift, field secretary of New York, presented a brief report of the society's work.

The report called attention to the fact that 30,000,000 of the population are outside the church, and that there was no more important work to be done in this country than that of carrying the gospel truth to these millions. It stated that the American Tract society published evangelic truth in 153 languages and dialects. The total number of volumes in all languages published in New York reaches 31,500,000, the total number of books and tracts nearly 500,000,000, and the total periodicals over 200,500,000.

Through its missionary colportage, the report says, the society has carried the gospel truth to the out-of-the-way places, and into the congested wards of the cities. "It has gone into the lumber camps, the mining regions and the sparsely settled districts, leaving the Christly message among those people who were entirely destitute of all religious priviledges. Hundreds of Sunday schools have been organized and devotional services held in log cabins, schoolhouses and oftentimes in the open air. The whole number of family visits made since the society began its house-to-house work is over 14,500,000, and the number of families prayed with or conversed with on religious subjects amounts to nearly 8,500,000. It is impossible to tell the far-reaching results of this noble work. Thousands and tens of thousands have been won to Christ through its instrumentality."

The work at Ellis island was spoken of as being of great importance, in that the colporteurs there gave the gospel truth in some form to the large number that are arriving daily on our shores.

The report also called attention to the fact that the society's income has been lessened by the falling off in legacies of nearly $50,000 during the past year, and that the great need at the present time was an increase in donations.

LATE EX-SENATOR VOORHEES.

Funeral Service at Washington Precedes Transportation of Remains to Indiana.

Washington, April 12.—The remains of ex-Senator Daniel Voorhees, who died Saturday, were escorted from this city to his native state of Indiana today. Before being taken to the Terre Haute home the body will lie in state in the capitol building at Indianapolis. Funeral services were held here at noon in St. John's Episcopal church, after which the remains were removed to the Pennsylvania railroad station and, accompanied by the family and Senator Wilson, left on the Chesapeake and Ohio express at 2:30.

The honarary pall bearers were Senators Morrill, Turpie, J. K. Jones, Wilson and Cullom, ex-Senator Butler, Judge Lawrence Weldon and Richard J. Bright. The original intention was to take the body direct to Terre Haute and have funeral services there Wednesday or Thursday, contingent on the arrival of the ex-senator's eldest son from Spokane, Wash., but these plans were changed by the receipt of the following telegram from the private secretary of Governor Mount:

"Governor Mount tenders his sincere sympathy in the affliction you are called upon to endure in consequence of the death of your distinguished father, and begs to be informed if it will be agreeable to the family to have the remains lie in state at the Indiana capitol en route to Terre Haute."

WORK OF SENATE.

Important Matters May Be Delayed by Failure to Effect Reorganization.

Washington, April 12. — The outlook for the week in the senate is so much befogged by the situation with reference to committee reorganization that it is impossible to forecast the proceedings with any degree of accuracy. There is a possibility that this question may consume a great deal of attention, and if it is not satisfactorily disposed of it may be used to prevent effort to secure action on important measures.

Aside from the matter of reorganization there are four important questions before the senate. These are the Morgan Cuban resolution, the bankruptcy bill, the Anglo-American arbitration treaty and the appropriation bills.

Senator Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, says that he is hopeful of securing consideration for the treaty some time during the week, the only circumstance likely to prevent being the continued absence of senators. Senator Davis refuses to make any predictions as to the result of the final vote, or when that vote will be reached.

Senator Allison said when he presented the report on the sundry civil appropriation bill to the senate that he would call it up this week. Senator Fettigrew, who will have charge of the Indian bill, has also stated that he hopes to take up that bill. If the Democrats do not object on account of the incimpiete condition of the committees both bills probably will be acted upon during the week.

Senator Gorman is expected to make a general attack upon the appropriations during the pendancy of these measures.

Both Senators Hoar and Nelson are very anxious to press the bankruptcy bill to a vote, but it will give way before any of the other measures mentioned.

Washington, April 12.—The house will continue its program of 3-day adjournments this week. Jerry Simpson of Kansas will embarrass the majority as much as possible, requiring a quorum to approve the journal, but will have little aid from the Democrats if the spirit of the resolution adopted by the Democratic caucus Saturday prevails as the policy of the house leaders. At present, however, this opportunity to harass the Republicans will be slight. It may be that, owing to the urgency of the case, the leaders may deem it advisable, when the house meets on Wednesday, to take up the armor plate question in some form. In this event as much legislation as is deemed proper can be had under a special order from the committee on rules, but nothing has as yet been decided.

Liliuokalani's Desire.

Washington, April 12.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii does not desire the re-establishment of a monarchical government, or seek her own restoration to the throne. Her mission in this city is to secure from President McKinley interference to the extent that the matter in which the Dole regime was placed in power shall be pronounced illegal, by reason of undue activity on the part of Minister Stevens and Captain Wiltse of the cruiser Boston, and a new election ordered, free from even indirect intimidation. The former queen is convinced that if the will of the Hawaiians is freely and unblassedly expressed at such a new election, she would be chosen president, and thus placed in control of her former possessions without a return to the monarchy. Her plans have been laid before the president in detail, and she is now awaiting a reply as to what action he will take in response to her request.

All's Well That Ends Well.

Chattanooga, April 12.—John H. Atkinson, the 17-year-old son of Governor W. Y. Atkinson of Georgia, was married here yesterday to Miss Ada Byrd, the 16-year-old daughter of C. P. Byrd of Atlanta. There were present at the ceremony Governor Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Byrd, the father and mother of the bride; Judge Spencer Atkinson of the Georgia supreme court, and Charles P. North, assistant clerk of the Georgia senate. The young folks eloped a short time ago because their parents objected to their marrying so young.

South African War Cloud.

London, April 12.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Cape Town says that Het Degblad, the Dutch newspaper, declares that leading officials of the Transvaal speak openly of war with England as inevitable, and aver that it will be carried right up to Table bay.

Couch Beds

Of course you remember the magician, who quickly and accurately transforms one thing into another. It's perplexing of course until you learn the trick and then it's wonderfully simple.
Now to operate one of our couch beds almost makes one think he is a magician. A luxurious, dreamy Turkish Couch, fit for the best room in the house.
"Presto Change," a single, three quarter or double bed, as comfortable as the wisdom of man can contrive, all done in a twinkling. A two fold service for a single price, and the cost is very reasonable. $20.00 and $25.00.
It will please us to have you ask to see them work.

FOR BIMETALLISM.

Commission Appointed by President to Promote International Agreement.

Senator Wolcott, C. J. Paine and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Ex-Vice President Supported Chicago Platform in the Last Campaign.

Washington, April 13.—The president has announced the appointment of Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado, Hon. Charles J. Paine of Boston and ex-Vice President Stevenson as commissioners to an international monetary conference. These appointments are made under the act approved March 3 last "for the promotion of an international agreement for bimetallism," and by its provisions does not require confirmation by the senate.

SENATOR WOLCOTT.

It has been generally conceded that Senator Wolcott would be made a member of the commission. He has been an active leader in the movement for a monetary agreement and widely known as an advocate of the silver cause. His trip to Europe last summer was generally conceded to be at least semi-official as the representative of the new administration. His tour extended over several months and embraced the leading European capitals. He had audiences with the most noted financiers and ministers, and it is believed then laid the foundations for the international conference, which the commission appointed last night will endeavor to bring to a conclusion. Senator Wolcott is now serving his second term in the senate having been elected to that body in 1885. While a pronounced bimetallist he was a staunch supporter of the St. Louis ticket.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

Ex-Vice President Stevenson, the Democratic member of the commission though generally known as an advocate of bimetallism, was a staunch supporter of Bryan and the Chicago platform He and Senator Wolcott, however, are said to be in accord on the financial question.

General Charles J. Paine, who may be termed the minority member, is a Republican, and was a McKinley man. He is one of the most prominent business men of Massachusetts, and is said to be a deep student of the financial question While he is classed as a supporter of bimetallism based on international agreement he is regarded as allied with the sound money faction. He is a graduate of Harvard, being a member of the class of '53. General Paine is largely identified with railroads and other corporations.

Civil Service In Navy.

Secretary Long has sent to the commandants of every navy yard and station in the United States a copy of the order he made March 26, relative to marking efficiency, office habits, etc., of employes. In the opinion of the secretary, a true civil service must permit of removals in order to ensure good work. Therefore, under this circular any person who falls below 70 per cent in the rating will be dropped from the public service. As soon as Assistant Secretary Roosevelt is settled in his new office, he will, by direction of Secretary Long, make a thorough examination of every navy yard and station in the United States, devoting his attention particularly to the condition of the employes, their efficiency, and framing regulations for the correction of any abuse that may be brought to his attention.

Out of Respect to Voorhees.

The senate met at noon for the first time since the death of ex-Senator Voorhees, who, until a recent day, was a conspicuous member of that body.

The opening prayer of Rev. Dr. Milburn, the blind chaplain, made eloquent reference to Mr. Vorhees' brilliant talents, impassioned ardor, kindling eloquence, genuine patriotism and the unselfish dedication of his great powers to every cause, human and divine, which enlisted his care. Divine consolation was invoked for the family of the man who had inscribed his name on the tablets which perpetuate the great orators and statesmen of his generation. Immediately following the prayer, Mr. Gorman of Maryland moved that, as a mark of respect to their late associate, the senate adjourn, adding that many senators desired to attend the funeral. The motion prevailed.

Turkish Minister on Armenian Trouble.

Moustapha Bey, the Turkish minister, in an interview, says that published reports relative to the recent trouble at Tokat had been greatly exaggerated. Nevertheless, he said, the governor and the military commander, the chief of police, and several other officials had been removed from office and placed under arrest as a preliminary step to their trial and punishment for not having been able to avert these troubles.

"The Armenian revolutionists," added the Turkish minister, "are now seeking in every way to provoke the disturbance at different points of the empire, with a view to increasing the embarrassment of the Turkish government, owing to the affairs of Crete and Greece. Consequently all the provincial authorities have been urged to watch, day and night, that no acts likely to give rise to any disturbing incident among the Mussulmans and Christians may occur."

President Benefited by Outing.

The president, Mrs. McKinley and their party returned to the White House yesterday after a five days' trip on the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay in the United States dispatch boat Dolphin. Mr. and Mrs. McKinley derived great benefit from the outing. Hereafter, the president will not receive personal calls after 1 o'clock, but will devote his time after that hour, each office day, to the consideration of public business.

Odds and Ends.

Admiral Bunce has arranged with Secretary Long the details of the naval portion of the program at the Grant monument ceremonies at New York The Dolphin has been ordered to New York, where she will serve to transport the president and Secretary Long in their review of the great fleet. Captain Chester has been delegated by Secretary Long to represent the navy in arranging the program at New York with General Dodge.

Vice President Hobart has leased the residence of Don Cameron, on Lafayette square, for four years.

Dr. Barnard F. McGrath of Amesbury Mass., has been appointed physician in charge of Columbia hospital in Washington. Dr. McGrath is a graduate of Georgetown university.

William J. Bryan returned to Washington yesterday from Florida. He is still suffering as the result of the accident at St. Augustine, and is considerably bruised. His worst injury is in his left side, which pains him greatly.

Assistant United States Treasurer Jordan, a gold Democrat, it is said by people who are believed to have knowledge of the matter, will be reappointed by President McKinley.

Tariff Bill Will Pass.

Washington, April 13.—The Republican managers in the senate have no doubt about the passage of the tariff bill when they get it in shape, and they do not expect to have to concede all the demands of the Western high protectionists in order to get it through. They will probably have to make concessions, in the nature of compromises in the duties on wool and lead ore, but they do not expect to concede the tax on hides which the western Republican senators are demanding. When the time for a vote comes the Republican managers will have a majority of the senate. Senator Kyle, and possibly Senator Jones of Nevada, will support the bill directly, and if this does not give the bill a majority in the senate, with or without the casting vote of Vice President Hobart, enough of the opposition senators will refrain from voting to make the Republican vote a majority of those answering to the roll-call. When the managers have completed their negotiations and made all reasonable concessions, they will insist upon unanimous support from the McKinley Republicans as a party measure, and expect to have no difficulty in keeping every regular Republican in line.

FLOOD SITUATION.

Levee In Louisiana Breaks---Relief Work In Progress---Water Stationary.

Memphis, April 13.—The mighty sweep of the waters south of Vicksburg has at last had its effect upon the lower levees, and a telegram from Tallulah, La., reports that the levee which protects Davis island has given away and the town in all probability will be flooded. Twenty-five hundred people inhabit Davis island, which consists of about 5000 acres of land. The place is situated in Warren county, Miss.

Throughout the upper delta the flood situation shows little change since last reports. The work of government relief has been actively inaugurated. Many poor people are being fed and housed at Greenfield, Rosedale, Helena, Friar's point and other points along the river. A relief steamer is now plying up the St. Francis river with food and forage for man and beast.

At Helena the river has fallen two-tenths of a foot. The weather observer at that point says that a steady fall is noted in the river, despite the rise at Cairo and upper river points. The Williamson crevasse has widened considerably, but the velocity of the water has been checked and no further breaks are feared.

At Greenville the river is stationary. Captain H. C. Martin, representing the secretary of war, arrived at Greenville yesterday and is thoroughly investigating the needs of the overflowed sufferers in that territory. Fully 3000 negroes in Washington county alone are penniless and must be taken care of.

WAR WITH TRANSVAAL.

Sensation Created by Speech of Sir George J. Goschen at London.

London, April 13.—The speech of the first lord of the admiralty, George J. Goschen, at the farewell banquet tendered on Saturday to Sir Alfred Milner, the newly appointed high commissioner of Great Britain in South Africa, has produced a great sensation, and the imminence of war between Great Britain and the Transvaal is the common talk of the street.

Referring to the presence of British blue jackets and marines in South Africa, Mr. Goschen said:

"They are there to represent Sir Alfred Milner, British power in South Africa They are the guarantee to him and to our colonies, to the loyal men who support British rule, that this country is determined to maintain its supremacy in those quarters, and that it will back its high commissioner with the power of the British empire."

A dispatch from Cape Town confirms the report, apparently, of the dispatch of the British war vessel to Delagoa bay The British warship Raccoon sailed yesterday from Cape Town under sealed orders. The officials there refuse to divulge her destination, but it is rumored she is bound for Delagoa bay, and the report is generally believed.

Wants Office of Assessor.

Fitchburg, Mass., April 13.—David A Corey, who claims an election to the board of assessors, though the city solicitor has ruled against him, has filed in the supreme court a petition for a writ of mandamus against the present board of assessors, Charles K. Sawyer Zachariah F. Young and Edward W Ackley, praying that the court will order Mr. Young to surrender his office to Mr Corey, and that the other two members of the board be ordered to recognize Mr. Corey as a member of the board The writ is returnable about April 20, in Boston.

Union Did Not Indorse Strike.

Chicago, April 13.—The Illinois steel works at South Chicago, suspended, resumed operations yesterday. The 100 rail finishers, whose striking involved 2500 men, were not re-employed. The finishers were not upheld by the officials of their union, and as a result their places were filled, and the 2400 men in other departments returned to their labors.

Ice Blockade Off Newfoundland.

St. John's, N. F., April 13.—The coast is once more blockaded by heavy Arctic ice, imprisoning the steamers Caspian and Portia, and preventing the incoming of a whole fleet of sealing steamers, which have been cruising in the south ice pack for a month past, waiting their chance to secure cargoes of seals.

Governor Lippett's Order.

Providence, April 13.—Governor Lippitt has issued an order granting troops from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts permission to pass through the state of Rhode Island en route to and returning from the dedication of the tomb of General U. S. Grant in New York.

Weyler's Missionary.

Washington, April 13.—Major Juan Sandoval of General Weyler's staff, who has been here since Saturday on a secret mission, is reported to be endeavoring to make terms with the representatives of the Cuban insurgents to bring about a peaceful settlement.

City Laborers' Half Holiday.

Fall River, Mass., April 13.—Mayor Greene informed the board of aldermen last night that the city solicitor had ruled that the payment to city laborers of wages for the Saturday half holiday was illegal.

Clubs Must Pay License.

Albany, April 13.—The senate has passed the amendment to the Rains liquor law, to tax clubs the same as saloons, and to permit saloons to serve free lunch.

North Attleboro, Mass., March 13, 1897. I was a great sufferer with dyspepsia, and a friend advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking it for one week I was much better, and I continued its use until I was cured. Luther C. Brown, Box 406.

Royal Arcanum Whist Party.

A progressive whist party was held by John Adams Council, Royal Arcanum, at Brasee's hall, Wollaston, Monday evening at 8 o'clock, it following the regular business meeting of the council. About 50 ladies and gentlemen were present, there being ten tables of players.

The most successful lady players were Mrs. C. W. Godfrey and Mrs. A. H. Sayward, each having the same number of rings, and Mr. C. B. Huston was the most successful among the gentlemen.

Each lady present was given a pretty bouquet of English violets. At 10 o'clock ice cream and cake were served by the caterer. Regent Ross made a short address on the merits of the Royal Arcanum from a business and fraternal standpoint. Brother Colgan, White, Baker and Jordon rendered vocal and instrumental music, the entire company joining in the popular choruses. Altogether it was a most enjoyable party.

This Evening.

There will be a parish social at the Universalist vestry this evening to which members and all friends of the parish are cordially invited, except children under thirteen. Refreshments served at half past six, after which there will be a social hour, followed by vocal and instrumental music. The pastor would be pleased to meet on this occasion all who attend his church or feel friendly towards the same.

SALE OF ALCOHOL.

The Governor's Veto Opens the Eyes of the Legislators.

Henry H. Faxon and temperance people are pleased at Gov. Wolcott's veto of the act relative to the sale of pure alcohol by dealers in paints and chemicals. The bill was so brief that it is given in full.

SECTION 1 — Dealers in paints and dealers in chemicals may sell pure alcohol for mechanical or chemical purposes, but for no other purpose.

SECTION 2 – This act shall take effect on its passage.

The Governor says in his message:

"The bill is a radical departure from the policy of existing statutes regulating the sale of alcohol and I am unable to believe that its scope and effect were fully considered by the legislature. It is unnecessary to discuss the question whether it would be wise to permit the sale of alcohol by dealers in paints and chemicals for mechanical purposes under the same restrictions as those which apply to such sales by druggists. Such are not the provisions of this bill. It permits such sales without any restrictions whatever, as to time, place or manner.

"Under the provisions of statutes 1896, chapter 397, no sale of alcohol can lawfully be made by druggists except upon the certificate of the purchaser that the same is for mechanical, medicinal or chemical purposes. This certificate must be cancelled at the time of sale. The druggist must also keep a book in which he shall enter at the time of such sale the date thereof, the name of the purchaser, who shall also sign his name in said book as part of said entry, the quantity and price of said alcohol and the residence and number of the purchaser. This book and the certificates shall at all times be open to the inspection of the officers of the police. A penalty is provided for the making of a false certificate or entry and the making of a sale without such certificate and entry is made punishable by fine or imprisonment.

"These wholesome regulations are intended to secure control and supervision of the business, and to enforce compliance with the provisions of the statutes which limit sales of alcohol by druggists to cases where it is required for medicinal, mechanical or chemical purposes. Without such regulations it would be difficult, if not impossible, to limit its sale.

"It is unfortunately true that there are many whose appetites are so abnormal that they will, if they can, buy alcohol for use as a beverage; and it has been found that when its sale is permitted for a harmless and useful purpose, the temptation to make sales to persons who seek to buy it for purposes of intoxication is such as to render necessary safeguards like those now in force. Without such safeguards convictions for unlawful sales would be difficult, if not impossible.

"These restrictions, which the wisdom of your predecessors has imposed upon the business of selling alcohol, are wholly wanting in this bill. So radical a departure from the policy of existing statutes is not to be sanctioned without strong reasons of policy or necessity, which I do not find to exist.

"On the contrary, I think the provisions of the bill, if allowed to become a law, would tend largely to take away the control and oversight of the sale of intoxicating liquors, which it is the wise policy of the Commonwealth to preserve."

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

Bowling.

The report sent us for Saturdays issue in which a defeat was scored against the Quincy City league team by the Weymouths was hardly correct. The team made up to bowl the Weymouths was not the Quincy league team, but a team in which were two regular members of the Granite league team. As a man can only belong to one team in the City league at the same time some members of the Quincys object to the credit of defeats not belonging to them.

The Quincys and Prospects are tied for fifth place and as the South Bostons are a strong team some good bowling must be done tonight or a drop will be the result.

WEYMOUTH MYSTERY.

Wounded Woman Discovered in a Burning House.

Her Clothes Saturated With Kerosene Oil.

Tramps Arrested But Thought Not to be Guilty of Crime.

[Special to the DAILY LEDGER.]

Weymouth has a sensation of a startling nature which may turn out to be a murder.

About 11 30 this morning an alarm of fire summoned the department to a blaze in a house at Lovells Corner, East Weymouth, occupied by a family named Bates, of whom but little is known, except that they recently moved from Cohasset.

When the department arrived and the firemen entered the house, a horrible sight met their gaze, for lying upon the floor in a pool of blood, with her clothing afire, was the Bates woman.

In her breast was a gaping wound, apparently made by a revolver fired at close range and upon the floor near the body was the revolver from which the shot had evidently been fired.

Further investigation showed that the woman's clothing had been saturated with kerosene oil. When found the woman was alive, although badly burned besides being shot.

The first thoughts were two tramps who had been seen in the neighborhood during the morning had shot the woman, then saturated her with kerosene oil and set fire to the building to cover up their crime.

A search party was made up and the woods scoured back of the house for the tramps. They were found in the woods and were locked up on suspicion.

After the fire had been extinguished the police made a more thorough examination and were let to believe that the two tramps had nothing to do with the affair, but that the woman had saturated herself with the oil, then set fire to the building and to make the job complete had shot herself.

The wildest excitement prevails and the street about the scene is thronged with citizens and rumors of all sorts fill the air.

CHURCH WEDDING.

The Baker-Pratt Nuptials Attended by Society People.

A brilliant society wedding took place last evening at the old First church, when Miss Minnie Pratt, the daughter of the late Edwin B. Pratt of Quincy, and Mr. Robert Melville Baker of Wellesley were united in marriage by the Rev. Ellery C. Butler, the pastor of the church.

The whole church was reserved, and the attendance was not so large as on some previous grand weddings, but included the prominent society people of Quincy, Wellesley and some from Boston and elsewhere.

The church was prettily decorated in green and white.

There were no bridemaids but the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Bessie Pratt, and the groom by Mr. Victor J. Loring, of Wellesley Hills. Mr. Edwin Bartlett Pratt, a brother of the bride, gave her away.

The ushers at the church were: Daniel W. Lane, Edgar Pierce, Howard Whitcomb, Robert C. Baldwin, George S. Badger, of Boston; Walter Yates, of Gloucester; Harry L. Rice and Fred B. Rice, of this city.

A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's home on Hancock street, which was also a brilliant affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker's wedding trip will be to the South, and their future home at Burrcroft, Wellesley Hills.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

added the total is $351,126.21, against $325,790.65 last year.

Councilman Field offered an amendment that the amount for miscellaneous repairs of highways, bridges, culverts and drains, maintenance of horses and purchase of tools be divided as in the past so as to read $2,300 for bridges, culverts and drains, and $18,000 for miscellaneous repairs of highways, maintenance of horses and purchase of tools. His reason was that the statutes demanded that the amount for bridges, etc., should be a separate appropriation.

The amendment was adopted and the order ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Finance reported that the matter of brick sidewalks in front of property of Quincy Real Estate Trust on Hancock street, Baxter estate on School street and H. F. Parker's be charged to appropriation for sidewalks and edgestones. Adopted.

Upon motion of Councilman Murray the order relating to the grade on Brook street was taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Streets.

Upon motion of Councilman Pinkham, rule one was suspended and it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until April 26.

The order appropriating $30,000 and receipts from services for the extension of water mains was taken up and under suspension of the rules was passed to be ordained.

Adjourned at 8.05.

Cemetery Investigation.

The special committee of the City Council, appointed to investigate the charges made against James Nicol superintendent of Mount Wollaston Cemetery, by Hugh Cameron, held a short meeting Monday evening and then adjourned until tonight at which time Mr. Nicol will be given an opportunity to present his side of the affair. This meeting, like the first one held, will be of the star chamber form.

PRINTED BOGUS TICKETS.

Boston and Maine Mileage Ticket Covers Refilled and Sold.

Lowell, Mass., April 13.—William S. Clore, alias J. W. Marston, alias J. W. Johnson, alias J. W. Stevens, was arrested here yesterday and charged with uttering counterfeit mileage and trip tickets on the Boston and Maine.

He admitted his guilt. When arrested he had two trip tickets on his person, good from Boston to Lawrence, and he claims to have sold 11 at prices ranging from $5 to $9 each.

His scheme was to purchase old covers and bind in the new tickets, which he would number to correspond with the cover. He had not put out any 1000-mile tickets, as he was somewhat puzzled as to getting a proper imitation of D. J. Flander's signature. He did his own press work in Lawrence, having purchased a small press for the purpose. The plates, type and lone tickets have been recovered. He had also made a plate duplicating a coupon ticket for a bicycle contest, as published in the Lawrence American, and had ordered 8000 slips printed in this city with two coupons on the slip—16,000 in all—which he had bargained to sell at $4 per 1000 to contestants in Lawrence.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 13.—The bill directed at homes for consumptives was reported in the house yesterday by the committee on public health. It provides that new hospitals for persons sick with contagious diseases, or additions to present hospitals of that sort, shall not be made without first securing a license approved by the board of aldermen and board of health. A measure was introduced calculated to secure the reinstatement of former members of the Massachusetts Benefit association who were "frozen out" from active membership, and to bring about a meeting of these members on June 1 of this year. The bill allowing railroad companies to buy the stock of leased roads was ordered to a third reading, with the amendments proposed by Representative Stanley last week, incorporated. The governor's veto of the pure alcohol bill was tabled in the senate, and the body then passed the resolve for sending a militia regiment to New York on the day of the Grant monument dedication. The house refused to reject the resolve allowing the sale of the old Salem normal school building by auction at not less than $10,000.

More Street Contractors Indicted.

Boston, April 13.—Five more indictments were returned yesterday in the superior criminal court in connection with the alleged frauds in the street department of the city of Boston. All the defendants appeared in the court accompanied by persons whom they had selectel as bondsmen. All were arraigned, and all pleaded not guilty. The additional indictments are against the folowing named: John Richard Mulrey, former clerk in the street department; William Scollans, contractor and cattle dealer; Thomas F. Finneran, contractor; James Kelly, contractor; Michael H. Reddish, teamster. An indictment has also been found against Frank R. Kimball, contractor, who is now out of the city, but he will be brought into court as soon as possible after his return.

No Sensational Testimony.

Boston, April 13.—The testimony in the Martin investigation fell off in interest yesterday. For the most part the evidence was cumulative. No new veins of testimony were explored. During the testimony of Samuel S. Wilkins, president of the Howard National bank, there was an exciting episode. Heman W. Chapin conducted his examination for the petitioners, going over in great detail the transaction between General Martin and the bank in connection with the sale of the land in Dorchester to the Pearl Hill Lithia Spring company. Mr. Wilkins was nettled by the aspersions cast upon the bank at Saturday's session by Mr. Chaplin, and he said so vehemently and indignantly.

New Bedford License Case.

Fall River, Mass., April 13.—The dispute between Mayor Charles F. Ashley of New Bedford and the license commission of that city, Messrs. John J. Nowland, Frank M. Sparrow and Benjamin D. Barney, will not be settled by injunction. This was decided by Judge Maynard. He dismisses all of the cases on the ground that the court has not jurisdiction on a petition of the license commission asking that the acts of the mayor be restrained by injunction. The situation in New Bedford accordingly goes back to where it was when Mayor Ashley began charges against the commissioners. The latter have granted 12 licenses, and their legality may be questioned.

Lecture on Moliere.

Cambridge, Mass., April 13.—In Sander's theatre yesterday M. Brunetiere, the eminent French critic, delivered the first of his three lectures on Moliere before Harvard students. Professor De Sumichrast, chairman of the department of French, presented Professor Eocher, who introduced the lecturer. M. Brunetiere spoke in a most interesting and forcible manner, and held the close attention of his auditors throughout. He dwelt with the early life and work of Moliere, from his birth until 1661.

Gas Investigation at Boston.

Boston, April 13.—In his testimony at yesterday's session, Engineer Carson said that he had long thought the pipes in various parts of the city were old and liable to leak upon the slightest disturbance. He made this statement at one time in 1896, when complaints of breaks were frequent, to the transit commission in the presence of Mr. Burtage. This was in regard to section six on Tremont street.

The Boy Had Nerve.

Dennis plunged in and brought the little girl to the bank, while several men who had stood paralyzed with fear while the child was in peril aided him to get her to shore.

Little Rock, April 13.—A youth named Harrison was killed in a glove contest with a boy named Tobin at Hampton. Harrison's neck was broken by a blow from Tobin in the second round, and death was instantaneous.

A woman's best jewels are her babes. A healthy, happy child is womanhood's most appropriate ornament. A childless woman is to be pitied, even though she be the possessor of other jewels that are priceless. A womanly woman knows this and would sacrifice all the diamonds of all the nations for the clinging, confiding touch of baby hands. Thousands of women lead childless, loveless lives because of ill-health. They do not understand the duties that they owe to themselves. They neglect the most delicate and important parts of woman's organism. They suffer untold agonies from weakness and disease of the organs that make motherhood possible, and never know the thrilling touch of baby fingers. They imagine their cases hopeless.

In this they are mistaken. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure, safe, swift cure for all weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. It acts directly and only on these organs. It prepares a woman for motherhood. It allays all discomfort during the expectant period. It insures the baby's health and makes its coming easy and almost painless. More than 90,000 women have testified in writing to its value. All good druggists sell it.

Mrs. Rebecca Gardner, of Grafton, York Co., Va., writes: "I was so sick with dyspepsia that I could not eat anything for over four months. I had to starve myself, as nothing would stay on my stomach. I tried almost everything that people would tell me about, and nothing did me any good. I weighed only 80 pounds. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and, thank God, and your medicine, I am as well as I ever was, and now weigh 125 pounds. I have a bottle of your 'Favorite Prescription' now, and that is a wonderful medicine for female weakness. Praise God that he created such a man as you."

Business is business. No time for headaches. Constipation causes them. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure them by curing the cause. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

NEURALGIA BOUND HIM WITH BANDS OF PAIN

He Is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases are, that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

BIRTH OF JEFFERSON.

Democrats Celebrate 154th Anniversary In Historic Hostelry.

Bryan Criticises Cleveland's Financial Policy.

Senator Jones Refers to the Yale Incident of Last Campaign.

Washington, April 14.—The National Association of Democratic clubs last night celebrated the 154th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson at the Metropolitan hotel. Interest was added to the occasion by the fact that the first celebration of Jefferson's birthday, at which President Andrew Jackson and Vice President John C. Calhoun were the guests of honor, took place at the same hostelry, then known as the Indian Queen.

William J. Bryan of Nebraska was the guest of honor last night. Senators, representatives and others conspicuous in the councils of the Democratic party were present, many of them from a distance. Covers were laid for 200, and many were denied seats for want of space at the table. The decorations of the room were simple. Governor Chauncey F. Black of Pennsylvania, the president of the association, presided. Upon his right were Mr. Bryan and Representative McMillan, who acted as toastmaster.

The toasts were proposed and briefly responded to, except in the case of Mr. Bryan, who spoke at length to the toast "Thomas Jefferson." Mr. Bryan said in part:

Bryan on Finance.

"The Democratic party is strong just in proportion as it proves true to the teachings of its great founder. It is the mission of the Democratic party to chrystalize into legislation the principles which he taught. The party applies Democratic principles to the issues which arise from time to time. For many years the tariff question was the paramount issue, and the party took a more advanced position each year until 1892, when it declared itself in favor of a policy which meant substantially a tariff for revenue only. But the president elected at that time, instead of proceeding to carry out that position of the platform, forced upon public attention an issue which had been up to that time considered secondary. Mr. Cleveland, more than any other one person in this nation, is responsible for the prominent position which the money question now occupies. It was his determination to complete the demonetization of silver and make the gold standard perpetual. That aroused the masses of the United States to active resistance. The struggle for supremacy between the gold standard and bimetallism was recognized as a contest between the money power and the common people. The explicit declaration in favor of free and unlimited coinage at 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation, was made necessary by the attempt of certain public men to evade preceding platforms. The party struggle which culminated in the Chicago convention, of necessity, alienated a portion of the party. The party was placed in the position where it was compelled to endorse the financial policy of the president or adhere to the doctrines and traditions of the party. The position taken by the Democratic party in 1896 will not be surrendered. If you doubt the permanency of the Chicago platform as a party creed go among the rank and file of the party and measure the zeal and enthusiasm which that platform has aroused, and you will realize the impossibility of taking a backward step.

"True, the present administration is attempting to turn public attention to the tariff question, but if our reasoning is well founded an increase of taxes cannot restore prosperity to the producers of wealth. If the Dingley bill brings general and permanent prosperity the Democratic party will not be in a position to win a contest by opposing it. If, on the other hand, the Dingley bill proves a disappointment to those who advocate it, our position of 1896 will be strengthened and public attention will be riveted upon the fact that the cause of financial depression is to be found in our monetary system.

There is much in recent events to encourage the followers of Thomas Jefferson. The spring elections indicate a growing sentiment along the lines of the Chicago platform. In fact the elections which have taken place show so great a gain that the Republican party may now be considered a minority party. It has but one hope of escape from the wrath to come, and that is to secure bimetallism by international agreement before the people of the nation have another opportunity to speak at the polls. While we who believe in independent bimetallism generally regard an international agreement as neither necessary nor possible, we may well hope for success to any who may make the attempt to secure foreign assistance. If our opponents succeed in opening the mints of other nations, as well as their own mints, we shall rejoice, because the condition of the people will be improved, and they will be able to proceed with other remedial legislation. If, however, the Republican party, after pledging itself to secure international bimetallism, finds it impossible to fulfill that pledge, its expressed preference for a double standard will rise up to condemn it if it attempts to continue longer the evils of the gold standard."

The other speakers were: Chairman Jones of the National Democratic committee, Congressman Bland, Congressman Sibley, Andrew J. Lipscomb of Virginia, Congressman Sulzer of New York.

Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee, in responding to his toast, referred to the insults given Mr. Bryan at Yale college and the refusal of the students there to hear him during the last campaign. He said: "And this in New England, the proud seat of our learning, where men in the old days would have died to maintain right of free speech."

BOLD ROBBERS.

They Knew Farmer Teele Had Money and They Got It.

Waltham, Mass., April 14.—One of the most sensational robberies ever known in this vicinity occurred last evening at a lonely farmhouse on the outskirts of the town. Charles Henry Teele, who occupied the house alone, was the victim, and at the point of the pistol, and with a more terrible threat of death by burning, he gave up $250 to the robbers, and they made their escape, leaving him bound hand and foot to a bed.

Mr. Teele, a farmer 58 years old, is somewhat of a recluse, living in a large house near the Lincoln line. About dusk last night he came home. Inside the door he was met by two men, both masked, and armed with revolvers, who demanded his money, under pain of instant death. Teele refused. Teele was seized and dragged into a bedroom, where he was thrown on the bed and securely bound. The robbers then prepared a gag of cloth, which they saturated with kerosene and stuffed into the unfortunate man's mouth, while all over the bedroom floor and furniture they poured all the kerosene they could find about the house. When this was done, the men told Teele that they were well acquainted with his habits, having watched him for some time. They were positive that he had received $4000 from the city of Cambridge for land damages in the taking of part of his estate for a water reservoir. Furthermore, they were members of a New York gang and would stand no fooling, and that if he did not disclose the whereabouts of the money they would set the room on fire and leave him.

This was too much for the old man, and he nodded an assent to the demands of the robbers.

He told them, after they had removed the gag, that the $4000 was all in the bank, but that he did have $200 with him, and that $50 more was in the hay in the barn. The men were satisfied with this explanation, and one of them went to the barn and returned with the $50. Then taking the $200, they left. Teele managed to work himself free from the bed, and, after recovering himself, walked half a mile to a camp of Italians, and through them the police were notified.

Martin's Defense Begins.

Boston, April 14.—After four days of testimony, the petitioners for the removal of General A. P. Martin as police commissioner rested their case yesterday. James M. Howe gave expert testimony as to the value of the land sold by General Martin to Mr. Capen; Vincenzo Bonzagni, an Italian, told how he came to give a case of wine to General Martin; Florens Scannell, who delivers lithia water, said his customers had refused to take mineral water from him after the Pearl Hill Lithia Water company was organized, and started to give hearsay evidence as to what the liquor dealers thought of the chairman of the police board, when the governor interposed an objection and said the liquor dealers should be summoned. Mr. Davis, one of the counsel for the petitioners, submitted a list of the customers of the Lithia Water company, taken from the ledger of the company, for the use of the governor. He stated that there were 383 names in all, 322 of which had been positively identified as holding liquor licenses in the city of Boston. Mr. Scannell explained the methods adopted by him to work up the charges against General Martin, and to get signatures to his petition. Witness related a conversation he had with another spring water agent (Mr. Bowen), in which he (Scannell) said, "I told Mr. Bowen that this was an outrage on the public that the chairman of the police commissioners should be in the mineral water business, and that the statutes did not allow it, and that he had no right to take away the business we had been doing, in the line of intimidation and coercion of men outside, stating that he was chairman of the board, and sending cards, etc., with his name on them."

The Wool Market.

Boston, April 14.—There is yet considerable wool being sold, the business for the past week footing up in excess of 6,000,000 pounds, about equally divided between domestic and foreign. Since Jan. 1, the sales reported have been about 110,000,000 pounds, showing an increase in business of nearly 79,000,000 pounds over the same period last year. This year is far beyond the normal, and of course is all due to the special conditions which have prevailed thus far this year, owing to the tariff prospects. Manufacturers have loaded themselves with the raw material to about their full capacity, while during the past few weeks speculation among dealers has been quite a factor in the sales. In this way a large amount of wool has been sold of late that has not gone out of the market, but simply changed ownership. The sales of territory wools shows a falling off from the previous liberal business, but this is due in part to the stronger fact that stocks available have been considerably cut into.

Inspecting Diseased Cattle.

Boston, April 14.—The joint committee of the legislature appointed to ascertain whether certain cows from Lowell and Dracut, condemned as tuberculous by the state cattle commission, were really diseased, visited the Brighton abattoir yesterday and witnessed the killing of 36 animals. All the cows were found to be more or less affected with the disease. The committee was accompanied by Professor Harold C. Ernst of the Harvard medical school, Dr. Theobald Smith of the same institution, and Drs. Kimball of Pittsfield, Woods of Lowell and Billings of Grafton. The lot of cattle which the committee was directed to investigate numbered 140. If the whole lot is inspected most of the week will be consumed in the work.

Mayor and Aldermen Disagree.

Lewiston, Me., April 14.—A majority of the Republican board of aldermen sprung a surprise on Acting Mayor Callahan yesterday at a meeting called to draw jurors by adjourning to the aldermanic chamber and organizing for other business against the vigorous protests of the acting mayor. Four of the six aldermen organized with Alderman Sanborn as chairman. They at once voted to restore to duty the six policemen discharged by Acting Mayor Callahan last week, and did other important business. As chairman of the board of aldermen, Alderman Callahan is acting mayor pro tem. By the action yesterday Alderman Sanborn is chairman, and as he has a majority of the board he has control of the city government.

Massachusetts Benefit Directory.

Boston, April 14.—A meeting of the directors of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association yesterday afternoon resulted in the election of three directors, which completes the association's directory. The new directors are Edward Atkinson, Arthur W. Pope and William M. Bullivant, all Boston business men. The directory as made up is as follows: John Henry Rolker of New York, president; Carroll D. Wright, vice president; Charles S. Hamlin, Louis Windmuller, William M. Bullivant, Charles E. Adams, Hiram A. Tuttle, Arthur W. Pope and Edward Atkinson.

M. E. Conference at South Manchester.

South Manchester Conn., April 14.—The New England Southern conference of Methodist Episcopal churches met here for its 67th annual session today and will hold meetings throughout the rest of the week and adjourn next Monday. Bishop John P. Newman presides. The conference comprises all the territory in Connecticut east of the Connecticut river, all of Rhode Island and southeastern Massachusetts. It includes 210 pastoral charges and about 150 ministers, besides local preachers and probationers of conferences.

Mrs. Tingley at Home.

Newburyport, Mass., April 14. — Mrs. Katherine Alice Tingley, the head of the theosophists in this country, came here, her native place, yesterday, to visit relatives. In an interview she described her recent tour of the world in the interests of theosophy. She established 64 local and eight national national societies, scattered all over the world, Austria, Greece, India and Egypt. Mrs. Tingley explained that her success in her work is due to putting herself on the plane of universal brotherhood with those who need help.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 14.—All the anti-trust bills came up in the house yesterday, and by the end of the first 10 minutes of the afternoon session had been referred to the next general court. The bill to restrict granting of liquor licenses in cities to hotels having less than 20 rooms was rejected. The senate engrossed for a second time the bill amending the southern union station act so that Cove street shall be extended across the tracks of the new station, giving thereby an outlet to the South Boston district.

Maine Methodist Conference.

Portland, Me., April 14.—The Maine Methodist conference began here yesterday, and will continue a week. Bishop Mallalieu of Boston is presiding. At the annual meeting of the itinerant institute yesterday the following officers were elected: President, Rev. E. O. Thayer, Gardiner; vice president, Rev. W. F. Berry, Waterville; secretary, Rev. E. C. Strout, Gorham; treasurer, Rev. Alexander Hamilton, Bethel.

The Unity Club.

Very apt is that quotation from the Marseillaise hymn "Come children of our country, the day of glory has arrived" noted in the Unity Club's programme for Tuesday evening, aptly applying to Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop's interesting paper upon the "Three Republics of France" covering the reigns by Charles X, Louis Philippe I, and Napoleon III.

This was followed by an equally as interesting paper by Rev. Blanche Pentecost Bagley upon George Sand——Armantine Lucille Aurore Duderant——the French novelist. Her works reflected her love of liberty and social progress. She especially delighted in idealizing the lower classes and bringing them in contact with the highest.

The Rev. James E. Bagley read a very able paper upon Dumas, showing great research in its preparation.

Mrs. W. E. Simmons' paper dealt in an intensely interesting manner with that tract of land located in the north west corner of Wyoming, which is more remarkable for natural curiosities than an equal area in any other portion of the globe,—the Yellowstone National Park.

The musical programme and readings by Dr. Frederick C. Merrill were in excellent taste. The instrumental music was by Miss Florence Olney and the vocal selections were by Professor Marceari of the Mansion school and Miss C. F. Spear of Quincy.

Displeased With Legislators.

Henry H. Faxon has congratulated Governor Wolcott on his veto of the alcohol bill, and in the same criticises Senator Flint and Representative Newcomb and Thompson. In his letter he says:

"Words fail to express the gratitude which I desire to convey to you for your action in vetoing the bill relative to the "sale of pure alcohol by dealers in paints and chemicals."

"I am indignant and chagrined that I should have voted for legislators who failed to protest against such a measure in either the senate or house of representatives.

"I have been interested in legislation for 20 years, and cannot recall an instance where such an absurd and dangerous act passed both branches of the legislature with so little opposition.

"The friends of good government should be profoundly grateful to you for this substantial expression of your interest in conserving the public welfare of the Commonwealth."

Crushed Stone by Electrics.

An effort was made in the House on Tuesday to reconsider the bill passed to be engrossed the day before by a vote of 86 to 82, to authorize street railways to carry crushed stone, gravel, sand and other road material, only to be used in the construction and rebuilding of roads. Representative Newcomb of this city was prominent in getting this through against an adverse report, and some members seem to have a mistaken idea concerning it.

Mr. Kennedy of Holyoke said it ought to be called a bill to promote the granite interests of Quincy. But he little knows that Quincy granite is not a good material for crushed stone.

Mr. Jones of Melrose considered it an opening wedge to the carrying of freight by the street railways, and that the rights of the people were in danger.

The House refused to reconsider, 78 to 66. A roll call confirmed the verdict, 84 to 68.

Yacht Club Opening.

The Wollaston Yacht club will hold its next regular meeting on Tuesday May 4 at the new club house foot of Beach street, Wollaston Park. As this will be the first meeting which will be held in the new rooms, the occasion will be emphasized by a liberal supply of clam chowder for the stomach, and quartette music for the soul. The club may be pardoned for laying claim to having one of the best club houses along the South Shore for when compared with others, the claim is not at all extravagant. The membership stands between fifty and sixty, and a large number of applications are in the hands of members to be acted upon May 4. The regatta and other committees will meet this week, when a full account of the season's events will be given out.

Board of Trade.

For an hour last evening it was a question whether the Quincy Board of Trade would die a natural death, commit suicide, or be resuscitated. It was the meeting for the annual election of officers, but it was not until nine o'clock that a quorum assembled.

Then Councilman Henry McGrath was elected President pro tempore, and there was an informal discussion on the work of Boards of Trade, in which J. Q. A. Field, Henry L. Kincaide, R. F. Claflin, Andrew Milne, John Swithin, Thomas Swithin, Alexander Marnock, Alex Clark, Clarence Burgin, T. H. McDonnell and others participated.

It was voted to adjourn until Friday evening, and to issue a more general invitation.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. CEMETERY INVESTIGATION.

Supt. Nicols and Members of the Cemetery Board Heard.

The special committee of the City Council which is investigating the charges against James Nicol, superintendent of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, made by Hugh Cameron, held a meeting Tuesday evening, when Mr. Nicol and his witnesses were present.

This hearing, like the first, was private, and the several witnesses were examined separately, but their testimony was not taken by a stenographer as in the first case.

The several witnesses examined were Superintendent James Nicol, Joseph H. Vogel and Elijah G. Hall of the board of managers of public burial places, James Fitzgerald, William Kelly, Frank Ravina, Thomas Carroll, Thomas Cantfill and Thomas Dolan.

The committee will hold another meeting at which it will consider the testimony before it and make its report.

Confirmation.

Rt. Rev. William Lawrence visited Christ's church Tuesday evening and administered the rite of confirmation to nineteen candidates. Previous to the confirmation Bishop Lawrence preached an eloquent sermon. The lesson which he urged his hearers to heed was that it was not enough that they should lead an upright life after being confirmed, but that they should try and follow the example of Christ by giving of their wealth, visiting the poor and needy in the tenement houses, and the sick in the hospitals. It was a temptation not to leave your pleasant homes and do this work. Christ was also tempted not to leave Galilee and enter Jerusalem, where he knew his life would be in danger, but he put temptation aside, therefore we should try and be more Christ like.

After the confirmation Bishop Lawrence briefly addressed those who had been confirmed as to its meaning and the life they should lead.

M., sermon and adoration of the cross. On Saturday there will be special services and mass at 8 A. M. On Easter day masses at 8, 9.30 and 10.30, with solemn high vespers at 8 P. M.

"Going into a decline." How often do we hear this expression. What does it mean? It means that people are losing flesh, growing thin, wasting.

The way to correct this condition is to improve the digestion. The condition arises from an inability to eat and digest food. In fact food does more harm than good because it ferments and putrefies in the stomach, developing poisonous substances which when absorbed cause various disorders.

What is required is that the stomach be made to perform its duties. The Shaker Digestive Cordial is a food already digested and a digester of foods as well. It will make the stomach healthy. Get a book from the druggist and read about it.

Spring Humors

During the colder season impure humors accumulate in the blood.

The surface of the body being chilled, the pores are closed and clogged, and impurities which might pass off in perspiration are forced back into the blood. Besides this, winter's hearty food, fats and sweets, contribute more impurities.

This briefly explains the existence of Spring Humors—those unsightly eruptions, painful boils, annoying pimples and other affections, which make absolutely necessary the use Hood's Sarsaparilla at this season.

But with some people, impurities in the blood cause very different symptoms. The kidneys, liver and bowels are overmatched in their efforts to relieve the clogged system. Dizzy headaches, bilious attacks, failure of appetite, coated tongue, lame back, indigestion or that tired feeling are some of the results.

From the same cause may also come scrofula, neuralgia sciatica or rheumatism.

All these troubles and more may properly be called "Spring Humors," and just as there is one cause, a cure is found in just one remedy, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the impure blood.
Hood's Sarsaparilla enriches that which is weak and thin.
Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes that which lacks vitality.
Hood Sar-saparilla leads in Merit, Sales and Cures.

IT WAS SUICIDE.

Lottie Bates Evidently Met Horrible Death at Her Own Hands.

The excitement over the horrible death Tuesday of Lottie, the 17 year-old daughter of Mrs. Henry Bates at Lovell's Corner, East Weymouth, is yet unabated, and the scene of the affair continues to be visited by hundreds. Rumors of all kinds were circulated but the police who have made a thorough investigation are convinced that the girl met her death by her own hands.

When the neighbors entered the house to extinguish the flames it was a horrible sight that they looked upon. Seated in an old-fashoned rocker, her body having nearly slipped from the chair to the floor, was the remains of what a few hours before was apparently a happy girl. Every stitch of clothing had been burned and her body burned almost to a crisp. The head was bent back and the eyes partly closed while the mouth was wide open with the tongue protruding. In the left breast near the heart was a gapping wound.

It was a horrible sight and the Medical Examiner and officers who were present say that they had never in all their experience seen its equal.

It was undoubtedly a case of suicide. On the table near where the body was found was a hymn book and bible and a revolver with one chamber empty. On the floor were two notes which are as follows:

"Died for love. Give my best regards to Henry. Place three pinks on my breast. I will shoot at 9 o'clock."

The second note read:

"I have been abused and punished and accused of things I never did. I shall shoot at 9 o'clock."

Although the girl undoubtedly committed suicide the affair is shrouded in mystery, for as far as the mother knew the girl had no lover. Neither can she give any reason why her daughter should wish to die.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Rev. Ira E. Price of Atlantic, will speak at the Wollaston branch rooms tomorrow evening at 7.45.

By request of the International Committee, the association shipped an exhibit of the work done by students in free hand drawing, monumental designing, clay modeling and Sloyd, to Mobile, Ala., to show Tuesday at the International convention. They desire to show how educational work could be adapted to granite cutters, also practical manual training for boys.

The reserve seat tickets for the concert next Tuesday evening were placed on sale this afternoon. Only one hundred seats will be reserved. Many Wollaston people who heard the concert last week are planning to attend. One gentleman remarked that it was worth fifty cents. The readings by Miss Burnett were undoubtedly among the best ever given in the city. Lovers of good music and good reading have a treat in store for them such as has not been offered in Quincy for many years.

There was only a fair attendance at the quarterly meeting of the Association Tuesday evening. The talk by Rev. Rufus B. Tobey on "Common Sense Rules of Order" was very instructive. Mr. Tobey has quite a reputation as a speaker on this subject, frequently being invited to speak before women clubs, etc. He is the compiler of the little pamphlet adopted by the Lyceum League of the Youths' Companion. His talk was on "motions" and "amendments" and was made very practical. He will give a second talk at a date to be announced. All present were presented with a copy of his book.

Rise South of Vicksburg.

Memphis, April 14.—The river continues to rise south of Vicksburg, and the swift current is throwing the waters against the Louisiana levees with tremendous force. A telegram from Tallulah, La., received Monday night, reported that the levees at Davis island, in Warren county, Miss., had broken, but the report was premature. The levee broke yesterday and the island is entirely submerged. Many people have left the city with their most valuable effects and stock. Several weak spots have developed in the Southern levee system. Backwater in the flooded Mississippi delta is about stationary. The river at Memphis continues to fall slowly.

To Stop Seal Butchery.

London, April 14.—Henry White, the American charge d'affairs, on Saturday delivered to Sir Thomas Sanderson, permanent secretary of the foreign office, a dispatch from the American secretary of state, couched in decided terms, urging that the indiscriminate butchery of seals in Alaskan waters should be stopped immediately, and quoting the opinion of American and British experts, who examined into the question last year. The dispatch asks the British government to arrange an international conference on the position of Alaskan sealing.

NO HOPE FO BIMETALLISM.

London Times Says European Governments Will Never Agree With America.

London, April 14.—Commenting on the appointment of the American commissioners to an international bimetallic conference, The Times says: We believe that all the indications in Europe and the far East point to the failure of such an undertaking. It is improbable that all the enthusiasm of Senator Wolcott, conjoined with the business abilities of Mr. Paine and the Democratic silver sympathies of ex-Vice President Stevenson, will bring about the conference desired by President McKinley. It is still more improbable that the commission will effect anything without a conference.

Separate agreements with the United States are out of the question when the nations of Europe do not wish to agree among themselves in favor of bimetallism. The commission will have a good time, and will be received everywhere with courtesy. President McKinley will be able to point to its labors as redeeming his election promises and to their failure as showing that if America wants free silver she must procure it for herself at her own risk.

The sooner these points are made clear the sooner may we expect American business to assume a more healthy appearance. It may, therefore, be hoped that this roving commission will not unduly protract its interesting but futile experiment upon the stability of the financial convictions now governing European policy.

News From Havana.

Havana, April 14. — The insurgent leader, Ricardo Gonzalez Falcon, is being tried today by court-martial at the Cabanas fortress. Pedro Garcia, the insurgent firebug, was shot yesterday. Small-pox is raging at Guinas, a village of 8000 souls. During the last week there have been 150 victims. The Garellano battalion, while near Siguanea, came upon three women, who were carrying a wounded insurgent. The Spaniards killed the insurgent and brought the women to Siguanea. The guerillas killed 10 insurgents at Pedroso, Matanzas, stripping the dead of their arms. There have been other skirmishes in that locality recently.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

Buildings belonging to Charles A. Fickett, a mile from West Paris, Me., burned, together with a pair of valuable horses and other live stock.

Amelia Labadassa and Joseph Ferrish are under arrest at Boston on the charge of counterfeiting. A quantity of spurious coin was found in their house in South Soston.

Horace Stow, a farmer, was found hanging in his barn at Halifax, Vt., by his father-in-law. Stow was probably insane. He was 54 years old, and leaves a family.

A special meeting of the Pennsylvania board of pardons will be held next Saturday to consider the case of Actor James B. Gentry, the murderer of Madge Yorke, the actress.

The evidence was finished yesterday in the trial of Dr. Dodge at Manchester, N. H., charged with causing the death of Mrs. Carrie H. Maloon of Raymond. The case will go to the jury late this afternoon.

Andrew De Gledia, vice consul for the Italian government in St. Paul, committed suicide yesterday. He took a dose of sulphuric acid, and after a day of intense suffering died at the hospital. His mind had become deranged through poor health.

Ike Sheppard (colored), wanted in Chicago for the murder of William Brady in April, 1896, has been arrested at Pittsburg. Sheppard confessed, not only to the murder of Brady, but also to that of John Dougherty at Webster, W. Va., in 1891, and says that he has been mixed up in 18 or 20 other affairs of the kind. He tells so many stories of murders that the officials are inclined to consider him not altogether sane.

SPORTING ITEMS.

The Portland (Me.) baseball team is at Derby, Conn.

Cornell will probably row a team from the University of California this season.

H. L. Bacon of Salem, Mass., will manage the Belfast (Me.) baseball team the coming season.

J. Malcolm Forbes of Boston has entered as a contestant in the Harriman-Daly sweepstake races for trotting 2 and 2-year-olds for $2500 a corner. Mr. Forbes enters for the 2-year-old event, and the race is to take place in Goshen, N. Y., in August.

Some trouble is being experienced in securing a course for the Yale-Cornell-Harvard boat race. Poughkeepsie's (N. Y.) offer was rejected, and Cornell will not row at New London, Conn. Saratoga now seems to be the only available place for the race.

The management of the Charles river park have received a sanction for a bicycle race meet on May 31, notwithstanding the fact that the Associated Cycling clubs of Boston and vicinity has leased the Waltham Bicycle club for its spring race meet on the same day.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The National bank of the Republic of St. Louis has been absorbed by the Merchants-Laclede National bank.

The second annual assembly of Hebekah lodge of Connecticut was held at Meridian yesterday. About 250 past grand officers were present.

Police Commissioner Roosevelt of New York is at Cambridge, Mass., today, attending the annual meeting of the board of overseers of Harvard college.

The McLaughlin memorial prizes offered by the Yale faculty for 1897 to those members of the freshman class presenting the best essays on Tennyson's "Idyls of the King" have been awarded to Elbert N. S. Thompson of East Orange, N. J., first prize, and to George B. Tennant of Waterbury, Conn., second prize.

John Morrill of Amesbury, Mass., celebrated his 64th birthday yesterday, and the observance was made an event of interest by the Warren lodge of Masons, of which Mr. Morrill has been a member for nearly 50 years. Mr. Morrill had charge of the construction of nearly all the bridges from Boston to Eliot, Me., on the Boston and Maine railroad, besides guilding the first railroad bridge over the Merrimac river.

ALTGELD INVOLVED.

Ex-Governor of Illinois Was Closely Identified With Banker Spalding.

Chicago, April 14.—Additional charges are made in regard to the alleged mismanagement of the affairs of the Globe Savings bank in an amended bill filed yesterday by Charles E. Churchill, cashier of the defunct bank. The bill is part of the receivership proceedings, and brings into the case a number of persons not heretofore involved.

A section of the amended bill says that Spalding, Edward Hayes, Charles J. Ford and John W. Lanehart, deceased, the latter either for himself or ex-Governor Altgeld, purchased a tract of land of 80 acres in Cook county, and Spalding, it is alleged, paid for his share of the property out of funds of the Globe Savings bank, and it is also charged that Ford, Lanehart or Altgeld knew this. Of the sum of $103,000, which the state auditor ordered charged to the profit and loss account of the Globe Savings bank, it is represented, $17,000 was an indebtedness of John P. Altgeld, and that $5000 was an indebtedness, nominally due from John W. Lanehart. It is charged, however, that the last amount was in fact a loan to ex-Governor Altgeld. It is also claimed in the bill that ex-Governor Altgeld has been transferring his property, with the intention of keeping it from the creditors of the bank.

President Spalding, Vice President Averill and Cashier Churchill of the bank put in an appearance yesterday in the court of justice hall, and gave bonds for their appearance April 19, to answer the charge of embezzlement preferred by Adolph Edelman, one of the depositors of the bank.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Morgan Concludes His Long Speech on Cuban Resolution.

Washington, April 14.—Senator Morgan of Alabama yesterday concluded his long speech on the resolution declaring that a state of war exists in Cuba. He did not ask for a vote on the resolution, but announced that he hoped to secure a final vote at an early day.

The bankruptcy bill was taken up, Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky defending the measure against criticisms made against it. During the day Mr. Davis of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, gave notice that he would endeavor on Thursday to proceed with the arbitration treaty in executive session.

The senate confirmed the nominations of Alfred E. Buck of Georgia, to be minister to Japan, and James Boyle of Ohio, to be consul at Liverpool.

An agreement has been reached among the leaders of the various parties in the senate under which the appropriation bills which failed to become laws at the last session of congress will be taken up and passed. The Indian bill will be called up by Senator Pettigrew today, and as soon as it is disposed of, the agricultural and sundry civil bills will be considered. The general deficiency bill has not yet been reported. The Indian and agricultural bills are not expected to provoke much debate, but there will in all probability be considerable discussion of the sundry civil bill.

Stevenson a Bimetallist.

Bloomington, Ills., April 14.—Ex-Vice President Stevenson said when questioned about his appointment on the commission for the promotion of an international agreement: "I appreciate the compliment paid to me by the president, and will cheerfully render what assistance I can to accomplish the object of the commission. I am a bimetallist. I regard the restoration of silver to its proper money function as the supreme question in our country and throughout the world. The importance of the question cannot be overstated. In this country the increase in the volume of business is beyond computation. In the light of these facts the rehabilitation of silver is a prime necessity. Should its demonetization become the settled policy the evil days upon which we have fallen but dimly foreshadow consequences yet to come."

Editor Will Collect Revenues.

Springfield, Mass., April 14.—James D. Gill, collector of internal revenues for the district of Massachusetts, has appointed James P. Cured by Puritana

More Voluntary Testimony.

PRIZE FORMULA OF Prof. Dio Lewis Crosby, M.D., LL.D. DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

Strong men and frail women depend upon their stomachs for life from day to day.

When they are weary and weak—
When they suffer—
When they are unfitted for work or enjoyment—
When they think life is hopeless—
Then Puritana can save them.
Why?
Because it has saved others.
Puritana does not fail.
Its marvellous success is built on merit.
Here are a few specimen cures.
Thousands of the same sort could be given.

Mr. Luther P. Shattuck is a shoemaker and lives in Rowley, Mass. For years Mr. Shattuck has been troubled with derangement of the stomach. He tried a number of remedies, but derived no benefit from them until he used Puritana. He says:

"For years I have had trouble with my stomach. I was unable to eat anything without it causing me great distress. I would have severe pains across my chest and in my bowels. In the morning there would be belching of wind, and after my day's work at night, I would be troubled with sourness of the stomach, which was so bad sometimes I would be obliged to go to bed without eating a mouthful. My weight was also gradually wasting away, and my fellow workmen thought I was going into Consumption, and said I could not live long in the condition I was, and, indeed, I do not believe I could. Oftentimes after I had managed to eat a scanty meal, I would vomit up everything I had eaten. Last fall a friend urged me to try Puritana. I began to use it, and before the first bottle was gone, I knew the medicine was helping me. I kept on using it, and I can honestly say that Puritana cured me. I can now eat three meals a day without any distress. I have no belching of wind in the morning, or sourness of the stomach at night. I think Puritana a grand medicine, and shall always praise it." (Signed)

LUTHER P. SHATTUCK.

Mrs. T. Ridge of Westville, Conn., gives her own interesting experience. She writes as follows:

The Puritana Compound Co.

Dear Sirs:—

A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these lines regarding your valuable medicine. I have been sick a number of years. I was so weak that I could not walk nor do my housework. I had a tired feeling all the time; was very despondent. The food I ate did not seem to do me much good; I was dizzy, could not sleep. I have taken various medicines, but they did not benefit me but a little. They gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I read about Puritana, and thought that I would try it and see if it would help me. I am glad to state that Puritana has overcome all these obstacles, for that tired feeling is gone. I sleep good; it has given me an appetite; my head feels better than it has in years, and I am better in every way. I can work all day, and do not have that tired feeling. I take pleasure in recommending Puritana to all that are sick.

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.:

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 70 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,

TEST VOTE ON TARIFF.

Resolution Censuring Secretary Gage Buried by the Senate.

Mantle of Montana With the Republicans.

President Recommends an Appropriation For Exhibit at Paris.

Washington, April 15.—The tariff question came up in the senate yesterday for the first time, and a test of the relative strength of the various parties resulted. A resolution declaring illegal the recent action of Secretary of the Treasury Gage in issuing an order for the enforcement of the "retroactive" clause in the Dingley tariff bill came up. A motion by Mr. Morrill to refer the resolution to the finance committee brought about the test vote. Mr. Morrill's motion carried by one vote—24 to 23. Mr. Mantle, silver Republican, voted in the affirmative.

The negative vote was made up of Democrats, Populists and two silver Republicans, Pettigrew of South Dakota and Cannon of Utah.

Prior to the vote a breezy discussion occurred on several phases of the tariff. The subject came up first when Mr. Mantle presented a memorial from wool growers, urging ample protection to their industry. He referred in this connection to reports that Secretary North of the Wool Manufacturers' association was acting as secretary to the finance committee. Mr. Morrill denied the statement, saying the gentleman had been summoned as an expert to give information on the wool question. Messrs. Hoar of Massachusetts, Hawley of Connecticut and Gray of Delaware participated in the debate. Mr. Morrill succeeded in cutting off the debate by calling for the regular order, but it soon broke out again on Mr. Vest's resolution, directed against the secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Vest declared that the retroactive clause of the pending tariff bill was illegal and beyond the power of congress. He characterized Secretary Gage's recent order as a nullification of the existing law and a move to intimidate the importers of foreign goods. Mr. Morrill's motion to refer the resolution to the finance committee brought the question to an issue with the result stated.

Mr. Morgan of Alabama endeavored to have a time fixed for a final vote on his Cuban resolution. Mr. Hoar objected, and Mr. Morgan gave notice that the resolution would be pressed daily until a final vote was reached.

When the Indian appropriation bill was taken up, Mr. Gorman of Maryland criticised the course of those in charge of the measure in pressing excessive appropriations when the senate committees were so disorganized that proper care for economy could not be exercised.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate:

James B. Angell of Michigan, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Turkey.

George N. West of the District of Columbia, consul of the United States at Pictou, N. S.

George D. Meiklejohn of Nebraska, to be assistant secretary of war.

Erastus Hopkins of Massachusetts, to be special examiner of drugs in the district of Boston.

President's Message on Paris Exposition.

The president sent the following message to the senate:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I transmit, herewith for the consideration of the respective houses of congress, a report of the secretary of state, representing the appropriateness of early action in order that the government of the United States may be enabled to accept the invitation of that of the French republic to participate in the universal exposition to be held in Paris in 1900. The recommendations of this report have my most cordial approval, and I urge upon the congress such timely provision for this great international enterprise as will fittingly respond to the widely testified wish and expectation of our inventors and producers, that they may have adequate opportunity again, as in the past, to fortify the important positions they have won in the world's competitive fields of discovery and industry. Nor are the traditional friendships of the United States and France, and the mutual advantages to accrue from their enlarged commercial intercourse, less important factors than the individual interests to be fostered by renewed participation in a great French exposition, especially when it is remembered that the present display is projected with a degree of completeness and on a scale of magnificence beyond any of the European exhibitions that have marked the close of the century.

It is proper that I should emphasize the need of early action, for, if the present session pass without suitable provision being made, the postponement of the matter for nearly a year longer could not but operate greatly to the disadvantage of the United States, in view of the elaborate preparations already making by other governments, and of the danger that further delay may result in an inadequate allotment of space to this country, as well as an incomplete organization of the American exhibits.

William McKinley.

Secretary Sherman in his report urges that if the United States is to be fittingly represented, steps should be taken to insure such representation by making an appropriation of $350,000.

TESTIMONY NEARLY ALL IN.

Not Known Whether Arguments In Martin Case Will Be Made Immediately.

Boston, April 15.—More witnesses were examined yesterday in the Martin case than in any day since the case began. This was probably due to the fact that a number of saloon keepers, who were called to testify about buying Pearl Hill water, all stated the same thing, and were not cross-examined at length.

It was said yesterday at adjournment by General Champlin, associate counsel for General Martin, that he hoped to have all his witnesses out of the way by this afternoon.

Whther the governor will elect to have the arguments made at once, or will give the lawyers time to prepare something elaborate, is not known to the counsel for either side.

Yesterday's testimony was not of a startling character, it all being in the line of substantiating the contentions of General Martin, made both before the case opened and since.

Perhaps the most important witness was Colonel Page, whose testimony that he had acted as Governor Greenhalge's confidential adviser in the appointment of General Martin was offered to strengthen the claim of the police commissioner that Governor Greenhalge knew he was interested in business, and was willing that he should continue to be, except in the case of the shoe business.

Objections were made to several parts of the testimony of Colonel Page, and that part relating to what kind of a policy the governor wanted to get a man to enforce as chairman of the police board was ruled out.

EXECUTION OF BRAM.

Sentence of Death Will Be Delayed by Crowded Calendar of Supreme Court.

Boston, April 15.—A Herald special from Washington says: It is now an assured fact that the sentence of death pronounced upon Thomas M. Bram, convicted of the murder of Captain Nash on board the barkentine Herbert M. Fuller in July last, will not be carried out on July 18, the date set by the judges of the United States circuit court at Boston, before whom Bram was tried.

The exceptions in the case were received at the attorney general's office about two weeks ago, and it is understood that urgent requests were received from Boston that the case be set forward on the 1st, so that the exceptions could be argued and the sentence carried out if the exceptions were not allowed.

The supreme court sits until the middle of May, but there is a long list of important cases before it for consideration.

A capital case, however, has precedence above all others, and it is taken up at the earliest possible moment.

It was thought by those who watched the Bram case here that it would be reached this term, and in that event a decision might have been reached and sent down before the date announced for the execution. As matters stand at present, it would be almost impossible to reach it before the adjournment of the court, and even if it is set forward, it will not be reached before Oct. 4.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 15.—The house yesterday defeated the bill to provide for a school teachers' retirement fund, and defeated the motion to reconsider the acceptance of the adverse report on the Cape Cod canal charter. A hearing was given by the committee on rules on the petition for the reinstatement of members who were "frozen out" of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association. Two bills in regard to changes under the metropolitan water supply system were reported in the senate, and the Boston voting bill was rejected. The house discussed for two hours the bill for a tax of $1 in $1000 for school purposes. The senate, under suspension of rules, passed to be engrossed a bill providing for the erection of a jail and house of correction at Fall River.

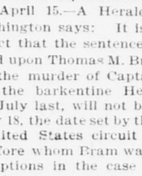

Will Represent Old Bay State.

Boston, April 15.—Governor Wolcott has designated the First corps of cadets, M. V. M., as his body guard, and the Second regiment of infantry, M. V. M., to represent the old Bay State at the Grant monument dedication in New York.

VICTIMS INCINERATED.

Love-Maddened Farm Laborer Commits Triple Murder at Oakland, R. I.

Home of Unfortunates Set on Fire and Bodies Burned.

Edward Reynolds, His Wife and Adopted Daughter Horribly Mutilated.

Pascoag, R. I., April 15. — His mind hopelessly shattered by the spurning of his love, Martin Mowry, who woked for Edward Robinson on the Elisha Mowry farm in the town of Oakland, some time Tuesday night killed Reynolds, his wife, and their 15-year-old adopted daughter, Servilla, afterward setting fire to the house.

The neighbors were aroused by the fire, and they had no sooner effected an entrance to the house than evidence which led to the supposition that the fire was the result of arson, after murder, was disclosed.

Mrs. Reynolds' body, mutilated and blood-stained, was taken from her bed by those who were first to enter the house.

The flames prevented any further search, and not until the house was entirely consumed and the ruins dug into were the remains of Reynolds and his daughter found. Both bodies were almost completely incinerated, but identification was possible.

When the neighbors first entered the burning house, they were met with a strong odor of kerosene. The place had been saturated by the murderer. All the doors were bolted, and every window tightly closed. Mowry, the hired man, was not in his room, and this led to the suspicion that he was the murderer. Afterward he was found hiding in a neighbor's barn and arrested. He had a bullet wound in the back of his head, which was presumably self inflicted.

Mowry told an incoherent story of robbers entering the house and murdering the inmates, but as he is evidently insane no credence is given to his tale.

Medical Examiner Wilcox, assisted by Drs. Granger and Capwell, made an autopsy on all three of the victims of the tragedy. The body of Mr. Reynolds was, however, so disfigured as to be unrecognizable, while that of Miss Reynolds was identified by the head.

The doctors made a careful examination of the body of Mrs. Reynolds, and found a deep wound in the head, made by the butt end of a musket, while there were no less than seven bayonet wounds on the body.

The musket and bayonet were both found in the ruins of the fire, and are known to have been the property of Mowry.

The bayonet fitted the wounds exactly.

The entire left side of the body of Mrs. Reynolds was shattered, all the ribs being broken, while there were bruises on other parts of the body.

Immediately after the autopsy had been completed, Judge Spear of the Sixth district court signed a warrant for the arrest of Mowry, and he was at once brought into court for arraignment. After the customary preliminaries, Mowry was charged with the murder of all three persons, and upon advice of his counsel, he pleaded not guilty.

He was then committed to jail without bail, to await the preliminary trial on April 21.

The only thing like a confession made by Mowry was when Dr. Wilcox told him he proposed to etherize him and then abstract the bullet that is now in his head. Mowry said "I won't be etherized. You think if you get me that way I will tell my whole story."

Mowry is a bachelor, about 65 years of age. He has always been liked in this section of the state, and has borne a good reputation, although of late he has been very peculiar. From some evidence just discovered, it is learned that he has been paying considerable uncalled-for attention to Miss Reynolds during the past few weeks, and it is believed that her failure to respond to his advances has had something to do with his present condition, for there is no doubt but that Mowry is a madman.

Democratic Split In House.

Washington, April 15.—The house was in session but 10 minutes yesterday and then adjourned until Saturday without transacting any business. The session was long enough, however, to furnish occasion for a display of the division among the Democratic members which the recent caucus had not been able to heal. In this division Mr. De Armond of Missouri appeared as the leader of the opposition to the leadership of Mr. Bailey.

PICKWICK CLUB.

A Dramatic Success Scored Last Evening at Savings Bank Hall.

One of the most successful dramatic representations ever given in Quincy was that presented Wednesday evening by the Pickwick Club at the cozy and attractive hall of the new Savings Bank building which was well filled with an appreciative audience who witnessed with much satisfaction the meritorious rendition of the ever-popular play of "Caste."

The leading roles of Eccles and Polly were admirably sustained by Mr. W. E. Simmons, of Wollaston and Mrs. H. J. Gurney, of Roxbury. The make-up of the former as a drunken, disreputable vagabond, left nothing to be desired. His conception of the part was clear cut and the execution exceedingly well done. The latter, as Polly, was irrepressible and irresistible. She seemed made for the part which she not only acted to the life but improved upon by many original touches.

Samuel Gerridge, the plumber, with his kind heart and yellow breeches, received a capital rendering at the hands of Mr. H. J. Gurney. A "gas-fitter man" for the role could not be found.

Mrs. H. W. Beattie won all hearts by her beautiful and artistic representation of Esther. If all ballet girls were like her the distinctions of caste, so far as they are concerned, would vanish like dew before the sun. Her realistic acting brought tears to our eyes, which had scarcely gathered before they were chased away by smiles called forth by the antics of Polly whose character served as an excellent foil to Esther's graver and more exalted nature.

The part of George Dalroy, taken by Mr. J. O. Hall, Jr., was carefully and conscientiously rendered and was decidedly the best thing ever done by him in the Club.

Mr. W. H. Mitchell as Capt. Hautree also did his level best, though the character of a "long swell" is quite foreign to his own. His part showed painstaking study and his eye-glasses were pronounced by the audience to be very becoming.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh, as the Marchioness, was overpowering in her dignity. Her makeup was excellent as was her grasp of the requirements of her part. As she waved her lorgnette with a high and lofty air, one looked to see everybody annihilated before her. Polly, however, stood her ground and refused to be squelched.

Mr. Wilson Marsh, as Dixon, seemed to the "manor born." It is to be hoped he will not in the future bury his dramatic talent in a napkin.

Congratulations to the Pickwicks on their success! And when they next do act a play may we be there to see.

Ten to Fifteen Years.

A good example was made of William H. Card of Braintree in the Superior Court at Dedham Wednesday. He was convicted of feloniously assaulting his two stepdaughters, and was sentenced on one count for a term of not less than ten years or more than fifteen years at State prison. Sentence on the second count was deferred.

Last Unitarian Social.

The social gathering and supper at the Unitarian chapel last evening were very enjoyable to the hundred or more who attended. The ladies having the supper in charge included those whose names began with R. S. T. U. V. and W. Although last in the alphabet and this was the last supper this season there was nothing behind hand about the supper. The delicious salads, cold meats, coffee and ice cream disappeared in the way that only a happy gathering can dispose of such good things.

Is made a necessity by the impure condition of the blood after winter's hearty foods, and breathing vitiated air in home, office, schoolroom or shop. When weak, thin or impure, the blood cannot nourish the body as it should. MORNING FIRE.

City of Boston Property at Moon Island Damaged.

The alarm from Box 64 at 9 35 this morning gave the Central station apparatus a five mile run and left the centre practically without protection from fire for three hours.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock when the workmen at the City of Boston pumping station at the extreme end of Moon Island discovered that the large building adjoining the pumping station, used as a storehouse was on fire.

The proper thing to have done would have been to telephoned to Boston and had the fire boat or steamer from Neponset come down, but instead of that the employes telephoned to Gurney's store to have the Quincy apparatus called and an alarm was therefore sounded from Box 64.

The streets were in a bad condition from recent rains and some time elapsed before the apparatus arrived. The building was then burning briskly and the department went to work to save the pumping station which was threatened.

It was hard work to save this valuable structure but hard work did it. The building in which the fire started however was consumed.

This building which was of wood was about 30 by 40 feet in size, three stories high and was filled with pipe and old machinery.

The loss will be something in the neighborhood of $1000 and is probably covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown. The all-out signal was sounded at 11.40.

GRAND BAZAAR.

The City Band Open Their Festival at Hancock Hall.

The three days grand bazaar of the City Band opened at Hancock hall, Wednesday evening, with a good attendance. Previous to the opening the band marched through the principal streets which served to notify those who might possibly have forgotten the event.

The interior of the hall was very prettily arranged, numerous tables for the sale of useful and fancy articles being on either side of the hall. These were presided over by the ladies who put forth every effort to induce people to purchase the articles offered for sale, and in this they were quite successful. In the basement there was a shooting gallery, dolls and an opportunity for foot ball practice.

It was expected that His Honor, Mayor Adams, would be present to make the opening address, but he was unable to attend, and this duty was performed by Mr. William Elrick.

The entertainment consisted of selections by Mr. John Rose, the popular comedian; the Glenwood quartette; highland dancing by Miss Beatrice Walker, and music by the City Band instrumental quartette.

Quazkino.

Henry C. Weeden of this city received another patent this week.

Easter opening of millinery at Miss Collins, Faxon block, Friday and Saturday.

The Technology Freshmen will be here tomorrow to play the Adams Academy base ball nine.

The latest engagement to be announced is that of Mr. James Francis Harlow and Miss Bessie Pratt.

Mayor Adams has approved the changes in the Fire Department ordinance, providing for permanent men.

The first three letters "Quazkino" might mean "quiz us again," but what about the rest of the word?

Boston police overhauled two fellows trying to pawn stone cutters' tools. Has there been another break hereabouts?

Regular meeting of Puritan Council, No. 6, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening. The work will be conferred on four candidates.

If some of the rain we are having now could be held back until some of the hot dusty days next summer it would be appreciated more.

St. John's church is being wired for electric lights. Some 250 lights will be used and the current will be turned on Saturday night for the first time.

The City Council advertise a hearing for May 3 on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a turnout on Hancock street near Cottage avenue.

E. Granville Pratt was reelected grand recorder at the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Honor, on Wednesday; also one of the supreme representatives.

Mr. Harry L. Rice has taken several fine views of the Unitarian church and City Square and had them framed in a large frame, which adorns the chapel walls as a gift from him.

Mrs. Abby S. Stone, a sister of Edwin W. Marsh of this city, died in Belmont, yesterday, which leaves Mr. Marsh the only member of Jonathan Marsh's family now living. A very promient family in this city a half century ago.

An interesting meeting of the Alliance was held Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of the Unitarian church. Valuable papers were read by Mrs. E. N. Hardy on "Child Study" and Mrs. C. T. Hardwick on "Home Science." Brief discussions followed each. A Home Science club is proposed.

The town of Brookline has a valuation three times as large as Quincy, but it does not appropriate three times as much for its public schools. The sum for the Quincy schools is $93,500 this year while Brookline appropriates less than one-half more or $25,700. Quincy probably has more children.

Nothing should succeed like enterprise and one store in this city is so enterprising that it changes its show window furnishings every week which is no small task as they have the largest show windows in the city and heavy articles to display. If other merchants would do likewise, soon our city would be on the road to prosperity.

Miss Bliss had her millinery opening on Tuesday and Wednesday which was largely attended. Her hats and bonnets are most bewitching and it is pleasing also to note the reasonable prices asked for some of the very prettiest. Violets are still the popular flower with geraniums and poppies as close rivals. The ribbons and tulle are in softer tones than those used last year.

Musicale.

A pleasing musicale was given Monday evening at Music Hall, Atlantic. It was under the auspices of Massachusetts Bay Colony of Pilgrim Fathers. Members of the Colony were well represented, as also a choice and appreciative audience of invited friends.

Mr. E. Jarvis Josselyn rendered the overture to "Poet and Peasant" in an intellectual, brilliant manner, which was followed by a trio, sung by Messrs. Owen, Hall and Geary. Mr. J. J. Smith, humorist, gave pleasing selections.

Mr. Josselyn also favored the audience with a song entitled, "The Valley by the Sea" by Stephen Adams. He was fully encored and responded with an up to date comic song.

Following this came a solo, "Bright Star o' Love," by Robandi, by Miss Mabel Burr of Atlantic, in her own delightful rendering.

Mr. Owen favored the listeners with "Farewell Marguerite."

A few words from Worthy Governor Todd to the strangers present followed by a solo from Mr. Geary, who has a remarkably high and sweet tenor; with another brilliant piano selection from the pleasing artist, Mr. Josselyn, the entertainment was ended.

Quincy Avenue Location.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The citizens of Quincy Neck who have been rejoicing at the prospect of having a street railway to that section in the near future are indignant at the seemingly one-man power of the Committee on Streets, in reporting leave to withdraw on the petition for a location.

The majority of the Committee on Streets are new members while the chairman is an old member, and as such he can have things about as he wants them. Had the committee so desired, Mr. Editor, the matter might have been adjusted satisfactorily to both the committee and street railway. The petition asked for a location in the centre of Quincy avenue from School street to New road, thence on the left side of the street.

A public hearing was held and no opposition to granting the location appearing, the matter was recommitted. Then it was that President Graham saw Chairman Nickerson of the committee, and informed him, that as there might possibly be some things the committee did not understand he would like a hearing before the committee before they made their report. Mr. Nickerson replied all right.

Had this request been granted the present state of affairs would not have existed, for then it would have been possible for the street railway to have amended its petition so as to have asked for a location on the right side of the street from New road.

The Committee on Streets, however, ignored the request and took the power into their own hands and reported leave to withdraw, although Chairman Nickerson stated for the committee that there would be no objection if the location from New road was on the right side of the street.

How many, I wonder, of the new members of the Committee and Council know that a year must elapse before the street railway can again petition for this same location. They can petition for a location on Quincy avenue, but as it seems to be the desire to have the location in the centre of the street from School street to New road, that petition must ask for a location at the side of the street.

While I do not believe that the street railway company should be given license to do with our streets as they will, it does seem strange that every time the street railway attempts to make a move to improve their service or equipment there seems to be a desire on the part of certain members of the Council to do everything possible to prevent them from so doing. Street railways have done much to encourage the growth of our city and when they ask anything that is reasonable they should receive it. Instead of throwing cold water or hinderances in their way they should be encouraged, but they are not, for I fail to remember anything the street railway has asked for that they have not had to fight hard for, and put to much delay before they eventually got it.

Sudden Death.

Thomas Faxon, well known in Quincy, was found dead Wednesday afternoon at his home on Canal street. It was somewhere about 1 o'clock when Frank French went up to call upon him. He found him dressed and lying across the bed with his feet upon the floor. Not knowing whether he was alive or not Frank went out and called in some neighbors who found that he was dead. Medical Examiner Gilbert was notified and gave it as his opinion that he had been dead some five or more hours and probably had died about 5 o'clock that morning. The cause of his death is given as stomach trouble caused by alcoholism. He was about 60 years of age and unmarried.

No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vaughn of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for cramps in the stomach" and bowels. FLOOD REPORTS.

Situation Along the Mississippi Remains Unchanged---No New Breaks In Levees.

Memphis, April 15.—The river continues to slowly rise at Vicksburg and all points south, and the situation along the Louisiana system of levees is acute. The waters are being hurled gulfward with tremendous force, and several thousand men are working night and day in the effort to hold the embankments intact.

Reports from the overflowed Mississippi delta are not encouraging. The expected fall in the waters has not occurred. Many planters express the fear that the flood will not recede until June, too late to plant this year's crop. Much suffering still exists in the Sunflower and Bogue country, where hundreds of negroes have deserted their cabins and are huddled on the high ground.

Many cabins are submerged to their very roofs, while several have been swept from their foundations and carried away by the current. On a plantation 10 miles west of Helena, Sylvester Sanders, a colored tenant, his wife and five children, were overwhelmed by the current and all perished.

Near Greenville two negroes were drowned in an attempt to reach the land. Word had reached Vicksburg during the day that many negroes were in imminent peril at Davis island, and assistance was asked for. A relief steamer was immediately dispatched to the island. At Rosedale the work of relief continues.

At Greenville the river is stationary. Throughout the overflowed area the rain fell in torrents Tuesday night and part of yesterday. At Helena the downpour was of such violence that great pumps were put to work in the lower part of the city, but the water gained so rapidly that the pumps had to be discontinued. The whole of the southern part of Helena is under water from one to four feet deep. The pumps were started up again last night, and it is expected the water will be thrown out of the streets in three or four days.

At Memphis the river is stationary. As the river is falling at Cairo, and as the rain throughout the territory draining into the Mississippi at Memphis and above has been heavy, the local observer predicts that during the ensuing 24 hours there will probably be a slight rise at this point.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

Further reports on the grounding of the battleship Oregon in Puget sound say that the vessel is not seriously injured.

Representative Brownlow of Tennessee has introduced a joint resolution for the reinstatement in the civil service of persons separated therefrom without cause.

Imports of merchandise during March aggregated $76,372,831, an increase of about $10,000,000 of the total importations of merchandise; $41,152,201 was free of duty.

Vice President Hobart yesterday brought to the attention of the senate a letter from Mayor Strong of New York inviting the senate to be present in that city on the occasion of the transfer of the Grant monument to the city of New York. The letter assures the senate that the ceremonies will be of an imposing character befitting the occasion.

Attorney General McKenna sent a letter to the house yesterday calling attention to the fact that there is now no fund available for the payment of salaries of United States district attorneys. He recommends that $75,000 be immediately appropriated for salaries and expenses of district attorneys and $55,000 for the pay of regular assistant attorneys.

W. J. Bryan has received a letter from Jefferson Levy, owner of Monticello, Jefferson's old home, saying that he does not desire to part with the place. He assures Mr. Bryan the place will be open to visitors at all times. Mr. Bryan had written Mr. Levy asking if he would convey the home to the national government, the state of Virginia, or some association like that which controls Mount Vernon.

The committee appointed by the Republican caucus of the senate to arrange with the opposition a plan for the reorganization of the committees met yesterday and canvassed the situation, finally reaching the conclusion that for the Republicans to attempt to organize on the basis suggested was untenable, and would amount to placing them in a position of apparent responsibility, whereas in reality they would not be in control.

Tuberculous Cattle Slaughtered.

Boston, April 15.—The joint special committee of the legislature had its second day's lesson yesterday in bovine tuberculosis at the Brighton abattoir. The work included about 30 animals, and in all of them the autopsies revealed pronounced indications of disease. The killing will be continued today.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

James Sinclair has been arrested for forging the name of Dr. Dessant of Concord, N. H., to a postal order.

George T. Brady, aged 7, was killed while playing around a lumber pile at Fall River, Mass. The lumber fell on him.

The body of Ebenezer Locke, aged 80, a farmer, residing at West Orange, Mass., was found in Orcutt's millpond at Brush Valley. It is thought he committed suicide.

An explosion of gasoline set fire to the new Bradley block at Cleveland. Three workmen, William Mullen, Samuel Wilson and Fred Prenchant, were badly burned, and the occupants were panic stricken. Prenchant, in his endeavor to escape, jumped through a plate glass window and was seriously cut. He may die.

Fire at South Bolton, Mass., destroyed the house, barn and outbuildings of John Fosgate, and burned over six acres of woodland. Sparks form the Fosgate house set fire to the Boston and Maine station, and burned off the roof. The building was slightly damaged on the interior. The origin of the fire is not known.

George Aldridge, accused of destroying shoes in Littlefield's shoe factory at Avon, Mass., was acquitted by a jury in the Dedham superior court.

William H. Caid of Braintree, Mass., has been sentenced to not less than 10 years, nor more than 15 years' imprisonment for feloniously assaulting his two stepdaughters, aged 13 and 15.

OF INTEREST TO LABOR.

Six hundred coal miners are on a strike at Pittsburg.

Two hundred shirtwaisters in the factory of Cluett, Coon & Co., at Troy, N. Y., struck because the foreman discharged an employe who was delegated to request an increase of wages.

The troubles between granite manufacturers and their employes at Montpelier, Vt., are increasing. Eight cutters employed by the Capital Granite company have struck because of a disagreement over wages.

In Financial Difficulties.

New Bedford, Mass., April 15.—The Bennett and Columbia mills, allied cotton corporations of this city, are in financial difficulties, and a meeting of creditors has been called to consider the question of a receivership. Frank R. Hadley has resigned the presidency of both corporations, and is succeeded by Dr. S. W. Hayes, who has also been elected treasurer of both, vice Mr. Hadley, removed from office. The mills have many orders ahead and plenty of goods sold, but not paid for. President Hayes thinks there are no irregularities in the accounts, but has placed an expert from Boston at work on the books. A note of the corporation went to protest in Boston Tuesday.

Two License Boards at New Bedford.

New Bedford, Mass., April 15.—The new board of license commissioners was busy yesterday granting licenses, but it will not announce the licenses until the whole list is completed. City Treasurer Hathaway, who was ordered by the mayor to ignore the licenses of the old board, and recognize the new, took advice of the city solicitor, who said he was not called upon to decide the question as to which was the rightful board, and that he would get into trouble if he refused license money tendered, or refused to pass upon the bonds presented for his approval. Accordingly the city treasurer received the money and approved the bonds of five licensees, four of whom secured their licenses from the old board, and one from the new.

The average height of clouds above the earth is between one and two miles. The height depends much on the season.

Health is the best inheritance. It leaves its influence even to the third and fourth generation. What greater happiness has life in store for any man than to live to a green old age surrounded by his children and his children's children, and see them all robust, happy and successful. Happy the man who lives to carve at the wedding suppers of his grandchildren. Picture yourself a grey-haired but hearty old man at the head of the table at your grandson's wedding, thanking your Maker for the blessing of long life, and asking the blessing of good health for generations yet unborn. It lies in almost every man's power to be thus blessed if he will. If he will only obey Nature's laws and be watchful of his health, he will have long life and happiness.

The best preserver of health is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It keeps the digestion perfect, the liver active, and the blood pure. It is the best flesh-builder and nerve invigorator. The man who resorts to it whenever he feels any symptoms of approaching ill-health will live to a hearty old age. Druggists sell it. Nothing else is "just as good."

J. B. Holt, of Whittens Stand, Wayne Co., Tenn., writes: "In October, 1890, I was taken with a hurting in the back of my neck which steadily grew worse. I consulted a doctor. He gave me a course of treatment but I gradually grew worse under it. At last my trouble ran into what was called 'spinal affection.' I could hardly walk about at all. Finally I became as helpless as a child. I wrote you at Buffalo, N. Y., in regard to my condition and you answered me promptly and prescribed Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took the 'Discovery' and soon got well. My health continues good."

Druggists sell Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure constipation. They cure quickly and permanently and never gripe. One is a gentle laxative; two a mild cathartic.

She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. THE MARTIN HEARING.

Testimony of Both Sides Finished and Arguments Begin Today.

Speculation Regarding a Conference of Board.

General Martin the Last Witness For Himself. Epitome of Day's Evidence.

Boston, April 16.—The General Martin investigation has deepened into a mystery through a conference yesterday afternoon, at which were Governor Wolcott, the members of the council, Lawyers A. E. Pillsbury and General Champlin, counsel for General Martin and Counsel Chaplin, Doherty and Davis for the petitioners. Ex-District Attorney Sherman Hoar was also there. The conference lasted a long time, and when it was over no one would say a word, which has served to greatly intensify the interest It is reported that matters have taken a new turn, owing to the attack of Mr. Chaplin on the Howard National bank. It is even reported that his vigorous prosecution of the investigation has developed unpleasant matters. Everybody interviewed has referred to the governor for explanations.

Some interesting testimony was presented at the hearing yesterday. J. A. Galvin was again put on the stand and told more about the Walburg brewery. The most interesting thing which was elicited was an admission, drawn out by Mr. Chaplin in cross-examination, that he had given Charles Martin a chance to make money because of his efforts to get him a license.

General Champlin, after some discussion, introduced testimony to show that Mr. Scannell had been arrested for drunkenness last September. Chief Inspector Watts gave testimony to show that there was nothing irregular in the solicitation by Everett Martin of the pawnbrokers' licenses, and Henry Bradshaw, a civil engineer, said that it was not true that the Pearl Hill spring ever went dry. Police Superintendent Eldridge testified to the assiduous way in which General Martin attended to his duties.

Patrick J. Maguire, manager of the Pearl Hill Lithia Water company, testified that General Martin had nothing to do with the management of the company.

On cross-examination by Mr. Chaplin, the witness said they had regretted the use of General Martin's name on their cards. He himself had advised that the cards be thrown in the junk barrel.

Did not wish to use General Martin's name, because they had more pride in the water they were selling than to wish to sell it by such means.

Mr. Chaplin then showed him the corkscrew with General Martin's name on it, and said that about 4000 of them had been distributed. Witness said he thought there was no impropriety in circulating them among liquor dealers, who would naturally be the recipients of them, in introducing the water.

The last witness of the day was General Martin himself, who was recalled by his counsel and questioned closely regarding his action during the whole time of his service as police commissioner.

He stated that when tendered the position by Governor Greenhalge he pointed out to his excellency his close relations with business affairs. Governor Greenhalge told him that if he did not give up his active business, he would not violate the law.

He explained all his business relations at the present time, claiming that none of them interfered with his duties as police commissioner.

Arguments will be made today.

CHINESE MISSIONS.

Missionary White, Who Sailed Fifty Years Ago, Tells of Work Among Heathens.

Boston, April 16.—The 50th anniversary of sending Methodist missionaries to China was observed in the Bromfield Methodist Episcopal church last night. A feature of the occasion was the presence of several Chinese members of the Sunday school, who sang both in English and Chinese.

Bishop Foster, who presided, said that just 50 years ago Rev. M. C. White, M. D., sailed from Boston for China. He then introduced Dr. White, who is now connected with Yale university.

Dr. White gave an account of the early work of the missions, speaking of his coadjutor, Rev. Judson D. Collins, who has since died.

Rev. Dr. S. L. Baldwin, another missionary from China, said the whole missionary movement really started in 1835, in Wesleyan university, Middleton, Conn. He said he went to China later than Dr. White, but the voyage was 147 days long. In 20 years after the first missionaries went to China, there were only 421 converts. In 1877 there were more than 3000. Since then the work has grown; there are native teachers and preachers. In 1887 there were between 4000 and 5000 converts. Now in the Foo Chow conference there are 7000 converts, and in China 2083 communicants.

Striker Stabbed.

Lynn, Mass., April 16.—The first assault case in connection with the labor trouble at the factory of Williams & Clarke occurred last night. James T. Doyle, one of the striking union men, received a slight cut from a dagger in the hands of Michael E. Papazian. Papazian and another Armenian, non-union men, had just left work when Doyle and John Walker, both union men, stepped up to them with the purpose, so they claim, of persuading the Armenians to quit. Not many words had passed before Papazian made a lunge with a dagger at Walker, but missed him, striking Doyle. The weapon made a slight cut in Doyle's shoulder blade, and then ranged down the back, ripping his clothing. The Armenians ran down the street, followed by a crowd. Both were captured by the police.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 16.—Reconsideration of the rejection of the school teachers' retirement fund bill was refused by the house yesterday. The bill making changes in the penalty for selling intoxicating liquor to minors was also rejected. A bill imposing a penalty for the second offense of stealing a bicycle valued at $10 of imprisonment in state prison not exceeding five years or by fine not less than $100, or by imprisonment in jail for not less than three months, was passed. Three telephone bills, one to allow telephone companies to use the wires and other property of other telephone companies, and two for the appointment of a commission to investigate the rates and charges for telephone service, and the Kennedy petition for legislation relative to tolls and rentals, were killed. A fourth bill, which also received an adverse committee report, and which provided for the appointment of a commission to regulate the charges made for telephone service in the state, was tabled. The bill to allow street railway companies to carry crushed stone for the repair of the streets was killed in the senate.

Is Mowry Insane?

Providence, April 16.—Sheriff Viall, in whose custody Mowry, the supposed Oakland murderer, has been since his arrest, states that he does not think the prisoner was insane. Mowry related some more of the details of the affair, and for the first time called attention to the fact that the robbers who he claims were responsible for the murder overlooked Mowry's gold watch and chain. Sheriff Viall asked the prisoner about it, and after a while Mowry said, "Oh, that was a very queer thing. The burglars were not so smart as they thought they were. They did not expect a watch as good as the one I carried on an old chore boy so they passed it by without even dragging it out to the light." "What light?" queried Sheriff Viall. "Oh, the light of the fire, of course." For a few moments Mowry was lost in thought, and it was noticeable that he perceived he had made a mistake in talking of the light of the fire.

Archbishop Williams Going to Rome.

Boston, April 16.—Archbishop John J. Williams will visit Rome early next month. It has been the custom in the church for the bishops and archbishops throughout the world to make stated visits to the pope for the purpose of laying before his holiness the condition of the churches under their charge. The practice is not mandatory upon the prelates of the church who have reached the age of 60 years, because of the long journey. Archbishop Williams' decision will probably start afresh the talk of his being raised to the dignity of cardinal. It is not known just how long a stay the archbishop will make at Rome, but in all probability he will not return for two or three months. He is 76 years of age.

Shriners Invited.

Lewiston, Me., April 16.—Shriners from all parts of Maine assembled at Kora temple last night to witness the work on 13 candidates, and over 200 sat down to a banquet following. Those initiated were: John F. Hill, Augusta; Elmer G. Gerrish, Portland; Stinson F. Walker, Bristol; Edward B. Winslow, Portland; Leander W. Forbes, Portland; W. T. Emmons and C. H. Hanson, Saco; Angus O. Campbell, Sangerville; F. D. Lynn, Augusta; C. E. Smith, Philipps; George Phillips, Waterville; C. H. Greenleaf, Bath, and John F. Lamb, Livermore Falls.

White Girl Marries Chinaman.

Providence, April 16.—Yee Wah, a Chinaman, and Miss Alice Marion Wilson, 22 years old, of Boston, were married here yesterday. The bride is a daughter of David Wilson, an ex-policeman of Boston, and Wah was born in Canton, but he says he is now Americanized. The marriage was performed by a well-known clergyman, who has married more Chinamen to white girls than any other New England clergyman. The couple appeared to be thoroughly in love with each other, and they attracted much attention.

DEATH CAME QUICKLY.

Judge James J. Storrow Expires In Congressional Library.

Was Attorney For Venezuela In Boundary Dispute.

A Native of Boston and Widely Known as an Able Advocate.

Washington, April 16.—J. J. Storrow, the eminent Boston lawyer, dropped dead of vertigo at the Congressional library yesterday afternoon.

Judge Storrow took an important part in the proceedings incident to the arbitration treaty between the governments of Great Britain and Venezuela for the settlement of the boundary line dispute. He was appointed special counsel by the Venezuelan government to represent it, and his brief was considered one of the clearest and best presentations on the boundary question that was prepared. After Minister Andrade and Sir Julian Pauncefote had agreed on the terms of a treaty Mr. Storrow accompanied the former to Venezuela, when the treaty was presented to the president of that country. The deceased returned to the United States with Mr. Andrade, and since then spent most of his time in Washington. He appeared to be in good health, and his sudden death was a great shock to his friends.

Mr. Storrow returned to the city yesterday morning from a visit to Old Point Comfort, Va., where his wife now is. The body was late last night taken to the residence of Hon. Gardiner G. Hubbard.

Judge Storrow's Career.

Boston, April 16.—James J. Storrow was born in this city, July 29, 1837. His father was a prominent member of the bar, and young Storrow took up the same profession, graduating from the Harvard law school in 1858 and being admitted to practice in 1860. The following year he married Anne M. Perry of Andover, by whom he had three children, one of them, James J. Storrow, Jr., being also a graduate of Harvard. Mrs. Storrow died in 1865, and in 1873 Mr. Storrow married again, his second wife being Miss Anne E. Dexter of Brookline, who survives him.

Mr. Storrow was undoubtedly the greatest authority on telegraph and telephone law in the country, if not in the world. He acted as leading counsel for the American Bell Telephone company, from almost the inception of the concern, preparing all the famous cases before the different United States courts and appearing in every one of the final appeal cases before the supreme judicial court. So closely was he identified with the Bell telephone interests that he spent a considerable portion of his time in Washington, where he was either actively engaged before the court or in the patent office. He was an intimate friend of ex-Secretary Olney, both socially and in a business way.

Dramatic Session of New York Assembly

Albany, April 16.—The passage by the assembly of the liquor tax amendments in precisely the form as they passed the senate, now sends them to the governor. Their passage was not unmarked by dramatic effect. Until the bill was finally put upon passage, Assemblyman Eldridge, ill with high fever, sat in an ante-room until the house generously allowed his vote to be recorded in the affirmative. A Republican member, J. J. Sullivan of New York, predicted the downfall of the party and his own defeat at the polls. Independent Republican Robbins sided with the regular Republicans, and denounced Lauterbach and those opposed to the bill, terming them "bolters." Seventy-six votes were necessary to pass the bill unamended, and eight more than the necessary number were obtained. The session lasted nearly nine hours. Twenty-eight Republicans voted with the Democrats, and were put down as "bolters." The vote was 84 ayes to 63 noes. The amendments were bitterly opposed by the New York and Brooklyn Republican members of the senate and assembly. Many of the Republican members of the Greater New York district even refused to caucus upon these amendments. The principal amendments define clubs, taxing them the same as saloons; define hotels by the insertion of certain provisions concerning dining rooms, etc., and permit saloon keepers to serve free lunch.

Threshing Old Straw.

Washington, April 16.—The silver Democrats in the senate threaten to oppose the confirmation of Hon. John W. Ross as commissioner of the District of Columbia. Mr. Ross has held this office for eight years and has been renominated by the president as the Democratic member of the board. When the nomination was taken up in the committee on the District of Columbia Senator Bacon objected on the ground that Mr. Ross is not now a Democrat. Further consideration was postponed, and Mr. Bacon did not enter into an explanation. It is understood, however, that in making the opposition Mr. Bacon represented an organized movement among the silver forces in the senate who take the position that support of Mr. Bryan and of the Chicago platform is the test of Democracy. Mr. Ross antagonized Mr. Bryan. Hence the silver men object to his appointment as a Democrat.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. THE QUICKER the street railway and the Council arrive at amicable relations in conducting the business which each has to transact with the other the better it will be for Quincy. To be continually glaring through a picket fence at each other cat and dog style, to use a homely simile, is not only silly business, but does an injury to the entire city. Individually the gentlemen who manage these two corporations are far seeing business men and quick to take advantage of good ventures, but collectively so far as they have been brought into contact with each other, they have exercised every quality but that of tact and diplomacy and consequently have retarded progress in the development of the city.

Car Derailed.

Electric car No. 26, which left Quincy Thursday afternoon at 4.45 for Neponset was derailed at Atlantic, near the foot of Walnut street. There was a defect in the rail at this point and the car took a plunge upon the sidewalk, the forward end bringing up against the fence, nearly at right angle with the tracks. Motorman Perry was remarkably cool, remaining at his post and quickly setting the brake, stopping the car within a car length from the jump. Several passengers were aboard but none are known to have been hurt, and the car was not damaged. It was well into the evening however before cars run over the point.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The report at the quarterly meeting of the committee on classes was one of the interesting features. The enrollment for '96-'97 was as follows: Free hand drawing, fifteen; monumental designing, eleven; clay modeling, twelve; steam engineering, twenty; German, five; penmanship, fifteen; bookkeeping, thirteen; English, thirteen; Sloyd, nineteen; total, 133. The per cent. of attendance was: Men, 76; boys, 90. Total number of individuals, 99. Certificates were granted to forty-six.

Notice was given of an amendment to the constitution which promises to be quite an innovation in Association circles. It is to make the first year's membership fee a dollar more than succeeding years, thus putting a premium on continuous membership. This will not, of course affect those who become members before this is adopted, which cannot be before the middle of July.

A FORMER RESIDENT.

Clift Rogers Dies at Marshfield in His 91st Year.

Mr. Clift Rogers, formerly of Quincy, died at his home in Marshfield Tuesday night in his 91st year. Mr. Rogers has been ailing for some time but it was but recently that his ailment developed into dropsy, which with his old age was the cause of his death.

One of Mr. Rogers last acts was to give the sum of $5,000 to the Clift Rogers Library Association which was formed to establish a library at Marshfield Hills.

Mr. Rogers was born in Marshfield and at the age of 18 years he came to Quincy. He was then a poor boy and he covered the distance on foot. Arriving in Quincy he learned the trade of a tanner and currier of Francis Williams, afterwards going into the business for himself, his shop being on Hancock street nearly opposite Tilton's store.

He carried on business for himself until 1852, when he and Mr. Williams went into the leather business in Boston under the firm name of Williams & Rogers. This firm was later disolved and he formed a copartnership with Francis M. Johnson and Albert Thompson, under the firm name of Rogers, Johnson & Thompson. This firm was disolved in 1859 and became Rogers, Richards & Co.

He retired from business in Jan. 1866, and in the fall of that year he purchased an estate at Marshfield where he has since resided.

He married Eleanor Baxter of Quincy who died several years ago.

Eggs of Wind.

A good joke is being told at the expense of a gentleman who has an office in Durgin & Merrill's block. This gentleman is fond of eggs but he wants them fresh. In order to have them so he has a standing order with a woman to leave two dozen at his office every few days. Wednesday was one of these days for the woman to leave a supply. The hens did not lay very well however and she only had a dozen for him. When she arrived at the gentleman's office he was out and rather than disappoint him she left her basket outside his office door. Some of the other tenants in the building saw the eggs and determined to put up a joke. A little hole was made in the end of each egg and the contents soon removed. The empty shells were then replaced in the basket.

Later the gentleman returned to the office and finding his basket of eggs he packed them nicely in a box so that they would not break and carried them home. All that night he had visions of nice fresh eggs for breakfast, and he was somewhat disappointed when his wife informed him in the morning that those eggs he brought home the night before contained nothing but wind.

Up to the present time he has not found out who put up the joke on him but he is "laying" for the parties.

A Game Monday.

The management of the T. R. & S. Co. base ball club has secured the well-known pitcher, Jack Duffy, and the team is made up as follows: Mr. Martin Cunniff, l. f. and captain; E. Dunn, s. s.; J. Mahoney, c.; P. Laurandeau, 3 b.; H. Faircloth 1 b.; J. Duffy, p.; J. Cannfield, c. f.; J. Faircloth, 2 b.; G. Gustin, r. f. They think they have one of the strongest teams, if not the strongest that has ever played in Quincy and they are looking for the scalps of any and all strong amateur teams in the State They would like to make up a schedule of games for the season. The first game will be played with the South Ends on the Atlantic play grounds Monday, April 19, at 10 A. M. sharp. If you wish to see a good game of ball go and see them. John H. Whitehead, of Wollaston, is manager.

The Band Fair.

The entertainment Thursday evening at the bazaar of the City band at Hancock hall consisted of acrobatic acts by the Ross Brothers; cornet solo by Mr. James Smith; comic songs by Mr. S. Tutton, and selections by a cornet and clarinet quartette. The attendance was quite large and many articles were disposed of. The bazaar will continue for the balance of the week, and interesting entertainments will be given each evening.

An Improvement.

Quite a change has been made around the Atlantic station the past week. Workmen have taken away the waiting shed on the right coming out and the whole bank has been newly sodded making quite an improvement. What the Atlantic people would now like is for the thing on the other side, called a station, removed and some thing put in its place that would be a credit both to the village and the road.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

Reduced round trip rates are offered on the New England railroad, and a banner is to be awarded to the visiting society having the largest number present. Of course you remember the magician, who quickly and accurately transforms one thing into another. It's perplexing of course until you learn the trick and then it's wonderfully simple.

Now to operate one of our couch beds almost makes one think he is a magician. A luxurious, dreamy Turkish Couch, fit for the best room in the house.

"Presto Change," a single, three quarter or double bed, as comfortable as the wisdom of man can contrive, all done in a twinkling. A two-fold service for a single price, and the cost is very reasonable.

$20.00 and $25.00. It will please us to have you ask to see them work.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

Scrofula, which is hereditary and deep-seated in the blood can be cured by P. P. P. It is the one and only positive cure for this dread disease.

Sufferers from kidney troubles find immediate relief when they take P. P. P. as it cures all irregularities and restores to nature her proper functions.

Bicycle Gossip

TO Ride a bicycle means the modern way of building brains and muscle.

Mr. Pickwick used to say, "Always shout with the crowd, and when there are two crowds, shout with the largest."

His wisdom you can apply to the bicycle situation, for people everywhere are riding bicycles, and if you desire to be up to date, enlist at once in the bicycle army. This store is the recruiting office.

Then the wheel, above all things buy a bicycle of standard construction and unquestioned excellence.

Water * * * * of Life.

A Pure * * Spring Water.

The Shawmut Spring Water comes from a fissure in the face of a hill of Granite in West Quincy, near the Metropolitan Park Reservation.

THE great depth from which it must originate is established by the fact that there is no change in the temperature of the water during the entire year. It is very cool in summer and never freezes in winter. It is of remarkable purity, clear and sparkling, and when in closed vessels keeps without change. It can have no superior as a table water and its constant use has proved very beneficial to persons suffering from Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints, Malaria, Indigestion, etc., as it speedily removes waste matter from the organs and cleanses the blood.

CERTIFICATE OF ANALYSIS.

State Assayer's Office, 297 Franklin Street.
BOSTON, MASS., August 13, 1894.

To F. J. FULLER, West Quincy, Mass.:

The sample of water marked Shawmut Spring, submitted for analysis has been carefully examined, with the following results:

It contains in parts per 100,000, by weight.

Silica,	.5000	Potassium Chloride,	.4818
Oxide Iron and Albumina	1.0000	Free Ammonia,	.0040
Lime, Carbonate,	.6880	Albuminoid Ammonia,	.0106
Magnesia "	.3056
Sodium, Chloride,	2.0100	Total,	5.0000

This is an excellent water of remarkable purity.

H. L. BOWKER, State Assayer.

The analysis confirms in the strongest manner the long reputed purity and medicinal properties of the Water.

THE LOCATION

is on the side of a hill, with nothing but trees and rocks above it, so that no WASH from cultivated fields (containing elements of danger) or other polluted grounds. Where so much stress is laid upon the value of the pure qualities of a medicinally beneficial water, the value of this statement will be appreciated by physicians and especially by those having the responsibility for the water furnished in large public institutions.

A strong testimony to the value of the Shawmut Spring Water is found in the support it has received from local physicians, whose opportunities for an exact knowledge of its beneficial properties are the best.

DR. F. S. DAVIS of Quincy says: "I consider it the very best drinking water I have ever used."

DR. HENRY C. HALLOWELL of Quincy says: "I do not know of any water which on the whole I prefer to this."

DR. HUNTING of Quincy says: "I find it a very agreeable water of remarkable purity."

DR. HENRY BLANCHARD of Neponset says: "For drinking purposes I know of none better."

REV. EDWARD WARREN VIRGIN says: "It is superior in taste and purity to any spring water I know of."

REV. WM. H. ALLBRIGHT, Pastor Pilgrim Church, Boston, says: "It is pure, pleasant and health-giving, and a very excellent table water."

DR. E. T. TWITCHELL of Ashmont, Dorchester, says: "No better water could be used in cases of sickness."

DR. W. G. FULLER of Unity, Maine, says: I have suffered for the past five years from Kidney and Rheumatic Troubles, and lately I have drank both the plain and carbonated water copiously and exclusively, and although I have used it for only six weeks I have derived a great benefit from it."

It is also highly recommended by Dr. D. D. GILBERT, 308 Boston St., Dorchester; DR. REYNALD, 29 Monadnock St.; DR. PUTNAM, 351 Massachusetts Ave., Boston; Dr. A. T. BUSWELL, 204 West Springfield St.; PROF. COBB, 271 Columbus Ave., and many others.

Although known and used for fifty years, Shawmut Spring Water has only recently been introduced to the public.

This Water charged and lithiated is put up in pint and quart bottles. Still Water is put up in one, two and five gallon glass jars.

Good Friday.

Good Friday, one of the greatest and most rigorously observed days in the calendar of the Catholic church was celebrated with the usual solemnity at St. John's church yesterday. At nine o'clock mass was celebrated by Rev. F. A. Frigiglietti, the pastor, assisted by Rev. F. A. Cunningham and Rev. Julian E. Johnstone. At three in the afternoon in commemoration of the great passion, the parishioners assembled for the rosary and stations of the cross. In the evening at eight Rev. Fr. Cullen, C. SS. R., of the Mission church, Roxbury, delivered a sermon the life and sufferings of Christ, dwelling particularly and with much emphasis on the merits won to the world by the sacrifice and sufferings of the Saviour. At the completion of the sermon the ceremony of the adoration of the cross took place. The altar draped in black, and the church but dimly lighted, gave added solemnity and mournfulness to the thoughts and actions suggestive of the day.

Given a Trial.

A exhibitition of the Monarch fire extinguisher was given last evening near the Central Fire Station in the presence of Chief Williams, Commissioner Knowlton and others. A box and shoot made to represent a chimney were saturated with oil and pitch and set on fire, and when they were burning briskly the agent threw a little of his extinguisher upon the blaze and the fire was instantly extinguished. The extinguisher is a fine powder and is carried in a small cylinder and is easily handled.

AN EASTER SYMPHONY.

She thrummed on the piano,
With no thought of how she played,
And the Easter bells chimed sweetly
While her fingers aimless strayed.
Now sounds minors deep and solemn,
Then majors sharp and clear,
From the bells and piano
Issued tones of grief or cheer.

And some power occult within me
The various notes combined
Into chords that swept the feelings,
Raised to ecstasy my mind,
Till my soul was filled with music,
And I lived but in a dream
Mid the shifting lights and shadows
Of a grand orchestral theme.

And its sway became still stronger
As each inner wave of sound
Trembled o'er the chords of feeling,
Stirred my soul to depths profound,
But no earthly passion swayed me,
For I lived in higher sphere,
And my world of sense had vanished.
With it vanished doubt and fear.

And I thanked the risen Christ
For that symphony divine,
For such potency of music
Of a surety was not mine.
Who composed it? Who the player?
Ask the violin as it thrills
At the touch of master player
Whence the soul of sound it fills.

EASTER TENDENCIES.

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE ON THE RELIGIOUS FESTIVAL.

Causes That Have Conduced to Its Growing Favor Among Protestants—The Normanizing of Creeds and the Fellowship of Creedists—The Doctrine of Immortality.

[Copyright, 1897, by the Author.]

NO RELIGIOUS festival has gained so much in favor with the Christian churches in this country of recent years as Easter, commemorating the resurrection of Jesus. The day, or what was believed to be such (there was a wide difference as to the date between the early Christians of the east and west), was solemnly celebrated for centuries in the old world as the most momentous of miracles because it alone established, in their eyes, the absolute truth of Christianity.

Now nearly all the various Protestant sects celebrate Easter with great zeal and fervor, as it would seem they should have always done, to be consistent with their faith. As Jesus is the sole founder of Christianity, how could they afford to neglect at any time the day, whenever it may have been, on which he, to their mind, rose from the dead? The one explanation is that many of the sects, regarding Easter 40 or 50 years since as a Roman Catholic holy day, refused to celebrate it. The old Puritans of New England, with most of their immediate descendants, particularly so considered it. And they could not theologically share with what they called the scarlet woman anything that she might sanction. Not a little of their religion was to detest "popery" with the whole force of their pious souls. Many of the later Protestants have been similarly affected. But this feeling has been steadily wearing off, as is shown by all the denominations in the observance today of Easter. Congregationalists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Methodists, Unitarians, Universalists, commemorate the occasion, notably in cities, by a special service, with elaborate music and lavish decorations of flowers. This is another tendency of the time to the gradual harmonizing of creeds and the fellowship of creedists.

Since theology as such is generally conceded to be declining the world over, particularly in the republic, the wider and wider acceptance of Easter may appear to be exceptional. Reflection, however, will corroborate, instead of contradicting, the opinion. A great many church communicants who are counted as orthodox do not believe in the divinity of Jesus—that is, in his being the son of God, coequal with him. The Unitarians, for example, renounce that belief altogether. But they hold him to be the best, the purest, the noblest, the most exalted of men, and, in such sense, divine. They rank themselves and they are ranked as Christians nevertheless.

Christians are, in any liberal interpretation, all who love, admire, revere the life and teachings of Jesus, his humanity or divinity being of minor consequence. The Scriptural injunction about believing in him has reference to this, not, as they claim, to any theologic assumption, as Lord or Saviour. It is essentially his human character, it is thought, which has brought Easter into so ardent and general favor. Jesus is not wrapped up in form and dogma, is not connected with any ecclesiastic bias or patristic subtlety. His record in the New Testament is clear, consistent, convincing, practical, all goodness, sacrifice, fulfillment of the highest duty.

Everybody in civilization, be he orthodox or heterodox, theist or infidel, skeptic or devotee, esteems and admires Jesus. He is an incarnation of all the virtues, not abstract, metaphysical, sublimated, symbolic or allegorical, as are so many Biblical creatures. He appeals to and answers the needs of humanity. He really represents an anthropomorphic deity, as so many of us try to represent what we conceive to be God. Jesus stands for humanitarianism and ideal morality. He is our spiritualized, glorified brother whom we would resemble if we might, and whom we elevate into the zenith of our affections and aspirations. He always typifies what is highest, broadest, grandest in our possible selves, the best that is attainable in our conception, and yet wholly free from obscurity or mysticism. Who has ever heard any one complain that the nature of Jesus is unintelligible? No wonder that most Christians have turned from the idea of the Father to the presentation of the Son, the embodiment of charity, the ultimate of beneficence.

The majority of thoughtful persons have ceased to ponder the supernatural, which defies comprehension. They are employing themselves instead with the natural, still occupying immeasurable space and promising to elude complete apprehension for ages to come. Jesus will ever remain an ideal, albeit so very human, for man, strive as he may, discloses at present no possibility of matching him. But man, who has existed and improved for hundreds of thousands of years, will continue to improve for tens of thousands of years longer, backed by the law of eternal progress, and may finally reach the plane on which the good Jesus stands. Then he will have solved the mysteries of nature, and the supernatural, as now named, will be superfluous. The human and the divine will be absorbed in one another and will be virtually synonymous. The plan and purpose of the universe will be in some manner disclosed, and faith be supplanted by knowledge. This will be the spiritual acquirement long foretold by the transcendental.

Another reason, doubtless, why Easter appeals so much more to the mass of Protestants today than it formerly did is its immediate association with the doctrine of immortality. The doctrine is the same that was taught 19 centuries since, but as time has gone on the mere doctrine has become less abstract, more and more concrete, taking the form of feeling. The great majority of enlightened beings in this era undeniably long for conscious immortality, in part because life here has palled upon them, grown grievous to bear. Through science and philosophy having been made skeptical of the future, they have as a result been more eager for it. While they may not believe at all in the divinity of Jesus, they identify him with the doctrine, and such is the incongruity of man they adhere to the observance of Easter because it in some way answers to what they suppose to be their psychal need.

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE.

Sports at Easter Time.

SINCE the beginning of the church sports and games have characterized the Easter observance. In this country we are familiar with the egg rolling games on Easter Monday on the White House grounds in Washington, but in other countries there are Easter sports and games quite unknown to us.

The Easter festival of our forefathers covered a period of 15 days. The week beginning with Easter Sunday was almost entirely given over to sport and games and general merrymaking. An odd feature of the old time celebration was that of heaving or lifting, the "heaved" sitting in a chair decorated with white ribbons. Easter Monday and Easter Thursday were known as heaving days, the women sitting in a chair on Monday and the men on Tuesday. Those heaving or lifting the chair were expected to life it three times and then kiss the occupant, who, in turn, kissed them. To the regret of the lads and lassies in the districts where the novel ceremony was once performed, the custom has long since died out.

Handball was formerly one of the most common of Easter games, and at one time a sort of water tilting contest was much in vogue. Young men would drift about in boats without oars and allow the craft to drift against a shield suspended in midstream, striking it as with a lance. If the lance was broken against the shield, it was considered a good stroke and won applause, but if the shield was missed or the spear remained intact the owner of the lance invariably lost his balance and tumbled into the water.

In Switzerland a peculiar game is played at Easter. Large baskets filled with bran are placed in a circle somewhere on a free field or public place. Then as many rows of 100 eggs as there are competitors are laid, each egg a foot or so apart from the next, the rows radiating from the baskets to an equal distance. The task is to put the 100 eggs, one by one, into the basket without breaking any, and who does it in the shortest space of time is the winner.

In Moscow, St. Petersburg and other Russian cities swings and merry go rounds are erected for the festival season on the boulevards, and all sorts of amusements prevail in the concert and dance halls.

Spring Humors, eruptions, hives, boils, pimples, sores, are perfectly and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best Spring Medicine and One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 18. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—"Different kinds of death and the conquest of them."—I Cor. xv, 50-58. (An Easter topic.)

The Scriptures speak of three different kinds of death, and also tell us how each may be conquered. These are physical, spiritual and eternal death, and these forms of death and their conquest are the study before us.

1. Physical death and its conquest. We all know what physical death is—the separation of the soul from the body, leaving the body a lifeless, inanimate form. Physical death came into the world as a result of Adam's sin. In the day that man sinned God said he should die. Man did sin, and that day physical, spiritual and eternal death came into the world that has since held universal sway. Enoch and Elijah alone of all mankind have passed from the present to the future life without tasting death. But physical death has been conquered by Jesus Christ, and through Him and Him alone we can conquer it. "Christ, being raised from the dead, dieth no more; death hath no dominion over Him." And not only so, but death hath no dominion over those who trust in Christ. They no longer fear it or dread it, for Christ gives them the victory over death.

2. Spiritual death and its conquest. When man died physically as a consequence of sin, he also died morally and spiritually. The seeds of spiritual death were born in him at the same time as those of physical death. He was dead in trespasses and in sins. He was away from God and powerless. He could not return to God. He was alive to sin and dead to God. He was alive to unrighteousness and dead to holiness. But through Christ spiritual death may also be overcome. "He that heareth My word," says Christ, "and believeth on Him that sent Me hath everlasting life and shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death unto life." "But God, who is rich in mercy," says Paul, "for His great love wherewith He loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ." Spiritual death has also been overcome by Jesus Christ, and through Him we also may overcome it.

3. Eternal death and its conquest. The most awful consequence of sin is eternal death, not eternal cessation of life, but eternal separation from God and punishment for sin. Eternal death is awful, and we may well thank God that we may have the victory over it through Jesus Christ. This is the precious truth of the Bible. Through Christ God gives us eternal life instead of eternal death. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but should have everlasting life." "God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son."

A Continuous Benediction.

Everywhere in civilized society those who rise highest in the scale of being are the philanthropists, the humanitarians, the sincere Christians, whose lives are a continuous benediction. They go about making sacrifices of time, personal comfort and money, so they may dispense the gifts of costliest kind, not merely in charity, but in the broad and noble traits of character that elevate and enthuse men of lower grade. Exalting their own nature, they, by their example and life of sacrifice, influence others to be mindful of those who, by reason of untoward circumstances or inefficiency on their part, fail to comprehend the true significance of life, and, but for timely aid, would drag out a miserable existence. — Philadelphia Methodist.

We Shall Be Rewarded.

That we may be truly prepared to welcome Him, in death or in judgment, let us bestir ourselves, and also ask fervently His mighty aid. Let the enthusiasm for useful work possess us, and the flames of worship rise from faithful and loving and adoring hearts, to God our Father, and then, having plenteously brought forth the fruits of good works, we shall by Him be plenteously rewarded, through Jesus Christ, our Lord.—Parish Messenger.

Hospitality.

Hospitality is a Christian virtue, and it is one of the most effective modes of evangelization. Few efforts for the good of others are more fitted to be effective than when Christian men and women of standing invite to their tables the young and the humble, who see there the culture and the charm of a Christian home.—J. H. Stalker.

EASTER LILIES.

How a Woman Raised Flowers and Regained Her Health.

We were about stranded, and there was no use in trying to blink the fact. The doctor had sent us to Bermuda, and the last thing he had said to me was that if my mother couldn't get well there she could not anywhere. This is what made it seem so hard, after a stay of three months, when I found our money nearly gone and mother yet weak, though convalescent. Another six months, we felt, would bring the inestimable blessing of renewed health. But how were we to stay when there seemed to be nothing to stay on?

While cogitating this problem one sunny day in January I strolled into a secluded vale lying between the high-road from St. Georges to Hamilton and the southern shore of a little islet. Like so many of those charming dells in this cluster of isles and islets, it was filled with a semitropical vegetation, with orange and lemon trees, pomegranates, bananas and figs. The hill crests around were covered with odorous cedars, their skirts fringed with lantanas in showy bloom, and the pocket of earth between the ridges was as rich and fertile as the hill slopes were sterile.

Wending my way through this bit of tropical paradise, I came upon a straw thatched shanty, or rather a group of primitive dwellings of this character, at the head of a little slope running down to a crescentic beach of snowy sand lying between outcropping coral ledges. An old man sat in the doorway of the principal shanty smoking a long stemmed pipe, such a pipe as Tennyson loved to smoke, known in the old country as a "churchwarden." None but a philosopher or a poet—at any rate, a man of leisure and calm temperament—smokes this sort of pipe, and I knew that he must consequently be one or the other, and hence safe to assume well worth the knowing.

And my conjecture proved true, for on accepting his hospitable invitation to enter his humble dwelling I found it filled with all sorts of natural history objects, such as shells, stuffed birds and dried plants. In short, my aged acquaintance was a naturalist, and, as I afterward learned, a skilled one, well known all over the islands.

He was nearly 80 years of age, his long, snow white hair fell to his shoulders, and in every feature was an air of cheerful benevolence that won my heart and engaged my attention, so that in less than half an hour we were conversing like old friends. He had lived here 60 years, he told me—ever since he had run away from an English ship—and had never left his home for a single night. His little farm had cost him almost nothing, his wants were few, and from the soil he had obtained an easy though frugal living.

TAKING THE FIRST SEASON'S YIELD.

It did not take me long to detect beneath his rude exterior one of nature's noblemen, and, warmed by the kindly gleam of his eyes, I soon had told him of my present trouble. He looked me over very thoughtfully and finally said between the whiffs of his pipe: "Lady, the Lord must have sent you to me, because, of all the people living in the Bermudas, I alone perhaps can help you. I haven't much, only my little farm here and these rude huts, but if you will accept one of the latter as a temporary dwelling it is yours for as long as you may wish to stay. As for food, if you can put up with my fare of milk and sweet potatoes, with now and then a bit of meat and all the fish you want, to be caught in the bay, you are welcome. No, don't thank me," he said as I tried to express my gratitude. "I have been thinking of making some one this same offer for the privilege of pleasant company, for I am getting old and have lived too long alone. Indeed you will do me a favor by accepting my offer."

The very next day we had removed our belongings to one of the huts, which promised to serve us as well as if it were a palatial mansion in that favored land where one may pass the entire day out of doors. As the physician had ordered my mother to spend all the time possible in the open air, it mattered little what kind of a rooftree sheltered us at night. And, so far as I was concerned, it was a joy to wander in the shade of those fragrant trees and along the beach, where shells of every hue were abundant and where the crystal waters covered the gardens of sea plants. Seeing that I liked to work about the flower garden and knowing that he might speak to me frankly, my aged friend suggested that I make an attempt to wrest a livelihood from the soil.

"I am too old," he said, "to embark in any new adventures; but, if you want to try it, why there's the garden, with as rich a soil as anywhere, and here are all the tools and seeds you need. You seem like a strong and sensible young lady. Nobody need know what you are doing, as my place is so secluded, and all the time your mother will be getting her health while you are gaining strength and perhaps making money. There are three or four things that pay here in Burmuda. These are potatoes, onions, arrowroot and Easter lilies. The first three are too difficult for you to manage, but the last, it seems to me, would be easy to cultivate and pleasant to raise. Now, one corner of that plot is already planted with Easter bulbs, and if you will take the care of them off my hands I shall feel greatly obliged and will divide the profits with you into the bargain."

Womanlike, I jumped at this generous offer, and, to make a long story short, tended those lilies so assiduously that even the first season's profits were very satisfactory. The second season's were much more so, and the third and fourth found us with a surplus of cash to our credit and half the little vale planted with bulbs.

Our good old friend died the fourth year of our stay, but left us a life interest in his estate for a small consideration, and we continued in the occupation which we had found so pleasant, and which promised to be so profitable. My mother regained her health and from choice worked with me in the garden, while I myself had become so attached to the place and so contented at my labors that I doubt if anything in the world could draw me away.

There are objectionable features, of course, mainly depending upon a woman's performance of what is usually done by men. The middlemen doubtless robbed me at times, the lilies did not always arrive in New York in good condition, and sometimes the bulbs would be injured by a protracted sea voyage. Again, land cannot be purchased here by alien Americans, as the Bermudas constitute a military colony, and only those loyal and subject to the British queen can own real estate, but long leases are easy to obtain, and thus all danger of forfeiture is obviated.

And there is also a peculiar satisfaction in the reflection that all this loveliness was, in a sense, the creation of my own hands, a sensation only understood by those who have gardens of their own.

Another Levee Gone.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 17.—A dispatch has just been received from the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific railway office at Delta, reporting a big crevasse about five miles south of Delta, in the Biggs levee, which occurred at 11 o'clock last night. This is the levee on which Bolivar Thompson has been working for several days with a force of 500 men, free laborers and convicts. It is a high levee, said to be fully 18 feet high, but is built largely of sand and has a thin cross section with insufficient slope. It protected a fine plantation country, and its backwater will flood much valuable plantation land. A desperate effort has been made to hold the levee, but there is no chance of closing the crevasse, or of preventing its development of a disastrous break. There is a strip of swamp about two miles wide, immediately behind the Biggs levee, but beyond that, the backwater will run over cotton lands, and Secretary Lane, of the Fifth district levee board, is of the opinion the backwater will flood Tensas and Concordia parishes. It is thought the flood will back up on the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific road as far as Tallulah, or farther. The officials of that road are hurrying warnings to all stations along its line.

Harrison Appears For Trust Company.

Indianapolis, April 17.—The Central Trust company of New York, trustees for the bonds of the Citizens' Street Railroad company of this city, a few days ago petitioned the United States district court to enjoin the enforcement of the recently enacted 3-cent fare law. The case is being heard by Judge Showalter of Chicago. Ex-President Harrison appears for the Trust company. He said, among other things: If there is no restraint upon the legislature in those things in which immunities, privileges and favoritism is given, I cannot exaggerate the momentous importance of the matter to the state of Indiana. The enforcement of limitations is with the courts. If the legislature or congress was left free to determine the limits of their power.

Bowen's Friends Call on President.

Washington, April 17.—There were comparatively few callers at the White House yesterday. The friends of Herbert Bowen of Brooklyn, now consul at Barcelona, Spain, have resumed their efforts to have him appointed to succeed Minister Taylor at Madrid.

DEATH RECORD.

Senator Hanna's Mother.

Cleveland, April 17.—The death of Mrs. Hanna, mother of Senator Hanna, at Asheville, N. C., yesterday created a profound shock through her large circle of acquaintances in this city, as she had recently started for home, apparently much improved in health, and was only delaying her return to recover from a slight attack of bronchitis. Mrs. Hanna was 84 years of age. She leaves three sons and as many daughters. The latter are Miss Lillian Hanna, Mrs. Colonel Pickands (nee Seville Hanna) and Mrs. Jones, formerly Mrs. George Chapin. The sons are Senator Hanna, Messrs. H. M. and L. C. Hanna.

Hiram Lowell Dead.

Amesbury, Mass. April 17.—Hiram Lowell, president of the Merrimac Hat company of this town, died yesterday afternoon from the result of a paralytic shock last Wednesday. As the head, for 20 years, of a corporation employing 300 operatives, he was widely known. He was also at the head of the firm of Hiram Lowell & Son, boat builders, having been connected with the industry for 60 years. His father and grandfather, who were also engaged in the same business, constructed some famous privateers. He leaves a widow and six children.

Longfellow's "Lone Fisherman."

Baltimore, April 17.—James S. Mafflitt, the original Lone Fisherman in "Evangeline," died here yesterday at the Johns Hopkins hospital, after an illness of four weeks. He was 65 years old.

Closed With Campfire.

Lewiston, Me., April 17.—The 30th annual encampment of the Maine G. A. R. closed last night with a campfire at city hall, at which addresses were made by Leroy T. Carleton, the newly elected commander, and Colonel Nelson Howard of Lewiston. Over 1000 persons were present. The encampment voted to hold the next convention in Lewiston in February. Commander Clarkson left for Chicago last night.

Veteran's Suicide.

Lynn, Mass., April 17.—William H. Hart, assistant justice of the Chelsea police court, committed suicide by shooting in Lynn woods yesterday afternoon. He was 62 years of age, and a brother of ex-Mayor George D. Hart of this city. Three letters were found in Mr. Hart's pocket, one addressed to his brother, Hon. George D. Hart, and the others to Mrs. Horace M. Pullan and Miss Marion L. Hart, his sisters, of Chelsea. They simply contained a farewell and directions as to the disposition of his body. Mr. Hart enlisted in the war as a private in the First Massachusetts heavy artillery, became captain, major and colonel, and at one time was sergeant-major of a regiment of colored troops. He was a member of post 35, G. A. R., of this city.

Smith College a Beneficiary.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 17.—The death of Miss Eliza Appleton Haven, which occurred recently, has made operative a number of bequests of her late mother and sister, which, together with the will of the late Miss Haven, leaves many hundred thousand dollars to be divided among nearly 100 beneficiaries. The bequests of all three ladies are of a private nature, and range in amounts from $200 to $600. The residuary property of Eliza Appleton Haven is given to Smith college, to be used for astronomical purposes.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 17.—The legislature has adjourned over Patriots' day, and will not meet until next Tuesday. The house yesterday disposed of several city of Boston bills, and deferred action on the bill on control of hospitals for contagious diseases. A bill authorizing administrators and executors to provide for the perpetual care of burial lots was ordered to a third reading. A senate report was against the establishment of a system of voting by the McTammany voting machine.

Trouble Increasing at Lynn.

Lynn, Mass., April 17.—A crowd of 500 strikers and others assembled at the factory of Williams, Clark & Co. about the time the employes were to go home from work last night, but the presence of a large squad of police prevented any trouble until the crowd had gone quite a distance from the factory, when one of the non-union workmen was set upon by five persons out of the crowd and very roughly handled. No arrests were made.

Vermont M. E. Conference.

Barre, Vt., April 17.—The 53rd annual Vermont Methodist conference will be held at Hedding Methodist church in this city during the coming week. Bishop John L. Walden, D. D., L. L. D., of Cincinnati will preside. This will be the fifth time that the Vermont conference has met in this city.

High Water at Hanover.

Hanover, N. H., April 17.—The Connecticut river suddenly rose four inches in three hours yesterday afternoon, and is still rising. A few cellars and a small part of the river road are submerged, but as yet little damage has been done.

Knitters Strike.

Belmont, N. H., April 17.—About 60 knitters on Branson looms in the Gilmanton hosiery are out on strike, following a demand for an increase of wages averaging from 12 to 15 per cent.

Judge Hall Sure of Reappointment.

Augusta, Me., April 17.—The reappointment by Governor Powers of O. G. Hall, judge of the Kennebec superior court, while not yet officially announced, may be considered as decided upon.

Judge Storrow's Funeral.

Boston, April 17.—The remains of the late Judge James J. Storrow arrived here from Washington today. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Contracts Let.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 17.—The contracts for building the Portsmouth and York electric road have been awarded and work will start next week.

Chinese Disguised as Women.

Troy, N. Y., April 17.—Officers are closely watching Central Vermont trains for suspicious looking passengers whom closer examination may prove to be Chinamen in the process of crossing the border. That their suspicions are well founded is shown by a recent experience of a newspaper reporter, who, while on one of the southbound trains, had his attention called to a mysterious looking couple occupying a front seat. The man was large and powerful in appearance, his companion, a woman, much smaller, clad in a dark dress, and very heavily veiled. One of the train men volunteered the information that this man and woman made the southern trip on that train several times a week, and the queer thing about it was that the man was frequently noticed on returning trains. He was then without his companion. The mystery was fully explained when the two left the train. In going down the steps the pretended woman tripped and almost fell, and at the same time disclosed to view a typical pair of Chinese shoes.

Two Boys Commit Suicide.

St. Louis, April 17.—A special to The Post-Dispatch from Fayetteville, Ark., says: Two young sons of a Mr. Herson, living at Greenland, five miles south of Fayetteville, aged 9 and 15 years, committed suicide while their parents were at Fayetteville trading. The boys were angry because they were left at home, and both took a bath, dressed in their best clothes, wrote notes to their parents, pinned them on the door, took strychnine and went to bed. Both died before the parents returned home.

Cut His Own Throat.

New York, April 17.—Joseph Pearsall, aged 42, a brother of the well-known lawyer, Thomas E. Pearsall, who was a candidate for justice of the supreme court in 1893, attempted to commit suicide at his residence in Brooklyn last night by cutting his throat with a knife.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

No issue of the DAILY LEDGER will be published on Monday—PATRIOT'S DAY—and the office of publication will be closed all day.

On Tuesday another eight-page paper will be printed that all the Easter and Holiday news may be accommodated. Church correspondents are requested to forward Easter news promptly, and base ball, golf, cricket, shooting and other club are requested to forward scores and sporting news.

THE IMPRESSION has gone out that the Quincy & Boston Street Railway Company must wait until 1898 before it can repetition for a location on Quincy avenue, but it is plain that such is not the case, and that "Citizen" in his communication to the LEDGER did not state the facts. He intimates that if opportunity was offered the petitioners would have amended their petition, but inasmuch as it was ruled at the last Council meeting that no amendment to a petition was in order after a hearing had been advertised, it is plain that it could not be amended as intimated. It will be remembered that President Graham desired to amend the petition, so that the route should be wholly by Quincy avenue instead of Hayward street from Quincy Neck, but it was ruled out of order. Now the location which the railway should have is not the one the company petitioned for. It is entirely different from New road to Weymouth, and if there is any question over the 1000 feet between School street and New road, the petition could read: "on the right of Quincy avenue from School street to the Braintree line," and a saving clause might be added: "or such other location in said avenue as the City Council may determine."

If the street railway company really desire to build a route from Quincy to Weymouth Landing they should be encouraged, as the abutters desire it and it will be a help to Quincy. It will open up considerable territory and bring into closer touch with this city the largest village of Weymouth. It will be good policy for the Quincy company to obtain this location or it may go to the Braintree & Weymouth Company.

The criticisms of the Committee on Streets by "Citizen" seem unfair, and does an injustice to our representatives who have the courage to protect the interests of the city in our streets. Whether the chairman agreed to a private hearing after the public one, we do not know, but there are no reasons why such a hearing should be given, and there are reasons why it should not and the location could not have been changed had there been a second hearing.

The Committee on Streets through its chairman stated publicly in the City Council that there would be no objection on the part of the city to a location on the right of Quincy avenue. Undoubtedly the same would be speedily granted if a petition was to be introduced, and the City Council should not be censured for delay.

IMPORTANT CHANGE.

Board of Trade to Abolish Board of Director.

All Business to be Done in Open Meeting by Corporation.

A Report from Committee on Wholesale Granite Company.

There was a larger attendance and a new interest in the meeting of the Board of Trade last evening. Representative James Thompson, one of the vice presidents, presided at the opening, but President Adams arrived later and took the chair.

The special committee appointed to consider the by-laws reported several amendments, the most important of which were: The abolishment of the board of directors, providing that all business should be transacted by the corporation at its meetings. The reduction of the annual dues from $5 to $3 and the striking out of the membership fee. Change of meeting night from second Tuesday to second Friday. Providing that the standing committees shall be elected instead of appointed.

Each of the amendments were taken up and given one reading, and will receive final action at the next meeting.

Other amendments were proposed and advanced a stage. These provide for a committee of three on membership, and a committee of three on arbitration. Also that 15 instead of 9 shall constitute a quorum. Most of the amendments were discussed.

After the matter of amendments to the by-laws had been disposed of Hon. John F. Merrill, for the committee appointed to confer with the Granite Manufacturers' committee in relation to the Wholesale Granite Company, reported that up to the present time subscriptions had been received amounting to $5,300 and it was thought this amount could be increased to $10,000. If $5,000 could be raised among the business men outside of the granite business it would warrant starting the corporation, as the sum required was $15,000. It was estimated if no business was done the first year it would cost $9,000.

The committee suggested that the matter be placed in the hands of the Board of Trade to solicite subscriptions outside of the granite industry and then go back to the Granite Manufacturers Association.

The report of the committee was accepted.

Upon motion of Alexander Marnock it was voted that a committee of three be appointed from this Board of Trade to act with a committee from the Manufacturers Association to solicit subscriptions from the business community outside of the granite men.

Upon motion of John R. Graham the chairman was given until the next meeting to make appointment.

Adjourned until next Friday evening.

Purer Politics.

A valuable addition to the series of Harvard Historical Studies is the volume by Frederick W. Dallinger, A. M., on "Nominations for Elective Office in the United States." Mr. Dallinger is at present a Massachusetts senator, and one of its most active members. His experience in the Legislature, as secretary of the Republican City Committee, of Cambridge, and in other political positions, has given him a personal knowledge of the workings. His political success has been largely due to his fight against corruption, and gives weight to his new work. Part one is a historical sketch of nominating machinery, and part two a description of the present system of nomination. The defects are shown in the next part, and remedies for existing evils are pointed out at length in part four, while appendices of interest are given. The remedies seem to touch every phase but are treated in four groups, reforms merely making a change in party machinery. Those involving government interference, including in most cases the adoption of an entirely new system of nomination. Those looking to a modification of our election machinery. Remedies necessitating changes either in conduct of the government or in the attitude of the voters. There are 290 pages conveniently indexed. Published by Longmans, Green & Co., New York.

Granite Strike Over.

The strike at the Capital Granite Company works, at Montpelier, Vt., was settled Friday, and the men returned to work today. None of the other yards have been affected by the present strike. The union claims that President Egan of the company receded from the position he took, and the victory was theirs.

The Prediction.

It promises to continue warm well into next week; the weather Sunday will probably be fair, and also fair and generally clear Monday; winds from southwest and west.

Concerts at Atlantic.

The Sunday School of the Methodist church at Atlantic will give an Easter concert on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

In addition to the special music at the morning service at Memorial church already announced there will be an Easter concert by the Sunday School at 6.30 P. M. An interesting programme has been prepared.

Concert at Norfolk Downs.

The Sunday School of the Union church at Norfolk Downs, will give an Easter concert on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

Young Men's Christian Association.

"The Resurrection Here and Now" will be the subject of the address at the Young Men's Rally Sunday at 3 30 by Rev. John B. Wilson, pastor of the Neponset Baptist church. Mr. Wilson is an unusually interesting speaker to young men. There will be special music by some of the members of the orchestra.

The tickets for the concert by the Association orchestra next Tuesday evening in the Bethany Congregational church chapel are selling well. The fact that it is for the benefit of the Educational work of the Association ought to appeal to many but those who attend will not feel that they have simply been helping a good cause along, for if nothing unforseen happens they will get twice their money's worth. It has been many years since Quincy people have had an opportunity to listen to a concert by a local organization of this character.

The New Hall.

The promoters of the large new hall have submitted their plans to the State Board of Police and have ascertained just what is required in the circumstances, and it remains for those who believe Quincy should have a large hall to step up and satisfy the gentleman that such is the case. The DAILY LEDGER believes it is one of the greatest needs of the city, both socially and in a business way. Citizens are not asked to subscribe to stock or to engage the hall, but to give the promoters some idea of the occasions for which it will be needed during the next year.

Spring Humors

During the colder season impure humors accumulate in the blood.

The surface of the body being chilled, the pores are closed and clogged, and impurities which might pass off in perspiration are forced back into the blood. Besides this, winter's hearty food, fats and sweets, contribute more impurities.

This briefly explains the existence of Spring Humors—those unsightly eruptions, painful boils, annoying pimples and other affections, which make absolutely necessary the use Hood's Sarsaparilla at this season.

But with some people, impurities in the blood cause very different symptoms. The kidneys, liver and bowels are overmatched in their efforts to relieve the clogged system. Dizzy headaches, bilious attacks, failure of appetite, coated tongue, lame back, indigestion or that tired feeling are some of the results.

From the same cause may also come scrofula, neuralgia sciatica or rheumatism.

All these troubles and more may properly be called "Spring Humors," and just as there is one cause, a cure is found in just one remedy, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the impure blood.
Hood's Sarsaparilla enriches that which is weak and thin.
Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes that which lacks vitality.
Hood Sarsaparilla leads in Merit, Sales and Cures.

No effort has been spared to make the Easter concert at the Universalist church, next Sunday, a memorable occasion. The services will be held in the body of the church, and as the pupils of the Sunday school have been carefully prepared for their parts, and had valuable musical direction, there should be no lack of interest in the public production on that evening. Mr. Holmes of Cambridge will be present and will sing a tenor solo. The subject of the piece to be given is appropriately named "Easter Gladness" and it is hoped that it will be listened to by a large congregation. Be one of the number if you can.

SANDBAGGED AND THROAT CUT.

Aged Cashier of Somersworth (N. H.) Bank Fought Heroically.

VICTIM WAS ALONE AT TIME.

Robbers Took About $6000 and Escaped.

CRIME COMMITTED ABOUT NOON

Thieves Broke Window In Door and Entered Bank—Posses Searching the Hills and All Trains Are Watched—Murderers Were Seen In Buggy Driving Away From Town.

Somersworth, N. H., April 17.—Between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday Joseph Augustus Stickney, for 35 years cashier of the Great Falls National bank, was murdered at his post of duty, after a terrific struggle, and the bank robbed of $4100 in money and postage stamps, which may foot up to $6000. Mr. Stickney was struck with a blackjack and had his throat cut. In one of the drawers of the vault $100,000 in United States bonds was overlooked. Mr. Stickney was once before attacked by robbers, bound and gagged, but no money was taken.

The deed is supposed to have been the work of one man, although he evidently had a companion who watched outside. The clews thus far are very slight. Two men were arrested in Waltham, Mass., on suspicion, and several other arrests are expected. The authorities are scouring the country for a man who was seen to drive through the city after the deed.

It is not known exactly what time the bank was entered, but it was evidently between 1 and 1:20 o'clock, as two strange men were seen going up the hill not very far from the bank at 1:20 o'clock. One of the men carried a bag. It is not known minutely how the robbery was conducted, but it is certain that the men lost very little time in the bank, and, their work accomplished, they fled with all possible haste.

The police have secured evidence that two men from Waltham, Mass., were in Somersworth Thursday night and hired a team at a local stable, and were out all night. The men were seen at the depot here shortly before noon. The description of one of them answers that of the man seen on Prospect hill with a bag.

Crime Discovered.

The first suspicion that the bank had been robbed was when Frank P. Reed, a local merchant, went up the staircase of the bank building and found the thick plate glass in the front door of the bank completely shattered. Reed, without waiting to investigate, hurried from the building and notified City Marshal Eaton. Both men went up stairs and broke in the door, which was locked, and they found that a desperate struggle had taken place. After some further difficulty they opened the inside door of the bank, which led from the outside apartment used by patrons to that part behind the counter. A terrible sight lay before them. On the floor in a great pool of blood was the body of Stickney. His head had been nearly severed from the trunk. The head was marked with several deep gashes, made by a blackjack, and the skull was fractured. The body was covered with blood, and the walls and furniture bore additional evidence of the terrible deed.

It could be seen at a glance that Stickney had not died without fighting desperately, for the books, chairs and other furniture were scattered over the floor behind the counter. Among the mass was found a blackjack, which had been used to knock the cashier senseless. It had been broken during the struggle.

An alarm was quickly given, and all the authorities in the nearby towns were informed first, and then the news was dispatched to sheriffs and marshals and the police in Maine, New Hampshire and northern Massachusetts.

When the citizens heard of the affair Market and Prospect streets and every available space in the vicinity of the bank was thronged, and the police kept the crowd from entering the bank, though many were permitted to view the interior from the door up stairs.

Physicians who have examined the body say that it is apparent that the victim was pounded to death after being rendered unconscious. Mr. Stickney, who is over 70 years old, was not over vigorous and consequently could not have made a lengthy, forcible resistance. Another fact brought out at the autopsy is that the weapon used to cut the victim's throat was a medium sized knife, probably a common jackknife, the blade of which was very dull and left a deep, but irregular wound. The jugular vein was severed, and the wound extended from one side of the head across the throat to a point under the other ear.

Two Strangers Seen.

The first clew that the officers found was obtained from Mrs. Joshua Smith, who lives on Prospect street, only a short distance from the bank. Her house is just on the hill, which ends almost in the rear of the bank. As near as she can remember it was about 1:20 o'clock when she saw a man, rather tall, about 35 years of age, pass by her house. He was of dark complexion, and resembled an Italian. He carried a white bag about two or 2½ feet long, which he had on his shoulder. The bag apparently contained something heavy. At first the stranger walked along Prospect street, going up the hill at a rapid rate. When the man got a little distance by the house he broke into a run, and was soon on the top of the hill. Mrs. Smith soon lost sight of him and thought no more of the incident. When she heard of the affair at the bank she promptly reported to the officers who called at the house.

Further up the hill the same man was seen by another citizen. Dudley Cheney says that about the same time he saw a stranger, whose description practically agreed with that of the man Mrs. Smith saw, enter Dr. Hayes' orchard. This orchard is on Prospect hill, and has frontage on Prospect street. Chene saw the man throw a bag behind the orchard wall and then return to the road. The man wore a white overcoat and a white hat. He wondered what the man was doing in the orchard, and while he was looking he saw him change his white hat for a black stiff one. About 15 minutes elapsed and a buggy, harnessed to a dark sorrel horse, drove up the hill. The buggy contained a man dressed in dark clothing, but Mr. Cheney was not able to give any further description of him. The stranger who had thrown the bag behind the wall was still standing there, and as soon as the horse stopped he picked up the bag, walked out of the orchard and got into the buggy. The carriage drove off rapidly and turned down Linden street, nearby. The horse was headed in a northerly direction, and was soon lost sight of.

Mr. Cheney thought something was wrong and he determined to report the incident to the city marshal. He was on the way to the marshal's house when he learned of the tragedy. Frank Clough reported to the police that he also saw the men in the vicinity of the orchard and watched the buggy disappear down Linden street.

Later several residents of West Rochester reported that they saw a dark sorrel horse and a buggy containing two men driving rapidly through the town. They were going towards Salmon Falls river, which, in this section, forms the boundary between New Hampshire and Maine. The authorities at Rochester, when notified, started in pursuit. Further news of the mysterious carriage is expected some time later.

The Somersworth officers were assisted by police and citizens of other places, Mayor Hanson himself having assumed charge of the search.

WALTHAM SUSPECTS

Two Pugilists Arrested---One Identified as Man Who Robbed Teele.

Waltham, Mass., April 17.—Con Hartigan, the New England ex-amateur 125-pound boxing champion, and a friend named Johnny Briggs, were arrested at 4:33 o'clock yesterday afternoon on suspicion of being concerned in the Teele robbery of Wednesday night. The officers at the police station had scarcely completed the usual search of the two men, which, by the way, revealed $80 and some Confederate coin, when a telegram was received from the mayor of Somersworth, N. H., asking that these very men be apprehended. The first telegram was followed in a few minutes by a second, and that in turn by a third, all to the same effect and all urging the local police to use their utmost endeavors to secure the men.

In the meantime Farmer Teele arrived at the police station and identified the Confederate coin as that taken from him Hartigan was brought from his cell, and the old gentleman was positive that he was the man who robbed him, and threatened him with death by burning. Mr. Teele could not identify Briggs.

It was while Farmer Teele was making the identification of Hartigan that the first telegram was received from Somersworth. The message was signed by the mayor of that city and read: "Do you know Con Hartigan? If so, arrest him." An answer was immediately sent to Somersworth that Hartigan and Briggs were already behind the bars. Half an hour later another telegram was received, as follows: "Am confident that Hartigan and Briggs are the men wanted here."

As far as can be learned, the two men were in the city shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and when arrested were in a barber shop, within three doors of the police station.

Shortly after his arrest, Hartigan admitted to the police that he had been in Somersworth yesterday. He stated that both he and Briggs went there on Wednesday, but that both of them left Somersworth at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, going direct to Boston.

Late last night it was learned that in the fourth and last telegram from Mayor Hanson of Somersworth, the latter stated that the supposed murderers of Cashier Stickney left for Boston on the 2:10 p. m. train.

This statement apparently clears Hartigan and Briggs of any complicity in the affair, as the train does not reach Boston until 4:20, while the men were arrested in this city, 12 miles distance, at 4:33.

Another Suspect.

Somersworth, N. H., April 17.—At 2 o'clock, a well known young man of this city is suspected of the Stickney murder. His quarters were searched and a razor was found to be missing from an otherwise complete shaving set. The man has been absent from the city since the commission of the crime, but a suspect answering his description was arrested in Milton last evening and was taken to Somersworth this morning.

Funds For New England Militia.

Washington, April 17.—The secretary of the navy has just made the annual allotment of the fund of $50,000 appropriated by congress for the naval militia of the states. Deducting $2000 reserved for the purchase of text books, the remainder of the appropriation is alloted among the states having militia organizations in proportion to the number of uniformed petty officers and men they had on their rolls on Jan. 1 last. New England states follow: Massachusetts—Number of petty officers and men, 434; allotment, $5625. Rhode Island—Number of petty officers and men, 158; allotment, $2048. Connecticut—Number of petty officers and men, 135; allotment, $1749.

Havemeyer Sued For Libel.

New York, April 17.—Papers have been served on Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the Sugar trust, in a suit for $10,000 damages for slander and libel, the plaintiff in the cast being John Bergin of Brooklyn, who was formerly in the employ of Mr. Havemeyer. The libel and slander alleged by the plaintiff took place during the late senate investigation of the trusts in the city hall, New York.

John Hays Hammond at London.

London, April 17.—John Hays Hammond, the American engineer, and former member of the Johannesburg reform committee, has arrived here from South Africa. He says that affairs in Johannesburg are very unsettled, but he does not think an outbreak of war between Great Britain and the Transvaal is likely to occur in the immediate future.

One Hundred and Six Years Old.

New York, April 17.—Mrs. Hester Jackson of Newark, N. J., yesterday celebrated what she claims is the 106th anniversary of her birth. Mrs. Jackson was born a slave near Rahway, but was given her freedom when 21 years of age.

HIS DISOBEDIENT SON.

General Martin Told Boys to "Keep Their Hands Off."

Did Not Know That Everett Took Money.

Defense Testimony Concluded and Arguments Set for Tuesday.

Boston, April 17.—The testimony in the Martin investigation is all in. Next Tuesday, at 2 p. m., the tribunal will meet again in the council chamber at the state house to hear the arguments of counsel.

Before adjournment yesterday, the governor called the lawyers together and had a chat with them as to the time they would need in summing up. It was agreed that about 2½ hours should be given to each side, and that the committee should sit on Tuesday until the arguments were finished.

General Martin was again the principal figure. He told in the most decided manner of the many times at which he had warned his sons and they must have nothing to do with anything bearing on his official position. "Keep your hands off my business!" he had said to them time and again. He also testified that previous to the hearing he had known nothing of their taking money from anyone, except in the Mollenhauer case. He had heard of the Jacobs case, but Everett had absolutely denied having taken the money. The first he had heard of the other cases was when they had been testified to at the hearing. He also told about his efforts to increase the efficiency of the force, and the controlling of the licenses, and keeping them out of the suburbs.

At the opening of the hearing General Martin said that he wished to correct an impression which seemed to have arisen from his testimony. Commissioner Clark, he said, did not oppose all hotel licenses, but only those of the lower class. In reply to a question by General Champlin he then said that he had known nothing about Chauncy Jacobs' having paid for a license until the present hearing. He had before seen a newspaper article in which the matter was mentioned. He had then had a talk with Everett and asked him about it, and Everett had absolutely denied taking any money from Jacobs. He also denied having ever taken money from anyone, or having had any "deal" of any kind whatsoever with regard to obtaining a license for any person. On the Sunday after the hearing opened he had had another talk with Everett, when the latter admitted having taken $350 from Jacobs. This, he said, he had received through Charles G. Maguire. Concerning Mrs. Mollenhauer's case he said that the first he had known of Everett's taking money was when the latter was placed on the stand at the hearing. He said that Mrs. Mollenhauer had called on him two or three times in connection with her license. It had been revoked solely on account of the character of the place which she kept.

He did not know that a blotter with his picture on it was used as an advertisement. Everett had spoken to him about such a blotter, and he had told him that he must not make use of it. With regard to Everett's connection with the Smith license, he said that his first knowledge of it had been when he heard about it at the hearing.

SEARCHING RUINS.

Blood-Stained Chair and Pillow Case Found In Debris of Reynolds Home.

Pascoag, R. I., April 17.—The men who have been searching the ruins of the Reynolds house, where the awful tragedy occurred Thursday morning, found late yesterday afternoon an ax with blood stains on it in the ruins of the room occupied by Miss Reynolds. About the ax were a number of small bones, which had evidently been parts of larger ones. The police have also succeeded in recovering a pillow case covered with blood from the room of Mrs. Reynolds, together with a blood-stained chair. The search of the ruins is still in progress.

It has been learned that when Mowry was discovered in the woods he had on a pair of light rubbers over his shoes, although the neighbors of the Reynolds house say that he always wore very heavy leather shoes.

Mowry was etherized at the Cranston jail yesterday afternoon and the bullet which had been in his head since he was found in the woods was recovered. While he was coming out from the effects of the ether an attempt was made to elicit some facts from him regarding the affair, but he succeeded in evading all questions.

Shortage of $2,400,00.

New Bedford, Mass., April 17.—At yesterday's meeting of the creditors of the Columbia and Bennett corporations revelations were made which have thrown the city into excitement. The showing as reported by the experts who have been examining the books of the two corporations was far worse than even the most gloomy anticipations had pictured, and the result is that the losses to several men prominent in New Bedford's financial circles will nearly complete their ruin. It was disclosed that $2,400,000 in notes of the two concerns had been issued, of which no account has appeared in the returns submitted to the state by the corporations. Upon learning this, and that more than $100,000 had been charged to the account of the plant, when it should have appeared as profit and loss, thereby showing a surplus instead of a deficit, it was voted to place both corporations into the hands of receivers.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vaughn of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for cramps in the stomach" and bowels. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

A woman's greatest mission in this world is to help baby. Teaching baby to eat, and to walk and to talk. A rightly constituted woman finds in these her happiest employment. Too many women miss this happiness because of their own ignorance or neglect. No woman should be ignorant of her own physical make-up. No woman has the right to neglect the health of those delicate organs of her body upon which depends the life and health and happiness of her children. The Mosaic command to "increase and multiply" was no idle, thoughtless edict. It was the command of Jehovah. The woman who annuls it by neglect of her womanly health commits a crime.

The best medicine for women is Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes a woman capable of performing her duty to herself, her husband, her children and mankind. It acts directly upon the organs distinctly feminine and makes them strong and vigorous. It does away with the discomforts of the period preceding motherhood. It makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It cures all weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism.

In a family of parents and children there is much care, many worries, numerous perplexities. But, if sickness comes, everything else is small beside it. How valuable then is a doctor in the same block, or an experienced neighbor next door. How much more comfortable for all concerned is a standard medical book on the table or the bookshelf. It is less expensive than the doctor, probably more reliable than the experienced neighbor. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the best thing of this sort ever published. It contains 1,008 pages of plain talk and careful illustrations. Many of the pictures are colored and true to nature. Nearly 100 pages are devoted to the diseases of women. There are prescriptions for their cure at home. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, and get this book FREE in strong manilla cover. THE EXPERIENCE OF A COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

For Indigestion, Sick and Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Heart Failure, Fever, Chills, Debility and Kidney Diseases, take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful medicine in the world

Puritana in the Spring.

The universal custom of taking a spring remedy is founded on a natural instinct implanted in us for our own good.

The heat-producing foods of winter leave the system clogged. Confinement in warm rooms, with lack of outdoor exercise, makes all the organs weak and torpid. Those who neglect to use a remedy or fail to get the right one are inviting serious troubles. Most chronic diseases start in the spring. The end of winter finds thousands with such symptoms as these: A general unfitness for work with either head or hands. A worn-out, tired-out feeling that cannot be overcome. There is sleeplessness, or restless sleep. Numbness of hands or feet. A sense of pressure in the head, with a feeling of gloom or despondency. There may be fluttering or palpitation of the heart. Frequently a pain in the heart or under the left shoulder. There may be rushes of blood to the head, or throbbing in the ears at times.

Kidney and liver troubles may be looked for if your digestion has not been perfect. There is fulness of pain in the right side, or pain under the right shoulder. Distaste for food, with nausea in the morning. Complexion is blotched or sallow. Tongue is coated or mouth foul. There is a dull, sleepy feeling, with disinclination to breathe deeply. If the kidneys are in danger there will be pain, weakness, or soreness in small of back, and perhaps occasional sharp pains. Urine is scanty, high colored, and on standing becomes cloudy, or deposits a red sediment. There are apt to be frequent headaches. Sores and skin eruptions frequently come.

All these various symptoms are common to spring, and show that the vital organs need renovating and prompt repair. Bright's disease, jaundice, rheumatism, and heart troubles start from such conditions as these. No two persons will have the same set of symptoms, but any of those enumerated are important. The organs must be strengthened and repaired. Repair can only come through active digestion, and Puritana is the remedy to rely on. It will vitalize the entire body and give you a spring of buoyant, vigorous health. Clear complexion, sharp appetite, and the power to do things, is the sure reward of taking Puritana.

THE EASTER BONNET.

ITS MUTATIONS AND ITS MARVELS FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS PAST.

A Glance Backward to the Days of the "Waterfall"—The Vagaries of Style—How Shapes and Combinations Have Changed. The Present Easter Hat.

[Copyright, 1897, by the Author.]

It is doubtful if there be any one experience better calculated to impress the feminine mind with its own capacity for folly than a review of past fashions. At this season, when, one and all, we are ready to admire the latest creation from Virot or to exclaim over the loveliness of a dream in tints of rose executed by some other Parisian authority on bonnets, it becomes peculiarly instructive to review the past and to ponder upon the conceits and fancies that elicited similar "Ohs!" and "Ahs!" from our own lips a decade back and from those of an older generation a quarter of a century since. In making such a review one fact becomes apparent before all others. Beauty is a relative term, and, let one be as æsthetic as she may, her sense of fitness is largely governed by the fashion of the day.

1871.

To be sure, we may boast with truth that the styles of the present are somewhat better than many that are past because of a certain improvement in dyes and certain artistic truths that have been poured into our ears by those who consider dress as an art. But it is doubtful, nevertheless, if a future generation will not laugh at us even as we laugh at those who have gone before. "Whatever is in style is pretty," said a young woman with enthusiasm not long ago, and, while we may smile with indulgence over the remark, it really voices the opinion of most humankind, for men as well as women have their foibles, and if they have evolved a more sensible style of dress it is due rather to the exigencies of business life, from which the feminine world is only now beginning to suffer, rather than to any superiority on their part.

But at Easter the Easter bonnet is, above all things, the one that looms up upon the woman's horizon and holds her spellbound, be she ever so advanced or ever so ardent an advocate of reform, and a study of such as have been presented for the past quarter of a century becomes as diverting as it is instructive. Only as far back as 1871 the monstrous waterfall was held the height of elegance, and, perched upon the huge monstrosity, was worn a tiny hat that perforce was tip tilted until it appeared to be in jeopardy, and certainly threatened to slip down upon the nose. "Tipsy" was the name given to the favorite shape, and fashion articles of the day speak of it as "jaunty," while, small as it was, flowers, ribbon and tulle all went into its make up.

Five years later demure bonnets that sat well back upon the head, showing the waved hair, and with strings that tied in a bowknot under the chin, were correct even for young girls. The saucy air of the gypsy had given place to a quieter style, and no one thought of being so frivolous as to tilt a hat or even to wear one for dress occasions if she had been graduated from the schoolroom. Bonnets were the style. Hats were relegated to children or to misses under 18 and were not seen again upon mature heads for a decade or more. Lace, flowers, feathers—all went into the make up of one good specimen, and blossoms of all sorts were made to cluster round the face. In fact, chip, the favorite material, and those same flowers made the feature of the time. Straw was given second place. Every one who could aimed to wear chip, which was light in weight, varied in color, soft and pliable. Evening bonnets were often all of flowers, a single wreath encircling the head and held in place by a mass of tulle in the form of ties being a favorite style. But throughout all the variations a certain demureness was ever apparent. There were no waving plumes nor nodding flowers. Everything was planned to set closely to the head, and the bonnet was so kept in harmony with the small, tight sleeves and the trim, plain bodices.

1881.

By the time another five years had passed, in the spring of 1881, fashion was eager for another change, and the "Bernhardt poke" had appeared. Being named for the great actress, the style was necessarily chic, but, compared with the creations that are now being made in her name, it is tame in the extreme.

Chip appears to have still held first place, and flowers, combined with feathers, to have been a combination much in vogue. A typical hat of the period, shown in the illustration, is described as "brown chip, trimmed with yellow poppies and ostrich tips shading from jonquil yellow to pale brown." It is noticeable that face trimmings had disappeared. Bigger hats—hats that were head coverings—had come in, and the trimming was placed upon the outside of the crown.

In 1886 there came a revival of the flower hat. True to the adage claims that fashions run in cycles, the year saw a return to the styles of ten years previous, with always such variations as modistes know how to incorporate. Being shrewd folk, they never permit an exact replica, but there is nevertheless a similarity between the bonnets of 1876 and those of 1886. Less of the demure element is to be found, to be sure, and the ribbons and flowers had assumed a more pert and jaunty air. But flowers were the feature of both, and dress bonnets, made entirely of violets or other blossoms, were again in vogue. The one chosen for illustration is of straw. Chip had fallen into disuse and has not since taken any prominent place. The crown is well covered with flowers, and bows of striped ribbon, combined with plain, stand jauntily up at the center. Ties of ribbon form a bow under the chin, but many were worn both for evening and afternoon dress occasions that were mere bouquets fastened to the hair with a pin. The plain sleeves still held, and the sleeve bodice. With them only a bonnet or small hat was in taste. Hats had not yet come into style for matrons of mature years. Hats were worn only for the promenade even by the young, and every woman demanded a bonnet for ceremonious occasions at least. But emancipation from the bonnet was not to be long delayed. Light, plain sleeves were already giving place to fuller ones, and a tendency to augment the trimmings for the head and shoulders and to simplify the skirts was apparent. Accordingly the next five years show a wide divergence in style, and we find both bodices and hats greatly changed.

In 1891 hats had gained a decided vogue, and women of all ages were to be seen, as they have been since, wearing jaunty and elaborate hats that retained not so much as the narrowest tie to hint of the bonnet. Strings had by that time come to be regarded both as uncomfortable and, far worse, as adding to the apparent age. Hence strings were forsworn and hats gay with flowers and feathers held first place. Bonnets, or headdresses dignified by the name, were, to be sure, worn upon evening occasions by many who held them alone to be correct. But the hat had gained its place, and already the shadow of that creation which was to call for legislative reform was cast. As yet the hats were modest in size. A favorite shape rolled back off the face and turned up at the back, leaving the crown flat. The general style was for bigger models than those that had gone before. Shoulders had been broadened by full sleeves and bodices amplified in many ways. With them came also the hat which gave an air of youthfulness to the wearer and defied the observer to mark the passage of time. Few women, except those in mourning and the unquestionably elderly dames, wore bonnets for promenade. Chic little affairs, all lace and nonsense, with nodding flowers and tantalizing aigrets, were indeed affected by many for evening wear, but even these showed no strings and were mere fancy bits made as decorative as could be. The hat of the season was a hat—a hat of generous size, of unlimited possibilities and one that asserted its claim before all others, while it threw the bonnet into deepest shade.

1891.

For this present Easter we have flowers such as never were seen before—flowers true to nature and fascinating in the extreme. Roses en masse make the garniture of one importation, poppies erect and assertive of another, and such delicious chrysanthemums of a third as seem to have been plucked but an hour before. The feature of the season is massed flowers. Whether they be roses or what not, they are bunched together in profusion and seem to be almost crushed, so closely are they packed.

In other matters we may not have improved, but in color we are assuredly as nearly perfect as can be. The lovely tints of the rose and the delicious gradations of tone shown in all the flowers are in themselves features of which to boast. A review of the bonnets of the past might well teach us humility, if nothing more. But, let the future develop what it may, it seems difficult to imagine the tints of 1897 improved or displaced. Mayhap we shall yet return to the waterfall and the tilted trifle set at an angle with the head even as we are now approaching tight sleeves and trimmed skirts. But degeneracy can surely never reach the depth of forcing us to use crude color or rob us of the lessons we have learned. Ribbons, silks, flowers, straws themselves, are beautiful simply because of their delightful hue. Let shapes and combinations change as they will, the art of the dyer must surely remain.

VICTORY AND DEFEAT.

Greeks Take Kritudes and Are Driven Out of Kranja

Severe Fighting Has Occurred In Macedonia.

Mr. Gladstone Refers to Two Emperors as Youthful Despots.

Larissa, Headquarters of the Greek Army in Thessaly, April 17.—Severe fighting has occurred in Macedonia between the Greek irregulars and the Turkish forces. The column of irregulars sent to the right from Pigavitza, after having invested and captured Sitovan, continued its advance toward Kritudes, Plisia and Kourduzi, with orders to hold Kourduzi at all costs, as it commands the right approach to Grevena, the objective point. This column, commanded by Chiefs Zermos and Luzzo, attacked Kritudes on Tuesday. The place was defended by two companies of Turks. After a severe fight, during which 80 Turks were killed and 25 were taken prisoners, the position was captured by the Greeks, who also obtained possession of 150 rifles and a quantity of cartridges.

The insurgents, however, have suffered a severe check in another direction. A strong force of Turkish troops from Mecovon, with a number of mountain guns, advanced on Krania, which had previously been captured by the Greeks, and attacked the 400 irregulars, who occupied an intrenched position. It is reported that the fighting was ferocious on both sides. The insurgents eventually were compelled to retreat north to the mountains.

Gladstone Writes Again.

London, April 17.—Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to the Macedonian leader, Captain Dampzes, in which he says: "Under the present deplorable scheme all the British government has a right to do, seemingly, is to plead its opinions before a tribunal of two youthful despots, the Emperors of Germany and Russia, and to abide by their help to execute their final determinations. Our disgraceful office seems to be to place ships, guns, soldiers and sailors at their disposal for the purpose of keeping down the movement for the liberty of Crete and of securing to these young despots, who have in nowise earned the confidence of Europe, the power of deciding questions which rightfully belong to the Cretans."

Engagement Reported.

Canea, April 17.—Cannonading has been proceeding in the direction of Kalyves since Thursday evening. The cause of the firing is not known here. Pillaging continues in this vicinity.

The insurgents have attacked the Aniibali blockhouse near Fort Izoddin. There was heavy firing all Thursday night. The Turkish warships in Suda bay shelled the insurgents.

The foreign admirals have offered to Colonel Vassos any medical and surgical assistance he may require for the wounded in his camp.

Blockade Not Recognized by America.

London, April 17.—The Rome correspondent of The Standard says it is stated there that Admiral Canevaro, commanding the international fleets in Cretan waters, has received notice from the American government that the United States does not recognize the existence of a blockade of Crete.

More New Postmasters.

Washington, April 17.—From now on for some time the daily quota of appointments of fourth-class postmasters will be very heavy. Yesterday's list was the largest since the changes commenced. The total was 127. The changes include the following: Maine—East Hampden, W. E. Frost, vice John Leary, removed; Robinson's, W. E. Robinson, vice J. F. Ketchum, resigned. New Hampshire—Alton, W. C. Varney, vice H. Jones; Bennington, G. L. Herrick, vice G. O. Joslin; Canterbury, A. H. Brown, vice S. W. Lake; Danville, W. J. Mace, vice J. M. Arnold, all removed; East Rochester, S. T. Sinclair, vice F. A. Quimby, resigned; Melvin Village, G. S. Horner, vice H. E. Fernald, removed; Salem Depot, F. C. Buxton, vice M. G. Woodbury, removed; Wolfboro Falls, C. F. Paris, vice P. E. Young, resigned. Rhode Island—Shamrock, O. H. Perry, vice C. E. Sullivan, resigned.

Western Senators' Agreement.

Washington, April 17.—The Western senators, after several conferences, have reached an agreement to stand together for important changes in the wool schedule of the Dingley bill. The senators most prominently identified with the movement are Messrs. Mantle, Carter, Shoup, Warren and Burrows. They have not only agreed upon a line of amendments, but have decided to insist that they be included in the bill. Their proposed amendments are directed mainly to closing the many loopholes for evasion and fraud which wool men allege abound in the Dingley bill, and were also found in the McKinley law.

Irish Alliance Urged.

New York, April 17.—An appeal has been issued by the Irish National Alliance urging their fellow countrymen to unite under the auspices of that society. The alliance, it is claimed, does not seek to interfere with the individuality of any other organizations or societies, but merely to unite such bodies in one confederation, with the sole aim of achieving absolute independence for Ireland.

California Agricultural College Burned.

Berkeley, Cal., April 17.—Fire at the University of California yesterday destroyed the building occupied as the college of agriculture. The building contained expensive chemicals and laboratory apparatus. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

TRADE IMPROVEMENT.

Bradstreet's Reviews Conditions In Various Parts of the Country.

New York, April 17.—Bradstreet's says: The most conspicuous improvement in trade conditions this week is in the weather throughout central, western and northwestern states, where country roads are more passable. There is a better demand for building materials, particularly lumber. In staple lines there is a more active request at Portland, O.; Minneapolis and St. Paul, Kansas City and Atlanta, pointing to the irregularity of the tendency to recover. Jobbers at Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Cincinnati and Chattanooga report trade slow, or that demand is decreased. There is no sign of trade revival in the flooded regions, where the danger point has moved southward. If the water recedes by May 15 one-half the usual cotton crop may be raised in Arkansas and Mississippi this year, but the outlook is not promising. One of the most serious losses to agriculturists of the South Mississippi valley is the destruction of stocks. If the river overflows the sugar lands of Louisiana it will take three years to produce a crop there.

New Orleans merchants believe the city is in no present danger, but point out that its prosperity depends on the agricultural industry. Orders for staples have fallen off at Chicago and the larger Eastern centers, except Baltimore, where the situation is regarded as favorable. Lake navigation is open, but few vessels are in commission yet, owing to the prospect for low freight rates. The auction sale of dry goods at New York is not construed as an indication of improvement in demand, because prices paid were not average value. Demand for dry goods is slow, and some manufacturers remain at work without profit, as the lesser of two evils.

Demand for wool is checked, as stocks are badly cut, but makers of woolens are as active as before. Shoe manufacturers are working full time. Iron and steel continue disappointing, with lower prices for Bessemer pig and for billets, few, if any, new orders, and a tendency to weakness rather than the reverse.

A reverse movement is also noted in the prices for staples, those for wheat flour, wheat, Indian corn, pork, lard, coffee, cotton and woolens having advanced. Lower quotations are reported for sugar, petroleum and naval stores, in addition to iron and steel.

There is a marked decrease in the total number of business failures throughout the United States, the total, 195, this week, being compared with 232 last week, 244 in the week a year ago, 219 two years ago, 212 in the corresponding week of 1894, and as contrasted with 217 in the second week of April, 1893, just before the panic.

Powell Clayton Ill.

St. Louis, April 17.—General Powell Clayton, the new minister to Mexico, became suddenly sick yesterday. If he is well enough he will be moved to his home in Little Rock, where he will remain until he recovers. He is suffering from a severe cold, which threatens to develop into pneumonia. All arrangements for the public reception to General Clayton have been cancelled.

Locomotive Exploded.

Springfield, O., April 17.—The engine of a northbound freight train on the Big Four exploded last evening as Osborne. Engineer John Hutchins was badly burned. Fireman Fagin was scalded from head to foot and will die Brakeman Dallie of Middletown was blown 50 feet against a stump and had his skull fractured. His injuries are fatal.

Tennis at Wollaston.

A new interest has sprung up in favor of tennis at Wollaston. This was shown at annual meeting of the Merry Mount Tennis club which was held at the home of Mr. Herbert H. Albee on Wednesday evening. Besides several new players five of the old members were re-admitted to the club. The fact that the old members are asking re-admittance to the club shows that tennis is coming again into prominence.

The club's courts on Safford street will soon be in order and the members will be glad to invite their friends to play with them.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—Herbert H. Albee.

Vice-President,—Charles W. Bates.

Secretary and treasurer,—William P. Bailey.

The executive committee consists of the above officers, and J. F. Emery, H. W. Battison, Charles E. Munroe and R. B. Witham. Several tournaments will be held during the season, the first being on Decoration Day.

Holiday Run.

The Quincy Triangle Wheelmen was one of the most successful Y. M. C. A. cycle clubs in the country last year, judging by the reports which have been received from other places. It is to be hoped that this year even greater success shall attend its efforts. There are many reasons why every rider should join it. The cost is much less than any other club, and the large discounts secured for its members more than pay for the membership fee. The head-quarters are the best in the city, including bath rooms. It has a charter from the Athletic League of North America. Its membership is made up of a good class of young men who ride an average pace, no scorchers. It has a good storage room. The club will make its first run Monday, going to Malden, where they will visit the $100,000 Y. M. C. A. building, which is palatial in its equipment. Inspection of the rooms, bowling, etc., will be indulged in.

Close of League Games.

The Granites did not play their scheduled game in the City League last evening, and the Quincys played earlier in the week. The games last night resulted in favor of the Columbias, Meyers, Carruths, Boylstons and Shawmuts.

The final standing of the clubs is:

Carruth,	23	3	54,129

The Fatal Fourth.

Could the fourth innings of the ball game between the Adams Academy and Technology nines been wiped out yesterday, Adams would have won; but numerous errors allowed the visitors to run up eleven runs in that innings, and they won by 12 to 3. After the fourth the "Techs" did not score.

The score by innings was as follows:

Technology,	1	0	0	11	0	0	0	0	0	—12

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. On Tuesday evening fourteen of the large class of Miss Marion Arnold's piano pupils invited their friends to a recital at Pythian hall. The programme consisted of selections from Haydn, Prinecke, Heller, Massenet, and others, and was well and confidently played by all. Miss Helen Woodman, Jennie Dyer, Helen Bates and Miss Jessie Arnold, who sang a charming April song by Gounod, received encores. To all the others great praise was due and they reflected much credit on their teacher.

The time for the second grand concert of the Union Choral society is drawing near and the members are taking an active interest in making it a success. The rehearsal Wednesday was one of the largest ever held; comparatively few being absent. The matter of giving the Rebekah in costume was discussed and a majority favored the idea.

The coming week there is a notable array of the latter. First in rank is Papinta, the marvelous "myriad" dancer, the wonder of the century; next Caron and Herbert, clown and acrobat, in the funniest act in the profession; then Arthur C. Sidman, whose work as a delineator of country character is classed equal to that of either Denman Thompson or Sol Smith Russell. There will be the usual changes in the Biograph programme.

GREAT BALL GAME.

Grantie City and Quincy Social Clubs Meet on the Diamond.

It Was Nip and Tuck from Beginning to the End.

A Day of Surprises and Remarkable Plays—The Incidents.

Monday was a nice sunshiny day. At 9.30 A. M. the hearts of the Granite City base ball nine throbbed with joyous anticipations as they hied themselves blithely over the dusty road to Merry Mount park to meet that pigeon-toed aggregation of pig skin chasers known as the Quincy club B. B. C. The Granite City's marched with a confident step and banners flying, they came home silently in the early afternoon and went to bed defeated.

The game opened with the Granite Citys at the bat. George Gavin and Harry Bates, with revolvers in each hand and butcher knives in their belts took positions as umpires. "Play ball," they yelled. Johnson stepped forward. Almost immediately the air was full of whirling bats, darting balls and flying legs. Women screamed, men shouted, a thick cloud of dust swirled upon the diamond and the air grew sulphury with side remarks. Johnson had made the first run for the Granite Citys.

Wendall and Sears went out at first Actor Curtis and Garbrett scored, and Spear went out leaving "Shy" on second. "Side out" yelled Gavin and when the air cleared both nines were found to be alive and Charlie Hammond and Deck Wadsworth, the scorers, with pale but determined faces were marking down the third run, which by competant judges was considered very good for a beginning.

Then the Quincys unbuttoned their shirts and went to the bat and the hearts of the Quincys howlers throbbed with expectation. Porter was out at first, then came more whirling bats and confusion. Nothing could be seen distinctly on account of the dust, but the rumble of hastening feet, the sharp crack of broken bats and the hoarse voice of the umpire could be heard above the din. H. Edwards and Bent had made runs. Riley, the only sponge in the drug store, and Leavitt had struck out and Lowe was left on third.

The Granite Citys lined up again for the second round. Actor Curtis struck out to Edwards. Weston and Johnson got first on balls and scored. Wendall flied out to Bent. Sears got second on a grounder, Riley muffled J. Curtis' fly and Sears was out at the home plate.

In the second half Packard got his base on balls and scored. W. Edwards sent a grounder to Curtis who threw to Johnson who caught it in his right and put him out. Perry got second on a wild throw Porter flied to right field and brought Perry home. H. Edwards struck out. Bent flied and brought Porter home. Riley struck out, and left Lowe on third, Leavitt on second, and the Quincys went out. The air cleared and the scorers had put down to them four measly runs and it was claimed this was due to a rank decision of the umpire in allowing a batter to grab a ball off the ground and run around the bases with it in his pocket.

The Granite Citys lined up again, and again the circling procession of flying legs which made pitcher Perry seasick and he relinquished the box to Porter. Many times he hurled the ball at the Granite City basemen but they are all good dodgers and not once did he hit them, and on the rounding up one more run had been added to the score of the web-toed champions.

The crowd sang "The blow almost killed Father; as the Quincys again came to the front. Packard went out on strikes, W. Edwards made a run, Perry got as far third, Porter to second and H. Edwards to first when Bent out on strike and Lowe on a fly to Weston.

But why pursue a disagreeable subject. Things went on smoothly until the eighth innings. The sun still shone brightly but had a blue tinge for the Granite Citys, and Jones who wanted to bet dollars to doughnuts on the Granite Citys at the start, crawled behind the back stop to take a nap. A recess was taken for ten minutes while Osborne passed the hat. The umpires took advantage of the breathing spell to sandpaper their voices which by constant use had become as stringy as a Plymouth Rock pullet after its first egg.

"Play ball" again yelled the umpire and the Granite Citys came up with languid step and faint hearts for the seventh. Spear coiled himself like a corkscrew and said if he got a knee high ball he would knock it to the Blue Hills reservation. It came along just right. He unwound a little late and missed it but his whirling bat made such a chasm in the air that a boy was sucked into it and disappeared. It was several minutes before the atmosphere settled sufficiently so the bystanders could yank him out. The ice was now broken and the runs piled up so fast that the scorers covered one side of their cartoon box and were about to continue the tally with a nail on the polished surface of Elbridge Porters box buggy, when all was over. Seven runs had been added to the Granite City's score, and they led by 6 runs.

The Granite City's stock had gone up above par and betting was wild. But here is where they made their mistake for when the Quincys had finished the eight innings they had also made seven runs and the score was Quincy, 19; Granite City, 18.

In this manner did a series of unfortunate circumstances interfere with the Granite City club's success, at critical points.

In the ninth the Granite City club scored three which made them 21, but the Quincy also made three with only one out and won the game. A home run did the business.

The game was marked by stirring incidents and good individual plays on both sides. Notably, one where a fly dropped into Spears hands and he held it. It was the only thing that redeemed him. The result was so unexpected, it came like a thunder clap. The umpire fainted, pandemonium broke loose and a riot was threatened, but the sight of Dan McKay walking across the diamond seemed to have a soothing effect and order was restored.

In the fifth Sears sent a fly heavenward. Leavitt cast his eagle eye over the field. He saw Packard setting in a carriage talking to some ladies, the centre field had gone for a cigar, the left fielder was playing solitaire. There was nothing to be done but get to the field and take the fly himself. He started like a bullet from a gun but before he got half way across the diamond his hair took fire from atmospheric friction and he had to stop and put it out.

One ball that went over the back stop was swallowed by a cow, and the boy sent after it, came driving him. Several ways were suggested to recover it and the umpire looked through the rules but as nothing could be found covering this point it was settled by letting the cow have it.

This was the first time the Granite City club had been defeated, (it was the first game they had ever played) but they have some good material for a ball nine and if they practice diligently until Bryan is elected president they may be able to put up a better game.

Many thought that Sears was a better pitcher than Perry, for whereas Perry ties himself in only one knot and looks two ways before delivering the ball, Sears ties himself in a double knot and looks four ways.

Wendall distinguished himself by knocking over a lady, and the run credited to Spear was made for him by Goss, a substitute.

However, the Granite City's have determined to practice up and if possible put the gambrel shanked champions in a dreamless sleep before this year is out.

The attendance was 200 besides three dogs, several bicycles and horses. Time 2 hours, 30 minutes and 5 seconds.

Holiday Shoot.

Monday's wind storm interferred materially with the Wollaston Trap club's shoot on Monday.

Beginning on Saturday the club will hold regular shoots on those days through the season at 3 o'clock.

The club has made extensive improvements to its property this spring, among other changes having added a large piazza to the club-house.

At the shoot Whitmarsh won two prizes and Bates and Marsden one each.

AMONG THE YACHTS.

The Flyers Getting into Trim—Many New Ones This Season.

The sloop Evelyn, which is owned by Dr. H. A. Jones and Mr. C. H. Hayward of the Quincy Yacht club, is in the water and went down to the light a few days ago on a fishing trip.

The Chatham of the Quincy Yacht club, with Captain Alden at the helm, took a trial spin down the bay on Sunday.

Capt. E. I. Cain's large sloop yacht Hattie while down off the light on a fishing trip last Thursday got caught in a white squall. Her mast was carried away just below the hounds. The deck and rails were damaged by the wreckage falling on them. Capt. Cain brought a new stick down from the city on Sunday to replace the old one.

The jib and mainsail yacht Princess of the Quincy Yacht club with Capt. Joe Whiton sailing her, has made her appearance in the bay. She looks very slick.

Harold Faxon of the Quincy Yacht club was out in the Gnome on Saturday timing her up for Monday's race. She is a flyer and ought to be a good prize winner. Few boats in the bay will be better handled than the Gnome.

John T. Cavanagh's fast sloop yacht Beatrice, one of the Quincy Yacht club's favorites, is receiving a thorough overhauling and will have a new mast. She is hauled up at the club house.

Captain Wilbur's Winona is in the water, as is also Captain Ring's Gloriana. Neither have had their sails bent.

The Supero, the cat which Lelois is building for Capt. Charles H. Alden of the Quincy Yacht club, and which will be sailed by his son Mert L. Alden, is all planked up and ready for the priming coat of paint. She is 15 ft. 3 in. over all; 14 ft. 6 in. w. l.; 7 ft. beam and have a draft of 15 in.

A. J. Shaw's big Cape cat, Moondyne is in commission and at her moorings off the Quincy Yacht Club's house at Houghs Neck.

Joseph J. Moebs of the Quincy Yacht club has got his little half-rater, Swallow, rigged and moored off the club house.

J. H. Hill, of Houghs Neck is at work on J. W. Johnson's and Dr. E. E. Doble's sloop Electra. She will be moored off the club house this season, as usual.

Arthur T. Reed, of the Quincy Yacht club, was down to the Red Rock boat yard on Monday looking over his Cape cat, Trump, and also for a customer for his old boat.

Secretary Whiting with Janitor Beals, of the Quincy Yacht club, were bending tackle to the club's big floats on Monday, preparatory to hauling them out of their winter quarters.

The Quincy Yacht club house looks well in its new coat of paint. Very few club's keep their property up the way this club does. Everything is always ship-shape and up-to-date.

Walter B. Burrell of the Quincy Yacht club, who made such a good showing with the Primrose last season, states that he will not race her this year. Mr. Burrell is deeply interested in naptha launches and it would not be surprising to see him appear down the bay in one at no distant date.

Kiley of "Yachtsmen's Guide" fame has written to the three officers—Commodore, Vice Commodore and Secretrry—of the Quincy Yacht club for their photographs to be used in the forthcoming book.

Lelois has Arthur Keith's Sphinx about ready to shove into the water.

Rumor has it that William P. Barker's new boat will be named the Omeme. This name, which signifies in English, pigeon, comes from Hiawatha as did also the name of his last boat the Opechee, which translated means robin. She is expected in these waters about the middle of next month and will be a great addition to the Quincy Yacht club's fleet of new boats.

Commodore Sanborn was invited by the City of Boston to assist in organizing Monday's race in Dorchester Bay.

The Gnome was the only Quincy Yacht club boat that went up to Monday's race.

Benj. Sargent of Wollaston has bought the big South Boston Cape cat Quisset. She is about 28 feet overall.

Redskin is the name of J. L., and L. H. Sturtevant's new yacht.

Ex-Vice Commodore Wm H. Shaw of Quincy Yacht club has just returned from a trip to Newburyport. While there he bought the well-known jib and mainsail yacht Vexer. The Vexer is 28 ft. overall; 21 ft. w. l.; 10 ft. beam; and 2 ft. draft. She will be quite an addition to the club's fleet.

A. L. Merritt and Chas. W. Hall of the Quincy Yacht club have the Arbutus ready to shove into the water. The Arbutus has received a thorough overhauling and looks as bright as a new silver dollar.

The terrific wind storm made Monday anything but an ideal holiday. From all sections of the city come reports of the interference of the high wind with all out of door sports. Besides the wind was the clouds of suffocating dust literally blinding all of those who attempted to go out of doors.

POWERS AND THE WAR

Blockade Fleet May Leave Crete For Salonika and the Dardanelles.

Military and Maritime Nations Differ.

Greeks and Turks, Worn Out by Three Days' Fighting, Are Resting.

London, April 20.—In spite of the fact that the hostilities on the Greek frontier have caused but little excitement here, communications are in progress continuously between the foreign office and Rome, France and Athens. It is reported that among the other matters considered is the expediency of ordering the international fleets to leave Cretan waters and to go in the direction of Salonika and the Dardanelles, to watch the fighting, with a view to localizing it, if necessary, by naval intervention. Should this suggestion, which is understood to emanate from the Italian foreign office, be acted upon, it is probable that only half the fleet of foreign warships would be withdrawn for such a purpose, the other half remaining to continue the Cretan blockade.

Powers Differ.

There is said to be a sharp difference of opinion between the military powers—Russia, Austria-Hungary and Germany—and the maritime powers—Great Britain, France and Italy—as to the most expedient and least violent methods of compelling a cessation of hostilities, should this result not be reached by the exercise of diplomatic pressure at Athens and Constantinople. The likelihood is that the force to be employed by Europe, if a resort to force becomes necessary, would be by sea, as the contingencies of military intervention might be more serious than the hostilites now in progress.

It is reported at the foreign office that the communications received here from the Marquis of Salisbury, after his interview with Queen Victoria at Nice, support the theory that the British government is using its utmost energy to persuade both the combatants to make a cessation of the conflict at the stage which it has now reached. M. Hanotaux, who received the Greek minister to France, is understood to have assured him that while France could not tolerate the indefinite prolongation of war, and would never consent to any essential modification of the existing territories of Greece and Turkey, she would continue for the present her policy of non-intervention, except so far as intervention might be necessary to prevent the spread of the contest to other combatants.

Frontier Situation Unchanged.

The situation on the frontier has not, according to the latest advices, been materially modified. Both the Turks and Greeks are resting from the tremendous exertions of Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The troops of Edhem Pasha were half dead with fatigue and hunger when the fire slackened up. Most of them flung themselves down where they stood on the bare ground to sleep. The Turkish commander-in-chief prudently decided to allow his enemy to rest yesterday.

As details come in it becomes more and more apparent that the fighting in Milouna pass was of the most stubborn and savage character. The Turks fought like devils, and the Greeks resisted in the spirit of their ancestors. The most inexplicable fact in connection with the whole engagement is the comparatively small number of killed. All the special correspondents agree as to this. The Turks appear to have fired as wildly with their rifles at Milouna pass as they did at Arta where the fighting consisted of an artillery duel between the rival batteries on each side of the river lasting about four hours. There they fired only one out of five shots with any effect and their batteries were soon silenced by the Greeks, whose marksmanship was very much superior. The Turkish losses at Arta are believed to have been very heavy. On the Greek side there was not a man killed.

Edhem Pasha Outgeneraled.

Later—General Smolenitz, ex-minister of war, is in command of 14,000 Greeks at Reveni, not far from Turnova, northwest of Larissa. At this point Edhem Pasha, closely pressed, was nearly taken a prisoner. His plan was to force the pass of Reveni, to enter the plain of Larissa, to cut off the retreat of the Greek army with cavalry, and thus to take Larissa without resistance. But this plan was defeated. General Demopoulos, at the head of one Greek division, forced the Turkish line at Boughazi, close to Turnova; and General Mavromichale broke through at Koniskos. The two generals united their troops near Damasi.

The news of this success at Reveni, and of the imminent fall of Prevesa, has changed the dismay caused at Athens by the loss of Milouna into the wildest rejoicing. The latest advices are that the Greek troops are advancing to reoccupy their positions at Milouna, and at Gritzovali, the latter of which, it is alleged, was abandoned owing to a misunderstanding by the general in command, who interpreted as an order of retreat what was really intended as an order to advance.

Captain Tegarde, who was wounded at Gritzovali, shot himself, in order to avoid falling into the hands of the Turks. The Greeks report that the Turks lost 7000 killed and wounded at Reveni, but this estimate is probably excessive. The Greek engineers constructed a bridge at Pachyskalos, to enable their troops to cross the river. It is stated that the Turkish forces attacking Reveni numbered more than 10,000 men.

At Athens.

Athens, April 20.—In the second engagement at Gritzovali, the Greek brigade commanded by General Mastropas was able to reform, after giving way before the Turkish assault. Another Greek brigade, under the command of General Minepoulou, is hurrying to re-enforce General Mastropas.

A dispatch received from Arta announces that fighting continues between the Greeks and Turks at the entrance of the Gulf of Arta and elsewhere in that vicinity. The Turkish batteries at Hamidieh and Pantocratoros are replying feebly.

The crossing of the river Arakphos by the Greek army under Colonel Manos, numbering about 25,000 men, was attended by severe fighting, during which the Greek artillery batteries distinguished themselves. This Greek force is now in Epirus.

Dispatches from the front received here say that the Turks, in considerable force, have been attacking Reveni, not far from Turnova, northwest of Larissa, which would indicate that the Greeks have not advanced far into the Damaza plain. It is added that the Turks were repulsed at Reveni.

A still later dispatch from Gritzovali admits that the Turks have recaptured that place.

The Greeks have occupied several strategic positions around Damasi, including Viglia. Three thousand armed peasants have joined the troops. It is alleged that 22,000 Turks attacked Reveni.

The situation at the Gulf of Arta and in the vicinity of the Albanian frontier has become more favorable for the Greeks. The bombardment of Prevesa was resumed at daybreak yesterday, with but feeble replies from the Turkish batteries at Hamidieh and Pantocratoros. The position of the Turks is untenable, and it is believed that the town will fall into the hands of the large Greek force in the vicinity, which is waiting for the demolition of the remaining batteries. The Greek battleship Spetzai has taken the lead in the bombardment.

It is feared that a massacre has taken place at Prevesa during the bombardment. Everybody is waiting for the list of killed and wounded. Patriotic bankers and others have offered the government over £1,000,000.

The Crown Princess Sophia has returned from the Greek camp at Larissa.

Balkan Alliance.

St. Petersburg, April 20.—Referring to the formation of an alliance between Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro, it is semi-officially pointed out that the league being formed is not only for their protection against Turkey and Austria, but against Pan-Hellene aspirations in the Baltic peninsula. Therefore, it is added, Greece is unable to count upon any support from them in the present conflict, and, moreover, their respective ministers have positively assured Russia that their governments will maintain strict neutrality.

Panic at Salonika.

Salonika, April 20.—A Turkish torpedo boat has sunk the Greek steamer Athens in the gulf of Salonika. On board were insurgents and members of various secret societies. A general panic prevails here. All vessels are prohibited from leaving the gulf. The Turks have seized the Greek steamer Kephaleion.

At Washington.

Washington, April 20.—The president is taking an active interest in the struggle between the Greeks and the Turks, and is being constantly advised by the department of state as to the latest developments in the war.

He wishes to ensure the adoption of all proper and usual precautions for the protection of all American interests in the Mediterranean.

With the fleet of American warships off the Turkish shore, it is felt that all that prudence could prescribe has been done. It may be that within a short time some question will arise that will involve action on our part, arising perhaps from attempts from both Turks and Greeks to blockade each other's ports, which, possibly, might interfere with the introduction of American products, but at present this is a remote contingency.

None of Minister Terrill's cablegrams so far received verify the report that he has undertaken the protection of the Greek residents in Turkey. On the whole, the authorities are glad that the report is not supported, for though such a request could not well be declined, it is remembered that our ministers in China and Japan, and the state department as well, became involved in a mess when they undertook the protection of the Chinese and Japanese, through the killing of several Japanese students, and there is always the risk that trouble may follow the assumption of responsibility.

Admiral Selfridge has cabled the secretary of the navy a request to have the cruiser Cincinnati, now at Mersine, under orders to come home, remain on the Mediterranean for a time. She was to be relieved by the Raleigh, but Secretary Long has given instructions that both ships shall remain there. This will give Admiral Selfridge a fleet of five ships—the San Francisco, Minneapolis, Marblehead, Cincinnati and Raleigh—a number sufficient to ensure the adequate protection of all American interests in southern Europe, in the opinion of the navy department.

Milliken Funeral Train.

Washington, April 20.—Prayers will be said over the remains of Congressman Milliken today, at 2 o'clock, at his boarding place at the corner of Fourteenth and I streets. At 3:50 p. m. the remains will be placed on a special car and, accompanied by relatives and the congressional party, will start on the federal express train on the Pennsylvania railroad. The party ought to reach Portland by noon tomorrow, and Belfast late in the afternoon. The special cars will run through from Washington to Belfast. The congressional party will be composed of five senators and 10 representatives. Senator Hale will be one of the senators, and Mr. Boutelle, who is of the house party, but is now in Maine, will join them somewhere in New England. The other members are old associates and friends of Mr. Milliken.

New York, April 20.—The Journal this morning says: Amos Rusie, the great baseball pitcher, has signed a contract for the season of 1897 tendered him by the New York Baseball club, and will report to the team for duty forthwith. Rusie's contract calls for a salary of $2400 for the season.

A BICYCLE TOUR

Three gentlemen for a European tour purchased new hundred dollar bicycles. One a Columbia—the others of well-known high-grade manufacture. They had an agreeable trip—particularly the Columbia rider. Before returning to America, it being late in the year—and wishing to buy new machines in 1897—they sold their wheels to a London dealer. The Columbia bicycle brought $65.00. The others $40.00 and $35.00 respectively. But one of the many proofs of Columbia superiority. If you look a year ahead there is wise economy in

AN ODD EXPERIMENT.

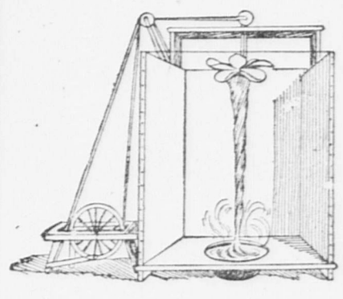

HOW TO MAKE A WATERSPOUT IN MINIATURE.

Operations Which Nature Displays on a Grand Scale Explained by a Simple Toy. Causes and Character of the Waterspout Explained.

We often hear of the natural phenomenon of the waterspout, that great column of water ascending from the ocean to the clouds in seeming defiance of the law of gravitation. For the benefit of those who would like to have a water spout of their own, this article will show how one may be made artificially, in miniature, by means of a very neat and interesting experiment.

First, the experimenter must have water heated to a degree that will just allow a vapor to arise and must provide some mechanical means to produce that gyratory motion of the air which will whip the ascending vapor into shape.

First secure a long oblong box open at the top. This should be fastened firmly to a table. The box should be about 3 feet in height and 2 feet square at the bottom, with one of its sides of glass, so as to give a view of the experiment, and the whole must be perfectly water tight. Over the top construct a sort of bridge or frame of wood about an inch thick and 4 inches in width, connecting the two opposite sides of the box three or four inches above the level of the top. Then, directly in the center of your frame and beneath it, fit a small paddle wheel, with four flanges about 4 inches long. Bring the axle up through the frame and attach to it at the other end a very small grooved wheel.

You must then provide a highly geared motive power in the shape of a driving wheel several feet in diameter and operated by a treadle or a crank. Run a belt from the fan wheel, over a roller attached to the side of the box, to your motor, and you have an arrangement that will cause the fan to revolve at an extremely rapid rate.

At the bottom of the box place a pan of heated water and start your mill. Soon the water will become greatly agitated and form itself into spirals, as little by little the surface is sucked up, producing a liquid cone several inches in height, above which a number of small drops will accumulate and fall back in a series of spiral showers. Gradually there will appear a vapory hollow tube from the apex of the cone. This will gyrate upward toward the fan and lose itself in the upper part—an exact reproduction of a real waterspout. So strong is the current of air about this tube of vapor that it will cause light objects, such as straws and pieces of paper, which may be floating on the surface of the water to be drawn up almost to the top of the box.

A little soap in the water will add to the interest of the experiment, as soap bubbles will be seen in violent agitation at the foot of the cone.

You will notice that your waterspout is a spiral tube of vapors, which twists its way upward after the manner of a corkscrew. Now, at the center of this nebulous spiral, forming its core, is a current of cool air shooting downward.

This current of cool air serves to condense or thicken the vapor to some degree, and if you blow a puff of smoke across the mouth of your waterspout you will see it at once go to the interior of the tube, gracefully roll itself into a slender cone and make its way down to the surface of the water, representing exactly what takes place when in a real waterspout. Clouds are sucked down and mingle with the cone of vapor that rises from the surface of the agitated sea.

The spiral column is the harmless part of a waterspout, though we hear tales of ships being wrecked and even of smaller boats being drawn up into the air by them. But this is done not by the column of vapor, but by the invisible and terrific whirlwind that rages around it, which, in your miniature reproduction, causes the straws and pieces of paper to mount into the air.

Tin Plate Shot.

For small game a person fond of shooting may avail himself of the novel idea of an inventor who suggests that tin plated shot would be preferable to the kind now in use. These latter are coated with graphite to blacken and polish them, and this is alleged to be objectionable because the graphite fouls the gun. Furthermore, the lead is acted upon chemically by the animal juices so as to be injurious to the eater of the flesh. This is obviated by the coating of tin.—Exchange.

Packing Goods For Export.

Packing goods for export seems to be an art yet to be learned by American manufacturers. A late news item tells how two American makers of track supplies lost a prospective South American market by refusing to pack track bolts and spikes so that they could be carried on mules. An English maker supplied the special packages demanded and secured a trade which has a prospect of growing.—Engineering News.

TELL TIME BY TRAINS.

Many Families In Chicago That Are Not In Need of Clocks.

Not all residents of Chicago depend on clocks to keep themselves informed of the time of day. It is perhaps not generally known that people who live along the line of railroads can tell the exact hour of a day or night by the trains which pass their homes. Along the line of the Illinois Central railroad, for instance, there are many houses where clocks are an unknown luxury. In the vicinity of Thirty-first street, for instance, there is a household which is wide awake at 7 o'clock in the morning.

"We always get up at 211," said a member of the household to a companion in a street car the other day.

"Two eleven! What time is that?" asked the friend.

"Why, I thought you knew," replied the other, "that 211 is the 7 o'clock train which passes the house. As soon as we hear the bell on the 211 we all get up. Then we watch for the other trains. We can see them pass the house, and as we are all acquainted with the schedule we can tell the exact time of day. At night we tell the hour by the bells on the engines. We are familiar with the sounds. No; we have no clock in the house; never had one as far as I can remember, and we find train time more reliable than a lot of clocks which cannot be kept in repair."—Chicago Chronicle.

INSURES HIMSELF.

Congressman Connell Refused to Pay a High Rate.

When a man waits until he is on the brink of 70 years of age before he breaks into congress, one would think that he was lingering superfluous on the scene. But Congressman Connell of Scranton will not have it this way. He thinks that he is good for many years to come.

There is ground for Mr. Connell's belief. When a few months ago he wanted to add $100,000 life insurance to the large amount which he already carries, the physicians who examined him pronounced him a perfect risk for that amount. Figuring up the premium, however, Mr. Connell found that it would cost him about $20,000 a year.

"In five years $100,000," said Mr. Connell to himself. "No, I won't do it. I can put away the amount of the premium for five years and be even with the game. As a matter of fact, I will live perhaps ten years longer, and I will insure myself." So that is what Mr. Connell has done.

The new congressman used to work for 75 cents a day in the mines, but he was promoted, saved money, has been successful in his business ventures and is now a millionaire.—Washington Post.

WANT TALMAGE BACK.

Another Temple May Be Built For Him In Brooklyn.

A movement has been started by a few influential men, mostly of New York, by which it is hoped the Rev. Dr. Talmage may be induced to return to this city. The authority for this statement is former United States Marshal Charles M. Stafford.

Mr. Stafford was seen at his residence recently and asked who were the men interesting themselves in the movement to build Dr. Talmage a new church, and who it was that had stated he was ready to contribute $10,000 to get Dr. Talmage back.

Mr. Stafford answered: "I cannot tell you at this time who has offered to pay down this sum, but I may state that if a proper syndicate be formed for the purpose of the erection of a temple for all the people—rich and poor alike—the edifice will be one that will be creditable to Greater New York."—Philadelphia Press.

The President Will Ride.

Horseback riding was recommended to the president a short time ago by General Nelson A. Miles. The president informed the commander of the army that he was not provided with a saddle horse. General Miles thereupon sent the president two gentle horses from Fort Myer for temporary use, and it was one of these which he has been riding since.

The president expects to buy a saddle horse when he finds time.

Song of the Modern Greeks.

Rising from the battle soil of Hellas,
Liberty, we know thee by thy sword,
By thy beckoning, by thine eyes that tell us
Thou art worthy still to be adored!

CHORUS.

Hail thee, hail thee, spirit! Linger, hover
Over Salamis and Marathon,
Till each hero's heart that called thee lover
Rise with thee to lead the patriot on!

Slumbered Hellas long in shame and sadness,
Waiting for a voice to call her forth,
Hushed the infant's glee, the mother's gladness,
By the brutal tyrant of the north.

But at last, uplifted by thy presence
Floating on before her like a cloud,
Every arm, the prince's and the peasant's,
Struck, and Greece once more was free and proud.

Ah, but there are brothers still whose weeping
Comes from over sea and over land!
While they mourn shall we again be sleeping—
We whom thou hast wakened with thy hand?

Hasten, liberty, and we will follow
Unto suffering Crete and Macedon,
Striving till, some happy dawn, Apollo
Find fair Hellas come into her own!

THE EXPERIENCE OF A

COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

For Indigestion, Sick and Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Heart Failure, Fever, Chills, Debility and Kidney Diseases, take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful medicine in the world

THOUSANDS NEED AID.

Startling Figures From Only One Section of Flooded District.

Whites Doing All They Can For Negroes.

Chances of Partial Cotton Crop Now Watched Eagerly by All.

Washington, April 20.—The war department officials are regarding the outlook in the lower Mississippi valley with the greatest anxiety, fearing that the levee system there will prove unable to withstand the terrible strain.

Captain Martin of the quartermaster general's department has just returned to Washington and is preparing his report to the secretary of war. He was sent to inspect the conditions in that section of the country lying along the Mississippi river from Vicksburg to Greenville, and his report gives some startling figures as to the extent of the devastation worked by the waters. He says there was under water last Wednesday a strip of land on the east bank of the river with Vicksburg as its apex, with a base of 20 miles and 60 miles wide, containing 1050 square miles. This is all cotton country. It is generally owned in large plantations, the owners of which divide it into small parcels and allow negroes to work it on shares. In 1890 there was produced in this strip 112,000 bales of cotton. The population is estimated at from 90,000 to 100,000, about one-sixth of the people being whites. Captain Martin says that not more than 20 per cent of this country is above water, made up for the most part of little tracts along Deer creek, Sunflower river and railroad embankments. Most of the negroes have stuck by their cabins, having anywhere from one to two weeks' supplies. However, when the officer left they were beginning to swarm into the towns. He estimated that about 60,000 persons in this district are in need of aid from some quarter. The people themselves are doing all in their power, and Captain Martin cited instances of great liberality on the part of the whites. As long as there is a partial promise of a cotton crop this season the plantation owners may generally be relied upon to feed their negro workers, but with the disappearance of that chance will come inability on their part to respond to further demands, because of the loss of their credit with the factories and bankers.

Captain Martin thought that the chances of making a crop this year, though generally regarded as gloomy at Vicksburg, really were not so bad, and had certainly been very much improved by the breaking of the levee at Biggs delta. Though this was a terrible misfortune to the dwellers below the crevasse, it probably would lower the waters in the upper reaches of the river very speedily.

ANOTHER BREAK.

Levee In Louisiana Gives Way—Situation at Biggs Growing Worse.

Memphis, April 20.—Another break in the levee on the Louisiana side is reported from a point 20 miles below Natchez, Miss. The extent of the break cannot be learned. The situation at Biggs, where the water is rushing through the crevasse in torrents, is growing worse. Madison parish is fast becoming inundated, and the water will extend to other parishes, destroying thousands of acres of newly planted crops. Vicksburg, Natchez and other river points are crowded with refugees and everything possible is being done to alleviate their suffering. The situation throughout the delta is unchanged. The planters hope that the waters will be carried away in time to make a good crop. At Memphis the river is slowly falling, and at Cairo a decided fall is reported.

The executive committee of the flood sufferers' relief committee of Memphis states that owing to the action of the general government the calls on the Memphis relief committee have been so reduced that in the judgment of the committee the funds now on hand will be sufficient for demands.

Indian Bill Passed.

Washington, April 20.—The senate passed the Indian appropriation bill yesterday. It is substantialy the same as it passed the house, and can occasion little division, save on the amendment opening the Uncompahgre Indian reservation. Resolutions of inquiry were agreed to, asking the secretary of state as to the operation of the reciprocity treaties made under the McKinley act. Mr. Vest introduced his resolution declaring illegal the recent order of the secretary of the treasury relative to imports arriving after April 1. The senator gave notice of pressing the resolution today, and it may afford another test on the tariff. The senate adjourned as a mark of respect to the late Representative Millikin of Maine.

Duke of Leeds Denounced.

Toronto, April 20.—The rumored appointment of the Duke of Leeds as the next governor general of Canada is creating intense excitement in temperance and prohibition circles. The duke's connection with the liquor traffic has stirred the royal templars to issue a circular to all lodges, asking them to pass resolutions denouncing the proposed appointment. These resolutions are to be presented to the Dominion Prohibition convention which meets in July. It is expected that the officers of the convention will communicate with the imperial authorities on the subject.

Lights Out at Gloucester.

Gloucester, Mass., April 20.—The committee on street lights some time a o recommended to the city council that certain contracts for lighting be made, but the proposition was voted down. Since then no action has been taken, or money appropriated for continuing the lights, and on Saturday night the committee voted to shut off all kerosene lights in the outlying wards, some 400 in number. This was done Sunday night, and as a result the mayor is besieged by indignant citizens, who demand that the lights be restored. This the mayor declines to do.

Famous Trotter Dead.

Baltimore, April 20.—Globe, the celebrated trotting horse, owned by A. Ferneman of this city died yesterday of intestinal influenza.

DEATH UNEXPECTED.

Mayor Brickett of Haverhill Stricken by Apoplexy While Sitting In a Chair.

Haverhill, Mass., April 20.—Mayor Benjamin F. Brickett was stricken with apoplexy while sitting in a chair at his home yesterday afternoon. After lingering a few hours in an unconscious state he died.

Mayor Brickett had been confined to the house for the past two weeks, but no serious result was expected.

Mayor Brickett was born in this city April 10, 1846. He attended Phillips Exeter academy and graduated from Dartmouth in 1867. He entered Harvard law school the same year, and was admitted to the bar in 1869. After teaching school in Ohio a short time, he returned to Haverhill, where he established himself, serving for a number of years as assistant district attorney for Essex county.

He was prominent in Democratic politics, and was elected to the state senate in 1890, and was a delegate to the St. Louis convention of 1892.

It was always his ambition to become mayor of Haverhill, and this was gratified, when, in 1895, he was elected, and again in 1896, when on the citizens' ticket he defeated a number of other candidates. He married Miss Jennie Guptill of Great Falls, N. H., in 1869, who survives him.

Important Irish Convention.

Dublin, April 20.—The Parnellite conventioned, summoned by John Redmond to meet today in this city, will be the most important event of its kind since the death of Charles Stewart Parnell. In an interview, Mr. Redmond said: "Our party is stronger than it has been for a long time. It proposes a definite step forward. Our program embraces four principal points—First, the foundation of an independent Irish league, in which agrarian interests shall not be dominant, but shall be founded upon the broader and sounder basis of independent political action for the benefit of the whole Irish nation. Second, civil and religious liberty, and no further interference of priests in politics. Third, absolute independence of alliances with any English party and a reverting to our old demand for co-ordinate parliaments, the principle of federalism in Mr. Gladstone's home rule proposals (which we were formerly willing to accept in a spirit of compromise) having been rejected by parliament. Fourth, manhood suffrage, which would give us a political majority in Ireland, and is a plank that ought to commend itself to our friends in the United States, who believe in the rule of the majority. We shall insist on the third point with all the power we possess."

Revolution Societies United.

Philadelphia, April 20.—The general Society of the Sons of the Revolution met in special session yesterday to consider the proposition of consolidating with the Sons of the American Revolution. Thirty-two states were represented, and the vote upon the question of the consolidation stood 16 for and 14 against. Virginia split, and the New Hampshire delegate was not in the room at the time of voting. A resolution was adopted appointing A. H. Pugh of Ohio; F. F. Abbott of Massachusetts, Timothy L. Woodruff of New York, Horace K. Tenney of Illinois and Gaillard Hunt of the District of Columbia a committee with full power to fill any vacancies in behalf of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution. The national Society of the Sons of the American Revolution is requested to appoint a similar committee, and the two committees will meet and come to an agreement, if possible, respecting a new general constitution and a plan of union between the societies. It was further resolved that both societies should hold general assemblies at Cincinnati on Oct. 12, 1897, to take action upon the report of the joint committee.

Postmasters Appointed.

Washington, April 20.—There were 96 appointments of fourth class postmasters yesterday. The changes include: Maine: Cape Elizabeth, Jabez Marriner, vice H. T. Dyer, removed; North Anson, G. L. Hovey, vice Benjamin Moore, removed. Massachusetts—West Upton, L. A. Jordan, vice E. T. Hall, resigned. New Hampshire—Amherst, W. D. Clark, vice W. W. Sloane, removed; Bethlehem, G. D. Buck, vice W. W. Gregor, removed; Enfield, F. B. Williams, vice C. A. Packard, removed: Henniker, H. E. Merrick, vice W. O. Folsom, removed; Wilmot, G. H. Woodward, vice E. F. Goodhue, removed.

Italian Expedition Annihilated.

Paris, April 20.—The Temps publishes a story that an Italian expedition, under Major Bottego, has been annihilated in southern Abyssinia. It appears that the Etheopian general commanding at Baro requested Major Bottego to halt until the expedition was authorized by the negus to proceed. The Italians, it is further stated, fired on the messengers bearing the flags of truce and killed them. In the fight between the Abyssinians and Italians, which followed, only two of the latter succeeded in escaping.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

An unknown man was killed by a train at Portsmouth, N. H. His hat was marked J. P. O'Brien.

The body of John White, who has been missing from his home at Lynn, Mass., since December last, was found yesterday in the water at that place.

The business portion of the town of Berea, O., was nearly wiped out by fire yesterday. The total loss will reach $86,000. It is believed tramps started the fire.

Two little girls, while returning from school at Concord, N. H., took refuge under a big billboard during a high wind storm. The structure was blown over, crushing the girls under it. Each little one had her right leg broken.

William Jay Koerner was to have been executed at Sing Sing prison yesterday for the murder of Rosa Redgate, his sweetheart, last January. His counsel appealed, however, and the appeal acted as a stay of execution.

James H. Ferguson, alias Johnson, alias Rogers, is in jail at Concord, N. H., charged with obtaining money under fase pretenses by representing himself as agent of the pension bureau and claiming to be desirous of obtaining local agents, requiring a deposit in each case.

The body of S. B. Nickerson of Everett, Mass., who has been missing from th t city for some days, was found yesterday at South Sudbury. The body was lying in only one foot of water and it is supposed that Mr. Nickerson fell into the water while suffering from an attack of heart disease.

SETH L. MILLIKEN DEAD

Maine Congressman Expires at Washington After Much Suffering.

Succeeded In Life Wholly by His Own Efforts.

He Served In Congress Continuously Since Forty-Eighth Session.

Washington, April 19.—Seth L. Milliken, representing the house of representatives from the Third district of Maine, died last night at 9:30 o'clock. For some time Mr. Milliken has suffered from a serious affection of the bronchial tubes, which refused to yield to treatment.

Within a week more alarming symptoms appeared, pneumonia setting in and kidney and liver complications manifesting themselves. He did not take to his bed, however, until last week, and with a few intervals, when he seemed to rally for a short time, he continued to grow worse. During the last few days his breathing was very heavy, and for much of the time he was unconscious. Yesterday he failed rapidly and his physicians abandoned hope. With him when the end came were Mrs. Milliken, who had been summoned hastily from her home in Maine; his son, who reached the city Saturday night from West Point; his brothers, Frank and Byron, who are residents of this city, and several intimate friends. Mr. Milliken also had a daughter in California. His remains will be taken to Maine for interment.

The death of Mr. Milliken marks the first break in the Maine delegation that has occurred for a long time, and removes a striking figure from the house. During the recent Republican congress Mr. Milliken had been the chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds, and his work on that committee brought him in contact with persons from many of the important cities of the country. He was tall of stature, sparingly built, with hair that had been whitening for some years. He was favorably regarded by the large number of officials and employes with whom he came in contact.

A Self-Made Man.

Augusta, Me., April 19.—Seth L. Milliken was born in Montville, Me., in 1837. He had his own way in the world to make after he was 14 years old and earned all the money for his education. Within six weeks from the time he graduated from Union college, in 1856, he was elected to the Maine legislature from Camden, and was returned the following year. He was then elected clerk of courts, and admitted to the bar. In 1876 and 1884 he was a delegate to the Republican conventions. He was elected to the 48th congress, and has since served continuously, and made an excellent reputation as a statesman and orator. He was for several years chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds, and was well known throughout the states as a campaign speaker. For 35 years he had made his home at Belfast. He is survived by a widow and two children, a daughter, Maud, and a son, Seth M., who is a cadet at West Point.

Angell's Mission.

Chicago, April 19.—A special to The Times-Herald from Ann Arbor, Mich., says: It has come to be understood in this city that the appointment of Dr. James B. Angell as minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to Turkey, has a considerable greater significance than usually attaches to the selection of representatives to foreign governments. If the information of his intimate friends and associates in the faculty of the University of Michigan, of which he is president, be correct, Dr. Angell will go to the Turkish capital with a special mission to perform concerning indemnity brought by American citizens and American missionaries against the sultan's government. The appointment is supposed here to mean that President McKinley's administration intends to bring to a speedy end the dawdling negotiations that have been dragging through many months with reference to the payment of damages for the destruction of lives and property of American citizens.

No Split on Civil Service.

Washington, April 19.—It can be authoritatively stated that no breach has as yet occurred between the president and the civil service commission. The commissioners did not call at the executive mansion Friday, as reported, to protest to the president against alleged illegal removals and threaten to submit their resignations. The facts are that the president requested the commissioners to call upon him, without stating his purpose. They complied, but found him engaged, and retired without seeing him. This is the sole element of truth in all the statements made.

Cubans Starving.

Havana, April 19.—There is no doubt that nearly 200,000 persons in Cuba are suffering from hunger. In Santa Clara city alone the concentrados number about 6500. When General Weyler arrived there a few days ago the mayor asked him if some of the food intended for the troops could not be distributed among the hungry refugees. Weyler replied: "No, there is not food enough for the soldiers. These people must take the consequences of the rebellion against Spain."

Fire at Chicago.

Chicago, April 19.—Fire destroyed the greater portion of the plant of the Grand Crossing Tack company at Grand Crossing. A fierce gale was blowing at the time, and but for the heroic efforts of the firemen, several of whom were badly injured, much more property would have been destroyed. The loss was $136,000, with insurance of $114,000.

Probable Final Arbiter.

Washington, April 19.—The name of Baron Courcell, the eminent French jurist and diplomat, at present French ambassador to Great Britain, probably will be suggested as the fifth or fina arbitrator on the court of arbitration between Venezuela and Great Britain.

Life Insurance Men to Meet.

Cincinnati, April 19.—A large attendance is expected here at the meeting next Wednesday and Thursday of the executive committee of the National Association of Life Underwriters. All the states and leading cities will be represented.

RIVAL TO GRANT BRAMBEL.

A Maine Man Invents a Wonderful Rotary Engine.

Frank A. Reynolds of Lewiston, Me., has invented a rotary engine which the experts say is superior to the one built by Grant Brambel of Sleepy Eye, Minn., and which he is said to have sold the patents on for an enormous sum.

Reynolds' machine is patented in this country and is about to be patented in England, France, Germany and Norway. Until these patents are secured, no detailed account of the wonderful engine can be printed, but what are called "claims" are told freely.

Side by side with any of the other rotary engines which have been invented, this one of Reynolds' shows superiority at a glance. It is as simple as the alphabet, but has a power of herculean proportions. The model which Mr. Reynolds shows is about as large around as a common saucer and less than 2 inches thick. The piston is 3 inches in diameter and 1 inch thick, and yet this model, attached to a boiler with 100 pounds of steam to the square inch, at 3,000 revolutions to the minute, produces 13 horsepower.

Something of the power of the engine may be imagined from the fact that there are 4 expansions to the revolution and 40,000 to the minute, while the ordinary engine does well with 500 per minute.

Another new idea about the engine is that the engineer cannot make a mistake in piping it up. It matters not which way the piston turns or which end the steam comes in. If it enters the exhaust, the machine will move with the same power as though the steam entered by the inlet. The valves are built upon an entirely new plan, but at this time they cannot be described.

A test of the model of this engine, which a child can hold in its hands, developed, with 1,500 revolutions per minute, 6 9-11 horsepower; with 3,000 revolutions, the power is 13 7-10 horsepower; with 6,000 revolutions the power is 27 horsepower, and with 10,000 revolutions per minute the power of this liliputian engine will equal 42 horsepower.

Wonderful claims are made for this engine, and it is said it will revolutionize the steamship business of the world. The Allen syndicate purchased the Brambel engine, with the hope that it would largely decrease the expense of running its steamship lines, but, while a Brambel machine, which is being tested in Trenton, has 250 horsepower, the assertion is made that a machine of the same size, built on the Reynolds plan, would have 5,000 horsepower, or 4,750 greater than that of the western invention.

IMPROVED TIMEPIECE DIAL.

A Single Hand Shows the Time at a Glance.

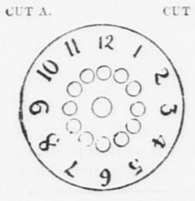

A patent was recently granted to Josiah Culver of Delta, Pa., on a timepiece dial, illustrations of which are here presented. Cut A shows the dial at CUT A.

CUT B.

CUT C.

1:07 o'clock. The figure 1 as shown in top of cut remains in view until the minute hand reaches 60, or top of dial, when suddenly the figure 2 takes its place. Cut B shows the ratchet wheel on back of inner dial, by which it is turned, stopped and held in position by means of a bar, dog and lug. Cut C shows reversed side of B, with the figures from 1 to 12, inclusive, which, in turn, come in view in the open space at the top in cut A.

The advantage of this device claimed by the inventor over the old style of clocks is that one can readily see the time at a glance, while in the old way one may have to give a careful look to distinguish the two hands. For instance, if one hand is over the character 2 and the other over 3 in the old style, and one was not to get a good view of them, he perhaps would not know whether it was 15 minutes after 2 or 10 minutes after 3 o'clock. The cost of manufacturing it is about the same as that of the old style.—Jewelers' Circular.

Asphalt Pavements and Health.

It is now claimed that lowered mortality may be due to the increased area of asphalt pavements. These, it is thought, prevent the saturation and pollution of the earth beneath by the fluid portions of decomposing substances in the streets. Ground air has long been held accountable for much that was otherwise inexplainable in the mysterious development of some diseases and furnishes a strong probability in favor of this new theory.—Popular Science News.

The Presbytery of Boston convenes in the Scotch church, Warrentown street, at two o'clock today, opening with a sermon by the retiring moderator, Rev. Scott F. Hershey, Ph. D. There will be an evening session. Wednesday there will be sessions morning, afternoon and evening; the Woman's Presbyterial Missionary Society will hold simultaneous meetings in the Y. M. C. A. building adjoining the church. The Wednesday evening session will be a joint service, presided over by Mr. John Wills Baer and addressed by the Rev. D. J. McMillan, D. D, of New York, and by Mrs. G. R. Alden (Pansy). Elder Duncan Chisholm will be the delegate from the Quincy church to the Presbytery, and Mrs. Robert Philips, Mrs. James Milne, Mrs. George O. Music will be a feature of the exercises and will include a solo by Miss Emily F. Baxter and an anthem.

AN IDEAL EASTER.

Interesting Services in Most of the Quincy Churches.

Sermons on the Resurrection and Special Music.

A Glorious Day, Particularly for the Easter Millinery.

Sunday was an ideal Easter. The air was balmy, although in the early morning before the sun had a chance to temper it, it was slightly chilly. There was but little dust, the sky was cloudless and everything was propitious for bringing out the Easter millinery and dresses.

Bethany Church.

The Bethany Congregational church was crowded at the morning service, it being necessary to open the gallery. The platform was hid by many plants and ferns, Easter lilies being most conspicuous. On the platform was a very large floral harp, and a dove and crown suspended. The pastor's sermon was the closing part of Hebrew 7:16—"The Power of an Endless Life," and was appropriate to the day. The choir rendered two anthems and there were solos by Miss Grace Isaac and Mr. Albert Hayden. Indisposition prevented Mr. H. C. Christopher from singing his solo. The music will be repeated next Sunday evening.

At the session of the Bible school and meetings of the Christian Endeavor Societies there were talks on Easter.

The Easter concert at 7.30 P. M drew even a larger congregation than in the morning, and included singing by choir of girls and chorus of boys, recitations, class exercises, and a talk on the "Life of the Jews in the time of Christ." The pastor spoke briefly.

Unitarian Church.

The Easter decorations at the First church were simple in the extreme and consisted wholly of Easter lilies which covered the front of the pulpit. Rev. Ellery C. Butler was assisted at the morning service by Dr. William Everett. The morning service at 10.30 was largely attended and especially so was vesper service at 4 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Butler spoke briefly at the vesper service of the great plan of the universe, which had been perfecting itself all along down through the ages. The music was by a double quartette, and there was also good solo singing.

An interesting Sunday School concert was given in the evening.

Christ's Church.

At Christ's church there were four services, at 7.30 and 10.30 A. M., and 4 and 7.30 P. M. The decorations of the church were simple, yet beautiful and appropriate. Inside the chancel rail were many pots of Easter lilies and ferns, while in the windows on the sides of the church were also potted plants and ferns.

As usual, the music was a feature at each service; that at the morning service at 10 30 being especially elaborate and was by far the finest ever rendered at Easter. The choir was augumented by several lady and gentlemen singers. The duet, "Love divine, all love excelling," was exceptionally fine.

The rector, Rev. Walter Russell Breed took for his address: Philipians, 3:10, "That I may Know Him, and the Power of His Resurrection."

Unviersalist Church.

The Easter concert at the Universalist church by the Sunday School was excellent. The parts were well taken and appropriate to the occasion; and all did finely. The program was as follows:

First Presbyterian Church.

There were excellent congregations at both services. The singing of Easter hymns by the whole congregation was very hearty; the choir sang two spirited anthems in the morning, and in the evening gave the beautiful "Magdalene," the duet being taken by Miss Hutchinson and Miss Milne, and Handel's "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth," sung by Miss Duthie.

The pulpit platform was banked with beautiful flowers.

The pastor's morning discourse was upon Christ's post-resurrection charge to Simon Peter, "Feed my lambs." At its close six infants were baptised. Mr. Alexander McKay, a student in the Western Theological Seminary, Allegheny, Penn., acceptably assisted in the service.

In the Sabbath school another record for attendance was made, there being 224 present. A special offering for the purchase of new singing books was received. The offering in the school next Sunday will be for the same purpose; and the following Sunday the new books will be used.

The Christian Endeavor meeting was well attended and very interesting.

In the evening the pastor preached upon the angel's words to the Marys, "Come see the place where the Lord lay." The place was a tomb—a costly tomb, though in Christ's life he had no place to lay his head; a strong tomb, well guarded, if earthly power only were to be reckoned with; but, an empty tomb, for death could not hold the Lord of life. If that tomb had not been emptied, the succeeding generations of infidels would have been loudest in praise of the martyred Jesus. 'Tis His empty tomb, telling of His Lordly power and holiness which gives offence to unbelievers; and by the same token gives hope and rejoicing to Christians. Through Christ we may regard our own graves not as prisons but as passage-ways to glory.

At Wollaston.

At Wollaston the churches were crowded both at the forenoon and evening services. All of the auditoriums were elaborately decorated with lilies, palms, ferns and a profusion of cut flowers.

The unusually excellent programmes were carried out, full accounts of which have previously appeared in these columns.

Memorial Congregational Church.

The morning service at the above church in Atlantic Easter Sunday was largely given up to music which was of a very high order. The three anthems were finely rendered by a double quartette. The duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd" by Miss Moxon and Miss Coe was particularly fine, being sung with intelligence and brilliancy. Miss Coe's rich contralto voice was heard to good advantage in the song, "Easter Dawn," and Mrs. Cummings' rendering of her solo in the anthem, "Jesus Christ is risen" was expressive and of pleasing finish. Mr. Owen sang "Easter" in his usual pleasing manner. The sermon by Rev. Mr. Brokaw was listened to attentively and altogether the service was very impressive to the large audience present.

Easter at Quincy Point.

A very interesting service was held in the Washington Street Congregational church on Easter Sunday to a large and appreciative audience. The pastor, Rev. Morris Howland Turk preached a very helpful sermon. Three anthems were sung by the choir, "Thanks be to God," "Allelulia, Christ is Risen," and "King of Kings," in an excellent manner. Credit is due Mr. Wight, the chorister, for his careful training. The flowers presented a beautiful sight; banked on either side of the pulpit were a profusion of Easter lilies, callas, etc. The society is indeed fortunate in having on its flower committe, ladies of artistic taste.

In the evening was given by the Sunday school, in the opinion of the writer, one of the most successful concerts for many years. The programme occupied one hour and a quarter. The recitations were all well chosen and there well delivery showed an interest in the part of the scholar to make the concert the success that it was. The singing of the choir was also excellent. A song by the little ones was also very pleasing. There was a large audience present in the evening.

The church has entered its new year with a bright outlook, free from debt and the feeling of good fellowship at present tends to point to a year of spiritual profit.

Bicycle Gossip

TO Ride a bicycle means the modern way of building brains and muscle.

Mr. Pickwick used to say, "Always shout with the crowd and when there are two crowds, shout with the largest."

His wisdom you can apply to the bicycle situation, for people everywhere are riding bicycles, and if you desire to be up to date, enlist at once in the bicycle army. This store is the recruiting office.

JOSEPH KELLEY RUN DOWN.

Alleged Murderer of Cashier Stickney Caught at Montreal.

ARRESTED IN HOUSE OF ILL REPUTE

Prisoner Says an Accomplice Killed Stickney.

DISGUISED IN WOMAN'S CLOTHING.

He Made No Resistance—Called the Officers Chumps and Said They Had Got Their Man—$2700 Found on the Prisoner.

Montreal, April 20.—Joseph A. Kelley, the Somersworth (N. H.) suspect, was arrested last night dressed in woman's clothes. He acknowledged that the game was up, and immediately owned up that he was the man.

He was found in the drawing room of a house of ill-fame, known as Aggie Ashton's. He had been driving around all night in a cab, visiting all the houses of ill-repute and spending money freely. He simply threw it away and had a great time. He had made up his mind, as he said, that the jig was up, and that the best thing that he could do was to go and "blow" some of his money, and then take his chances on being caught.

He did not make a confession implicating himself, but admitted that he knew all about it, and that the actual murder was done by an accomplice whose name he would not divulge, because it was not gentlemanly to do so.

Kelley made no attempt to get away when the officers entered the room where he was drinking wine. He smiled affably as he admitted his identity. He is very willing to talk to reporters concerning the robbery, but reiterates that a pal named "Jack" killed Mr. Stickney. One of Kelley's remarks to a newspaper man was: "I suppose I've got to swing for this."

The story that Kelley took the Canadian Pacific train at Cookshire Junction, Que., for Montreal, on Friday night or Saturday morning, seems to have been true. As far as can be ascertained, he took the train at Cookshire and proceeded to Montreal Junction, about 14 miles west of here. There he jumped the train while it was going at a good speed. He proceeded to St. Justine de Newton, about 40 miles away. After taking supper in Berard's hotel last evening, he took the Toronto express back to Montreal, arriving here about 9 o'clock. Upon arriving in Montreal, Kelley, who was in the garb of a woman, procured a cab and drove around town. Stops were made at several drinking resorts, and the Ashton House was reached about 11:30. Kelley was warmly received in the house, and wine flowed freely. About midnight the detectives entered the house and confronted the supposed woman. They accused him of being Kelley, and he calmly replied, "I guess you chumps have got your man this time."

On being taken to the central police station, $2700 was found in his clothing. On being questioned, he declined to say anything about the murder, except that he had had an accomplice. He added that the accomplice told him that he had "fixed" Cashier Stickney.

News of Arrest Received at Somersworth.

Somersworth, N. H., April 20.—News of Kelley's arrest at Montreal was telegraphed here after midnight, but so tense was the feeling of the citizens that many had not retired, and in a short time the whole city seemed to have been informed. Everyone is gratified at the capture of the alleged murderer. No one here doubts Kelley's guilt, and his stories of a pal are all considered myths.

FORGED NOTE FOUND.

Kelley Presented Bogus Order For Postage Stamps to Stickney.

Somersworth, N. H., April 20.—What is thought to be the most significant clue has been discovered at the Great Falls bank, establishing beyond a doubt that Joe Kelley was in the bank the day of the murder. On the counter was found a paper requesting that a package of postage stamps be delivered to the bearer. The document was signed Frank E. Stone.

Mr. Stone, who is postmaster at Berwick, stated that the order is a forgery. It is Kelley's handwriting. Stone had $400 worth of stamps on hand, and for safe keeping had deposited them at the bank in Mr. Stickney's care.

Kelley had, on one occasion, brought stamps over in this way for Mr. Stone. The fugitive "kept company" with Stone's sister, who is the postmaster's assistant. The supposition is that Kelley forged the order, and presented it in order to momentarily disconcert Stickney. Kelley took the $400 worth of stamps with him, and mailed them at North Stratford, N. H., to "L. J. Sullivan, Montreal." A postoffice inspector is after them.

Kelley left untouched $131,000 in unregistered negotiable bonds.

Statement by Kelley's Father.

Amesbury, Mass., April 20.—Michael Kelley, father of Joseph Kelley, who is suspected of being connected with the Somersworth, N. H., tragedy, says that when his son was 5 years old he fell from a tree and struck his head on a rusty nail, inflicting a very painful wound. Since then he has been afflicted with melancholia, and Mr. Kelley believes that if his son did the deed, he was not in his right mind. Mr. Kelley will go to Somersworth.

Markham Leaped Into Niagara.

Boston, April 20.—There is no longer any doubt that it was Ernest F. Markham of Boston who leaped from Suspension bridge, Niagara Falls, Saturday afternoon. After hoping against hope for 24 hours, the conviction that he had committed suicide was forced upon his sorrowing friends by the receipt of a letter from Mr. Markham, mailed Saturday morning. It enclosed keys and the various messages which a man in such a frame of mind would naturally send. Two years ago Mr. Markham was put in charge of the advertising department of the Boston Journal. Though his original contract expired last September, he was continued in his position on his merits. His work the past few weeks has been especially effective, and he knew that it was appreciated. There was nothing in Mr. Markham's relations to The Journal, business or personal, which could account in the slightest degree for the suicide. He had a good salary, which he never overdrew, and in his department of the business no money not his own ever passed through his hands. Mr. Markham was under a physician's care for some time prior to his death, but there was no laxity in his attention to his duties. Tuesday morning he was planning a business trip to Philadelphia, and it was supposed when he failed to appear at the office Saturday that he had gone to that city.

Nominated by Governor Powers.

Augusta, Me., April 20.—Governor Powers has made 98 nominations, to be presented for confirmation by the executive council, April 23. Among the more important are the following: Judge, superior court, Kennebec county, Oliver G. Hall, Augusta; judge, Sanford municipal court, George W. Hanson, Sanford; recorder, Sanford municipal court, George E. Allen, Sanford; recorder, Bath municipal court, Walter S. Glidden, Bath; judge, West Hancock municipal court, Edward E. Chase, Blue Hill; trustee, Maine State college, Benjamin F. Briggs, Auburn; trustees, state normal schools, G. A. Robertson, Augusta, and J. W. Fairbanks, Farmington; trustee, soldiers orphans' home, L. D. Carver, Rockland; commissioner of harbor and tidal waters, Samuel B. Kelsey, Portland; private detective, Hartwell Lancaster, Oldtown; coroner, Albert P. Bassett, Norway; Biddeford pool pilot, Daniel Goldthwaite, Biddeford; fish and game warden, E. W. Maddocks, Hallowell.

Maine Conference.

Portland, Me., April 20.—At the sixth day's session of the Maine conference yesterday there was a lengthy discussion of the lack of enforcement of the liquor law in Maine. Resolutions were adopted and aid was voted to the Civic league. The conference voted to meet at Norway next year. The exciting incident of the conference came in the afternoon when resolutions were introduced by Rev. Mr. Munger to the effect that the conference refuse to appoint a board of visitors to Kents Hill seminary on account of the fact that Frank Jones of Portsmouth, N. H., whom the resolution styled a brewer, is a member of the board of trustees. The resolutions were debated two hours, the excitement amounting almost to a frenzy. They were finally defeated.

Total Abstainers Meet.

Salem, Mass., April 20.—The Essex County Total Abstinence society held its 20th annual meeting here yesterday, 17 societies, represented by 58 delegates, being present. The election of officers resulted: President, William H. Murphy of Peabody; vice presidents, Peter P. O'Neil of Lynn and Annie M. Kennedy of Lawrence; recording secretary, John Crowley of Lynn; corresponding secretary, J. S. Walsh of Beverly; treasurer, Thomas P. Flynn of Salem. It was voted to hold the annual parade at Salem in October, and E. A. Daly of Salem was elected chief marshal.

Marathon Games at Boston.

Boston, April 20—The Marathon games, under the auspices of the Boston Athletic association, and patterned after the games at Athens in the spring of 1896, were held yesterday afternoon, and were witnessed by thousands of people. They included a 25-mile road race, from Ashland to Boston, and athletic games at Irvington oval, while the road race was in progress. J. J. McDermott of the Pastime Athletic club of New York won the big event. He covered the distance in 2h. 55m. 10s., lowering by 10s. the time made in the 25-mile race at Athens. Fifteen runners started.

The Ways Broke While Launching.

Gloucester, Mass., April 20.—While launching the new pilot boat America, owned by Captain J. H. Reid and a Boston syndicate, yesterday, the ways broke and prevented her from entering the water, careening her partly over on one side. The America is of 97.20 tons, and the second largest pilot boat in New England. Captain Reid was formerly captain of General Butler's famous yacht America, for which the new boat is named.

Work Begins on Fortifications.

Portsmouth, N.H., April 20.—The work on the new fortifications at Newcastle has been begun, and the contractors have a gang of men, supposed to be Austrians, employed in preparing the ground for the masonry. These men sleep and are fed in the old commissary building at Fort Constitution. Visitors are excluded from the site of the fortifications, except by pass, as a huge board fence has been erected around the new fort.

Zeta Psi Half Century Old.

New Haven, April 20.—Plans for the semi-centennial convention of the grand chapter of the Zeta Psi fraternity have been completed. The sessions will be held at the Hotel Imperial, New York city, beginning Friday morning and will continue till Saturday night, the convention culminating with a grand semi-centennial banquet at Delmonico's on Saturday evening. The society has now 20 active chapters, with 3900 members living.

Will Call Special Election.

Boston, April 20.—A Herald special from Augusta, Me., says that Governor Fowers will probably order an election to fill the vacant seat in congress, caused by the death of Congressman Milliken of Belfast, at the executive council meeting on Friday. It also says there is much speculation as to his successor, and mentions Hon. Edwin C. Burleigh, Hon. A. M. Spear of Gardiner, and Hon. Joseph Manley.

Lynn Girl Drinks Carbolic Acid.

New York, April 20.—Lillie Bent, aged 24, of Lynn, Mass., tried to kill herself last night by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid on Broadway, near Clinton place. A passer-by knocked the bottle from her hand after she had swallowed some of the poison. She was removed to St. Vincent's hospital unconscious. Her recovery is doubtful.

Columbia Mills' Affairs.

New Bedford, Mass., April 20.—The receivers of the Bennett and Columbia mills met yesterday at the office of Knowlton & Perry and discussed the condition of the mills and the methods for carrying out the receivership. They are not ready to give their plans to the public.

WINTER DUCK.

The prospect is bare and white,
And the air is crisp and chill,
While the ebon wings of night
Are spread on the distant hill.

The roar of the stormy sea
Seems the dirges shrill and sharp
That winter plays on the tree—
His wild Æolian harp.

In the pool that darkly creeps
In ripples before the gale
A star like a lily sleeps
And wiggles its silver tail.

—R. K. Munkittrick in New York Tribune.

AN ENGAGEMENT.

A kindly providence called Mrs Beresford away for a few minutes, and Gwen and I were alone.

"I presume," I observed, "that there was a reason in asking me to call this afternoon?"

"Well, yes," she replied in a hesitating tone. "Something has happened, and"—

She paused. Somehow I did not feel particularly eager to hear the news.

"The fact is," she continued hurriedly, "I didn't want you to hear it from any one else and think me mean, so"—

"It does not give promise," I interrupted, "of being intelligence that will make me deliriously happy."

"It's charming," she cried, "and you must be very pleased! I'm going to be engaged."

"How jolly!" I remarked presently. I required only a few seconds to appreciate the information.

Gwen stirred her tea in a meditative manner.

"Yes, it's very nice," she said. "It is not to be announced until tomorrow to the world at large, but to you, as an old friend"—

I looked at Gwen. Her eyes were still contemplating her tea. "Yes, I suppose I am an old friend," I replied dryly. Then I screwed up my courage and said: "Well, who is he?"

She blushed. I thought she was looking remarkably pretty.

"Leycester," she said softly.

"Ah," I exclaimed, as if the whole mystery had been solved, "a title!"

Gwen gave a nervous little laugh. "Lord Leycester is very nice. Don't you think so?"

"There's no harm in Leycester," I replied. "He's only stupid."

She shot an indignant glance at me.

"I think he's very nice," she said, attempting to impart an air of conviction to her tone.

"You don't seem to be very positive on the point. It is all very sudden," I added. "I have not heard even a whisper."

Gwen looked rather embarrassed.

"It happened last night," she began. "At the duchess' dance?"

The duchess was Leycester's mother, an awe inspiring personage.

"Yes," she replied. "You see, mother"—

"I quite comprehend," I broke in. "Your mother and the duchess have been lunching together lately. Heaven has not a monopoly in the making of marriages."

It was ridiculously simple. Gwen was an heiress, Mrs. Beresford was ambitious, and the Leycester family derived their income from Irish estates—a derivation that was every year growing more fanciful in its results.

"It's a pity," began Gwen, toying with a lace handkerchief, "that"— "I haven't a title? Exactly," I said, rather brusquely.

She appeared not to have heard the remark.

At one time Gwen and I had seen a lot of one another, and I felt that another straw in my favor would have brought the matter to a happy termination. However, it was not to be, and now Mrs. Beresford had taken the matter into her own hands, and Gwen had probably been allowing her tongue to trip lovingly over the pretty name of Lady Gwendoline Leycester until the present arrangement had been arrived at.

"I suppose," she said, thinking it advisable to change the subject, "I shall see you tomorrow at the Fenwickes'?"

"Yes," I said. "And now I must be going," I added, lingering for a moment, hat in hand. "I have to see a physician."

"I thought you were never ill?" she said anxiously. "What is it?"

"An incipient attack of profound melancholia," I replied as I took my departure.

I went home to dinner and afterward strolled round to the club, thinking that smoking room gossip would be pleasanter than my own reflections. I spent the remainder of the evening there, and it was striking 12 when I stood on the steps, contemplating whether I should walk or ride back.

"Going home, Temple?" said a voice. I turned. It was young Leycester.

"I'm your way, if you're walking," he continued.

"Yes," I said, and he linked his arm within mine. He commenced to talk about himself, being quite young.

"I'm an awful fool, Temple," he said presently.

I glance at the fair, boyish looking face and mentally agreed with him.

"I've come a frightful cropper," he continued.

"If you will play baccarat with 'captains' who have forgotten the name of their regiments," I remarked, "you must expect to come croppers."

"And I dare not tell the duchess," he exclaimed. "She has advanced me all she can spare already. I don't know where to raise another penny, and I shall be sold up!"

I began to think of Gwen.

"The worst of it is," he went on, "the duchess has arranged a marriage with a pretty little heiress. The engagement is to be announced tomorrow, and I shan't be able to carry the thing through. I haven't even the money to buy a ring!"

"Do you wish to marry?" I asked quietly.

"No," he said impatiently. "She is a nice enough girl, but it is not in my line. What am I to do? The duchess will simply eat me when she finds out the true state of affairs, and if I can't make some sort of a settlement by tomorrow I shall have to bolt. It's a comfortable position to be in," he concluded dismally.

I reflected. Gwen would not marry me even if this precious young idiot did "bolt," so I might just as well assist in giving her the title she coveted.

"Leycester," I said, "what sum will settle your creditors for the moment, enable you to carry the matter through?"

He thought for a moment.

"Five thousand pounds would do it. Why?"

"Because," I replied, "believing that a fool should sometimes be helped in his folly, I shall have much pleasure in lending you that amount."

Leycester looked at me in amazement.

"Temple," he cried, "you're a good 'un!"

We returned to the club, and I wrote him out a check. I left him chatting with Barton Fenwicke, a gossip, who spent a large amount of time retailing information he had picked up and inventing much which he had not.

* * * * * * *

The next evening I went to the Fenwickes' dance. I had not been there five minutes before I espied Gwen talking with Alice Fenwicke. I strolled up to them. A waltz was just beginning.

"Are you free for this?" I asked Gwen as a man came up and claimed Alice.

"Yes," she replied. "But you don't want to dance. Come into the conservatory."

I glanced at her in astonishment. She seemed perfectly serious. I led her to a secluded spot, and we seated ourselves.

"Mr. Temple," she said impetuously, "is it true that you have lent Lord Leycester £5,000?"

"How in the name of —" I began.

"Alice Fenwicke told me," she said quickly. "That gossiping brother of hers, Barton, said he had met Lord Leycester at a club and he told him. Is it true?" She looked at me pleadingly.

"Well," I said, "Leycester told me that he had got into a hobble and would have to run away."

"And you helped him," said Gwen softly, "so that I might be Lady Leycester?"

I made no reply. She turned and laid a hand on my coat sleeve.

"Do you know," she said, with a smile, "that I'm very glad that I've found it out before it's too late?"

"Found out what?" I asked, almost trembling with excitement.

She hung her head, a blush spreading over her cheeks.

"That I value somebody's good opinion more than a title," she almost whispered.

"Gwen!" I exclaimed.

Leycester found us presently. He seemed in a particularly happy mood.

"Oh, Lord Leycester," said Gwen, looking up at him frankly, "do you mind if I marry Mr. Temple instead of yourself?"

He burst out laughing.

"Not in the least," he cried, "and Temple—glorious news—my biggest tenant has come into a fortune and paid up ten years' arrears of rent. I'm out of the wood! By Jove, won't the duchess be mad when she hears I'm not going to marry after all!"

"And Mrs. Beresford?" I murmured.

"I think I can face it," said Gwen confidently.

And she did.—Magnet Magazine.

Questions For Young Men.

If you have any ambition to better yourself well, to succeed in life in all ways as well as in the financial way which is commonly understood when success is mentioned, you must become aware of the fact that you cannot live any kind of life you may like for years and still have the highest character. It is the little incidents from day to day which make a man's character, and perhaps the strongest of all these little incidents are those which concern the treatment of women and girls by men and boys. The fact of being constantly with women sometimes cultivates the habit of paying little attention to them of not recollecting that they are to be treated with never failing courtesy. This is but a step in the direction leading to such incidents as one sees in Europe, where young brothers sit about the house in their uniforms, paid for by their sisters' sewing or teaching, and let these same sisters bring their shoes or coats or glasses of water, and will not. When we go to Germany and see this sort of thing, we acquire a contempt for the men of that race. They do not begin to equal the vigor, the manliness, the civilization, of our American men. And yet we must not behold the mote in our brother's eye unless we consider the beam in our own. We must not criticise others unless we can at least say that our own men have a clear idea of their proper course in such a matter.

Furthermore, when you are dealing with the other sex it is wise to bear in mind that as you treat them so are you building up character in yourself. If you do not bear in mind the courtesies of all kinds which are woman's due you cannot retain for any length of time a pride in yourself, a satisfaction in your behavior, which is common self respect. And without self respect you will have a hard time of it in the world.—Harper's Round Table.

The Old Tree.

The "old tree," one of Lexington's famous landmarks, was lately noticed to be decaying, owing to its age. It is not over 150 years old and was in a very good state of preservation until recent years. The old tree is situated in front of the Buckman tavern, whose walls are riddled with bullets from the battle of 1775. So it is supposed that there are also many more imbedded in the body of the old tree. In 1789 it was used to raise the steeple of the first meeting house on the common, a rope being attached to it and extended across the street.—Boston Herald.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. VI.

The editorial excursionists arrived at Eagle Pass, before daylight on Sunday morning, Feb. 21st, 167 miles from San Antonio. After waiting a few hours, as was not allowable, under the customs, to ...ter Mexico at this point until seven ...lock, we crossed the Rio Grande, which ...s very low, and soon stopped at Ciudad ...firio Diaz, (city of the President.)

As the train pulled into the station ...ains of music were heard and a band ... seen on the platform. The Mayor, ... Clerk, and other officials were there to ...ome us; and the Mayor made an ad... which was responded to by one of ...litors.

...ing the next half hour about $6,000 ...xchanged by our party for Mexican ...ver dollars, which are about the same size as Uncle Sam's silver dollar, and it is said contains more silver; but one of ours is worth two of theirs; but the Mexican broker who shipped the dollars from the mint, to the border line wants something for his trouble; so that we received only $19 50 for ten dollars of American money, either gold, silver or bills; one was as good for an exchange as the other. Some of the editors took some gold with them thinking that it would be more valuable, and easier to get exchanged but it did not prove so.

The Mexican paper money is very much like ours, although the bills are somewhat smaller. Some of the party who thought bills would be much better than a pocket loaded down with 15 or 20 silver dollars, found afterwards that they had made a mistake. Mexico is divided into States, and bank bills are issued in each State, but will not pass in an adjoining State, without a discount.

The fifty, twenty-five and ten-cent pieces are about the same size as American coin The cent, "un centavo," is about twice the size of the U. S. cent and is made of copper. The American soon becomes accustomed to handling the Mexican money, because it is so much like ours. There are money changers in most Mexican towns of any size, where Mexican money can be bought with U. S. money, but the rate of exchange is not always the same.

Some of the editors took New York drafts because they had been told that these would command par or a premium but it was not so. On the coutrary, it was a great disadvantage, as it was difficult to get the banks to exchange them for Mexican money.

In the hotel yard, near the depot at Diaz, there were peach trees in blossom, (middle of February,) quite a contrast from the snow banks in New England. We found a very good breakfast at the hotel for one Mexican dollar, which we thought cheap enough,—equal to fifty cents American money.

Diaz is the gateway to Mexico by the Mexican International Railroad. The original name was Predros Negras, but was changed in honor of the President of the Republic. It is the nearest station to the large cities of the United States and the custom duties at this point are very large. We met the custom house officer here and with that graciousness which seems to be a part of the Spanish character when they are treating with their guests, he declined to search our baggage, trusting to our honor that we would not carry any contraband goods into Mexico. It is needless to add that we did not betray his trust.

It was a warm, pleasant Sunday morning when we left Diaz for our glorious trip through Mexico, but there were no outward signs that would have told us what day it was. All day long our train sped through one of the most barren regions we had seen on the trip. Dry and sandy—almost a desert—and the heat was intense. The thermometer registered 95 at 1 o'clock. It had not rained since last October and the farmers did not expect any until April. It never rains during the winter months, and usually only between April and October; then nearly every day.

We had rode but a few miles before we noticed the great difference between the soil here and the rich ranches in Texas. Very few people, huts, or adobe houses were in sight. No visible crops, no water to be seen, and vegetation consisted wholly of the mesquite, sage bush, cacti and bayonet palms.

There were various kinds of dwellings, but the most of them were very cheap. The more common were the flat-roofed, one-story adobe houses, without windows, or any attempt at architectural design. They are simply big hollow boxes, say twelve feet high with rooms from twelve to fifteen feet square. The larger houses have two or three rooms, separated by massive adobe walls with well-rounded archways. The floors are natural earth. Fire for cooking is built on the ground, in the midst of the kitchen, and the smoke wanders about the ceiling in quest of the chimney hole, in such homes as have so modern an improvement as a chimney, and in other cases, it finally curls out of the one doorway. Such is the home of the well to-do. This is almost Mexican luxury for a common dweller in the rural parts.

The furniture — well, the inhabitants probably would not wish to be burdened with a superabundance of it. A mat on the cool earth floor serves for a bed, a flat piece of earthen-ware with slight projections at the corners on which it stands, serves as a kneading board, and a shallow vessel resting on four bricks or stones over a little charcoal or mesquite brush fire, serves for a cooking stove.

Next below this comes the hut built of wooden timbers, resembling railroad ties in size and shape. These are stood upright, close together and the roof is roughly thatched. There is no effort at plastering the chinks.

But this is too grand for some of the peons. Corn-stalk huts are good enough for them. The stalks are stood upright, singly, to form the walls, are very coarsely tied together, and roofed with grass thatching. As the train sped by in the evening, we could see bright fires burning inside of those inflammable huts—see the dames shining through inch-wide crevices between the stalks. Yet this is their summer and winter home through life.

Is not this squallor enough? No, there is a lower grade even than the corn-stalk hut—it is the brush hut. This is literally nothing but the rudest brush heap supported by limbs of larger growth.

At every railroad station, children run out with the begging appeal, "un centavo!" (one cent) Even adults beg our pennies and crowd about us with their lousy heads and grimy clothes. Yet through all their dirt, the full grown girls are almost invariably comely in features, and the men, women, and children are gentle, cheerful and interesting.

At Sabinas, 72 miles from Diaz, an added feature of interest was found in the presence of a guard of nine "Rurales" of the unique band of national detectives or guards which has no parallel in any other country. There are only two hundred "Rurales" in Mexico, but they have proved to be such good shots, such effective death-dealers to outlaws, that within only about eight years they have either killed or tamed the bandit hordes which hitherto had terrorized the entire country.

To President Diaz is due the credit of conceiving and inaugurating such a band as the "Rurales." It is mainly made up of outlaws, upon the principle that it "takes a thief to catch a thief."

But Mexico, it is said should not be judged by the arid plain which we traveled over the first day. The Mexican International railroad is built here because it makes direct connection with the Central line, over a plain which required but little grading. To the west is a fertile region watered by mountain streams, which finally sink away beneath the plain, to appear again in great springs far to the east, where also rain is more frequent and luxuriant vegetation is the result of a rich soil, ample moisture and a semi-tropical sun.

WERE HARD TO PICK.

TEN BEST SHORT POEMS SELECTED BY THE NEW YORK SUN.

Charles A. Dana, Editor and Litterateur, Made the List—Preference Given to Old Time Authors—Kipling the Only Living Representative of the Ten.

Not long since the editor of the New York Sun was asked to name what he considered to be the ten best short poems in the English language. Mr. Dana, after giving much thought to the matter, has set led upon the ten here given. It will be noticed that nearly all of the poems are old ones:

WHEN IN DISGRACE.

When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes,
I all alone beweep my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heaven with my bootless cries,
And look upon myself and curse my fate,
Wishing me like to one more rich in hope,
Featured like him, like him with friends possessed,
Desiring this man's art and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least,
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
Haply I think on thee, and then my state,
Like to the lark at break of day arising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate,
For thy sweet love remembered such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings.

—William Shakespeare.

ON HIS BLINDNESS.

When I consider how my light is spent
Ere half my days in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent which is death to hide
Lodge with me useless, though my soul more bent
To serve therewith my maker, and present
My true account, lest he returning chide,
"Doth God exact day labor, light denied?"
I fondly ask, but patience, to prevent
That murmur, soon replies: "God doth not need
Either man's work or his own gifts; who best
Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best; his state
Is kingly; thousands at his bidding speed
And post o'er land and ocean without rest;
They also serve who only stand and wait."

—John Milton.

BANNOCKBURN.

Scots, wha hae wi' Wallace bled,
Scots, wham Bruce has often led,
Welcome to your gory bed
Or to victorie!

Now's the day and now's the hour.
See the front of battle lower.
See approach proud Edward's power—
Chains and slaverie!

Wha will be a traitor knave?
Wha can fill a coward's grave?
Wha sae base as be a slave?
Let him turn and flee!

Wha for Scotland's king and law
Freedom's sword will strongly draw,
Freeman stand or freeman fa',
Let him follow me!

By oppression's woes and pains!
By your sons in servile chains!
We will drain our dearest veins,
But they shall be free!

Lay the proud usurpers low!
Tyrants fall in every foe!
Liberty's in every blow!
Let us do or die!

—Robert Burns.

HOHENLINDEN.

On Linden, when the sun was low,
All bloodless lay the untrodden snow,
And dark as winter was the flow
Of Iser, rolling rapidly.

But Linden saw another sight
When the drum beat at dead of night,
Commanding fires of death to light
The darkness of her scenery.

By torch and trumpet fast arrayed,
Each horseman drew his battle blade,
And furious every charger neighed
To join the dreadful revelry.

Then shook the hills with thunder riven,
Then rushed the steeds to battle driven,
And, louder than the bolts of heaven,
Far flashed the red artillery.

But redder yet those fires shall glow
On Linden's hills of crimsoned snow,
And bloodier yet shall be the flow
Of Iser, rolling rapidly.

'Tis morn, but scarce yon level sun
Can pierce the war clouds, rolling dun,
Where furious Frank and fiery Hun
Shout in their sulphurous canopy.

The combat deepens. On, ye brave,
Who rush to glory or the grave!
Wave, Munich! all thy banners wave,
And charge with all thy chivalry!

Few, few shall part where many meet!
The snow shall be their winding sheet,
And every turf beneath their feet
Shall be a soldier's sepulchre.

—Thomas Campbell.

PIBROCH OF DONUIL DHU.

Pibroch of Donuil Dhu,
Pibroch of Donuil,
Wake thy wild voice anew,
Summon Clan Conuil!
Come away, come away;
Hark to the summons!
Come in your war array,
Gentles and commons.

Come from deep glen, and
From mountains so rocky;
The war pipe and pennon
Are at Inverlochy.
Come every hill plaid, and
True heart that wears one;
Come every steel blade, and
Strong hand that bears one.

Leave untended the herd,
The flock without shelter;
Leave the corpse uninterred,
The bride at the altar;
Leave the deer, leave the steer,
Leave nets and barges;
Come with your fighting gear,
Broadswords and targes.

Come as the winds come when
Forests are rended;
Come as the waves come when
Navies are stranded.
Faster come, faster come,
Faster and faster,
Chief, vassal, page and groom,
Tenant and master!

Fast they come, fast they come.
See how they gather!
Wide waves the eagle plume,
Blended with heather.
Cast your plaids, draw your blades,
Forward each man set!
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu,
Knell for the onset!

—Sir Walter Scott.

BRAHMA.

If the red slayer think he slays,
Or if the slain think he is slain,
They know not well the subtle ways
I keep, and pass and turn again.

Far or forgot to me is near,
Shadow and sunshine are the same.
The vanished gods to me appear,
And one to me are shame and fame.

They reckon ill who leave me out.
When me they fly, I am the wings;
I am the doubter and the doubt,
And I the hymn the Brahman sings.

The strong gods pine for my abode,
And pine in vain the sacred seven,
But thou, meek lover of the good,
Find me and turn thy back on heaven.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

THE TIGER.

Tiger, Tiger, burning bright
In the forest of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Could frame thy fearful symmetry?

In what distant deeps or skies
Burned the ardor of thine eyes?
On what wings dare he aspire?
What the hand dare seize the fire?

And what shoulder, and what art
Could twist the sinews of thy heart?
And when thy heart began to beat
What dread hand forged thy dread feet?

What the hammer? What the chain?
In what furnace was thy brain?
What the anvil? What dread grasp
Dare its deadly terrors clasp?

When the stars threw down their spears
And watered heaven with their tears,
Did he smile his work to see?
Did he who made the lamb make thee?

Tiger, tiger, burning bright
In the forest of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Dare frame thy fearful symmetry?

—William Blake.

AT THE CHURCH GATE.

Although I enter not,
Yet round about the spot
Ofttimes I hover,
And near the sacred gate
With longing eyes I wait,
Expectant of her.

The minster bell tolls out
Above the city's rout
And noise and humming.
They've hushed the minster bell.
The organ 'gins to swell.
She's coming! She's coming!

My lady comes at last,
Timid and stepping fast,
And hastening hither,
With modest eyes downcast.
She comes! She's here! She's past!
May heaven go with her!

Kneel undisturbed, fair saint!
Pour out your praise or plaint
Meekly and duly.
I will not enter there
To sully your pure prayer
With thoughts unruly.

But suffer me to pace
Round the forbidden place,
Lingering a minute,
Like outcast spirits, who wait
And see through heaven's gate
Angels within it.

—William Makepeace Thackeray.

BUGLE SONG.

The splendor falls on castle walls
And snowy summits old in story.
The long light shakes across the lakes,
And the wild cataract leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle, blow! Set the wild echoes flying!
Blow, bugle! Answer, echoes, dying, dying, dying!

Oh, hark, oh, hear! How thin and clear,
And thinner, clearer, further going!
Oh, sweet and far, from cliff and scar,
The horns of Elfland faintly blowing!
Blow! Let us hear the purple glens replying!
Blow, bugle! Answer, echoes, dying, dying, dying!

O love, they die in yon rich sky,
They faint on hill or field or river!
Our echoes roll from soul to soul
And grow forever and forever.
Blow, bugle, blow! Set the wild echoes flying
And answer, echoes, answer, dying, dying, dying!

—Alfred Tennyson.

GUNGA DIN.

[The bhisti, or water carrier, attached to regiments in India is often one of the most devoted of the queen's servants. He is also appreciated by the men.]

You may talk o' gin an beer
When you're quartered safe out 'ere,
An you're sent to penny fights an Aldershot it,
But if it comes to slaughter
You will do your work on water,
An you'll lick the bloomin boots of 'im that's got it.
Now, in Injia's sunny clime,
Where I used to spend my time
A-servin of 'er majesty the queen,
Of all them black faced crew
The finest man I knew
Was our regimental bhisti, Gunga Din.
He was "Din! Din! Din!
You limping lump o' brick dust, Gunga Din!
Hi, slippy hitherao!
Water, get it! Panee lao!
You squidgy nosed old idol, Gunga Din!"

The uniform 'e wore
Was nothin much before,
An rather less than 'arf o' that be'ind,
For a twisty piece o' rag
An a goatskin water bag
Was all the field equipment 'e could find.
When the sweatin troop train lay
In a sidin through the day,
Where the 'eat would make your bloomin eyebrows crawl,
We shouted, "Harry By!"
Till our throats were bricky dry,
Then we wopped 'im 'cause 'e couldn't serve us all.
It was "Din! Din! Din!
You 'eathen, where the mischief 'ave you been?
You put some juldee in it,
Or I'll marrow you this minute
If you don't fill up my helmet, Gunga Din!"

'E would dot an carry one
Till the longest day was done,
An 'e didn't seem to know the use o' fear.
If we charged or broke or cut,
You could bet your bloomin nut
'E'd be waitin fifty paces right flank rear.
With 'is mussick on 'is back,
'E would skip with our attack
An watch us till the bugles made "Retire."
An for all 'is dirty 'ide
'E was white, clear white, inside
When 'e went to tend the wounded under fire.
It was "Din! Din! Din!"
With the bullets kickin dust spots on the green.
When the cartridges ran out,
You could 'ear the front files shout,
"Hi, ammunition mules an Gunga Din!"

I shan't forgit the night
When I dropped be'ind the fight
With a bullet where my belt plate should 'a' been.
I was chokin mad with thirst,
An the man that spied me first
Was our good old grinnin, gruntin Gunga Din.
'E lifted up my 'ead,
An 'e plugged me where I bled,
An 'e guv me 'arf a pint o' water—green.
It was crawlin an it stunk,
But of all the drinks I've drunk
I'm gratefulest to one from Gunga Din.
It was "Din! Din! Din!
'Ere's a beggar with a bullet through 'is spleen.
E's chawin up the ground,
An 'e's kickin all around.
For Gawd's sake git the water, Gunga Din!"

'E carried me away
To where a dcoli lay,
An a bullet come an drilled the beggar clean.
'E put me safe inside,
An just before 'e died
"I 'ope you liked your drink," sez Gunga Din.
So I'll meet 'im later on
In the place where 'e is gone,
Where it's always double drill an no canteen.
'E'll be squattin on the coals
Givin drink to pore damned souls,
An I'll get a swig in hell from Gunga Din!
Din! Din! Din!
You Lazarushian leather Gunga Din!
Though I've belted you an flayed you,
By the livin Gawd that made you,
You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din!

Atrociously Assaulted.

Fall River, Mass., April 19.—Thomas E. Barrett of 596 Cherry street, clerk for the New York and Boston Dispatch company, was the victim of an atrocious assault last night, from which a fatal result is expected. He was crossing Pleasant street near Ninth, when an unknown man ran out and struck him from behind, felling him to the ground and crushing the skull. Many persons saw the assault and ran to pick up Barrett, and the assailant disappeared. The injured man is a son of Edward Barrett, a prominent contractor. Alfred Adam has been arrested. He admitted having struck Barrett, but says no weapon was used. Adam is a teamster.

Mischievous Students Suspended.

Hanover, N. H., April 19.—The administration at Dartmouth has suspended two prominent seniors for five years each, and one other student for two years, for breaking and entering the chemical laboratory of the college. The men confessed to the break, and two said it was done out of mischief, while the third one claimed to have been drunk. The confessions lightened the sentence and relieved the entire college from the weight of suspicion.

Yachtsman Drowned.

Boston, April 19.—The opening of the boating season at Jamaica pond was marred yesterday by a drowning accident. Three men, Thomas E. Connelly and John Hollarin of Jamaica Plain and Peter Connelly of Sharon street, Boston, were capsized from a boat and Hollarin was drowned. Peter Connelly was rescued with difficulty and resuscitated by a physician. Thomas Connelly, who could swim, was none the worse for his ducking.

Dog Fight Near Waltham.

Waltham, Mass., April 19.—An exciting dog fight took place early yesterday morning in a barn just over the Waltham line, in the town of Lexington, which was witnessed by 100 sports from Boston, Cambridge and this city. The purse was $200 a side. The canines weighed 40 pounds, and the battle lasted two hours and 40 minutes. At the end of that time it was declared a draw. Both dogs were badly mutilated.

Large Gathering of Methodists.

Portland, Me., April 19.—The sessions of the Methodist conference yesterday were held in city hall. The building was packed to overflowing, special trains being run from suburban towns. The forenoon meeting was perhaps the largest assemblage of Methodists ever gathered under one roof in Maine. Bishop Mallalieu preached. Seven persons took deacons' orders and two were raised to elders.

THE ATLANTIC GAME.

The Tubular Rivet and Stud Co. Nine Lose in Eighth Innings.

The opening game of the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co.'s nine on Patriots' day with the South Ends, of Boston, shows that the Quincy club has good stock and that some interesting games may be expected this season. The home club made fewer errors but not quite as many safe hits. They led up to the eighth innings, when the South Ends jumped from 4 to 9 and then shut out their rivals, winning one run. There was a large attendance at the game.

The opening event in the Wollaston Golf club series was the handicap on Patriots' day. The heavy wind precluded any good scores being made: The course has been lengthened about 200 yards, by making the old No. 2 and No. 3 into one hole and adding a new hole 202 yards long, of which 100 yards is a meadow hazard. Drama at Wollaston.

The drama "Messmates" was given before good sized audiences Friday and Saturday evenings in Odd Fellows' hall, Wollaston, under the auspices of John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F. The play was a success, and considering that most of the parts were taken by amateurs who had never before appeared in such a role, much credit is due them for the successful manner in which the different characters were sustained.

In the cast were: Mr. John W. Rose, Miss Hermione Eldred, Mr. Allen McKinley, Mr. Andrew Johnson, Mrs. Bertha Mcleod, Mrs. A. Johnson, Miss Nellie Geneveive Merrill, Mr. G. A. Wardwell, Mr. George Ela, Mr. Fred L. Coombs.

Incidental to the play Mr. James Rose of West Quincy appeared in his sword dance and sailor's hornpipe, and Mr. McNeil of Brockton gave several selections on the bagpipe, in the Highland costume. At the conclusion of the drama Mr. John W. Rose gave two readings which were much appreciated by the audience. Music was furnished by Metcalf's orchestra.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

—Of 623 convicts in the Pennsylvania prison, only twelve per cent. ever learned trades. This should be taken to heart by ambitious parents. If a smart boy were sent to learn a trade it would be better for the average than going "through" college as most do. The boy who learns a business can make his way anywhere, and will not be likely to commit crime as a boy uninstructed is likely to do in his desperation. In New York city there are thousands of young men, as in all cities looking for something to do simply to get food, and can't, they are ready to do anything, but can do nothing practical. Parents are to blame for this, and the ruin of their boys.

RETURN FOR EXTRA EXPENSES.

Interesting Testimony at Street Railway Hearing in Springfield.

The people of Springfield are active in a movement to secure a return from street railways for expenses which they cause. At a hearing the other evening by the aldermen the room was crowded. The matter under discussion was a petition to make street railway companies maintain the streets in which its tracks are laid.

The representative of the petitioners said they were actuated by one single motive, the good of the city. There is no politics, no spite against the street railway company. Their idea is to relieve the city of part of the burden of keeping up the highways made more expensive by the street railway company.

The superintendent of streets testified that the cost of maintaining of 30-foot macadamized roadway is three times greater when a street railway runs through it. Without street railway a good roadway could be built for $10,000 a mile, but with a street railway permanent paving is required at a cost of $43,000 to 44,000 per mile. The amount the street railway company should pay toward maintaining the highways depends on how much it could afford on a fair return on money invested. The company has done much to develop the city and should receive fair treatment, but it should meet the citizens half way.

The superintendent criticised the quality of pavers used by street railways and condemned the T rail. He stated that in Worcester the company is required to pave or macademize streets from curb to curb in which they have received franchises since 1893. Hartford receives 2 per cent. of the gross receipts. In Philadelphia, a company is required to pave all streets through which tracks pass. At one time the city asked the company to put down improved pavements, but the company refused. The city went ahead and laid the pavement, sending in a bill of $500,000 to the company. The latter refused to pay and the matter went to the supreme court, the decision being against the company.

Henry H. Carter, formerly superintendent of streets in Boston, regarded the T rail as an inferior and an inconvenient rail for the public. Its use renders good paving impossible.

Other experts testified to extra cost for care of streets and condemned the T rail.

Charles H. Barrows was asked what he thought of a definite understanding between the city and the street railway company with reference to the care of highways. He replied that he welcomed the petition as an attempt to get at some recapitulation of the measure between the value of the franchise and the interest of the city. Continuing, he said that it seemed to him that the petition was pertinent, and if the board of aldermen did not see its way clear to granting it, the board should at least see that the city receive in some form or other, value of its franchises. To the city belongs all value above the cost of construction, maintenance and a fair profit on the money invested.

George A. Dennison spoke about on the same line as Mr. Barrows. The relations between city and street railway company should be reciprocal. The franchise is the most valuable thing the street railroad has. The city should expect valuable returns. If it be possible to determine the value of the road to the city in opening up new districts and furnishing transportation, give the road full credit, but at the same time let the city hold fast to its interests. We have a right to demand that we have the best service, but at the same time there is no disposition to crowd the street railroad. At the same time the balance is in favor of the city. I do not believe the road has paid in full for the benefits received, but it will be a difficult task to determine the debit and credit account. I do believe that it would be a slight burden on the company to maintain the streets. The feeling is general among students of the question that the corporations should give more value for their franchises. The street railroad should be under municipal or state control. Majority of the more careful students favor more adequate returns from the company to the city. It would be wise and proper for this board to ask for legislation for better control.

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST.

Senate Still Occupied With Holdover Appropriation Bills, Arbitration and Cuba.

Washington, April 19.—The senate will conclude its consideration of the appropriation bills this week. The Indian bill is expected to pass today and the sundry civil and agricultural bills will follow in the order named. There is no expectation that there will be any prolonged debate upon any of the bills. There will be an effort to amend the sundry civil bill by the addition of a provision for the regulation of the forest reservations. This may lead to some discussion, but the friends of the amendment do not anticipate much trouble in having the amendment agreed to.

Senator Davis will make another attempt today in executive session to get a day fixed for taking a vote on the arbitration treaty. He has announced his purpose to press the treaty to final action at as early a date as possible. He expects to have little difficulty in securing an agreement for a date, but some of the objecting senators intimate that there still may be opposition. The matter of pairs has been definitely arranged on the basis of two votes for the treaty to one against it. It is not believed that a great deal of time will be given to the treaty during the week, whatever the degree of Mr. Davis' success in securing an agreement for a date for a vote.

The bankruptcy bill will continue to hold its place on the calendar as the unfinished business, but it probably will not be seriously pressed. Senator Morgan has announced his intention to insist daily upon the consideration of his Cuban resolution during the morning hour, but he will not block other business with it.

Much of the senate's time will be given to the question of the organization of the senate committees.

If the program proposed is accepted both the Republicans and the opposition will proceed to make selections for the committee vacancies, and this work will require very delicate adjustment in order to satisfy conflicting claims. If the plan is not agreed to by the Republicans the coalition of Democrats, Populists and silver Republicans will tomorrow move to fill some of the committee vacancies with the view of continuing the process until all are filled. At least such is the present program.

The house this week will continue the program of three-day adjournments unless the Indian appropriation bill is returned from the senate when it meets on Wednesday. The complications arising out of the situation in Eastern Europe possibly may figure in the proceedings of both houses the latter part of the week.

Rivera Fares Well.

Havana, April 19.—General Rivera is in a large, dry and well-ventilated cell at Cabanas. His wounds are healing rapidly, and he is hoping to be pardoned as a special favor of the crown. Colonel Bacalloa is similarly situated, and the two officers have a servant who attends upon them. They have comfortable beds and good meals sent in daily from a restaurant nearby. Neither General Rivera nor Colonel Bacalloa has any special complaint to make. The latter also is hopeful of a special pardon. Ona Melton and Alfred Laborde of the Competitor's crew are also doing well.

Priest's Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. B., April 19.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, attached to the cathedral parish, fell from the third story window of the bishop's residence yesterday, dying instantly. It is presumed he was taken with a weak spell, hoisted the window to get air, lost his balance and fell out. He was 30 years old. He was a native of Milltown, St. Stephen. His mother, who is visiting Boston, was notified of the sad affair.

She was 65, and leaves a husband and two sons.

An utter collapse. The man who has always been a model of business method and dignity—who would as soon think of putting his feet on the piano at home as on the desk at his office—finally goes to pieces all at once. Bankruptcy—with it has come an utter loss of ambition, dignity, and health. Ill-health is at the bottom of it all. Bankruptcy stares in the face every business man who neglects his health. A man cannot work on forever if he is suffering from brain fag, nervous exhaustion, and debility. All these can come to the man who neglects to keep his digestion perfect, his bowels regular and his blood pure.

Business men everywhere have come to recognize Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as an invaluable remedy. It makes the digestion perfect, invigorates the liver, restores the appetite, regulates the bowels, purifies and builds up the blood, makes the flesh and muscles firm, and tones up the nerves. It is a business man's medicine.

Thos. J. Torbert, Sr., of Old Springhill, Marengo Co., Ala., writes: "I want to tell you the good the 'Golden Medical Discovery' has done me. I had erysipelas and eczema. Had suffered for eight years. I tried all remedies and several doctors, but could get no relief. I bought a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and tried it. I used four bottles and a half. It completely cured me. I have had no symptoms of its return. It has been three years since my cure."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser has had a larger sale than any other book of this class ever offered the public. This book of 1,008 pages with 300 illustrations, is full, from cover to cover, of practical advice on health matters. CONFESSION OF MURDERER KELLEY.

Details of Crime In Somersworth Bank Calmly Related.

BLACKJACK STOPPED VICTIM'S CRY

Keen-edged Razor Completed Deadly Work.

HEN HE ROBBED BANK'S VAULT.

Murderer Felt Sorry When He Saw His Victim Dead, but Soon Got Over His Nervousness---Hid Plunder In the Orchard and Unconcernedly Ate His Dinner---Paid His Board and Fled---Mind Now Feels Relieved.

Montreal, April 21.—Joseph Emmet Kelley is the murderer of Joseph A. Stickney, cashier of the Great Falls national bank, by his own confession. He retracted all the untruths he had told immediately after his arrest, and went over the gruesome story of the murder and robbery, explaining every movement he made, what actuated him, and he did not neglect any of the horrible details of this most atrocious slaying of an aged and defenseless man. Kelley did not attempt to gloss the matter at all, but made a plain statement of the facts of the crime.

He said that he had been planning the robbery for some time. On the Thursday previous to the murder he went to the bank to carry out his plans, but was prevented by the presence of a lady. On Friday he wrapped an old overcoat in paper, with the intention of asking Stickney to have the parcel put in the bank's vault. When he reached the bank Kelley tried to open the screened door, and was met by the cashier, who asked him what he wanted. His reply was to force open the door, whereupon Stickney called for help. Kelley hit him on the head with a jimmy, knocking him insensible. "Then," he calmly proceeded, "I drew a razor and cut Mr. Stickney's throat."

He proceeded to ransack the safe, putting all the money he could find into a pillowcase. He carried the spoils to an orchard and hid them, returning, unconcernedly, to his boarding house to partake of dinner. After dinner he paid his landlady $20, which he owed her, placed the pillowcase containing the money into a dress-suit case and drove to Milton. He threw the razor away in the orchard. He hitched his horse outside the village, and called at the house of Farmer Jones, about a quarter of a mile from the village proper. He asked Miss Jones if her father was at home, saying he wished to put up his team for a couple of days. After further chat with Miss Jones, he went to the store of John Mason and purchased a light, spring overcoat and a slate-colored derby hat. He then drove to Chamberlain's livery stable and put up his horses, telling Mr. Chamberlain that he was going by train to Sanbornville, about 10 miles away. He promised to return in three days. He took the Boston and Maine train without purchasing a ticket, getting on to the rear platform. The conductor did not discover him till Union was reached. At Sanbornville, he says, he got off and took the next train for Cookshire Junction, Que., coming into Montreal Junction on the Halifax express. "After I saw Stickney dead," he broke in here, "I felt sorry, but an hour after I did not even feel nervous about it."

Near Cookshire he sorted over his money, placing the gold in a separate pocket from the paper. The silver he left in the dressing case. From the description given by Kelley, Mr. Carpenter concluded he had hidden the dress-suit case at Vaudreuil or St. Polycarpe Junction, and at once hurried Kelley aboard a train. Kelley was not sure of Vaudreuil, but quickly recognized St. Polycarpe. After walking along the Canadian Pacific tracks for a distance of about 500 yards a bag containing $810 was found in a covered culvert, where Kelley had thrown it on Saturday. The dress-suit case was found in the middle of a plowed field, about 150 yards from the railway tracks. Kelley stated that after leaving St. Polycarpe he had walked to St. Justine de Newton, through a pouring rain, and after having taken several drinks in a saloon, he proceeded to Berard's hotel, where he remained until the Canadian Pacific express came along, boarding it for Montreal.

How he was found here has been told. He claimed that he bought the woman's garb he wore when he reached Montreal from a woman in St. Justine for $15. There is still some $500 unaccounted for. Kelley states that he feels relieved after making his confession.

Kelley is willing to go back to Somersworth, N. H., with the deputy sheriffs, after the formalities of appearing before a magistrate are gone through with.

THE MARTIN CASE.

Mr. Pillsbury Opens Argument For Defense and Mr. Doherty Talks For Petitioners.

Boston, April 21.—After four days of preparation, the counsel in the Martin investigation began their arguments yesterday afternoon. Hon. A. E. Pillsbury opened on behalf of General Martin. He said that the proceeding was the attempt of a disreputable man, from motives of malice, to pull down the reputation of an honorable man. The evidence presented, he said, had not touched General Martin at a single point, and his official character was as unstained as before the investigation. The art, which had been brought to aid this attempt, had raised a cloud of doubt about General Martin, and it was necessary to look through it.

Mr. Pillsbury said the charges were framed with wonderful ingenuity, in order to influence the public mind; everything that suspicion or inuendo could do having been done. There were only two things charged which might possibly show that General Martin had any personal contact or knowledge of his son's dealings: First, that he had been interested in other business; second, that he had engaged in a spring water enterprise, and that he was concerned in improper sale of land, in order to influence certain liquor dealers. All the other charges are that General Martin has permitted certain things to be done. It is not charged that knowingly he permitted these things to be done. This charge was made to raise the cloud of suspicion against him. Not one act has been shown which involves General Martin in the slightest suspicion.

Attorney Dougherty, for the petitioners, argued that the statutes which provide that the police commissioner shall not have any other business should be enforced.

Mr. Chaplin, for the petitioners, followed Mr. Dougherty. He argued that General Martin should be tried by the judicial standard. The functions of a commissioner in licensing duties are recognized in law as judicial as much as any court of justice. Governor Wolcott announced that the hearing was closed, and that no decision would be given until the case had been carefully considered.

PRISONER IN HIS OWN HOUSE.

Frank Hadley of New Bedford Arrested on a Charge of Perjury.

New Bedford, Mass., April 21.—Frank R. Hadley, formerly president and treasurer of the Bennett and Columbia mills of this city, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with perjury in falsifying the returns of the Bennett mills to the secretary of state.

Inspector Hathaway, who served the warrant, found Hadley sick in bed, suffering from nervous prostration, the result of the disclosures relative to the condition of the mills. A. J. Selfridge of Boston, Hadley's counsel, was present at the time the warrant was served, and he explained the nature of the document to Hadley. The latter appeared to be in a semi-dazed condition, and though he apparently understood the warrant, he paid little attention to it. Hadley's condition was such that he could not be removed to the police station with safety and consequently he will be kept a prisoner in his own house until he is able to appear in court for arraignment.

Bay State Legislature.

Boston, April 21.—An attempt was made on the assembling of the house yesterday to have reconsidered the acceptance of Friday's report against admitting the resolve for the reinstatement of members crowded out of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association, but the motion was refused a place on the table and was at once defeated, the house declaring again for the peace principles agreed on last week. A motion for reconsideration of the rejection of the Flint Real Estate company's bill was laid on the table. The order for a commission to consider telephone charges was rejected. The governor named Saturday, April 24, to be observed as Arbor day. The senate rejected the house bill to restrict the height of buildings in Boston.

Manley Wants No Office.

Augusta, Me., April 21.—In compliance with Mr. Manley's request, the Kennebec Journal published today the following dispatch, which explains itself:

Washington, April 20.

Hon. E. C. Burleigh:

The statements in various papers that I shall be a candidate for congress, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Milliken, are without foundation. I publicly announced months ago that I should not be a candidate for any office, state or national, elective or appointive. I adhere to that position. I trust you will decide to be a candidate. It will afford me great pleasure to give you my earnest and cordial support. Please make this public. J. H. Manley.

Where Are They at?

Lynn, Mass., April 21.—Allen B. Stevens, secretary of the Cutters' union, K. of L., addressed the lady stitchers in Williams & Clark's factory yesterday afternoon. He urged them to stand by the firm and not strike, and pointed out to them the fact that they were not "scabs." Secretary Perkins of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union also addressed the stitchers, and advised all of them to leave, stating that if they did so, the success of the strike was assured. At the close of the last meeting a majority of the women intimated their intention of striking.

Worcester Must Purify Sewage.

Worcester, Mass., April 21.—The city council has adopted a report on sewage disposal, made by experts, providing for separation of the sewage from the ordinary flow of the brook, which constitutes the main sewer, and the surface water in the streets, at a cost of about $900,000. The work is necessary to comply with an order of the court, which holds that the present sewage purification works do not comply with the statute, which requires Worcester to purify its sewage before emptying it into the Blackstone river.

The Ghost Did Not Walk.

Fall River, Mass., April 21.—A performance of "Under the Polar Star," at the Academy of Music in this city, terminated last night at the end of the second act, when the announcement was made that, owing to the refusal of a number of the leading members of the cast to play, it could not proceed. The actors struck for their pay. The show is owned by W. A. Brady, Corbett's manager.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

Fine Musical Programme Supplemented by First-Class Reading.

The Quincy concert of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra was even a greater success than the delightful one given at Wollaston a few evenings since, some new selections being introduced. The chapel of Bethany church was well filled, and all could have listened to many more such fine musical selections, and seemingly would never tire of Miss Burnett's readings. Few would have realized that the orchestra of 23 pieces was one of the educational classes of the Young Men's Christian association which had only given a season's study. The numbers included an overture by Gurlitt, a nocturne by Estenberg, "Fanchon" by Iseman, Concert Waltz by Rosey, march by Sousa, and Desormes' "Serenade of the Mandolins" by a string quintette. These introduced considerable variety, and all were finely rendered.

Miss Elvie Everett Burnett was down for three readings, but her rendering was so natural and pleasing that she was recalled on two, and the audience was loath to let her off on the last. "Little Sister's Scheme" was her opening selection, and the romantic story so well told could not fail to interest. "A Race against Time" allowed more scope for dramatic power, and "Needles and Pins" given on the encore was an amusing family quarrel. Children would have been delighted with "The Little Pig that went to Market," but it was fully appreciated by parents and those fond of little children.

Miss Agnes B. Trowbridge gave a violin solo, "Mazurka" by Wieniawski, and responded to an encore. Miss Trowbridge accompanied her and the orchestra on the piano.

The ushers for the occasion were six young ladies, Miss May Merrill, Miss Clara Merrill, Miss Zayma King, Miss Laura Tupper, Miss Maud Macfarlane and Miss Alice Sampson.

Revolver Scared Him.

Monday afternoon John Scott and F. A. Rogers got into a row at the Wollaston depot. Rogers runs the depot carriages and Scott drives for him, but just how the row started no one seems to know. The row ended by Rogers discharging Scott. Scott however refused to be discharged until he had been paid off, which Rogers refused to do at that time. Rogers went to his stable and Scott followed and here the fight was renewed, Scott still demanding his money. Things were getting warm when suddenly Rogers drew a revolver and placing it to Scott's head threatened to blow his head off if he did not get out. This Scott did and he not only left the stable but he packed up and shook the town.

The brain of an ant is larger in proportion to its size than that of any other known creature.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. AT A STANDSTILL.

Mississippi Situation Is No Worse—Crevasses Take Water From Channel.

Memphis, April 21.—The river at Vicksburg, Helena, Natchez, and from St. Joseph, La., to Bayou Sara, La., is reported either stationary or falling. This condition is the result of the vast amount of water passing through the crevasse at Biggs and Reeds levees above Natchez and at Hancock's below. The levees in the immediate vicinity of Natchez continue to hold under the great strain, but this is now of little interest to the planters in Concordia, Tensas and Madison parishes, as the water, backed up from the breaks above and below, will soon flood the rich lands of these parishes, and the result will be almost as disastrous as if other breaks should occur.

The Red and Tensas rivers are now swelling and almost running over their banks, and they will begin spreading over a section of 30 miles to the interior. Work continues on the levees, however, and everything possible is being done to hold the remainder of the levee system.

Refugees continue to flock into the principal towns of the Mississippi and St. Francis deltas, and the relief committees are taxed to their utmost to provide for the wants of the destitute. At Memphis, the river continues to fall. Reports from Greenville, Rosedale and Cairo state that an encouraging decline is noted.

Reports of loss of life come from Bayou Videl, in the lower portion of Madison parish. The water from the Biggs crevassee caught the people there unprepared. How many were actually drowned is unknown, but Thomas Blackman, his wife and infant are known to have perished. Boats have been sent to the locality.

Parnellite Meeting.

Dublin, April 21.—There were 160 prominent Parnellites present at the Parnellite convention summoned to meet in this city by John Redmond, the Parnellite leader. Mr. Redmond opened the conference with a dispassionate speech, showing that the present condition of the party needed vigorous reorganization. He referred to and explained the program, as already outlined, and proposed that the convention in October should be attended by delegates from all branches of the new league. Timothy Harrington immediately rose and, in a calm speech, objected absolutely to the formation of the new league. Many speakers followed, but they were mostly in favor of Mr. Redmond's propositions, and Mr. Harrington's amendment against the league's formation was defeated by a vote of 230 to 22. Mr. Harrington then left the hall with his supporters. In an interview after the meeting, Mr. Harrington said he could not indicate his future course until the country had spoken. He added there was nothing the old league could have done for Mr. Redmond "except giving him the support of the Devoy section in America," which, Mr. Harrington added, "could, if they chose, finance the new league."

Hat Trimmings Case Decided.

Philadelphia, April 21.—The famous hat trimmings case, which indirectly involved between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, and which has been postponed from time to time for the past three years, was finally decided in favor of the government by a jury in the United States circuit court yesterday afternoon. The suit was brought as a test case by Meyer & Dickinson, big importers of this city, who sought to recover from the United States government a difference of 30 per cent in customs duties. The firm's contention was that the importations in question consisted solely of hat trimmings, on which the duty under the McKinley tariff act was only 20 per cent, but the federal officials in their argument maintained that the merchandise was used chiefly for dresses and dress trimmings and that the duty of 50 per cent levied by the government was proper. Meyer & Dickinson were nominally the plaintiffs, but there were hundred of big importing firms throughout th country who were interested in the out come of the suit and who were instrumental in procuring the best obtainable counsel.

Bob Cook's Water Shoes.

New York, April 21.—The Journal says: Bob Cook of Boston will walk on the water from Pittsburg to Cincinnati. The distance is about 400 miles. A wager of $1000 has been made that he cannot accomplish this feat within 15 days. Cook will go to New Orleans, where he will go into training on Lake Ponchartran. The shoes he wears are the real water shoes, four feet long, six inches wide and six inches deep, invented by himself. There are fins on either side of them and fins on the bottom. When he takes a step forward with one foot the fins close; when he makes a step with the other foot the fins on the shoe remaining still are opened and form resistance to the water, preventing him from slipping backward. Cook will be followed down the Ohio by a launch and a press boat. He says he will win.

Billy Birch Dead.

New York, April 21.—Billy Birch, a well known minstrel, died yesterday at his home in this city from paralysis of the brain and chronic Bright's disease. Birch made several fortunes in the theatrical business, all of which he lost in unlucky speculations. He was at one time the head of the combination of Birch, Wambold & Backus' minstrels, which made such a success in this country and tbroad. Birch was born in Utica, in 1831.

Big Benefit For Kitty Abbey.

New York, April 21.—Last night the artists of the Metropolitan company united their efforts in a performance for the benefit of Kitty Abbey, the only child of the late Henry E. Abbey, their former manager. With the generous donations of the box holders, and the support of the public generally, the receipts amounted to $11,500.

Ferdinand Visits William.

Berlin, April 21.—Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, while on his way through Berlin to Ludingslust, yesterday, had breakfast with the emperor and empress, and later had a conference with the minister for foreign affairs, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein. Emperor William went to Vienna last evening.

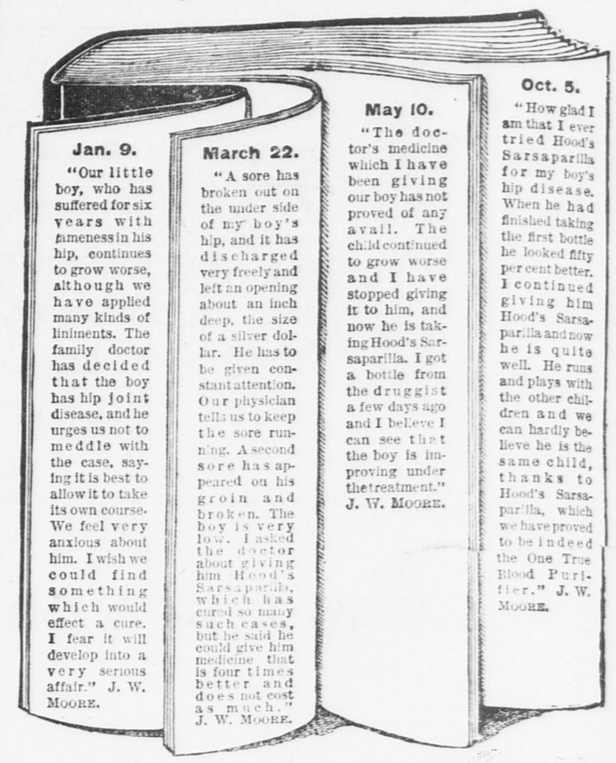

Illinois Municipal Elections.

Chicago, April 21.—Municipal elections were held yesterday throughout Illinois. Reports indicate that party lines were not sharply drawn.

BALL PUNCHING.

The Audience Not Fully Satisfied with Decision of Referee.

There was quite a gathering of the sporting fraternity at Hancock hall, Tuesday evening, to witness the ball punching contest between Prof. Robertson and H. M. Hanson, both of Quincy, for $25 a side.

John Rudderham of Brockton was referee, and he decided the contest a draw much to the disgust of the audience. Robertson made a clean exhibition without a miss while Hanson missed a number of times.

The referee said that Robertson had a clean score but that Hanson had the most difficult moves and he would therefore call it a draw.

Besides the ball punching there were acrobatic feats by the Ross Bros., slack face specialties by C. F. Sprague, slack wire performance by Birnie Smith, harmonica and banjo duet by Charles Baron, and expert club swinging by Eddie Von Dono.

The latter was one of the features of the evening for he handles the Indian clubs in manner most wonderful at times, using one, two and three clubs.

The Postponed Game.

The leaders and tail enders in the Candle Pin league met in Boston Tuesday evening. The McCarthys needed it to clinch their title to champions, and the Quincys were defeated by 91 pins. The score:

BILL NEARLY FINISHED.

Senate Sub-Committee Will Report the Tariff Bill Next Week.

There Will Be Many Reductions In Duties.

It Is Aimed to Make It a Revenue Not a Prohibitive Measure.

Washington, April 21.—The Republicans of the finance committee who have been working on the Dingley tariff bill say that they expect to report it to the full committee by the end of next week.

The committee is approaching the end of its labors, and various senators who are making persistent demands for changes were called upon with a view to arriving at an understanding. Among the problems which are yet unsettled are those relating to sugar, lead ore and wool.

Some senators have manifested a disposition to hold out persistently for certain modifications of the schedules referring to these and other articles. The members of the committee, while not indicating their own position or that of the committee, have thought it well to talk over these matters with the complaining senators. They are anxious to bring in a bill that will be sure to become a law. They think that they will succeed, but beyond this they say little, except that they expect to report the bill to the full committee sometime next week. The committee take especial pride in keeping their work private, and say that none of the changes will be announced until all are given to the public.

Members of the committee told their colleagues that many reductions have been made from beginning to end of the bill, because of the belief on the part of the committee that some of the house rates would be practically prohibitive. They have listened patiently to advocates of increases, but have granted but few requests.

One of the members says that the bill will be a revenue bill and not a prohibitive bill. The committee has practically agreed upon a modification of the retroactive clause of the Dingley bill, which it is hoped will be satisfactory to the opponents of the house provision. The wool men are still pressing for radical changes. The wool growers are not satisfied with the rates of the Mantle amendment, but want a complete change of classification, and still insist that no wools shall be admitted for less than 8 cents per pound. While some changes are probable in this schedule, it is quite certain that these demands will not be entirely met.

Senate Proceedings.

Washington, April 21.—Senator Morgan's resolution, declaring that a state of war exists in Cuba, was discussed briefly in the senate yesterday, and then went over for a week, owing to the absence of Senator Hale of Maine, who has been active in opposition. Mr. Morgan again urged the need of speedy action by this country to stay the devastation going on in Cuba. The agricultural appropriation bill was passed without amendment. The bankruptcy bill was then considered, Senators Nelson of Minnesota, Lindsay of Kentucky, Allen of Nebraska and Hoar of Massachusetts participating in debate. Mr. Morgan gave notice that at 4 p.m. today he would move to lay on the table the Nelson substitute bill, for the purpose of securing a test vote.

Cuban Girl Shot.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 21.—Miss Mary Louise Gato, a beautiful Cuban woman, about 20 years of age, was mysteriously shot and seriously wounded last evening. Edward Pitzer, the lover of the girl, is under arrest, charged with the crime, although he denies it. Just as the girl was about to enter her home she was fired upon from ambush, the first bullet passing through her left arm. Another bullet entered the right side of the back, penetrating the liver, and another the left side, passing through the lung. A fourth bullet in the back was stopped by a steel rib in her corsets. Another bullet went through her hat. Pitzer and the girl had been keeping company about three years, but it is said that she did not favor his suit. He is the son of a prominent merchant.

Raines Amendments Signed.

Albany, April 21.—The assembly passed the senate gas bill, which provides for an annual reduction of 5 cents in the price of gas in New York city for five years. The price is now $1.25. The bill now goes to Governor Black. The governor has signed the bill amending the Raines excise law. The amendments are calculated to make the law more stringent, particularly as it affects clubs and restaurants.

Nova Scotia Elections.

Halifax, April 21.—Elections throughout Nova Scotia yesterday resulted in the most overwhelming defeat for the Conservative party. Out of a house of 38, the opposition succeeded in electing but three members—one in Pictou, one in Colchester and one in Hants county. The Liberals return every member of the government.

Pugilist May Die.

Philadelphia, April 21.—Billy Vernon of Haverstraw, N. Y., was knocked out in the 14th round by Leslie Pierce of Camden, N. J. at the Olympic Athletic club at Athens, Pa., last night. Vernon was knocked senseless and has since shown no signs of reviving. It is feared he will not live.

THE TURCO-GREEK WAR

Turks Are Expected to Advance Immediately on Larissa.

Greeks Take Damasi After Desperate Battle.

Hellenic Plan Is to Combine Forces and March on Elassona.

Athens, April 21.—The news of the capture of Damasi puts a new complexion on the situation on the frontier, is a great encouragement to the government, and is likely to have the most exhilarating effect upon the spirits of the Greeks, who had been greatly depressed by the reverses of their troops at Milouna pass. This success, and the fact that the fall of Prevesa seems imminent, virtually offsets the calamity at Milouna. If the Greek divisions effect a union at Damasi, as is expected, there is almost nothing in the way of their prompt advance to Elassona. If Tyrnova falls into the hands of Edhem Pasha, and the Turkish troops sweep down upon the plain and advance to Larissa to meet the force concentrated there under the crown prince, they will be between two grand divisions of the Greek army. This seems to have been the object of Greek strategy.

Should the Greeks succeed in reducing the forts at Prevesa, as now seems probable, and in occupying the town with the large land force, co-operating with the bombarding warships, the road to Janina would be opened, and the Turkish troops in Epirus placed at the most serious disadvantage. The strategic value of Prevesa to the Turkish division in Albania is that so long as it remains in the hands of the Turks it makes possible a steady line of munitions and food supplies. With Prevesa in the hands of the Greeks, this line would be promptly cut, and it would be practically impossible to revictual the Turkish troops by the long route through Macedonia. On the other hand, the Greek troops could be revictualled by sea.

It is stated here, in well informed circles, that the eastern squadron of the Greek fleet, which will shortly be reinforced by the ironclad Spitzia, is planning an important movement. This is probably directed against Salonica. If this is made with dispatch, it is quite possible that the Greek ships could reach the gulf and shell the town of Salonica before the Aegean squadron of the Turkish fleet could intervene. The object of such a bombardment would be to cut off the Macedonian line of supplies to Edhem Pasha's camp at Elassona. Should the Greek troops advance from Damasi to Elassona, the line of Turkish supplies could be cut at that point, and render the naval movement unnecessary. And it is possible that the brilliant success at Damasi will cause a modification of the new program of the Greeks.

Taking a general survey of the field, the fortunes of war thus far are pretty evenly divided, but the chances for the immediate future are decidedly in favor of the Greeks.

BULLETINS FROM FRONTIER.

Athens, April 21.—1 a. m.—News has just reached here that the Greeks, after a desperate battle, have captured and burned Damasi. Viglia is still resisting, but another division of the Greek troops, it is reported, has traversed the Reveni pass and captured three blockhouses. This division has almost reached Damasi, where it will effect a union with the force that captured the town. The 20,000 troops, under General Smolenitz, displayed the greatest bravery.

Reveni lies 12 miles northwest of Larissa. Edhem Pasha, with a force variously estimated at from 10,000 to 14,000 troops, led seven assaults against it Monday. But all were repulsed by the Greeks.

Crown Prince Constantine has telegraphed here that the Turks at that point were completely and finally repulsed.

A dispatch from Arta says that 3000 Greeks have crossed the frontier at Bani, and a severe artillery duel has been in progress since Monday. The Greek artillery have silenced the Turkish Imauret fort, commanding the town. Two attempts by the Turks to cross the river were repulsed. There has been brisk artillery and infantry firing along the line for about five miles. Two Greek officers and many Turks have been killed.

It is announced that the Greeks have recaptured Gritzovali.

Colonel Manos, in command of the Greek forces on the frontier of Epirus, has telegraphed to the government here that the Turks have bombarded the military hospital at Arta, although the Red Cross flag was hoisted over it.

Later—The report of the capture of Damasi, by the Greeks under General Smolenitz, is confirmed by official dispatches.

Official dispatches report also that further heavy breeches have been made in Turkish forts at Prevesa. The bombardment ceased at nightfall, but will be resumed today.

The ironclad Spetzai has left the Gulf of Arta, to join the eastern squadron, which, it is said, has an important mission.

RECEIVED AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, April 21.—A second Turkish squadron left the Golden Horn yesterday afternoon for the Dardanelles. It consists of the ironclad Orhanien, the monitor Hifsirahman, the corvette Mansoura, five torpedo boats and four steamers, which have been converted into cruisers.

Prince Mavrocordato, the Greek minister to Turkey, has sailed for Athens. All the ambassadors except the German ambassador went to the quay to bid him farewell.

Edhem Pasha has wired the sultan that he has gained several notable victories, occupying all the fortified positions commanding Tyrnova. He reports that the Greeks evacuated their entrenched camp, leaving behind 30 cases of cartridges and many rifles. The Turks, he says, have retaken Velitzko, which the Greeks surprised and captured on the first day of frontier aggression.

The Turkish commander at Janina announces that the Greek fleet which has been bombarding Prevesa has been compelled to retire, one division withdrawing to the interior of the gulf and the larger ironclads outside sailing for the islands of Paxo and Santa Maura.

An official telegram from Zant asserts that the Greeks who landed at Elutheropoli and reached Gojrat, near the railway, were attacked and defeated by Turkish troops and peasants, and that 100 Greeks were killed.

BY WAY OF LONDON.

London, April 21.—The war between Greece and Turkey will not affect the situation in Crete. The powers having guaranteed the safety of the Mussulman population there, will continue their efforts to pacify the island and endow it with autonomy.

The officials of the Turkish embassy here believe, from the wording of Edhem Pasha's dispatches to the Turkish government, that the Greeks will make no great stand until the Turks reach Larissa, where the main battle, it is thought, will be fought. This seems probable, as Prince Constantine, the Greek commander-in-chief, has left Tyrnova for Larissa.

Several British officers, both on the active list and belonging to the reserve, have offered their services at the Turkish embassy, one of them volunteering to equip 30 men for service against the Greeks and to bear all the expenses of taking them to the frontier. The officials of the embassy have referred all such offers to the government at Constantinople.

A dispatch to The Morning Post from Constantinople says that the report that the Greek volunteers have cut the Salonica railway, near Kavala, is not confirmed. But the Greeks have occupied Mitylene and Chios, after a sharp engagement with the Turkish troops.

A telegram to The Times from St. Petersburg says that Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, has dispatched a circular note to the powers advising them to observe an expectant attitude, in case either Turkey or Greece should request intervention.

Reported Turkish Victory at Tyrnova.

London, April 21.—A special dispatch from Constantinople says that after a series of furious engagements, Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, has occupied Tyrnova, 10 miles from Larissa, in force. The dispatch further says that General Abdul Azel Pasha was among the killed.

In conclusion, the dispatch says that the Turks will now immediately advance, by forced marches, upon Larissa, the headquarters of the Greek army in Thessaly.

Greeks In Egypt.

London, April 21.—A dispatch to The Times from Cairo says that the Turkish government has called upon the khedive to expel all Greeks from Egypt. As the Greeks number 50,000, and are the chief promoters of commerce and trade, their removal is desired by none save the old Turkish party. It is probable that France will undertake to protect them, and thus the expulsion will be avoided.

Red Cross Asks Aid.

New York, April 21.—A communication was received from Athens yesterday by Solon G. Vlasti, editor of Atlantis, from the ladies' committee of the Red Cross of Greece, of which Queen Olga and Princess Sophia are the president and vice president, respectively, asking that the women of America form a committee to assist the work of the Red Cross at the seat of war in caring for the dying and wounded, by sending funds and supplies. Mr. Vlasti will issue an appeal to the women of America, and a meeting will be called to discuss ways and means and take such action as is thought best.

Cured by Puritana

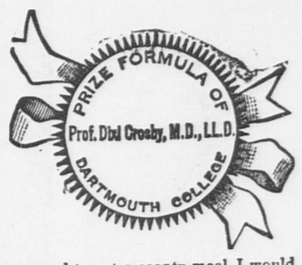

More Voluntary Testimony.

Strong men and frail women depend upon their stomachs for life from day to day.

When they are weary and weak—
When they suffer—
When they are unfitted for work or enjoyment—
When they think life is hopeless—
Then Puritana can save them.
Why?
Because it has saved others.
Puritana does not fail.
Its marvellous success is built on merit.
Here are a few specimen cures.
Thousands of the same sort could be given.

Mr. Luther P. Shattuck is a shoemaker and lives in Rowley, Mass. For years Mr. Shattuck has been troubled with derangement of the stomach. He tried a number of remedies, but derived no benefit from them until he used Puritana. He says:

"For years I have had trouble with my stomach. I was unable to eat anything without it causing me great distress. I would have severe pains across my chest and in my bowels. In the morning there would be belching of wind, and after my day's work at night, I would be troubled with sourness of the stomach, which was so bad sometimes I would be obliged to go to bed without eating a mouthful. My weight was also gradually wasting away, and my fellow workmen thought I was going into Consumption, and said I could not live long in the condition I was, and, indeed, I do not believe I could. Oftentimes after I had managed to eat a scanty meal, I would vomit up everything I had eaten. Last fall a friend urged me to try Puritana. I began to use it, and before the first bottle was gone, I knew the medicine was helping me. I kept on using it, and I can honestly say that Puritana cured me. I can now eat three meals a day without any distress. I have no belching of wind in the morning, or sourness of the stomach at night. I think Puritana a grand medicine, and shall always praise it." (Signed)

LUTHER P. SHATTUCK.

Mrs. T. Ridge of Westville, Conn., gives her own interesting experience. She writes as follows:

The Puritana Compound Co.

Dear Sirs:—

A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these lines regarding your valuable medicine. I have been sick a number of years. I was so weak that I could not walk nor do my housework. I had a tired feeling all the time; was very despondent. The food I ate did not seem to do me much good; I was dizzy, could not sleep. I have taken various medicines, but they did not benefit me but a little. They gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I read about Puritana, and thought that I would try it and see if it would help me. I am glad to state that Puritana has overcome all these obstacles, for that tired feeling is gone. I sleep good; it has given me an appetite; my head feels better than it has in years, and I am better in every way. I can work all day, and do not have that tired feeling. I take pleasure in recommending Puritana to all that are sick.

(Signed.) MRS. T. RIDGE.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. KELLEY STARTS HOME.

Murderer Waived Extradition and Is Quickly Put Aboard Train.

He Will Remain In Dover Jail Until Trial.

When He Murdered Stickney He Wore False Mustache and Goatee.

Montreal, April 22.—Yesterday afternoon the matter of the extradition of Joseph E. Kelley for the murder of Joseph Augustus Stickney, cashier of the Great Falls National bank of Somersworth, N. H., was quietly settled.

Kelley was taken before Deputy Extradition Commissioner L. W. Sicotts, and upon his freely consenting to return with the officers, the commissioner signed the necessary warrants. Chief Detective Carpenter gave it out that they would leave by the Central Vermont train, with the result that the Bonaventure street depot was crowded, while only about 50 people were at the Canadian Pacific depot when the party left for Newport, Vt., from whence they will proceed to White River Junction and Dover. Kelley puffed away at a cigar in the train, apparently quite unconcerned.

Detective Sergeant Campeau, who captured him, accompanied the party to the Canadian border, where the prisoner will be formally turned over to the New Hampshire officers. Deputy Sheriff McDaniel, Officers Rich and Parker and E. F. Bartlett of Somersworth accompanied the prisoner.

A new feature in the case has developed. Kelley confessed that he wore a disguise when he went to rob the bank. He had on a mustache and a goatee, and this was so effectual a disguise that Stickney did not know him. These, he said, would be found in his room. Stickney shouted when Kelley drew a revolver upon him, but Kelley was afraid to use it, and so hit the old man with a jimmy.

Kelley will be imprisoned in the Dover (N. H.) jail until the supreme court meets next September, when he will be tried.

Jem Mace Wants to Spar John L.

Boston, April 22.—Jem Mace, the ex-champion of the world, is in this city, to make arrangements, if possible, for an exhibition bout with John L. Sullivan. Should negotiations fail, it is Mace's intention to issue a challenge to box Mike Donovan before some English club during Derby week. It is understood that Donovan is willing to meet Mace in a contest of not more than six rounds, and as Mike has planned a transatlantic trip during the coming summer, it is likely that the English sport followers will have an opportunity of seeing these veterans spar. In speaking of his future plans, Mace said that in case he was unable to arrange a bout with Sullivan in this country, he would sail for England on the Campania from New York on Saturday in company with Dan Creedon, the Australian middleweight, who will in all probability be Kid McCoy's next opponent. Mace says that he intends bringing his family to this country, and will pass the remainder of his days here.

Belfast In Mourning.

Belfast, Me., April 22.—The train bearing the remains of the late Congressman Seth L. Milliken arrived here shortly after 6 o'clock last night, amid tolling of bells and a general display of half-masted flags from public buildings and shipping. A vast crowd assembled in the station, and as the train rolled in, every one stood with bared head, a touching tribute to the departed legislator. The engine pulling the train was draped in mourning, as was the car containing the remains. Following it was the Pullman car containing the congressional delegation, Mrs. Milliken, her son, Seth M., and two brothers of the deceased, N. M. and Frank Milliken. The gold-mounted casket, covered with beautiful flowers, was borne from the car to the hearse by old friends and neighbors of the deceased. The veterans of Thomas H. Marshall post, G. A. R., were at the depot in a body, as an honorary escort. The funeral services will be held today.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 22.—Eulogies of General N. P. Banks took up all the forenoon session of the house yesterday, on the question of referring to the next legislature the resolve for an appropriation of $30,000 for a monument to General Banks, and the question was negatived and the resolve ordered to a second reading. Mr. Gove of Waltham will move to amend to make the amount $20,000. Several important bills on metropolitan district matters were reported. The elevated railway hearings were brought to a close, so far as remonstrants are concerned, arguments being then begun by counsel. There was a hearing in regard to the much-discussed question of the control of state charitable and insanity institutions in accordance with the report of the special committee which has been examining into the matter.

Hayes Will Contest.

Boston, April 22.—The Francis Hayes will case came up again yesterday in the supreme court at East Cambridge, before Judge Allen. The contest is brought by Mrs. N. K. Hayes for her 5-year-old son, Harold, who was not left anything by the will of his father, who died in England a year ago. A long series of hearings was held before Judge McIntire in the Middlesex probate court on the petition of Augustus P. Loring, executor, that the will be probated. Mr. Hayes' home was in Lexington. The estate is valued at about $800,000. Vast sums of money were left to relatives, but to no charities. By the will, the widow and son were cut off. It is understood that some time ago about $150,000 was made over to Mrs. Hayes. Mr. Hayes believed that the child, Harold, was not his son.

Insurance Report.

Boston, April 22.—Insurance Commissioner Merrill has issued the 42nd annual report on fire and marine insurance. The companies now transacting business in this state number 203, of which 13 were admitted this year. Of these, 54 are state mutuals, three state mutual marine, six state joint stock, 91 are companies of other states, and 36 are branches of foreign companies. Thirteen companies have ceased to do business in this state, of which two have reinsured, one had its license revoked, in one the stockholders voted to dissolve, and nine—all of them the new mercantile mutuals, above referred to—went into the hands of receivers. The report strongly defends the arbitration provision of the existing law, and commends the work of the state fire marshal's office.

Sons of Revolution.

Concord, N. H., April 22.—The annual meeting of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution of New Hampshire was held yesterday at the state house. The following officers were elected: President, Howard L. Porter of Concord; vice presidents, Josiah Carpenter of Manchester, Joshua G. Hall of Dover, William S. Balcom of Claremont; secretary and treasurer, Otis G. Hammond of Concord; executive committee, George C. Gilmore of Manchester, Charles B. Spofford of Claremont, Thomas Cogswell of Gilmanton, Captain William S. Edgerly of Concord, Fred Leighton of Concord, S. S. Jewett of Laconia, Arthur H. Chase of Concord; finance committee, George B. Chandler of Manchester, Thomas P. Cheney of Ashland, Harley B. Roby of Concord; historian, Howard F. Hill of Concord; registrar, John C. Ordway of Concord; chaplain, Rev. D. C. Roberts of Concord.

Bancroft's Cottage to Be Removed.

Boston, April 22.—Information received her from Newport, R. I., says: One of the most important changes anticipated this spring on the Cliffs is the removal of the Bancroft house, historic in its associations from the fact that the late Historian Bancroft lived there, by the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Gelrichs of New York. It is said that the intention is to erect one of the most magnificent residences that money and art can conceive. The location is one of the most beautiful in Newport, being in full view of the open sea, and adjoining the old Kramer estate, recently bought by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. In the old-fashioned cottage, which will pass away, the famous historian accomplished the greater part of his literary work.

Massachusetts Board of Trade Meeting.

Boston, April 22.—The executive council of the Massachusetts state board of trade, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, passed resolutions favoring the general adoption of the metric system of weights and measures, and reaffirmed its previous action in condemnation of stock watering by corporations. There was also a general discussion of the resolutions introduced at the March meeting, and referred at that time to the various local boards of trade in the state for consideration, disapproving of the recent report of the state board on docks and terminal facilities.

Of Interest to College Men and Women.

Boston, April 22.—An announcement of much interest to college men and women was made at Boston university yesterday, by which the managing committee of the American school of classical studies in Rome offers, for the year 1897-98, three fellowships. The holders of these fellowships will be enrolled as regular members of the school. The fellowships are open to bachelors of arts of universities or colleges in the United States and to other American students of similar attainments.

Medford Church Dedicated.

Medford, Mass., April 22.—The dedicatory exercises of the West Medford Baptist church were held yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon, the report of the building committee was rendered by E. E. Stevens, who reported that the entire cost of the building was $21,507. The presentation of the keys was made by Hon. Lewis H. Lovering. Rev. J. P. Abbott followed, with an eloquent appeal for money, in order to raise the debt of $7700 which was on the building, and succeeded in obtaining over $5000.

ANOTHER CREVASSE.

Sixth Break In Mississippi Levee Reported Last Night.

Memphis, April 22.—The sixth break in the Mississippi delta levee occurred yesterday at a point a few miles south of Lake Providence, La., on the Mississippi side of the river. The break is a large one, and a great volume of water is rushing into Issaqueena county, Miss. The county, with the adjacent counties of Sharkey and Yazoo, have already been partly inundated from the earlier breaks and the last crevasse, it is believed, will not materially affect the situation in that vicinity.

The water is gradually spreading over Madison parish from the Biggs crevasse, and it will be several weeks before it subsides. The river at Memphis is slowly falling.

The Kindergarteners.

St. Louis, April 22.—At yesterday's session of the International Kindergarten union, the reports of delegates were called for. The corresponding secretary, Miss Sarah E. Wiltz of West Roxbury, Mass., could not attend the meeting, but sent her report to the president. The report of the treasurer showed the organization to be in a healthy financial condition. Miss Howe, from Japan, made an interesting report of work in the Orient. She stated kindergartens have been in successful operation in the public schools in that country for 20 years. Reports were received from the different states, all showing the work to be flourishing.

County Treasurer Short.

Cincinnati, April 22.—George Hobson, the clerk of the courts of Hamilton county, elected by the Republicans in 1895, who has been reported hopelessly insane since last Sunday, was found by the county commissioners, upon a brief examination of his accounts, to be $16,000 short. It is thought his insanity is feigned.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

The grand jury at Belfast, Me., has returned 22 indictments, all for illegal liquor selling.

August Langner, who is serving a life sentence in the Massachusetts state prison for the murder of Miss Emerson of Dedham, has petitioned the governor for a pardon.

The British ship Zuleika, Captain Bremner, from New York, was wrecked off Cape Palliser, near Wellington, N. Z. and is a total loss. Nine of her crew were saved.

The young woman known as Lillie Dent, who attempted suicide at New York, has been identified. She is the wife of an actor named Cohen, and formerly lived at Lynn, Mass. She will recover.

Mrs. Wolf, aged 75, and Emma Mussock, aged 13, were found dead in their residence at Philadelphia, with the gas turned on. Whether their death was the result of accident or intent has not yet been ascertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Murphy are missing from their home at Beverly Mass., and a dory, which they are known to have used on Monday, has been found overturned in Bass river. The police are searching for the bodies.

Miss Marie Louise Gato, who was shot from ambush in North Springfield, Fla. Tuesday night, is dead. A strong chain of circumstantial evidence is being woven around Edward Pitzee, the girl's lover, who is now in jail.

George Griggs, aged 23, was arrested at Lowell, Mass., last night for the larceny of $2300 from his brother-in-law Robert Burlingham of Providence. When captured, $1984.70 was found on his person. He admits his guilt.

George P. Grantwell, who was held in $1500 bonds in Cambridge, Mass., for robbing the rooms of Harvard students escaped from the police van in which he was being conveyed from the courtroom to the house of correction. The ventilating screen on the door was forced out sash and all, and through this aperture the prisoner escaped.

Labor War at Lynn.

Lynn, Mass., April 22.—The strike at the Williams & Clark shoe factory has apparently resulted in a war between two labor organizations, the Knights of Labor, with which the cutters at work are connected, and the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, which has ordered a general strike at the shop. At present both are determined to fight.

Hadlock Died Insolvent.

Boston, April 22.—Administration on the estate of Lawyer Harvey D. Hadlock has been asked for in the Suffolk probate court. The petitioner is his widow, Mrs. Alexene Hadlock. It is stated by her lawyer that the estate is hopelessly insolvent.

Vote For Postmaster.

Medford, Mass., April 22.—The caucus held by the Republicans last night to name a candidate for postmaster, resulted in the choice of J. Henry Norcross, he receiving 131 votes more than his nearest opponent.

Work to Begin on Constitution.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 22.—Work will be started tomorrow at the navy yard to put the old frigate Constitution in condition to be towed to Boston.

Holman Has a Relapse.

Washington, April 22.—Representative Holman had a sinking spell last night, and his condition is regarded as very critical. He has lapsed into unconsciousness, but as he has displayed remarkable vitality heretofore, the hope is expressed that he yet may rally.

Spring Medicine is a necessity which Hood's Sarsaparilla grandly supplies. It purifies and vitalizes the blood and thus gives tone and strength to the whole system.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

Boulevards and Sewers.

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of the Legislature have voted to report $500,000 for boulevards. Whether this will include Quincy, as petitioned, is uncertain. The same committee voted to report reference to the next General Court on the bill for a system of sewerage for Charles River valley, Neponset River valley and the city of Quincy; being a bill to permit the taking of the Boston intercepting sewer. Also to report a new draft of the bill for the use of Boston sewers by the Metropolitan district. Also a bill to permit sewer rentals. After intermission, the time will be devoted to music and reading. It is expected that Prof. Gilbert, W. E, Simmons, Mary V. Hastings and R. S. Pearce, Jr., will favor the club during this part of the evening.

Recital.

Quincy was well represented Wednesday evening at the piano forte recital by the pupils of Mr. John H. Gutterson at the Union church, Braintree. Mr. Gutterson's Quincy pupils, who were heard at the recital were Masters Joel Fithian and Carl Rogers Sheppard, sons of Eben W. Sheppard, and Miss Alice Bacon Hultman, daughter of Councilman Eugene N. Hultman. The programme opened with a reception march for six hands, the second and third parts being performed by the Masters Sheppard. Master Carl was also heard in a selection, "Bright and Gay" and Master Joel in a selection, "On Parade." Miss Hultman was heard in a waltz, and in the second part of a promenade of four hands. The several numbers by the pupils were nicely rendered, each pupil exhibiting much expression and thought, and executing their several numbers with a precision that showed care and thoroughness on the part of Mr. Gutterson.

The Association will undertake out door athletic events this year, probably on Merry Mount Park. The committee in charge consists of Dr. Johnson, Walter McBurney and Theo. Hermanson. The shots, hammers, etc., have already been received.

The next run of the cycle club will be on Wednesday evening, April 28.

The council met in the afternoon and examined the pastor and the services were held in the evening at 7 30.

Rev. Elwin Noah Hardy of Quincy delivered the sermon, taking for his text second Timothy 2:9 "But the word of God is not bound." The charge to pastor was by Rev. Alfred A. Ellsworth; the right hand of fellowship by Rev. Henry S. Huntington, and the address to people by Rev. Henry C. Alvord. CONGREGATIONAL NOW.

Park and Down Society Transfer Property to Congregational Union.

There was an interesting and lively meeting of the Park and Downs Union Society at the chapel, on Rawson road, Tuesday evening. The occasion was a special meeting of the society to consider a proposition to turn the society over to the Congregationalist denomination.

The question was on the acceptance of the offer of the Wollaston Congregational church to guarantee the society a resident pastor on the condition that they first become regularly connected with the Congregational denomination by transferring the church property in trust to the Congregational Church Union.

There was a division of opinion among the members as to the best course to pursue, some expressing a wish to accept the offer of the Congregationalists and others desiring the society to remain as it is, and always has been, a union (non-sectarian) society.

After an hour or more discussion it was put to a vote, which resulted in the acceptance of the proposition.

Perhaps this is the best thing that could be done for the society and also for the community, although it must be said that a majority of those who were instrumental in organizing the society and have contributed to, and been active in its support ever since, desired that it should remain a Union society.

At the conclusion of this meeting the adjourned annual meeting of the society was held and the following officers elected:

President,—L. H. Milberry.
Vice President,—S. F. Smith.
Secretary,—Levi Nichols.
Treasurer,—Chas. F. Marr.

And the above together with Charles A. Staples, Wm. D. Given and George L. Marr constitute the board of trustees.

The following officers of the Sunday School were elected:

Superintendent,—H. S. Weymouth.
Vice Superintendent,—L. H. Milberry.
Librarian,—Hugh Macdonald.
Secretary and Treasurer, — Lillian M. Given.
Chorister,—Wm. D. Given.

High School Debate.

The regular weekly meeting of the Quincy High School Debating society was held at High School hall Wednesday at 12 25 P. M. President C. L. Baker presided. Miss Durgin, '98, the secretary, brought in the usual report. The board of decision decided that Senators ought not to be elected by the direct vote of the people.

The debate of last week on the question of the propriety of allowing cabinet ministers to have seats in Congress and speak there, was concluded. The speakers were as follows:

Affirmative,—Miss Briggs, Miss Burke, Miss Cook, and Miss Curtin; all of '97.

Negative,—Miss Gill, Miss Bertha Hayden, Miss Leona Hayden and Miss Hayes.

The election of officers for the ensuing month followed. These nominations were made, and those marked with an asterisk elected:

President,—Miss Mitchell, '97; *Mr. Lewis, '98; Mr. Marnock, '98.

Vice President,—*Miss Burke, '97; Miss Osborne, '98; Miss Curtin, '97.

Secretary,—*Mr. Briggs, '97; Mr. Field. '98; Mr. Damon, '98.

Treasurer,—*Mr. Wilkins, '97; Mr. Lyons, '97; Mr. Moorhead, '97 (Business)

Miss Osborne, '98, reported as critic, and gave some interesting and profitable advice.

The entertainment included three numbers:

Recitation, Miss Ford, '98. Essay, "A Letter from Washington," Miss Johnson, '97. Declamation, Mr. Field, '98.

The board of decision brought in a verdict for the negative side of the debate.

The new debate, "Resolved, That the Civil Service Act should be Extended to all Departments of the Government Service," was begun with the following speakers:

Affirmative,—Miss Johnson, '97; and Miss Joss, '97.

Negative,—Miss Annie Perry, '97.

Mr. Jacob Warshaw, Q. H. S., '96, Harvard, 1900, who is making an excellent record at Harvard, was an interested member of the audience. Mr. Warshaw's scholarly achievements at the High school are still remembered. It is an interesting fact that Mr. George Lewis, the newly elected president, is also preparing for Harvard.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by A. G. Durgin.

Free Hides.

William B. Rice of this city was reelected vice president of the Boston Boot and Shoe club Wednesday night and was also one of the speakers of the evening. He dwelt upon the efforts of the committee which went to Washington to oppose a duty on hides, but said it would require strenuous and diligent effort to keep them on the free list, as the west demands a duty. He contradicted the report that a duty would boom leather.

YESTERDAY'S BATTLES

Turkish Advance on Larissa Checked by Greek Army.

Fierce Fighting From Dawn to Nightfall.

Arta Destroyed by the Greeks and the Turks Evacuate.

The Greeks and Turks yesterday fought a desperate battle at Larissa, and at the close of the day neither had won a victory. The Turkish advance was checked, and the Greeks hold their positions. At Arta, the Greeks were victorious. Important battles are expected today. Greek reinforcements are being rushed to the frontier by the thousands.

THE BATTLE AT LARISSA.

Larissa, April 22.—The first seriously planned battle commenced yesterday. The Greek advance guard, under Generals Maviomichali and Macris, advanced against the Turks, in force, from Reveni, Boughazi and Stelias. The fighting was greatly extended, and the battle raged till late in the day, with varying fortune.

The Greeks were assisted by thousands of citizens, who harrassed the Turkish outposts and wings, as well as participated in the general engagement. The Turks had an overwhelming superiority in numbers. They had constructed earthworks and trenches everywhere, and in and behind these awaited the attacks of the Greeks. On the whole, they clung tenaciously to their defenses, while the Greeks attacked those again and again, with the most desperate bravery.

In spite of the furious attacks still made upon them, the Greeks continue to hold the Reveni and Nezeros passes. It was practically a drawn battle.

Crown Prince Constantine is hurrying reinforcements to the front.

ANXIETY AT ATHENS.

Athens, April 22.—The Turks yesterday tried to capture the post of the Prophet Eli, on the road to Tyrnavo, but they were repulsed.

The last series of the Greek reserves has now been called out and fresh troops have been sent to the frontier.

The bombardment of Prevesa, at the entrance of the gulf of Arta, was very heavy all day yesterday. The Turkish garrison there has been completely isolated by the advance of the Greek troops.

The report that the Greek fleet bombarded Platamona, on the west shore of the Gulf of Salonica, is confirmed. The Greek fleet also bombarded the town of Lepthokarya, adjoining Platomona. The powder magazine of the Turks at Platamona was exploded by a Greek shell, causing much damage and loss of life to the enemy.

Fighting has been renewed at Damasi, which is being cannonaded by a Greek brigade advancing from Boughazi. The Turks have occupied the ports of Idgaria and Xaratzo, which are strategically unimportant, while the Greeks have advanced and occupied the Slati hill.

A dispatch from Arta says that the Turks have abandoned Strevina, beyond Filippiada, after burning it. The bombardment of Prevesa continues with increased danger to the forts.

Crown Prince Constantine telegraphs from Larissa, the headquarters of the Greek forces in Thessaly:

We have kept all our positions, and the situation is excellent. Every road by which the Turks can descend into the Thessalian plain has been secured by the concentration of our troops. I cannot wire at greater length now. I am myself fighting. So is Prince Nicholas.

The public suspense is terrible, owing to the lack of definite news. The government has received telegrams from Larissa throughout the day, urging the prompt dispatch of reinforcements to that point, as the Greek troops are being exhausted by the incessant Turkish attacks.

All the shops were closed yesterday while prayers were being offered in the churches for the success of the Greek troops. Every nerve is being strained to send all available men to the front. The gendarmerie of the palace will go today. Volunteer bands are organizing everywhere throughout the country. In Thessaly the whole population is being armed and made ready. Next week thousands will start for the frontier from the provinces long famous for the fine quality of their fighting men.

M. Delyannis has received telegrams from Greek deputies at Larissa, who declare that, according to the opinion of the officers, the situation is not yet compromised, as the positions occupied by the Turks are of secondary importance.

A dispatch from Arta says that the Greeks have captured the villages of Aghia, Tsaprasli, Paraskevi, Kirnikala, Alimbei and Jenicari, all of which have been abandoned by the Turks.

A dispatch received from Commodore Kriezis, in command of the Greek squadron, which has bombarded Platamona, says that 300 Turks were wounded during the bombardment, but the Greeks sustained no losses. The squadron has started for Katerina.

The government has received a dispatch from Larissa, which says the exact situation at Damasi is not known there, but that the rumors of its recapture by the Turks are inaccurate.

Christian women, do not share the responsibility of your diplomats. Arouse in the hearts of your husbands and sons more Christian, more equitable sentiments. Unite, and your just protest will re-echo in the hearts of the nations and the people. Prove by your energy and Christian work that the women, the true missionaries of right, with the gospel of love and justice in their hearts, range themselves on the side of the wronged.

Helen Griva, President of the Union.

The appeal was promulgated immediately on their arrival here from Athens.

Donations for the fund of the Union of Greek Women, who have in charge the Greek Red Cross, can be forwarded direct to her majesty, Queen of Greece, at Athens, or to the president of the union, Mme. Helen Griva, Athens, or to Solon J. Vlasti, editor of Atlantis, 2 Stone street, New York, who has been authorized to collect funds and organize committees throughout the United States.

ARTA IN RUINS.

New York, April 22.—A copyright dispatch to The Journal and Advertiser, from Arta, says:

The artillery duel across the river at this place yesterday was tremendous. All day the heavy guns in the small Turkish forts opposite the town roared in a thundering choir, and the Greek fortifications kept up a steady response.

No especial advantage has been gained so far by either side in this play of heavy metal, although Arta is in ruins. Here and there arises the smoke of a smoldering fire. The inhabitants have fled. Wounded Greek soldiers are everywhere.

There are hastily improvised hospitals scattered about the town, and these are filled with the maimed. For the greater part, they are well taken care of. A staff of a dozen or more physicians is kept moving day and night. The Red Cross people had two ambulances going, but one of them was shattered by a cannon ball, and the wounded Greek soldier inside was killed.

The Turks have also suffered greatly. Away off across the river we could see them burying their dead at dawn.

Before sunrise the Ninth regiment was in line, ready for work. By boat we advanced across the river into Turkish territory, forming on the far side under the high shelter of the bank.

At the word, the Greeks swung out into the open and charged a line of small Turkish forts in a forest half a kilometre in advance.

Before the Greeks had covered half the distance the forts opened fire, using five and 10 pounders and rifles. The fire was well directed and effective.

The Greeks fixed bayonets as they ran and swung right up to the line of fortifications in rather bad order, but with a wild valor that carried them pellmell over the parapets.

In a few minutes they had carried three of the forts, and the Turks, after firing a few shots, fell back on the others.

Afterward, I went out with a strong reconnoitering party of Greek cavalry. We crossed the open country to the village of Neochoris, which we found strongly defended by Albanians.

They refused to surrender, and the Greeks attacked at once. The town was swept clear with the exception of one house, which was held by 45 Albanians. They also refused to surrender. Orders were given to fire upon them. They replied to the fire with great valor, and above the shrill rattle of the guns we could hear them singing as they fought. All but one died fighting.

After this we rode over ditches filled in places with the bodies of Turks.

Crossing an open place, we came within about a mile of the Turkish village of Kiros, when, around a bend of the road in front, came a body of Turkish cavalry, led by Ali Bey.

With fine precision they wheeled into line and began a rapid fire that drove the Greeks back to the plain of Neochoris.

In all these engagements the Greeks showed great dash and courage. Today artillery will advance to attack the villages on the plain, where yesterday reconnoitering took place.

The plan is to turn the Turkish wing and open the road to Janina.

Yesterday Turkish troops, protected by the cannon on the hills, attempted to cross the bridge into Arta. This was prevented by the splendid work of the Greek sharpshooters. Yesterday's victory was well earned, notwithstanding the presence of German officers on the Turkish side.

FROM CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, April 22.—The sitting of the military commission is continuous at the Yildiz Kiosk. It is reported that Edhem Pasha has asked for 40,000 re-enforcements, and that orders have been sent to Salonica to hasten the dispatch of the reserves to the frontier. The mobilization of 40 additional battalions has been decided upon, and the enrollment of volunteers is being considered.

The sturdy resistance offered by the Greeks was wholly unexpected, and the idea that the forces of Edham Pasha would have a military promenade to Larissa has already been abandoned.

Telegrams received by the porte from the far western provinces show that the Albanian irregulars are devastating the country in many localities, and especially along the line of route between Preves and Janina. The local authorities are powerless to restrain them.

An imperial irade has been issued ordering the Turkish fleet to avoid a battle at sea and to remain under the protection of the fortifications.

Outbreak In Crete Expected.

London, April 22.—A dispatch to The Times from Canea says that the Italian consul is visiting the camp of Colonel Vassos, with a view of inducing the Italian volunteers to return home. He has had a long interview with Colonel Vassos, who said he could not control the insurgents, and feared they were preparing to take some action calculated to lead to serious complications.

The Italian consul gathered the impression that an attack was meditated on the positions occupied by the international troops. Colonel Vassos declared that he would not hesitate to attack Canea if ordered to do so by the Greek government. But, he added, that in such an event he would give due notice to the admirals of the international fleet.

Russian Fleet Moving.

Berlin, April 22.—It is reported here in well informed circles that the Russian government has asked permission of the sultan for the Russian Black Sea fleet to pass through the Dardanelles The Baltic fleet is also ready to start under sealed orders.

Appeal to Christian Women.

New York, April 22.—The following appeal has been issued by the Union of Greek Women, under the presidency of her majesty, Queen Olga, and Crown Prince Sophia:

To the women of the Old and New World: Christian Mothers, Sisters and Wives, Workers for Civilization and Progress, Guardians of Love and Justice, Greeting:

Christian mothers, sisters and wives, civilized, like you, earnestly appeal for your help. Our sons, our brothers and husbands, fighting for the Cross, are being killed and wounded in a sacred cause. Their blood stains the last page of the history of the 19th century, the history of civilization and progress of which you are the promoters.

Moose club, died in that city, of fatty degeneration of the heart. Mr. Lynch was a successful pitcher in the old Manchesters, and was later connected with the Lewiston, Pawtucket and Woonsocket nines.

Leather Men Must Continue Fight.

Boston, April 22.—At the annual meeting of the Boston Boot and Shoe club last night, the greatest interest was manifested in the remarks of President N. B. Rice of the New England Shoe and Leather association, who was one of the delegates sent by that organization to defeat the proposed duty on hides. Mr. Rice predicted that there would be no duty placed on hides, but he said that the effort to impose one could only be defeated by unremitting work by those interested.

The happiest moment in a woman's life is when she feels for the first time the clinging caress of her own baby's fingers. How many thousands of women miss this greatest, womanliest happiness, and live out dreary, babeless, loveless lives, because of ill-health. Every woman should realize the supreme importance of healthy vigor and strength of the organs distinctly feminine. Unless a woman is willing to be that least envied of her sex, a childless woman, she cannot afford to neglect this feature of her health.

The best known and most successful medicine for the cure of all diseases and weaknesses of the female reproductive organs is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Hundreds of homes that for years remained childless now ring with childish laughter as a result of the beneficial effects of the "Favorite Prescription." It is the prescription of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce. For years it has been used by Dr. Pierce in his daily practice in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., the greatest institution of the kind in the world. It has relieved thousands of women from suffering and pain and prepared thousands for the successful performance of the duties of maternity.

W. R. Malcolm, of Knobel, Clay County, Arkansas, writes: "Since I last wrote you we have had a baby girl born to us. My wife took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also your 'Favorite Prescription' all during the expectant period and until confinement, and she had no trouble to mention. A stouter, heartier child was never born. Our child will be one year of age the 8th inst. and she has not been sick a day. Has not had so much as the colic. It is a fact, sir, and we have not had to be up with her as often as twice at night since her birth. My wife had not even a fever for the two or three days after the child was born, although the attending physician told us that such would be the case. Our neighbors remarked to me that they thought my wife the stoutest little woman they ever knew. We think our good health due to the use of your family medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—can and should be removed; P. P. P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

REPULSED THE TURKS.

Greek Forces Drive Enemy Back at Dana i After Hard Fight.

Certain That Turks Have Not Taken Tyrnavo.

Battles Raging All Along the Frontier---Reports Very Conflicting.

Headquarters of the Greek Army, Larissa, April 23.—The latest advices as to the situation at Damasi show that on Sunday the Turks made a sortie from the town and attacked the Greek position at Boughasi pass and Sideropoluki. After severe fighting, the Greeks drove the Turks back across the frontier, with a loss of five guns.

Four hundred members of the Foreign Legion, including 26 Englishmen, under Captain Birch, arrived here on Tuesday. They were received with a great demonstration, which was repeated on their departure for the front in the evening. Intense enthusiasm was caused among the Greeks when the Englishmen sang the national war songs.

The Greek evzones and a mountain battery, having ascended the mountains east of the St. George monastery, were taken by the Turks on the flank. After a severe fight, lasting many hours, the Turks, who on Monday had driven the Greeks from Marti and Ligara, brought 280 Circassian cavalry from Elassona. This was on Tuesday. The Circassians began to extend into the plain; but being flanked by the Greek battery (Colonel Masfropas') and by the evzones, they were compelled to fall back on Ligara, with great loss.

A portion of the fleeing Turks have recrossed the Milouna pass, toward Elassona. The Greek infantry, extending in a semi-circle from Tyrnavo to Karavali, and supported by artillery, all well handled, after a hard day's fighting, drove back the Turks upon Ligara. It is understood that the latter are retreating in force toward Elassona.

The extsimation in which the Turks are held is shown by the stampede of the whole population on the frontier. The villages and roads to Larissa are literally blocked with fugitives, herds of cattle, horses and donkeys, women and children on foot, old women, carrying chairs, beds and household gear on their backs, on donkeys, in ox wagons and in every conceivable sort of vehicle.

The scene is heartrending, and reminds one of Pliny's description of the flight from Pompeii, after the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

Larissa is overcrowded. Food is scarce; the hospitals are full, and there is urgent appeal for surgical assistance. The wounded are arriving hourly, and all the surgical operations must be performed without chloroform, as there is none to be had.

AT GREEK CAPITAL.

Athens, April 23.—The ministers held a prolonged conference at the war office yesterday, and then went to the royal palace for a council, at which King George presided. It is said that very important decisions were taken.

The eastern squadron has bombarded Katerina and destroyed the custom house and other public buildings.

The western squadron has bombarded Mourto, north of Prevesa, and captured a Turkish steamer.

A dispatch from Larissa says that the Greek artillery at Reveni were reinforced and have reduced Vigla to silence. This will enable the brigades of Colonel Smolenitz and Colonel Dimopoulos to unite in a movement toward Darnzi.

A severe struggle continues at Boughazi, where Colonel Dimopolous is, and the latest reports from Mati confirm the news of the retreat of the Greeks from Nezeros, with considerable loss. They have fallen back to Mayrychori, which is well fortified.

It appears that the capture of Fort Salagora, on the gulf of Arta, was effected by the joint attack of a Greek column from Bani and cavalry from Arta.

There has been a good deal of revolver fighting in the streets here. It is reported that some of the wounded soldiers from the battle at Gritzovali say that their wounds were caused by splinters from rocks struck by Turkish shells, which never exploded.

The retreat of the Greeks from Nezeros to Mayrychori is regarded as a most important movement. Marychori is about 20 miles south in the direction of Larissa.

VIA LONDON.

London, April 23.—The war news received from the special correspondents of the London papers is meagre and somewhat conflicting. The only certainty seems to be that Tyrnavo has not yet fallen, but Nezeros is in the hands of the Turks.

According to The Times' correspondent at Athens, the result of the fighting which is raging furiously at Mati will decide the fate of Larissa; and if the Turks capture Mati, Tyrnavo must fall.

A telegram from Larissa says that 10,000 Turks are engaged, and that Crown Prince Constantine has arrived on the scene of action. The Greeks are maintaining their positions.

All the dispatches from Athens admit that the situation is extremely grave. Fighting appears to be going on along the whole frontier line. It is rumored that King George will start for Larissa on Monday next.

The western division of the Greek fleet has sailed from Loucas for the coast of Epirus, with the design of fomenting a revolt among the Albanians.

It is said that Hafa Pasha will resign the command of the Turkish fleet if it is ordered to leave the Dardanelles. He is said to have declared the vessels "quite unfit for active operations."

A dispatch to The Daily Chronicle from Athens says that the Greeks have held their own positions and destroyed the Turkish cavalry at Mati. German officers were seen fighting with the Turks, in German uniforms.

The report is confirmed that a bridge and two tunnels at a junction of the Salonica-Constantinople railway have been blown up, and the working of the line will be seriously interrupted for several months.

A dispatch to The Morning Post from Karvassara says it is reported that civil war has broken out among the Turks in Prevesa, and that the surrender of the town is expected hourly.

The Standard's Constantinople correspondent describes the Turkish fleet, and characterizes its appearance as ridiculous. He says that 6-inch guns are the heaviest carried. The captains of all the war vessels in the Dardanelles, including the torpedo boat, sent a round robin to Hafa Pasha, declaring the fleet unfit for sea. The vessels have, therefore, been ordered to return, but singly, so as not to attract public attention.

Orders have been given to mobilize the redifs of the Fourth army corps, and 20 battalions of redifs of the Second army corps.

It is reported that Ahmed Moukhtar Pasha has been ordered to leave Egypt forthwith for the scene of action.

It is also reported that the plan of campaign approved by the sultan, to take effect after the capture of Larissa, is to divide the army into two corps, one of which is to march by way of Volo and the other by a westerly route, and the two to unite at Athens, which is to be occupied and held until heavy indemnity is paid.

IN MILOUNA PASS.

Milouna Pass, April 23.—Everywhere among the Turkish troops there is the same enthusiasm. Two Albanian regiments, having driven the Greeks from their position, pursued them to a little spur of a mountain, overlooking the plains. The pursuit was against the orders of the officers. It was impossible to restrain them. They still hold the spur, declaring that it is impossible for a Turkish soldier to retreat.

Nechat's division has now been fighting for five days, but the more his soldiers fight the more they want to fight. Nechat Pasha is a commander of great ability. He knows this country perfectly, having done service on the frontier in 1886, when he surrounded and captured a whole Greek battalion.

Military reasons prevent the correspondents from describing the Turkish plan of attack upon the plain until the attack begins, but it is evident that the Greeks will be at a great disadvantage. Edhem Pasha and his staff, on the heights, are able to see every little movement of the Greeks; while the Greek general on the plain can see the Turks only when they are attacking. The Turks are well furnished with cavalry, scouts and artillery horses, as well as forage.

The Standard's Athens correspondent says that the Greeks at Mati repulsed a charge of 3000 Turkish cavalry, with great loss to the Turks. Crown Prince Constantine was present.

A dispatch to The Standard from Corfu says that the Greek squadron, while passing along the coast, was fired upon by the Turkish garrison at Murto, north of Prevesa, and replied by shelling the battery, killing several Turks. The Greeks sustained no loss.

The Athens correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: I learn on good authority that the powers are already assuming that Turkey will be victorious, and are discussing ways and means of settling matters after the war is ended. One dictatorial power proposes that th Greek dominions shall be curtailed, the said power retaining one district as a bond for the payment of the Greek debt to it.

The fighting at Kritiri continues in a desultory way. The Greeks' position, defended by earthworks and forts, is the last position on the heights, but not important, because a large Greek army is now massed on the plain as a good distance.

To understand the position, it is necessary to compare the line of mountains to the letter A. The Greeks hold the extreme point inside, while the Turks on the two lines dangerously menace the Greek position, which will become untenable as soon as the Turks advance.

Nechat Pasha still withholds the order to take Kritiri by assault, though the Turkish troops are begging his permission to do so.

LIFE OF PUBLIC SERVICE.

Congressman Holman of Indiana Had Almost Unparalleled Record.

Washington, April 23.—Representative Holman of Indiana died yesterday.

Death was due primarily to a fall he sustained early this month, as the result of an attack of vertigo. At the deathbed were gathered his four children, Mrs. R. E. Fletcher, W. S. Holman, Jr., Mrs. Fred Harvey and Paul Holman, all of this city.

William Steele Holman would have passed the three-quarter of a century mark had he lived until next September, and his career is remarkable for the large proportion of his life given up to the service of the public. No living man and few men dead have a record of 16 terms in the house of representatives. In all, 54 years of his life was spent in some public capacity.

As the "Watchdog of the Treasury" he was best known to the American people. The policy of strict economy pursued by him when in charge of appropriation bills has been followed so long that it has become to be regarded as one of the party tenets.

Mr. Holman was born in Indiana, in the country, at a little pioneer homestead in Dearborn county, called Verastau, in September, 1822. He had a common school education, supplemented by a two years' course in Franklin college, Indiana. Then he taught school and practiced law until 1843, when, at the age of 21 years, he entered the public service as probate judge. He was prosecuting attorney from 1847 to 1849. In 1851 he entered the legislature, and from 1852 to 1856 he was judge of common pleas.

His congressional career began with the Thirty-sixth congress, and out of the 20 congresses that have elapsed since that time he has been absent from only four, namely, the Thirty-ninth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth and Fifty-fourth, an almost unparalleled record.

National League Games.

The National league season opened in full blast yesterday. Following are the results:

At Cincinnati—Chicago, 7; Cincinnati, 8. Batteries, Griffith and Kittridge; Ehret and Peitz.

At Baltimore—Boston, 5; Baltimore, 10. Batteries, Stivetts and Bergen; Hoffer and Robinson.

At St. Louis—Pittsburg, 4; St. Louis, 1. Batteries, Killen and Sugden; Donohue and McFarland.

At Washington—Brooklyn, 5; Washington, 4. Batteries, Payne and Grim; Mercer and McGuire.

At Philadelphia—New York, 1; Philadelphia, 5. Batteries, Doheny and Wilson; Taylor and Clements.

At Louisville—Cleveland, 1; Louisville, 3. Batteries, Young and Zimmer; Frazer and Wilson.

Triumvirate of Dictators.

Managua, April 23.—The Official Gazette declares that President Zelaya of Nicaragua has written recently to President Guterrez of Salvador, urging a compact union of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador, instead of the loosely associated "republica mayor" now existing. If President Guterrez will agree, there appears no question about the consent of President Bonilla of Honduras, a protege of Zelaya. Then the latter will become president of the three states, and civil war may result between the government and a large percentage of the more intelligent and wealthy of the people opposing a combination of the three so-called dictators—Zelaya, Bonilla and Guterrez.

Warm Welcome to Hay.

London, April 23.—The United States ambassador, Colonel John Hay, accompanied by the secretary of the United States ambassy, Henry White, called at the foreign office yesterday afternoon. All the afternoon newspapers cordially welcome Colonel John Hay, and remarked upon the good taste he displayed in his speech in reply to the welcome of the mayor of Southampton, upon his arrival at that port. The Pall Mall Gazette confesses to a feeling of relief at the fact that Colonel Hay promises to be more reticent than his predecessor, and leave arbitration, the tariff and the fisheries alone.

Kindergarten Union Officials.

St. Louis, April 23.—Following are the officers elected by the International Kindergarten union at the closing session yesterday: President, Miss Lucy Wheeler of Boston; vice president, Miss Anna E. Bryan of Chicago; treasurer, Miss Hattie Twitchell of Springfield, Mass; recording secretary, Miss Anna Lewis of Cincinnati; corresponding secretary, Miss Haven of New York.

Sealers Arrived.

St. John's, N. F., April 23.—The sealing steamers Leopard, with 2000 seals; the Algerine, with 2500, and the Vanguard, with 6500, arrived yesterday. The cargo of the latter, consisting largely of old seals, is estimated to equal 13,000 young seals.

IT IS said that the friends of a sewer system have sized up all the Councilmen, but that they need a few of the doubtful ones to obtain the necessary two-thirds. The idea is prevalent that Wollaston is to receive the greatest benefit from the system, and this is operating against the appropriation. Upon all existing maps it is evident that Wollaston streets generally will be among the first in which sewers will be built, and if this is so they will be the first to be assessed. It is the assessments and the expense of entering which are worrying many property holders, and these would postpone the introduction of the sewer until times are better. Many of these have thus far been unable to pay the taxes assessed in 1896, and some even go back of that. Some of these would like to sell their property but there is no call for it at any price, and it is not surprising that they wish to put off the large expense that a sewer entails.

But the most desirable people will not come to Quincy unless they can have the conveniences of other suburban cities, and real estate men report the loss of sales because Quincy has no sewer system. It is claimed that with a sewer the value of land will be greatly enhanced; that it will be worth more and that there will be more of a demand for it. It is unfortunate that the sewer system and other city matters cannot be debated at greater length in the City Council. There is not that freedom of debate that there should be. At the last meeting of the Board of Trade a Councilman made a significant remark along this line. He said he wished the Board of Trade could have a debate on the sewer system, as debate was not allowed in the Council. There is altogether too much haste in rushing matters through the Council, and if there is any debate it is on trivial matters. If the people can be convinced that their property will be increased in value over the cost by sewer connection they will endeavor to meet the cost cheerfully. The columns of the LEDGER are open for communications.

THEORETICALLY, THE provision in the by-laws of the Board of Trade, that the board of directors shall be the governing board, has operated against the association, and the entire elimination of directors as proposed seems desirable. In fact, since the organization, the board of directors have never met and the association has drifted. If the amendments are adopted this evening, all business will hereafter be transacted in open meeting by the members present. All citizens, firms and corporations of the city may become members, and the dues will be reduced, that the Quincy Board of Trade may become popular. It would seem as if there was a field in Quincy for a board of trade, as much may be accomplished in many directions by concerted action.

THE ASSESSORS today received the warrant for the city's portion of the county tax. It is $16,507.92 against $11,777.50 last year, an increase of $4,730.42. This, with an increase in the State tax, will make the taxes very high unless some of the city appropriations proposed are reduced. The outlook now is that the increase in the levy will be over $30,000, which would increase the tax rate to $19 per $1000. Shall the appropriations be reduced?

As the theatrical season of 1896 7 draws to a close, one begins to realize what a bad one it has been—one of the worst the theatre has had for a great time. Only a few things have done phenomenally well in Boston, and those have not been the things that were expected to do well. Established attractions have fallen behind their averages right along from September to now.—Herald.

Perhaps this is due in a large measure to the fact that these theatres have not advertised in the suburban newspapers as in former years. Certain it is that Quincy people have missed the weekly announcements in the local press.

THE GREAT FALLS bank robbery should be a warning to all bank officials and also those doing business with the banks. The banking business of many firms in this city is left to young ladies, and they are noticed daily upon our streets with bank books and large sums in bills in plain sight. We believe they are exposing themselves to great danger, perhaps loss of life as well as money, and that more prudence should be exercised.

WOLLASTON FIRE.

House of Patrick Fitzpatrick on Fayette Street Gutted Yesterday.

The alarm from Box 52 at 3 45 Thursday afternoon called the department to a stub born fire in a cottage house on Fayette street owned and occupied by Patrick Fitzpatrick. Fitzpatrick occupied the lower tenement and the upper was vacant.

Just how the fire started remains to be explained, for all Mrs. Fitzpatrick, who was in the house at the time, can tell, is that she was lying down and was aroused to find the room full of smoke. The fire then was in the rear of the upper part and burning briskly and when the department arrived had spread through the whole of the upper part and was working through the roof. A strong wind was blowing at the time and it looked as though there was but little chance of saving the building. The steamer was located on Central avenue at the corner of Farrington street and supplied one powerful stream. Two streams were also run from the hydrant at the corner of Central avenue and Fayette street and two streams from the hydrant on Farrington street near Elmwood avenue, making five in all. With these the house was surrounded and gallons of water were poured into the building. But even then it was a hard fight and it was nearly an hour before the last spark was extinguished. The upper part of the building was completely gutted and the lower part thoroughly soaked.

The furniture in the house was taken out at the start and piled in a heap near the building and as a result it got badly wet and damaged.

The fire attracted a large crowd who watched the progress of the flames from a distance.

The loss is estimated to be $1200 on the house and $300 on contents.

It is thought that the fire originated from a defective chimney.

CANNONS AND SHELLS.

The Grand Army Lot at Mt. Wollaston Marked by Them.

As stated in Tuesday's LEDGER the cannons for the Grand Army lot at Mt. Wollaston cemetery have arrived. They are being placed in position and when completed will make an attraction which will be appropriate to the lot.

The cannons, four in number, are known as 32 pound naval cannons. They are something over ten feet in length, have a six inch bore and weigh about 6400 pounds each. These will be mounted in the four corners of the lot pointing outward.

Besides the cannons there are sixteen eleven-inch shells, weighing 130 pounds each, and these will be placed in four stacks between the cannons. The Grand Army lot will be easily distinguished now. The work is being done under the direction of Past Commander Holt and Comrade Munroe of Paul Revere Post.

INSANE WANDERER.

Officer Barry Took Him for a Burglar and Arrested Him.

About 3 30 Thursday morning Officer Barry saw a man coming out of a yard on Hancock street near the residence of Dr. Gordon. Thinking him a burglar he collared the fellow and placed him under arrest. He gave his name as John White and from his talk it was evident that he was out of his head. Later it was learned that the man was insane and had escaped from Bridgewater. The keepers saw him when he escaped and gave chase, but the fellow being a fleet runner got away from them. Thursday morning an officer from the institution came to Quincy and carried him back.

Hit on a Crossing.

There came near being a fatal accident at the Granite avenue crossing of the Granite branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., Thursday morning. As it was, considerable damage was done although fortunately no one was injured. As the 9 18 train from Boston was approaching, a two horse team loaded with manure, owned by a man named Burkhardt and driven by a German, attempted to cross the track, although signalled by the flagman. The horses got across all right, but before the wagon had crossed the engine struck it. The driver and horses were thrown over a fence into the ditch, the team overturned and its load of manure spread about more thoroughly than a half dozen men could have done it in a day. The wagon was smashed somewhat and the harness broken. The driver was more frightened than hurt.

Concert by C. E. Chorus.

The thousands of people who attended the Moody and Murphy meetings in Boston were greatly attracted by the singing of the Boston C. E. Chorus. Twice this winter public concerts have been given and the enthusiasm of the large audiences has testified to the work of the chorus. On May 12 in Tremont Temple the closing concert is to be given, for which a programme of unusual merit has been prepared. The chorus will be heard in the brightest and choicest selections and the assisting artists will be the Albion Male Quartette; the Day sisters, soloists; and S. Homer Eaton, reader. Special efforts will be made to close the concert in season for all out of town trains.

"CITY OF PRESIDENTS."

Supt. Lull Speaks of Our History at Teachers' Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Quincy Teachers' association was held Thursday evening at High School hall and was unusually well attended. President Pollard presided and at the business session it was voted, if possible, to have President Elliot, of Harvard college, address the association this term. Supt. Lull, with Mr. Tupper and Mr. Hall were appointed a committee to make arrangements. It was announced that the next meeting would be the annual meeting.

The Alsulean Ladies' quartette of Atlantic, composed of Miss Moxon, Mrs. Emery, Miss Coe and Miss Hall, rendered a "Greeting Waltz" by Macy, and responded to an encore.

Supt. Lull was then presented and gave an address on the "City of Presidents."

In opening Mr. Lull said that he should assume that one-third of those present did not know much of Quincy, one-third knew a little and one-third knew considerable. It was to the first third that he should speak.

A stranger said Supt. Lull, looks for that tree represented in the seal of the city, but there are few of you doubtless who have stood by it although it stands today. It is a savin tree and in its day stood alone and was a landmark for vessels coming into the harbor.

Supt. Lull then briefly outlined the history of Quincy from the September afternoon when Myles Standish and the Indian Squanto came up the harbor from Plymouth and landed at Squantum 274 years ago.

Two or three years later Capt. Wollaston and party landed and built a house on the knoll. Supt. Lull continued in this manner, speaking of the early land grants and locating them as near as possible upon a map. He also spoke of the old names of Quincy, Adams and others that have been associated with our city; thence down to the present time, speaking of the growth of the city and its schools, etc.

The address was full of interest and information much of which is published in Pattee's history.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was passed to Supt. Lull.

The meeting closed by a selection by the quartette entitled, "The Veil of Eve is Falling."

Short Stories.

It was a pleasure to friends of Miss Isabel H. Farrington, a former resident of Quincy, to attend her lecture-reading in the chapel of the Unitarian church on Thursday evening. Her subject was "The Short Story and Its Writers," and her audience included people from Braintree, Weymouth and Hingham as well as Quincy and Wollaston. Miss Farrington spoke of the various writers of short stories and their surroundings which gave them character and interest: Miss Wilkins, Miss Jewett, Cable, Miss Murphy, Bret Hart, Henry James and others. The demand of the busy 19th century was short stories. Their day had but just begun. They were typical of our land. She had great admiration for Miss Wilkins, of whom she spoke at length, and then read from her works "Christmas Jennie," which elicited applause. Bret Hart received considerable attention, and a selection was also read from his works, "The Teacher of Red Gulch."

The sidewalk on Granite street should be continued to School street. An important street like this should have sidewalks on both sides.

Congressman Barrows is at home for a few days and developments are expected relative to the Quincy postmastership. A caucus of Republican voters has been suggested, but since Mr. Hammond acquiesced it has not been urged so strongly. Both Mr. Adams and Mr. Hammond have a strong support.

The Crystal Spring ice is attracting considerable attention from our citizens this season. With the closing of the City league bowling season Mr. Costello of the Quincy alleys announces his intention beginning today, to reduce the price of bowling to ten cents per string. Manager Costello is deserving of much credit for keeping his two teams in the league until the finish although during the past two weeks he has been obliged to meet the local competition of reduction in prices. But he has had the satisfaction of proving that his alleys are the fastest in the State and that they hold the league records on singles 238, 242 and 255 and the league and state record on three string total, 626.

Jack Fratus the captain of his big pin team holds the single and three string records made on the Quincy alleys. Every convenience will be offered to bowlers during the summer months to indulge in the favorite sport, and the alleys will be kept up to their usual standard.

Commodore John Sanborn is getting together a candle pin team composed of members of the Quincy yacht club and they will play Councilman Bryant's team of Wollaston next week.

Western Roads and C. E. Rates.

Chicago, April 22.—Considerable bad feeling has developed among the Western roads over Christian Endeavor association business. The understanding was that no road should contract any of this business until a definite arrangement had been arrived at concerning rates and methods of routine Now it is reported that some of the roads have gone in and contracted large parties in the East. It is not alleged that the agreed rate has been cut but the fact that contracts have been made relieves the other roads, it is claimed, from their obligation to maintain the agreed rates. A general demoralization is likely to result from the present friction.

Ret rain to the Fold.

Pittsburg, April 22.—The Independent Order of Knights of Labor is a thing of the past. For some time past arrangements have been making for the return of old D. A. 3, four other assemblies have returned, making an addition of about 6000 to the order.

AN EVENTFUL SESSION

Resolution In the Senate to Express Sympathy With Greece.

The Nelson Bankruptcy Bill Passed, 49 to 8.

Judiciary Committee Surprised and Disappointed by Senate's Action.

Washington, April 23.—Yesterday's proceedings of the senate were the most interesting since the opening of the special session. Mr. Allen of Nebraska introduced a resolution expressing sympathy with Greece, which was warmly debated. The Nelson bankruptcy bill passed by a vote of 49 to 8.

Mr. Allen of Nebraska offered a resolution providing that the chief executive express the sympathy of the American people to the government of Greece. At the request of Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, the resolution was referred, Mr. Davis promising speedy action.

Another stirring chapter to the same subject was added by Mr. Allen, who proposed a complete cessation of senate business, except to consider appropriation bills, until committees were filled. The resolution led to another heated debate, in which Messrs. Chandler, Gear and Allen participated. The resolution finally went over.

The bankruptcy bill as passed is the substitute framed by Mr. Nelson of Minnesota. The success of this substitute in displacing the committee bill was a great surprise and disappointment to the judiciary committee, which had reported a comprehensive bill, known as the Torrey bill. It was regarded as a personal triumph of Mr. Nelson.

The Nelson bill as passed provides for voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy, but the theory of its author was to free it from harshness, and make it of substantial benefit to debtors and creditors.

On the announcement of the death of Representative Holman, the senate adjourned as a mark of respect, the adjournment being until next Monday.

The senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations: Harold M. Sewall of Maine, to be minister to Hawaii; James A. Smith of Vermont, to be consul at Leghorn, Italy; Thomas S. Harrison of Pennsylvania, to be agent and consul general at Cairo; Frank R. Moore of New York, to be collector of internal revenue for the First district of New York; James L. Davenport of New Hampshire, to be first deputy commissioner of pensions; Everett M. Kelly of Elgin, Ills., to be second deputy commissioner of pensions; John P. Jackson of California, to be collector of customs, district of San Francisco.

DEMOCRATIC DISSENSIONS.

Bland, With Small Following, Protests Against Bailey's Course.

Washington, April 23.—The house yesterday adopted a special order for the consideration of the senate amendments to the Indian appropriation bill, without reference to a committee.

Democratic dissensions again came to the surface. Mr. Bailey and his followers joined with the Republicans in this proposition, after the special order had been modified so as not to cover the appropriation bills. Mr. Bland of Missouri protested vigorously against the course, but only had a following of 24, not enough to get a record vote.

The house adjourned as a mark of respect to Representative Holman, whose death was announced.

LABOR ASKS QUICK AID.

Appeal to the Administration For Helpful Legislation.

Washington, April 23.—A memorial has been presented to the president and members of the cabinet by the executive council of the Federation of Labor. The memorial is, in part, as follows:

Washington, D. C., April 20.

To the President, Cabinet and Congress of the United States of America:

Gentlemen—Multitudes of our working people—American citizens—at this hour are suffering humiliating poverty and countless privations, and look to you for speedy relief. Last fall they were promised helpful legislation, and they expect it from you without unnecessary delay. In no party spirit we appeal to you to heed their wants, and to promptly meet this unparalleled situation in the time spent at American patriotism.

Here follows a lengthy discussion of the business depression.

The following measures are recommended:

First—Amendment to the federal 8-hour law, so as to secure its practical enforcement on all public works, by or for the United States government, whether done by contract, sub-contract or day work.

We are sternly opposed to the evasion and violations of the present 8-hour law by the heads of the departments and officials in the federal service.

Second—A remodelling of our immigration laws so as to secure an enlarged protection to American citizens and their families.

Third—Reform in the national banking system, and in the issuance of the currency of the United States, so as to secure the people from the possibilities and disasters of financial crisis.

Fourth—Liberal appropriations for government public works, and for the improvement of rivers and harbors.

In conclusion the memorial says: By the prompt adoption of these relief measures at the hands of congress, we firmly believe some degree of prosperity may be restored, and the condition of the people bettered. We assure you the millions are now in no disposition to be trifled with. They are fast becoming desperate, and deep are their mutterings of discontent. They desire to realize some of the prosperity so freely promised on the stump six months ago.

Over 3,000,000 of willing workers are idle. Shall they appeal to you in vain? Shall the interests of trusts, syndicates, monopolies, corporations and moneyed men remain of more importance than the welfare of toilers? We trust not. We still believe the people's representatives are not dead to the public welfare. We ask that they raise to the patriotism of this great occasion and hasten to bring relief to the masses of their fellow citizens.

Would Tax Only the Land.

Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn of New York will endeavor to answer every possible question and doubt raised as to the proposed "single tax" at the banquet of the Massachusetts league to labor organizations at the Quincy House, Boston, next Tuesday.

Civil Trial List.

The following cases are marked for trial at the civil session of the District court next Tuesday.

30—McDermot vs. Whelan.

61—Farrell vs. O'Neil & tr.

74—New England Dressed Meat and Wool Co. vs. Kerrigan.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. SAVED FROM THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—can and should be removed; P. P. P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

CROWDS AWAITED HIM

Great Gathering at Dover Depot When Joseph Kelley Arrived.

Murderer Will Have Preliminary Hearing Tomorrow.

Subsequent Procedure Depends Entirely on Result of Arraignment.

Dover, N. H., April, 23.—Joseph E. Kelley, Somersworth's self confessed murderer, forger and bank robber, who has kept Strafford county people in a state of intense excitement for a week, is at last behind the bars in Dover jail.

Tired, begrimed and haggard from his long ride, he reached here and is now an occupant of a cell in the county jail, awaiting an arraignment, and a trial, if he demands it, on a charge of the murder of Cashier Joseph A. Stickney of the Great Falls National bank at Somersworth.

Fast day, which otherwise would have been a very quiet, unattractive holiday, was enlivened in all the New Hampshire towns along the line of the Boston and Maine's northern division by the passage of the train from Montreal which brought the young murderer home to the seat of justice.

Somersworth people were disappointed at the change of route which prevented the train passing through that town, but Somersworth got the "tip" sufficiently early to enable halh its inhabitants to take electrics and steam cars for Dover in time to arrive here ahead of Kelley and his captors.

All the towns and villages within 20 miles were represented in the throng that densely packed in Depot square and neighboring side streets when the Rochester train came in. Fences, sheds, roofs of houses, freight cars and any other place of vantage from which a sight of the incoming train and passing vehicles could be obtained were topped with sightseers.

There was no noisy demonstration, but necks were craned and everybody elbowed his way toward the front to get a glimpse of the captive and his attendants.

The fleeing hacks were followed by a carriage load of newspaper men and a long line of private conveyances in their wake. Crowds lined the sidewalks the entire distance.

In five minutes after the murderer's arrival, the jailyard contained a picturesque congregation of hacks, buggies, wagons and bicycles.

Only the coterie of officials and the newspaper men were admitted to the jail building.

After usual formalities Kelley was placed in a cell. All day yesterday he went without food. Meals were offered him at noon and night, but he refused to eat, saying his stomach was out of order. Tomorrow forenoon Kelley will be taken to Somersworth and formally arraigned.

When Kelley is arraigned, if he adheres to his previously declared intention to make a clean breast of it and plead guilty, there is nothing more to be done but to remand him for the sitting of the grand jury in September.

If, on the other hand, he pleads not guilty, then counsel will require time to arrange his evidence, and there will be a continuance for a week or perhaps 10 days.

On the other hand, Kelley may waive examination, in which case he would be bound over for the superior criminal court to return an indictment.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 23.—In the senate yesterday a bill authorizing the granting of licenses to dealers in paints and dealers of chemicals, for the sale of pure alcohol, was introduced. This bill is framed to overcome the governor's veto of a similar bill, which, however, did not require a license to sell. The rules were suspended to admit the resolution adopted by the Boston Medical society favoring a state board of insanity. In the house the joint committee on judiciary reported an act authorizing the appointment of a committee of three to draft and prepare an act embodying the principles of the Torrens system of land transfer. This commission is to be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the council, and is to report on or before the first Wednesday in February, 1898. The compensation is left with the governor and council. The house committee on roads and bridges has reported a bill for the operation of horseless or motor carriages in the public streets. The measure is simply declaratory, and does not provide regulations for running such vehicles, or specify that bells must be used on them, as proposed in some of the bills presented. The debate on the mill tax bill, the project for a state appropriation for the support of public schools, was resumed, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Appointed by Governor Wolcott.

Boston, April 23.—Governor Wolcott sent several important appointments to the executive council yesterday afternoon. Among them were: Eben S. Draper, Hopedale; Arthur G. Cumnock, Lowell, and Colonel Henry A. Thomas, as the special commission to attend the Tennessee exposition. J. Albert Brackett of Jamaica Plain, to be special justice of the municipal court of the West Roxbury district. Carleton T. Phelps of North Adams, to be justice of the district court of northern Berkshire, vice Shepard Thayer, resigned. John F. Dowsley and George E. Mitchell, reappointed to the state board of registration in dentistry. Gilbert A. A. Pevey of Cambridge, to be master of chancery for Suffolk county. William B. De Las Casas of Malden, reappointed metropolitan park commissioner. Elisha S. Converse of Malden, reappointed trustee of the Soldiers' home in Chelsea.

Note Declared a Forgery.

Exeter, N. H., April 23.—In the superior court here yesterday the suit of Mrs. Catherine S. Norris vs. the town of Epping, to recover on a note for $1000, which she discounted for the late Selectman C. E. Folsom, was brought to a sudden and unexpected termination. An expert on handwriting testified that the alleged signature of Town Treasurer Pike on the note was a forgery. Consequently, the note was of no value, and the case was dropped. The note in question is one of several on which it is claimed Selectman Folsom forged the signatures of the other selectmen and the town treasurer. Since Folsom's death, a number of suits have been brought against the town for damages, as the result of his alleged forgeries.

New Point of Law.

Boston, April 23.—The failure of the wool firm of W. D. Eaton & Co. in September last was recalled by a case which was heard yesterday in the equity session of the superior court, in which a point of law is involved. It appears that when Eaton & Co. were in business they received shipments of wool from parties in Maine and New Brunswick, against which drafts were drawn, the drafts being accepted by Eaton & Co. and discounted by the Calais National bank and the Bank of Nova Scotia. At the time of the failure, Eaton & Co. had on hand quantities of wool, and the question before the court is as to whether the assignee of Eaton & Co. can retain the proceeds of that wool and apply it on account of drafts paid by Eaton & Co., or whether the proceeds can be reached by the banks.

Footpads Fatally Injure Aged Man.

Pawtucket, R. I., April 23.—Andrew McCall, 70 years old, a veteran of the Mexican and civil wars, was held up on Blackstone street, about 8 o'clock last night, by two men, who answer the description of the robbers who perpetrated several hold-ups in Providence recently. He was struck in the forehead with a sandbag and knocked down, and every pocket in his clothes cut out with a knife. In cutting his pockets the assailants made a wound five inches long on his left leg and another on the left breast. McCall is in a critical condition, owing to his age, and he may not survive. The highwaymen secured no money from him, but stole his pension papers.

Fast Day Indifferently Celebrated.

Nashua, N. H., April 23.—On account of the position taken on the subject of Fast day observances by Governor Ramsdell in his inaugural, the day was indifferently observed here. The annual gathering of Scottish Rite Masons of the valley of the Nashua, which includes Masons from Boston to Lancaster, N. H., was held, with 484 of the most prominent Masons of the district present. Following the degree work on a large number of candidates, there was a banquet and entertainment in City hall.

Royal Arcanum.

Boston, April 23.—The 20th annual session of the grand council, Royal Arcanum of Massachusetts, began yesterday in Knights of Honor hall. The order has made a net gain of 16,000 members in 1896, the largest increase in its history. The order has a total membership of 200,000 men. In this state the membership roll has 18,000 names; the councils are in splendid condition; they have shown a greater interest in the work than ever, and, in consequence, the order is growing in favor.

Off For New York.

Boston, April 23.—The Massachusetts delegation which will participate in the Grant memorial parade on Tuesday next, with Governor Wolcott at the head, will go to New York this afternoon. A large number of military organizations will go independently, and these include the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, 150 men; troop A, National Lancers, 100 men; Loyal Legion, 300 men; company G, Ninth infantry; company H, Eighth infantry; company G, Eighth infantry, and company F, naval brigade.

Annapolis a Success.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 23.—The new United States gunboat Annapolis had her official trial trip over the course in Long Island sound yesterday, and it was successful in every way. The little vessel made an average hourly speed of 13.43 knots, which is 1.43 knots better than the contract requirements. There is no bonus allowed by the government for excess of contract speed.

Serious Effect of Mill Revelations.

New Bedford, Mass., April 23.—The revelations concerning the affairs of the Bennett and Columbia mills have already had a serious effect on the community, in that additions which were to be made to the plants of the Whitman mills and the New Bedford Manufacturing company will not be made at the present time.

Tuberculosis Cattle Sent to Brighton.

Attleboro, Mass., April 23.—Dr. Mackie, the newly appointed cattle inspector in this district, vice Dr. Swift, yesterday shipped to Brighton for slaughter, 15 cows suffering from tuberculosis. Eight of the infected herd were found on the Alien farm in North Attleboro, and the remaining seven in other parts of the district.

Schoolhouse Condemned.

Newburyport, Mass., April 22.—An inspector from the state department has condemned the Jackman grammar school building, on account of its poor ventilation and sanitary arrangements. As the school trustees have no funds, the improvements necessary cannot be made until next year.

Reception to Commander Carleton.

Winthrop, Me., April 23.—Hon. L. T. Carleton, who has just been elected department commander of the Maine G. A. R., was tendered a very complimentary reception by his own post in this town last night. The Women's Relief Corps also assisted in the affair.

Negro Lynched.

Alexandria, Va., April 23.—Joseph McCoy, colored, was lynched here yesterday, for the outrage of his employer's two daughters. He was arrested, and confessed his crime. Two attempts were made to break in the jail. The second attack was made by a mob of 500 men, who overpowered the jailers and hung the prisoner to a lamppost.

Alleged Murderer of Lenz Acquitted.

Washington, April 23.—United States Consul Bergholz, at Erzeroum, Turkey, has reported to the state department that the Turkish court there, which has been trying the Kurds and Armenians, charged with the murder of young Lenz, the American bicyclist, while on his tour around the world awheel, has acquitted the accused.

Kentucky Deadlock.

Frankfort, Ky., April 23.—At the joint session of the legislature yesterday two ballots were taken for United States senator without result. Republicans and Gold Democrats refused to answer to the rollcall, and this caused the lack of a quorum.

Another Accident to the Ericsson.

New York, April 23.—The torpedo boat Ericsson has met with another accident. It is stated that one of the engines is considerably damaged, and that it will take nearly two weeks to make the necessary repairs.

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

The dwelling house and stable of Mark L. Staples, at Brownfield, Me., burned Wednesday.

A. D. Thurston, aged 64, was found hanging in the barn of the Elliot hospital at Keene, N. H.

An Italian had both hands blown off by the discharge of an old blast of dynamite, which he was drilling, at West Warren, Mass.

Arthur McFadyen, aged 4, son of David McFadyen, fell into the Blackstone river, at Pawtucket, R. I., while at play, and was drowned.

Mrs. Mary Bradley, a middle aged lady, was fatally burned at Westport, Conn., by her dress taking fire as she was burning leaves in her yard.

James Rowley, employed at the mills of the J. & P. Coates' thread company, at Pawtucket, R. I., fell three floors in an elevator shaft, and was fatally injured.

An old man, who registered as Henry Meister of Boston, was found dead in bed in a lodging house on the Bowery, New York. He committed suicide by taking paris green.

Patrick Morris, an aged apothecary, was assaulted and robbed in his store at Boston by five men yesterday. The old man was badly injured, and was taken to the hospital. His assailants escaped.

Nora Hayes, aged 16, of Cambridgeport, Mass., has been arrested on a warrant charging her with violating the postal laws by sending obscene and scurrilous letters through the mail to Mrs. Hannah Smith of Cambridgeport. The letters seem to be the outcome of neighborhood quarrels.

Insurgents Still Hold Banes.

Havana, April 23.—The insurgents continue holding Banes, on the northeast coast of the province of Santiago de Cuba. The Spanish columns of troops have not been able to advance on the place, partly on account of the flooded condition of the country and also because they have not received the reinforcements asked for. A squadron of 10 Spanish warships, commanded by the naval chief of staff, Senor Marenco, has been at Gibara for four days past, preparing to remove the torpedoes which the insurgents have placed at the entrance of Banes bay.

Echo of Seeley Dinner.

New York, April 23.—The famous Seeley dinner was referred to in a motion before Justice Beach in the supreme court yesterday. Ernest R. Esmond sued for commissions growing out of the sale of the Lantern Hill silk mills at Mystic, Conn., to the Seeleys. The suit was on the calendar for today, but the attorneys for the defendants secured a continuance, on the ground that his clients had derived considerable notoriety over a dinner, and they wanted it to blow over before appearing in court.

Five Moonshiners Killed.

Louisville, April 23.—A special to The Post, from Pikesville, says: An unconfirmed report reaches here from far up in the mountains that five moonshiners or desperate characters, who had been terrorizing the people of Virginia and Tennessee districts, were killed by citizens, who formed a vigilance committee and went after them.

Another Fighter Killed.

San Jose, Cal., April 23.—Frank Evans, the lightweight pugilist, died yesterday of concussion of the brain, caused by a right-hand blow, delivered by Matt Semichy in a fight before the athletic club.

New York, April 23.—Frank Moss, counsel for the Parkhurst society, was yesterday afternoon appointed as police commissioner, to succeed Theodore Roosevelt.

UNITY CLUB.

The Closing Night of the Study of French History.

So far as last evening's programme goes it marks the completion of the study of French history and biography which the Unity Club of Wollaston has been pursuing the past winter. The meeting was in charge of Mr. Charles E. Finch, Jr., the master of the Wollaston school.

Mr. Frederic Allison Tupper read the opening paper "Modern Education in France." It was intensely interesting, Mr. Tupper telling the story,—it was written in such a bright, breezy style that it came more under the caption of a story rather than an essay—of the great national organization which Napoleon I established under the name of the University of France, which embraced all branches of public instruction, the government having a direct and supreme control over public instruction through the instrumentality of this institution.

The Rev. James E. Bagley followed with a paper showing great depth of thought upon Joseph Ernest Renau, the French orientalist, tracing his life from his birth in 1823 to his death in 1892.

The closing paper was upon "Paris, ancient and modern," by Mr. John O. Hall, Jr., of Quincy. Mr. Hall's paper dwelt chiefly upon the history of Paris as well as upon the public buildings, boulevards, gardens and innumerable attractions which go to make the charm of Paris.

The entertainment was of the usual high order. Miss Hastings sang with excellent taste a solo and responded to an encore, as did a quartette of young ladies from Atlantic, Miss Moxon, Mrs. Frank Emery, Miss Hall and Miss Coe; Miss Helen Sibley and Prof. Frank Gilbert rendered piano solos with great expression; and Mr. W. E. Simmons read in his inimitable manner a darkey dialect selection from F. Hopkinson Smith's "Col. Carter of Cartersville."

Whist Benefit.

The whist matinee held at Mrs. Burrows, South street, for the benefit of Mr. Harvey Smith on Friday was largely attended. Many thanks are due to the business men of Quincy for the generous way they responded to every request that was made, in no instance did any one refuse.

Twenty-seven tables contended for the prizes which were selected as follows: First prize, salad bowl, Mrs. C. R. Safford, Atlantic; second, cracker jar, Mrs. Holt; third, picture, Mrs. Whitman; fourth, cup and saucer, Mrs. Penniman; fifth, carriage robe, Miss Holmes; sixth, bon-bon spoon, Mrs. Burgess; seventh, bon bon dish, Mrs. Ewell; eighth, perfume, Miss Edith Crane; ninth, cologne, Mrs. Taber, East Weymouth; tenth, glove buttoner, Mrs. D. W. Lincoln, East Weymouth; eleventh, box of confectionery, Mrs. Willard; twelfth, loaf of angel cake, Mrs. Bates, East Weymouth; thirteenth, box of toilet soap, Mrs. Murdock, East Weymouth; fourteenth, pack of cards, Mrs. F. Drake; fifteenth, Windsor tie, Miss Mary Graham.

Mrs. E. W. H. Bass, Mrs. Arthur Kelley and Mrs. C. Henry Hardwick used their best efforts and did excellent work not only with the tickets but in every way to promote success. During the afternoon frappe was served, Mrs. Arthur Kelley presided at the table and was assisted by the Misses Burrows.

Several Boston firms through the interest of Mr. Arthur Kelley contributed prizes which were presented by him. Mrs. Kelley also gave an exquisite cup and saucer.

Mr. Smith was for some time conductor on the Quincy street railway where his bright face and obliging ways laid up memories in the hearts of the people that have stood him well in the hour of need.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. THE LIFE OF THE ROSE.

Where are voices kings were glad to hear?
Where now the feast, the song, the bayadere?
The end is nothing, and the end is near.

And yonder lovely rose—alas, my dear!
See the November garden, rank and drear.
The end is nothing, and the end is near.

See how the raindrop mingles with the mere!
Mark how the age devours each passing year!
The end is nothing, and the end is near.

Forms arise and grow and wane and disappear.
The life allotted thee is now and here.
The end is nothing, and the end is near.
—From the Persian.

HER LAST DANCE.

The bolt had fallen that morning, and with numb, folded hands and dry, terror filled eyes she sat in the darkest corner of her gay little drawing room, beneath the ghastly chamber whence were soon to be borne the earthly remains of her husband.

What was she to do? How was she to procure not the luxuries without which she scarce imagined her child could exist, but the bare necessities of life? Every piece of furniture in the house was mortgaged to its full value and her last jewel had gone to pay the rent. Thank Heaven, they could have this haven for some time to come! She was in debt to butcher and baker, and she had not had a new pair of gloves for months. Shillings had become the basis of expenditure as guineas had been hitherto.

In the morning sympathizing friends came to support and assist her through the trying ordeal. All passed like a dream. "Tout passe, tout passe," she said over and over, "but my heart is strong."

When, a month later, she sat with Cousin Selina in the same room, in the same chair, listening again to the gusty rain as it beat against the windows, it was to her as if no appreciable time had intervened. Dreamily she took up the thread of her thoughts where she had dropped it that sad night, and the strange conceit came back to her.

Women less brilliant, but stolid and plodding, were ensconced in journals where she had disdained even to allow her verses to appear. With voices in no way comparable to her, she saw others succeed, while she, who sang like a bird—but like a bird, too, only when inspired—could make no impression. And so, dowered as she was, she was poorer and more helpless than the humblest woman who could conscientiously knit a pair of stockings or embroider a tea-cloth.

The pretty face seemed pinched and weary. Two deep lines began to inclose the drooping mouth. "I smile en parenthese," she said to Cousin Selina as she turned from the mirror, where she was trying to change the expression of those quivering lips, that even at the moment curved upward, a Cupid's bow, at the quaint conceit.

More surely than ever she knew she could ask no favors, but must put her own shoulder to the wheel. But what to do when all else failed? To dance on the stage! Why not? She could dance. All her life she had loved to dance. In her greatest joy she had ever found fullest expression in dancing to her own reflections before the long mirror in her boudoir. A hundred times her darling had been lulled to sleep, eased of her pain by the dancing of her "pretty mumsie." Once, with her husband, she had seen a famous actress—a woman chaste as herself—dance so gracefully, yet with an abandon so perfect, as to captivate an audience accustomed to exhibitions from which she had turned in loathing—to his annoyance, since his taste grew yearly less refined. Even then, "the pity of it," she had sighed. And how much even then was implied that she should say, turning to him:

"That I could do, I am certain."

"May you never need," he had answered fervently, for he loved her and was proud of her, though his paths in life were devious, though he would not follow her. It all came back to her vividly—the gay scene, the eager faces, the murmur of delight, the applause that rose again and again and could not be staid. Her heart beat fast. Yes, she would dance. It might cost her the few friends she still possessed, but as long as she helped herself she could maintain her pride.

Next day became a tiresome round of interviews with impatient, incredulous or impertinent managers, with a heart growing daily heavier and a brain sharpened almost to viciousness. At last an impresario, touched by her grace and the expression of brave despair in her hungry eyes, granted her a trial, fixing an hour at the theater on the following day in the early forenoon. Amid a concourse of women, some sympathetic, some brazenly inquisitive, all so different from herself that she scarce felt they were her sisters, she made her first essay. How unreal it seemed—a dream from which she would waken in a moment!

She has kept her glance straight before her, trying to shut out the crudity of her surroundings—the "sets" all awry, the glimpses of busy carpenters and scene shifters, the flashily dressed men and women waiting for rehearsal and familiarizing in a way that gave her a mental nausea. A row of raw girls in soiled dancing shoes and fleshings, their upper halves clothed in ordinary bodices, went awkwardly through their matutinal drill. The odor of dust and oil and paint began to overpower her, and she was on the verge of losing her self possession when the kind voice of the manager, close behind her, said:

"Your turn, madame. Will you tell me what music you desire?" The orchestra, composed of one violin on the stage, began the swinging accompaniment of "La Paloma," and at the end, and while the blood beat and surged in deafening throbs in her heavy head, again she heard the voice of the manager, seemingly a great distance off:

"Accept my compliments, madame. I shall be glad to offer you a salary of £10 a week. I am sure you will have a success." "Un success fou," he said, turning to the orchestra, who gracefully waved his fiddle, bowed low and replied, "Sans doute." Poor woman, she looked into their eyes to see if they were mocking her. Then, convinced of their good faith, she mustered all her strength, and, with the strange surging still in her ears, smiled, said "I thank you," turned quickly and left the theater. How she got home was always a mystery to her. Martha heard a faint pull at the bell, hastened to the door and found her mistress pale as death, but with her eyes wide open and a set smile on her lips. She put her to bed, held her quivering body till by degrees the tortured soul began to still itself and the overwrought brain found relief in such healing tears as had not come before in all those strained days of trial. And now there was practicing and preparation of costumes, then the first appearance and the many succeeding, all justifying the acumen of her friend the impresario. Gradually all pressing need, the indebtedness, the grinding care, disappeared, and she could have been comparatively happy.

All day, save for the morning hour of rehearsal, she kept Maizie beside her. It was Maizie who made a daily holocaust of unopened billets doux and adorned her nursery with the flowers that invariably accompanied them. It was Maizie who first enjoyed, almost inspired, the dances she invented, and who first praised her "sweet mumsie" in her artistic costumes. Every evening she left the child with a new pang, though she could not but feel her safe with good Martha, and flew on the wings of love to her bedside on her return. Resolutely she shut her eyes to all that displeased her in her new surroundings, and soon her dancing became to her an infatuation. For the time she was on the stage all else was forgotten. Her grief fell from her like a dismal garment, and she stood the personification of laughing youth, grace and joy. Always garbed in white and with a gauzy, winglike scarf—La Paloma they called her after her first dance—she floated in an atmosphere chaste and poetic, too delicate to be misunderstood, and, as before, even the women were charmed. Yes, she might have become content, but daily Maizie grew weaker and more fragile, and her heart failed within her. She would take the child in her despairing arms and hold her so close that the little one would cry out, yet was happy withal in the embrace, for she loved her "mumsie" with a deep devotion and seemed with a strange prescience to understand much.

One night—it was about three months after her debut—she left home a little lighter of heart than usual. Maizie had been feverish that day and had grown quieter toward evening, and they had had a royal game of romps and a "big, big hug and kiss" when she left. Toward the close of the evening she began to grow ill at ease, and throwing her fur lined mantle about her, without changing her costume, she left the theater hurriedly and, jumping into a hansom, was driven home in all haste. The front door was open. From the hall came the voice of her physician:

"Go quickly, or she will not know her."

"Who will not know whom?" she said to herself. "Who will not know whom?" she reiterated to the physician as she walked quickly into the house.

He took her in his strong arms, carried her to the nursery and placed her in a chair beside the child. The dear little face, already fanned by the wings of the angels, flushed softly.

"I was waiting, mumsie," she whispered. "You will dance for me now, will you not?"

She fell on her knees beside the couch and took the little one in her arms.

"Sweet, lovely mumsie," said the child, kissing her bare arms, "you will be a real dove in heaven."

"Maizie, Maizie, do not leave me!" wailed the trembling woman.

"No, mumsie," answered the child. "You shall come too."

The mother gazed at her, speechless and wild with alarm.

"Mumsie," said the little one, trying to raise the heavy little head with the short, golden curls in damp ringlets on the pale forehead, "mumsie, dear, do dance. Perhaps the angels don't dance, and I love it so!"

With a great sob and a supreme effort she rose from her knees, threw off the heavy cloak which was still about her and began to dance. Was ever such martyrdom, ever such bravery? Ah, mother and saint, in other days canonization was often more lightly won. On she danced in the dimly lit death chamber, those outside standing with bated breath, not daring to enter, yet seeing it all. Sweetly the child smiled, lifted the little hand once as if to thank her, then the fluttering eyelids closed, the long lashes rested on the pale cheeks, and she was still. Closer and closer danced the mother, till she leaned anxiously, breathlessly, over the child, fearing to stop abruptly lest she should waken her. Then with a cry that rang through the house, and rings now in the ears of the two who waited outside the door, she fell on the couch beside her angel and the brave heart broke.—Black and White.

Queer Conduct of a Tree.

An unusual incident occurred in the timber near Fossil, Or., the other day. Beaber and French sawed through a tree measuring 13 feet in circumference, and, though they sawed until the teeth of the saw came through on the opposite side, though the tree top was free from all support, though they pried and chopped and wondered and talked, still that tree stood there, and still the saw remained pinched in so tightly that it could not be moved. At last they were obliged to go home, leaving the tree standing on its stump. Next day the tree was down. It had apparently sprung or slid from the stump, striking perpendicularly in the sandy soil at first, making a hole five feet deep and as far across.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 25. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—"What is true liberty, and how is it won?"—John viii, 30-40.

Liberty is one of the most priceless boons of humanity. It is universally desired. Men sacrifice everything ofttimes for liberty. Slavery of any kind is detestable and revolting. Since liberty is so important and so much to be desired, it is of the greatest importance that we should have correct ideas of liberty, that we should know what is the highest and truest form of liberty and be anxious to attain to it. There are many false standards of liberty in the world today. To some liberty means license—license to do as they please regardless of their obligations to God or to their fellow men. Liberty does not mean license. No man has a right to act as if he were the only person in existence. Our actions must always be viewed from the standpoint of our relation to God and to the others in life about us. Nor are physical, political and mental forms of liberty the highest and truest forms. Men are often free politically and physically and yet slaves. On the other hand, men are often slaves politically and physically, and yet at the same time are enjoying the truest liberty.

The best and the truest liberty in the world is soul liberty—liberty from the passions and lusts of life, freedom from the chains of sin and of unbelief that bind men stronger than ever the chains of physical slavery bound them. Men often think they are free when they are not. The Jews, because of their descent from Abraham, claimed they were freemen, boasted of their liberty, yet Christ pointed out to them that they were in slavery to unbelief and to sin and did not possess the liberty which He alone could give to them. Sinners often boast of their liberty. Free thinkers and free livers, who place no limits to thought or life, imagine they are the freest of men; that they enjoy the highest forms of true liberty. The fact, however, is that it is only the shadow of liberty. In reality they are slaves, captives to the most degrading beliefs and actions, and know nothing of the true liberty which makes a man free from sin, gives him absolute power and control over himself and makes him recognize the supreme claims of the law of God as against his own sinful desires.

How is true liberty won? Through Jesus Christ alone. Men may free us from physical bondage and slavery, but Christ alone can break the chains of sin and make us spiritually free. If we enjoy the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, we are free indeed. Otherwise we are not free. Christ is willing to make us all free—to give us power to overcome sin, self and the world and to live for God, our fellow men and the life to come.

Bible Readings.—Lev. xxv, 10; Isa. lxi, 1; Jer. xxxiv, 8, 9; Ps. cxix, 41-48; Luke, iv, 16-20; Rom. vi, 16-18; viii, 1-21; I Cor. viii, 8, 9; II Cor. iii, 17; Gal. iii, 27, 28; iv, 22-31; v, 1-15; Jas. i, 25; ii, 12; I Pet. ii, 13-17; II Pet. ii, 17-21.

Modern Preaching.

The present is an age of flippant preaching. Men handle the word of God with no more reverence than they would one of Burns' poems or Shakespeare's plays. Sermons are punctuated with smart sayings, stale anecdotes and exaggerated statements. All of these things may strike the minds of sinners as bright, entertaining and agreeable, but they are not the things to most deeply impress the soul with divine truth. The manner of him who stands in the pulpit to represent God to men should indicate gravity, solemnity, reverence and deep earnestness, to show sinners the evil of their doings and impress all with the awful importance of the gospel message. No true servant of Christ should depend on his wit and pleasantry or his philosophy to win his way into the citadel of the heart and subdue it unto Christ. It is the power of gospel truth by the Spirit that does that.—Christian Instructor.

Conditions In Prayer.

Prayer is sometimes discredited by persons who should largely profit by its friendliness. We are confronted by them with the declaration that they have received but few if any direct answers to prayer. If this statement is true, there must be an assignable reason, and we shall be disappointed if the failure is not chargeable to the petitioner, while the word of the Lord remains faithful and true.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Doing For Others.

Doing nothing for others is the undoing of one self. We must be purposely kind and generous, or miss the best part of existence. The heart that goes out of itself gets large and full of joy.—Moravian.

The Joy of Incompleteness.

If all our lives were one broad glare
Of sunlight, clear, unclouded;
If all our path were smooth and fair,
By no soft gloom enshrouded;
If all life's flowers were fully blown
Without the sweet unfolding,
And happiness were rudely thrown
On hands too weak for holding—
Should we not miss the twilight hours,
The gentle haze and sadness?
Should we not long for storms and showers
To break the constant gladness?

If none were sick and none were sad,
What service could we render?
I think if we were always glad
We scarcely could be tender.
Did our beloved never need
Our patient ministration,
Earth would grow cold and miss, indeed,
Its sweetest consolation.
If sorrow never claimed our heart
And every wish were granted,
Patience would die and hope depart—
Life would be disenchanted.

And yet in heaven is no more night,
In heaven is no more sorrow.
Such unimagined, new delight,
Fresh grace from pain will borrow.
As the poor seed that under ground
Seeks its true life above it,
Not knowing what will there be found
When sunbeams kiss and love it,
So we in darkness upward grow,
And look and long for heaven,
But cannot picture it below
Till more of light be given.

JOE KELLEY'S RAZOR.

Weapon With Which Cashier Stickney's Throat Was Cut Found.

Was Not Where Murderer Said He Threw It.

Blade Blood-Stained and Nicked by Contact With Victim's Spinal Column.

Somersworth, N. H., April 24.—Joseph Kelley's razor, with which he cut Cashier Stickney's throat ,after felling him with a blackjack, and for which a persistent search had been made in Dr. Hayes' orchard, where Kelley temporarily deposited his bag of plunder, has at last been found.

Constable William Rich of Berwick, who figured prominently in the chase for the fugitive, discovered the weapon Thursday night, but he kept the matter a secret till last evening, when it leaked out.

While undergoing an examination in Chief Carpenter's office in Montreal Kelley said he threw the razor away in Dr. Hayes' orchard. This information was telegraphed to the Somersworth officers that night, and all the next day a searching party hunted among leaves, dry grass and underbrush, but all to no avail. Deputy Sheriff McDaniel and Constable Rich started out to try their luck at razor hunting. It is presumed that the information on which their search was based was a little more definite than that which prompted the previous quests. At any rate, they had been out with their lanterns a very short time when Constable Rich found the much wanted weapon in the gutter of a little house occupied by James Robinson.

The house faces Winter street, but its rear is near a private way known as Page's lane. The roof of the house is only two or three feet above a bowlder at the end of this lane. It was in Page's lane that Joe Kelley hitched his horse on that fatal Friday noon, when he went into the Hayes orchard after his bag of gold and silver. Whether Kelley threw the razor from the place where his horse was fastened and it lodged in the eaves of the Robinson house, or whether he deliberately placed it there, is not a matter of general knowledge.

The razor was in a case, and both the weapon and the case were smeared with blood. The edge was badly nicked, showing where it had come in contact with the spinal column of the victim.

The matter of settling the reward, offered by the bank for the capture of the murderer of Cashier Stickney, is now interesting almost as many as the murder did. Opinion is divided, some holding that Montreal officers should have the larger portion, others that the Ashton woman is entitled to nearly all of it, and others that the reward belongs to the local officers. The bank directors met yesterday afternoon and talked over the matter, but reached no decision. It was stated, however, that the award would not be immediately settled.

SECRETARY LONG'S ECONOMY.

Was Vessels Not Actually Needed Will Be Put Out of Commission.

Boston, April 24.—Secretary of the Navy John Long is here on a brief visit to his home. When asked whether it was true that he intended to make the Charlestown yard a construction and repair yard, instead of simply an equipment station, as has been rumored, Secretary Long said:

"In order to do that, congress must provide the necessary appropriation for a dry dock of sufficient size to meet the requirements of our new large ships. Some small vessels can be repaired in the present dock, but I think it is agreed on all sides that the first requisite is a large dry dock, of sufficient capacity to meet modern necessities. Naval authorities have long been of the opinion that the New England coast, important as it is commercially, and lying at the very point of attack from foreign shores, should have such a dock. I presume it is only a question of time when it will be built.

"I have been trying to practice economy as far as possible in the department. In a small way, we have begun retrenchment. An example is the consolidation into one of the offices of appointment clerk and chief clerk. Mr. Peters now attends to the duties of both, with no trouble. The office of weigher of coal, at the Washington navy yard, has been abolished.

"The laying off of such vessels as are not needed for any particular purpose means a great saving. The Katahdin has been put out of commission, and the Columbia will be laid off soon. The Minneapolis will also be laid off, and the monitor Amphitrite. When in active service, these vessels consume a tremendous amount of coal, and are very expensive."

Officers of New Hampshire S. V.

Pymouth, N. H., April 24.—The Sons of Veterans of New Hampshire elected the following officers for the ensuing year at their annual encampment here: Division commander, W. S. Wiley of Somersworth; senior vice commander, H. E. Chamberlin of Penacook; junior vice commander, C. H. Huntoon of Newport; delegates to division council, A. M. Brock of Rochester, L. B. Emery of Troy, W. L. O. Stiles of Manchester; delegate-at-large to national encampment, J. W. Duffrey of Somersworth; delegate to national encampment, George Cook of Concord; staff officers, chaplain, E. W. Drew of Troy; surgeon, F. L. Hawkins of Meredith; quartermaster, J. W. Duffrey of Somersworth; inspector, C. D. H. McLinn of Plymouth; mustering officer, H. A. Brown of Penacook; judge advocate, F. C. Smith of Enfield; sergeant major, W. H. Bellows of Bennington; quartermaster general, H. N. Gilman of Tilton. Past Commander M. Crowley of Boston installed the newly elected officers. The encampment will be held at Tilton next year.

Howland Mills Involved.

New Bedford, Mass., April 24.—The group of mill corporations known as the Howland mills, the New Bedford Manufacturing corporation and the Rotch Spinning company are in financial difficulty, the exact nature and extent of which cannot be determined until an expert, who is now at work upon the books, has made his report. The three mills are practically under one management, Morgan Rotch being president and William D. Howland treasurer of all of them, and the boards of directors being nearly identical. Their combined capital is $2,000,000. It has been known for some time that the mills were largely involved in debt.

Indignant Insurance Men.

Boston, April 24.—The sensational attack on the principle of assessment insurance, which the insurance commissioner made in his report, has stirred up the officials of assessment companies wherever the report has become known, and the leaders of the large fraternal orders are equally excited at being classed, without any discrimination, with the irresponsible and inevitably insolvent orders, which, without laws or statistics, profess to give insurance. The greatest indignation has been aroused among the new directors of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association, and they charge the insurance commissioner with bad faith and gross inconsistency. President John Henry Rolker, of the association, has issued a statement in which he expresses doubt as to whether Commissioner Merrill wrote the annual report, as the latter's opinions, as expressed in the past, are at variance with those outlined in the report.

Wool Market Dull.

Boston, April 24.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin says of the wool market: The market is dull. The only sale of washed fleeces is 5000 pounds of Michigan X. Prices are firmly held, however, in spite of the small sales of domestic wool. Liberal deliveries of foreign wool continue. The most notable sale was of the line of newly arrived Cape wool, to cost 38 and 40 cents, clean, for clothing and combing. Australian, Montevideo and Argentine wools have also been taken freely at the old rates. The mills are all busy. The largest wool scouring plant in New England is running 116 hours a week, night and day. Last week was the best Easter week that the retail clothiers have known for years.

Got Damages For Being Arrested.

Boston, April 24.—A verdict of $500 for plaintiff was given in the Middlesex county superior court at East Cambridge yesterday, in the case of Albert B. Black vs. George W. Buckingham of Worcester. Plaintiff sued to recover damages for being arrested and detained two nights and one day by reason of an affidavit, filed by defendant's counsel, to the effect that he had reason to believe plaintiff was about to leave the state, so that an execution, in a certain suit then pending, could not be served upon him.

Trust Company Complications.

Manchester, N. H., April 24.—A hearing will be held in this city May 4, to show why E. D. Jones and Benjamin F. Cutter shall not turn over the property and secured claims of creditors of the New Hampshire Trust company to Assignee R. J. Peaslee. In July, 1893, the company entered into an agreement whereby certain of its property was turned over to these men as trustees, and the assignee questions the legality of such an agreement. It is understood that the trustees have agreed to the transfer of this property at the hearing, May 4.

Rush Orders For Bolts and Bars.

Dover, N. H., April 24.—The cashiers of southern New Hampshire have had a great fright over the Somersworth tragedy. A local foundry has received a large number of orders from banks for additional bolts and bars for bank doors, and for other articles of security against thieves. The urgency of the orders shows that the cashiers are both badly frightened and in fear of more deeds of blood.

Has Saved Twenty-Eight Lives.

Providence, April 24.—Frank Baxter, night superintendent of the Point Street bridge, last night rescued James Sullivan from drowning in the river. Sullivan was drunk, and while attempting to go ashore from the smack Maud Gertrude, fell overboard. This is the 28th person Baxter has saved from drowning in the vicinity of the bridge.

Ex-Secretary Olney Declines.

Boston, April 24.—In reply to an invitation from many of the leading men of Boston, irrespective of party, to meet them at dinner some date convenient to him, Hon. Richard Olney has sent his declination, on the ground that his arrangements for the next few weeks preclude the possibility of his acceptance.

Bay State Lawmakers.

Boston, April 24.—The house yesterday reported the consumptives' home bill. A bill to appropriate $40,000 for another dock at South Boston was favorably reported. The senate railway committee reported unfavorably on the 3-cent fare bill. The anti-bucket shop bill was debated at great length in the senate.

Fire In Shoe Factory.

Lynn, Mass., April 24.—The shoe factory owned by Charles F. Ford, and occupied by John Lane, on Bowler street, was badly damaged by fire last night. Loss on stock and machinery $10,000. Loss on building $3000. Insurance unknown.

Fell Under the Cars.

Lawrence, Mass., April 24.—Lawrence McEvoy, while stealing a ride on a freight train, lost his balance, just outside the city, and fell between the cars. The wheels passed over his body above the waist, cutting him in two.

Fell While Dancing.

Peabody, Mass., April 24.—Alonzo L. Legro, aged 62, while dancing at the firemen's ball here last night, slipped and fell on the waxed floor, and was later sent to the Salem hospital, with a fractured hip.

Election to Fill Milliken Vacancy.

Augusta, Me., April 24.—Governor Powers has issued a proclamation for an election in the Third congressional district to elect a successor to the late Seth L. Milliken. June 21 is the date fixed.

Assignment of Smith Desk Company.

Boston, April 24.—The Smith Desk company has assigned. Liabilities are $50,000.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Very Light Improvement In General Trade Conditions Are Noted.

New York, April 24.—Bradstreet's says: The change in conditions underlying general trade, while slight this week, has been in the direction of improvement. For more than a fortnight, demand in nearly all commercial and industrial lines has been surprisingly dull, after the revival which characterized a part of March. The interruption, due to the Eastern holidays, had an influence intensified in Massachusetts by the observance of the anniversary of the battle of Lexington, on the 19th inst. The depression in iron and steel continues, and Bessemer pig and steel billets have reacted another 25 cents a ton.

The outlook favors an increase in labor disturbances to resist mid-summer wage reductions. The bituminous coal mining industry is worse off than the anthracite, with rumors of strikes, which promise to have an unfavorable influence on other than the iron and steel industries. Trade in wool is quieter. There is less life in the wholesale dry goods trade, and little relief has been experienced, notwithstanding the large auction sales of cotton goods last week, buyers continuing to supply immediate needs only.

Recent advances in woolens are sustained by an anticipated early fall demand, and makers of shoes report fair orders. The tendency toward more settled weather has stimulated retail demand, more particularly at the Northwest, notably for dry goods, hardware and millinery. The general tendency of the Mississippi flood to subside has created a better feeling, but not even the recent agricultural department census records all the damage done. The only large cities reporting an increase in the movement of merchandise are St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Kansas City, where the distribution of dry goods, shoes, hardware and building materials has been more conspicuous. At almost all other large centres there has been no material gain.

The week's bank clearings throughout the country reflect the holiday interruptions, and the disappointingly small volume of trade of late. The total for the past six business days is $934,600, 2.5 per cent less than last week.

The prices movement is practically downward, with the exception of leading cereals, influenced more particularly by the advance in wheat, due to the war scare abroad and prospective scarcity, in the face of a full average demand prior to the next harvest. Wheat and wheat flour, Indian corn and oats thus show gains compared with a week ago. Cotton and print cloths are unchanged, as are coffee and petroleum. In addition to decreases in prices for Bessemer pig and steel billets, those for lard, sugar, pork, hides, turpentine and resin are also lower.

There are 216 business failures throughout the United States this week, compared with 195 last week, 240 in the third week of April, 1896, 223 in the corresponding period of 1895, 201 in 1894, and with 186 in the like week of April, 1893.

MISSISSIPPI FLOOD.

Water Still Rushing Through Breaks In the Levees.

Memphis, April 24.—No new crevasses have appeared in the levees, but the river is beating against the southern embankments with a force that causes the gravest apprehension. The break at Delta has inundated 75,000 acres of the finest plantations in southern Louisiana, and the water continues to pour through the opening, and is rapidly spreading. Reports from Greenville are not encouraging. While the water is slowly receding in the overflowed districts of the Yazoo delta, yet it is almost certain that the planting of this year's crop will be 30 days late. The negro laborers are in a fearful state of destitution throughout the delta, although the government relief work is being carried on energetically. The situation north of Memphis and in Arkansas, however, has greatly improved. Captain Davis, the general purchasing officer here, sent out two boats loaded with provisions today, one going north and the other to the St. Francis river country. Captain Davis states that this will be the last government shipment to these districts unless some new emergency arises. Many people are returning to their farms in Arkansas, and the work of planting will begin shortly.

The river situation at Natchez is unchanged. Apprehension is caused by the outlook for rain and wind. The levees are being soaked, and are now seeping. A hard rain would play havoc with them. At Vidalia, a slight wind sent the water splashing over the levee in front of that city. Many refugees continue to arrive at Natchez. The backwater from Biggs and Reed crevasses continues to fill the lowlands.

MAPLE SUGAR LORE.

Vermont Not the Chief Producer—One Kind of Sugar to Be Avoided.

"Vermont, for some reason," said a commission dealer, "is generally supposed to be the one great source of the country's maple sugar supply, and yet Vermont makes less than one-fifteenth of the whole. Vermont's reputation for producing the finest quality of sugar is deserved, for the sugar makers of that state were the first to recognize the importance of the commodity as a factor in domestic as well as foreign commerce and to bring to its manufacture not only scientific helps, but the potent aid of observation and study of the maple tree and the effects upon it of climate, soil and meteorological conditions. Vermont maple sugar has national fame, as has Goshen butter, although there is not a pound of butter made in or around Goshen that enters the market now, nor has there been for years.

"New York city dealers sold 12,000,000 pounds of maple sugar last year. Three-quarters of that amount was sold as Vermont sugar, at least 4,000,000 pounds more than that state produces. Today Delaware and Cattaraugus counties in this state, some of the northern tier counties of Pennsylvania, particularly Susquehanna and Wayne, and more particularly a central county of Pennsylvania—Somerset—besides the counties of the Western Reserve of Ohio, are making maple sugar equal to the very best that ever came from Vermont, just as our own Delaware and Chemung counties and certain counties as far away as Illinois are making the butter that people set in their ways are today buying under the old name and fame of Goshen butter. So, while maple sugar bought as Vermont sugar in this city may not be the Green Mountain State product, buyers may rest easy. The chances are that they have got sugar made in New York, Pennsylvania or Ohio, but it is just as good.

"The true maple sugar season begins about March 1 and lasts until the middle of April, yet one sees every year, early in February, in the high priced fancy groceries of this city tempting looking bars and cakes of maple sugar labeled 'Vermont — First Run.' The grocers buy that article for just what they represent it to be to their customers, but instead of being the first run of the Vermont sugar camps it is the last run of the year before, and something else. At the close of every maple sugar season certain Vermont dealers, and dealers in other sugar making localities, too, buy up from the farmers all the poor or refuse sirup and sugar they have on hand. These dealers send out agents through the country to hunt up this inferior tail end stock. It is bought cheap and is kept over until the next winter. As early as January the dealers begin to prepare it for the market. The sirup and sugar are boiled together with large additions of cheap brown sugar and glucose. The result of this revamping of the last year's inferior goods into goods still more inferior is shipped to New York and other cities as the very first of the new crop of Vermont maple sugar before a tree has been tapped for the season's run of sap. And although it has none of the flavor of genuine maple sugar the city folks buy it at fancy prices and gloat over it.

"It is the popular belief that pure maple sugar is invariably known by its dark, damp looking appearance. In the old days of maple sugar making the product was necessarily very dark, because the simple processes then in use could not make it light. But it was full of impurities all the same—no adulterations, but natural impurities. Nowadays it is not the dark maple sugar that should be regarded as the pure article, for it is more apt to be the most impure. The very best maple sugar that comes from Vermont or elsewhere is of a light, clear, dry, glossy brown—so very light, indeed, that it looks like clarified beeswax."—New York Sun.

How He Meant to Settle It.

Judge Murphy was trying a case in San Rafael once. It was a murder case and was bitterly contested. It had not proceeded very far before the attorneys got to loggerheads. The attorney for the defense did his best to imitate the attorney for the prosecution, and the prosecuting attorney retaliated with all his might. Finally matters got to such a pitch that the attorney for the prosecution turned upon his opponent and called him down in open court. Judge Murphy interrupted, saying:

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, this won't do. This sort of thing is very disrespectful to the court. This is no place for such exhibitions. If you gentlemen have any differences to settle, settle them out of court."

The attorney for the defense immediately rose and said, "We have no differences, if your honor please."

"If your honor please," said the prosecuting attorney, "I wish to say that we have differences. And I wish to give notice that when court adjourns I intend to crack that man's head over there."

Judge Murphy exploded. "How dare you, sir! How dare you! This is the grossest contempt of court. How dare you come here and attempt to terrify counsel! I fine you $50 sir—$50."

The attorney replied: "That is rather hard on me, if your honor please. Your honor distinctly suggested that I should settle my differences with this man out of court, and I gave notice of my intention to do so. That was all. I have the highest respect and appreciation of your honor's judgment in such matters, and I felt proud to accept your honor's advice."

Judge Murphy was not proof against such subtle flattery, and the fine was promptly remitted.—San Francisco Bulletin.

IT WAS a pleasure to the editor and compositors to receive the names of the new pupils this week written so legible. It is proper names that bother printers the most, they are so miserably written, but there was no doubt on any of the 200 names of pupils, the new vertical writing being very plain and neat.

Transportation of Liquor.

The new law approved April 10, an act to further regulate the transportation of spirituous and intoxicating liquors into no-license cities and towns, requires all vessels containing liquor to be marked with name, street and number of seller and purchaser, and the kind of liquor, and expressmen must keep a book with all the above information which the receiver must sign. The book is open to officers for the enforcement of liquor laws.

County Commissioners' Investigation.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor Score Social Success.

"Betsy Baker" and "Prof. Baxter's Invention" Presented.

Dancing Concluded the Celebration at 3 o'clock This Morning.

Following closely in the wake of their fancy dress ball and other social functions of the past season, the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor scored another success in the entertainment and dance held Friday evening to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the inception of their order. On this occasion Hancock hall was filled by a large and appreciative audience, and the affair throughout demonstrated clearly that ladies alone, unaided by the masculine element, can manage such things with both ability and success.

Once more the urgent need of a more commodious hall in Quincy was strongly felt. The facilities connected with the stage, in particular, are wholly inadequate for anything in the shape of a dramatic entertainment, and the wish was freely expressed that the movement now on foot to erect such a hall as the city requires would meet with such support as will enable its promoters to carry the idea to completion before the close of the present year.

The entertainment of the evening commenced with some finely rendered selections by the Quincy Quartette, after which was presented the one act comedy entitled: "Betsy Baker, or too attentive by half" with the following cast of characters:

Mr. Marmaduke Mouser,	James Rose
Mr. Crummy,	Robert Findlay
Mrs. Mouser,	Lizzie Perry
Betsy Baker,	Mabel Ellis
Robert, a Boy,	Harry Findlay

Scene:—Mouser's Morning Room.

The representation of the different characters was exceedingly good, and showed much pains had been taken in preparation. James Rose and Lizzie Perry gave an excellent account of themselves, as Mr. and Mrs. Mouser. Robert Findlay acted the stylish cousin, Mr. Crummy, like a professional; while the cleverness and vivacity of Miss Mabel Ellis as "Betsy Baker" left little to be desired.

Following the comedy came, by way of variation, another selection by the Quincy Quartette, who gave such satisfaction that responses to encores were demanded. Mr. John W. Rose recited Burn's famous poem "Tam O' Shanter" in his own inimitable style, and Mr. James Rose in splendid form danced the Sailor's Hornpipe.

The great hit of the evening was without doubt the ludicrous farce entitled, "Prof. Baxter's Invention, or Old Maids made New," with the following cast:

Benjamin Franklin, Baxter's Inventor,	Harry Smith
Peter Crawford, aged seventy-two, deaf and infirm,	Alex Rose
Samuel Wooley, aged seventy, sprightly for his years,	D. Drummond
Roxanna Tucker, aged seventy-one and dignified,	Martha Brooks
Dorothy Tucker, aged sixty-eight and frivolous,	Lizzie Smith
Mary Ann O'Flynn, uncertain age, servant to Baxter,	Lucy Kane

Scene:—Office in Dr. Baxter's House.

From the outset the humor and drollery of this piece caught the fancy of the audience, and the shouts of laughter which greeted the vagaries of Dr. Baxter's patients, who were seeking the aid of his invention in hopes of rejuvenation, testified to the manner in which the thing was being enjoyed.

A word of special mention ought to be made of Miss Lucy Kane who interpreted to perfection the character of a garrulous Irish servant girl.

The farce, as well as the comedy, was under the direction of Mr. John Rose, the well known comedian, to whose untiring efforts much of the success which attended both productions must be attributed.

About half past eleven o'clock the sound of music announced that dancing was in order and the grand march was promptly led off by Floor Directoress Miss Maggie Booth and Mr. John Pierce, who were followed by about seventy-five couples.

Dancing once fully under way, was sustained with spirit and enthusiasm. Those numbers characteristic of the Scotch nation, such as the Highland reel, and schottische, were especial favorites, while the graceful waltz and quadrille served to renew the energy of the dancers and give variety to the scene.

After a brief intermission for refreshments, dancing was resumed, and kept up until 3 o'clock A. M., when an exceedingly enjoyable entertainment and dance came to a close, and the assembly dispersed.

The Merry Mount orchestra supplied the music, and William Wilson acted as prompter with his usual efficiency. Assisting Miss Maggie Booth in charge of the floor were: Katie Black, Isabel Menhenick, Lizzie G. Esson, Maggie O'Neil and Lula McIntosh.

The following are the names of the committee of arrangements to whose energetic work the fortunate issue of the affair must be credited: Lizzie Chalmers, Maggie Stronach, Lizzie Smith, Mary Duthie, Lillian Ross, Mary Malcolm, Lizzie Perry.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Only a Faithful Few at the Meeting—Dissolution Probable.

To die or not to die, was the only question that occupied the attention of the Board of Trade at its meeting Friday evening. It was 8 35 o'clock before the necessary nine members to form a quorum, had arrived and Vice President Thompson called order.

Voted to proceed to act upon the by-laws article by article.

Andrew Milne thought it foolish to try and bolster the organization up longer and moved that the meeting adjourn sine die.

Henry H. Faxon seconded the motion. He thought it useless to try and bolster up any organization by changing the by-laws. If the organization had gone on it would have brought out discussion that would have been useful to the city. He was ashamed to belong to any organization that used so much effort as at the last meeting and then have so few present.

Mr. Milne asked the condition of the treasury and the secretary replied that it was empty.

Chairman Thompson said it would be foolish to take action on by-laws when there was so little interest and if there was no better prospect the organization had better dissolve.

Alex. Marnock said we might adjourn without date and let it die easy.

Councilman Swithin said if we got good men on the committees and they attended to business the organization would do some good. Last year many were put on the board of directors and other committees who have never attended a meeting. He did not think the proper method had been taken to get men. He would like to see the by-laws amended and then adjourn until another meeting to elect officers.

Secretary Dunphy said that sixteen of last year's committees had never signed the by-laws or paid the fee.

Mr. Marneck did not favor going out of business leaving some indebtedness and no one to look after it. If we are going to die let us die honestly.

Mr. Milne thought bills should be paid.

Mr. Faxon thought bills should be paid and he would be willing to contribute his share. He offered a substitute motion that a meeting be called for next Friday evening and that the secretary issue postals to all members that the matter of dissolution would come up for consideration.

This motion prevailed and the meeting adjourned.

YACHT PRINCESS.

One of the Crack Yachts of the Quincy Yacht Club.

As the time is approaching for launching boats for the yacht races this season, all sailors of fast crafts are getting their boats ready. Among the most eager this year is Mr. J. L. Whiton, Jr. Capt. Whiton has recently purchased the fast yacht Princeps, built by Mr. Maybury.

This boat was built two years ago, but was only in commission three weeks. She is an improved Eulalie and may be termed a sister boat. She is 29 feet and 4 inches over all, 20 feet and 6 inches water line, with a beam 9 feet.

As every yachtsman knows that a boat built by Mr. Maybury, is recommendation enough, there is no need of saying anything about the build of the boat.

This boat, as before stated, was only sailed three weeks and was never given a fair trial to see how fast she can go. The only race she was ever in, was sailed in a calm; and none of the boats finished in the time allowed. Under the skilful manage of Capt. Whiton, we may hope for some good results this comming season.

Father's Request Granted.

New York, April 24.—The body of Otis E. Bullock, who died at Swinburne island hospital of yellow fever, was forwarded to his late home at Haverhill, Mass., today. It was at first intended that the body should be incinerated at the crematory on Swinburne island, but Mr. Bullock, father of the deceased, requested that the body should be given him for final interment at Haverhill. It was then arranged that the body be placed in a hermetically sealed casket and delivered to the dead man's relatives. At this season of the year there is no danger to the public health in the body being shipped by this manner.

Pages from the Diary of Capt. John W. Moore, Newbury, Ind.

Jan. 9.

"Our little boy, who has suffered for six years with lameness in his hip, continues to grow worse, although we have applied many kinds of liniments. The family doctor has decided that the boy has hip joint disease, and he urges us not to meddle with the case, saying it is best to allow it to take its own course. We feel very anxious about him. I wish we could find something which would effect a cure. I fear it will develop into a very serious affair." J. W. MOORE.

March 22.

"A sore has broken out on the under side of my boy's hip, and it has discharged very freely and left an opening about an inch deep, the size of a silver dollar. He has to be given constant attention. Our physician tells us to keep the sore running. A second sore has appeared on his groin and broken. The boy is very low. I asked the doctor about giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has cured so many such cases, but he said he could give him medicine that is four times better and does not cost as much." J. W. MOORE.

May 10.

"The doctor's medicine which I have been giving our boy has not proved of any avail. The child continued to grow worse and I have stopped giving it to him, and now he is taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. I got a bottle from the druggist a few days ago and I believe I can see that the boy is improving under the treatment." J. W. MOORE.

Oct. 5.

"How glad I am that I ever tried Hood's Sarsaparilla for my boy's hip disease. When he had finished taking the first bottle he looked fifty per cent better. I continued giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and now he is quite well. He runs and plays with the other children and we can hardly believe he is the same child, thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we have proved to be indeed the One True Blood Purifier." J. W. MOORE.

Pages like those above are penned in the personal records of thousands of people.

In the memories of many more the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is indelibly imprinted. The cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla are literally written in blood — in blood made pure, enriched and vitalized, cured of scrofulous taints, salt rheum, boils, pimples, spring humors — in blood which properly builds up the nerves, strengthens the stomach and gives that tonic to the system so imperatively needed in the Spring.

Voted, that any person who lets his dog or dog-kind go at large into any field planted with Indian corn at any time from the 20th of April to the last day of May annually without having one foot tied to his neck, any person may kill such dog or dog-kind.

WAVE MOTOR TESTED.

Remarkable Results Obtained by a Los Angeles Inventor.

A public test of a new wave motor was made recently on the beach three miles from Redondo, Cal., from the end of a 100 foot wharf. Parvin Wright of Los Angeles, the inventor, conducted the experiments in the presence of 20 capitalists and inventors. By means of the float a hydraulic compressor was actuated, forcing the water into a pressure tank under a working pressure of 400 pounds to the square inch. The water pressure tank operates a Pelton wheel, which drives any kind of machinery.

In the test an electric generator was used and a circular saw. Where the machinery was located, 500 feet from the beach, with a 4 foot tide and 6 by 10 float, five horsepower was easily generated. The machine is automatically self regulated and is so arranged that during storm periods no more than a given amount of power or pressure can be accumulated. Wright says the failure to provide such a device has heretofore rendered all wave motors useless. Further experiments will be made at a greater distance from the beach.

Wright figures that during the minimum wave movement he will develop one horsepower on every foot of ocean frontage used. The cost of steady power at the coast will not exceed $10 per horsepower per annum. Power can be delivered in Los Angeles for $25, about one-third the present cost. Mr. Wright has had his wave motor patented in Germany, France and England.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

A New and Successful Process of Casting Copper Pure.

The Electrical Review announces a discovery in the art of casting copper. Copper is ordinarily cast by the use of alloys. It is stated that the new metal, which is known as M. B. copper, is cast pure. Foundrymen have heretofore considered this an impossibility.

It is also stated that the new metal possesses an additional tensile strength of 33⅓ per cent, and that a much higher percentage of elasticity has been developed, and that the new metal has a conductivity of 95 per cent as compared with the best rolled copper. This will cause distinct changes in the building of dynamos, motors, railway and telegraphic apparatus because the new copper is believed to carry the same amount of current with one-third the amount of metal. Wire made of it will have greater strength and conductivity than the ordinary copper wire.

Mr. Edison says he accounts for the evident change in the atomic structure of the metal by the theory that the shape of the crystals has been altered so that their lines are parallel, and that the molecules are thus brought closer together and into more intimate contact with each other. It is understood that Mr. Edison is interested in the development of this metal, and that it will be manufactured under his supervision at his Menlo Park works.

A Perfect Vacuum.

An absolute vacuum, or what is believed to be one, was recently produced by Professor Elmer Gates of Washington by a novel method. Into a test tube made of a kind of glass which melts at a very high temperature he poured a molten glass which melts at a much lower temperature, completely filling the tube, leaving no air space. After melting this inner glass it was partially withdrawn from the tube by exhausting the air from the outer side and allowing it to flow down by gravity, but not so far but that the end of the tube was completely closed. It was then allowed to cool. As no air could enter the space left by the withdrawal of the glass, it is believed that a perfect vacuum was obtained.—Engineering News.

A Nonpoisonous Match.

It is reported that M. Pouleaux has invented a nonpoisonous match. Potassium permanganate and amyl acetate are among the ingredients. At the Pasteur Lucifer Match manufactory the combination has been tested with, it is said, satisfactory results. The matches are easily made, without the slightest danger to the factory hands. They ignite readily, there is no danger of explosion when stored, and the disagreeable odor common to lucifer matches is in these replaced by an agreeable one.

Does Two Hundred Men's Work.

The Arbuckles have a machine for putting up coffee in two pound packages. It puts up 30,000 packages in 24 hours, or at the rate of nearly 21 packages per minute. Its work is equal to that of 200 persons working 12 hours per day and putting up a package in three minutes. The machine, with attendance, does the work cheaper than any human labor on earth, and we may fairly suppose that every cup of coffee is the cheaper for it.

A Typewriter Improvement.

Mr. Louis Sholes, son of C. Latham Sholes, the original inventor of the Remington typewriter, has perfected a machine somewhat similar to his father's invention, but so arranged that all parts of a letter that has been written remain in plain sight of the operator. This, of course, involves an entire rearrangement of the mechanism and the abandonment of the basket type of construction.—American Machinist.

Nutritive Value of Meat Broths.

Some dogs fed exclusively on meat broths, 500 grams, in Vulpian's laboratory, died at the nineteenth day, while others to whom water alone had been given survived within one day as long, dying the eighteenth day, showing the negative nutritive value of meat broths.

GREECE MAY TRIUMPH.

Sultan Must Strike Decisive Blow Immediately or He Is Lost.

Situation Is Deemed to Be Supremely Critical.

Possibility That Constantinople May Be Taken by the Greeks.

New York, April 24.—A special to The World from London says:

Unless Turkey can bring the war to a rapid termination the triumph of Greece cannot be averted. It is asserted in quarters here in which the realization is thoroughly understood, especially the desperate state of the sultan's finances.

Therefore, Osman Digna, the "Hero of Plevna," has been sent to the front, with orders to strike a daring, decisive blow, without loss of time.

That a panic is prevailing at the Yildiz Kiosk is plainly shown, too, by the sudden dispatch of the Russian envoy from Constantinople to Sofia, to stay the menacing demands of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, which the porte is equally afraid to refuse or to concede.

The situation is deemed to be supremely critical, and unless Osman can gain a conspicuous triumph, the cateclysm of Constantinople, which the powers have disgracefully compromised themselves in trying to prevent, may come at any moment.

In ministerial circles here, where a quick defeat of Greece was regarded as the surest and least unsafe solution of a highly dangerous complication, the new developments are causing consternation.

The increase of popular sympathy for Greece, caused by the gallant conduct of her troops, following the first defeats, has amounted to a revolution. The incapacity of the European concert is at last universally admitted, and its conclusions can now be safely ignored.

King George, after great efforts, has saved his people, and can now afford to be moderate.

We may expect speedy peace, both on the frontier and in Crete. The prevalent feeling here, undoubtedly, was that, as Greece had followed a provocative policy, she should be prepared to pay the penalty. In ministerial circles and the ministerial press little concealment was made of the hope that the campaign would be short, sharp and decisive.

But the events of this week have produced a marked modification in these sentiments, aided, probably by a growing suspicion that Russian diplomacy is egging Turkey on, with an eye to some big eventual coup perilous to British interests.

The confident anticipation that the Turkish army would make short work of the Greeks has been signally falsified, and now the recall and disgrace of Edhem Pasha fortifies the belief that such success as he had gained was far less substantial than had been represented, and at a cost of life and morale to the Turkish forces little short of disastrous.

LONDON PRESS DISPATCHES.

London, April 24.—The Athens correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says that Crown Prince Constantine has wired to King George, as follows:

The Turks are quiet, owing to our success Thursday. We have destroyed the Turkish battery at Ligaria. The Turks have retired from Nezeros and Rapsani. The action of our fleet at Katerina was excellent.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Larissa says that on Thursday the Greeks attempted to retake Gritzovali. A long fight ensued, but the Greeks failed, owing to the superior force of the Turks and their stronger position. The Greeks, however, occupy a good position in front of Ligaria, where, the correspondent is convinced, they will be victorious. He adds: I regret to say that the Turks have burned, after plundering, the villages of Ligaria, Karayol and Meralaria, destroying the churches with dynamite.

Turkish Stores Destroyed.

The Chronicle's correspondent says: The Turks are greatly dismayed by the destruction of their stores at Katerina and at Litochorion. Commodore Sachtouris destroyed the stores from the coast to the foot of Mount Olympus. Nothing remains, therefore, for Edhem Pasha to carry away, but hunger. The coast road being barred, the only remaining road from Salonica is the Verria road, eight days from Elassona.

The reports of the injury of the railway line by the blowing up of bridges and tunnels are confirmed. Financially everything is going well, and the value of paper money has risen. It is reported here (Athens) that the Turkish troops will be withdrawn from Crete.

Private advices from Volo say that all the villages between Katerina and Verria have risen. Among the wounded who have arrived here are several who state that a number of the Greeks wounded at Gritzovali, and unable to follow the Greek retreat, were shut up in a small church by the Turks, who set fire to the building and burned them to death.

A dispatch to The Times from Milouna pass says:

Edhem Pasha continues to pursue a cautious policy. His plan seems to be to capture, in succession, a number of small positions held by the Greeks, but to avoid a general engagement. The Turks are making a good military road through the pass. The cannonade continues from the Turks, who are advancing on the left wing, but in the direction of Tyrnavo matters are quiet, the Turks having taken and occupied the town. Large reinforcements are arriving and the result of the war is beyond doubt. The Turks treat their prisoners with humanity and kindness.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that while Osman Pasha will take supreme command of all the Turkish armies engaged against Greece, Edhem Pasha will remain in active command of the eastern army, with headquarters in Macedonia.

Vassos Will Attack Turks In Crete.

A dispatch to The Daily News from Canea says that Colonel Vassos has notified the admirals that he has been ordered to attack the Turks. The Times' correspondent at Canea says that the insurgents are attacking Fort Izzedin, which is occupied by the international troops, in addition to the Turkish garrison. Three warships have left Suda and anchored opposite the fort. The admirals have gone to reconnoiter in a torpedo boat. Colonel Vassos has written to the admirals, to ask whether the powers are in alliance with Turkey. The object of this inquiry is obvious.

The Athens correspondent of The Daily Mail says it is reported that the Greek army in Epirus has left a contingent to attack Pentepigadia, while the main body has proceeded to Plakk, where fighting is in progress.

The Athens correspondent of The Times says: Those in authority here regard the situation as highly critical, despite the favorable news from Epirus. Fighting continues at Mati. Crown Prince Constantine has ordered his troops to maintain a strictly defensive attitude. A portion of the western squadron has been detached, to bombard Fortress Parga, opposite Pax island.

A dispatch to The Daily News from Larissa says the Greeks are about to assume the offensive against Vigla and Salonica; that the Greeks have occupied Karya, and that the Turks have suffered.

The correspondent of The Daily News at Constantinople says: It is reported that all telegraphic communication with Constantinople is now cut off, except by way of Odessa.

Bear Growls at Bulgaria.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says: The Russian government has sharply ordered Bulgaria to keep quiet, yet Bulgaria has given the porte notice that she will mobilize her troops today, unless the berats (the warrants for five more Bulgarian bishops in Macedonia), and the appointments of Bulgarian commercial agents at Uskub and Monastir are granted.

AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, April 24.—Ghazi Osman Pasha, who is to succeed Edhem Pasha as commander-in-chief of the Turkish army in Thessaly, started with his suite for the frontier last evening.

[Osman Pasha won great distinction in the Russo-Turkish war by his defense of Plevna against the Russians. He was born at Tokat, Asia Minor, in 1832, and received his education at the military schools at Constantinople. He has had great experience as a fighter, and was in the Crimean war, the Cretan campaign and the Serbo-Turkish war. At the outbreak of the war between Turkey and Russia, he was placed in command of the Fifth army corps, which did great fighting. He was defeated at the battle of Scoleritze, and then intrenched himself in Plevna, which he held from Aug. 31 to Dec. 10, 1877. He then surrendered with 43,000 men. He has since been minister of war several times, and also occupied the post of grand marshal of the palace. Osman Pasha is in personal appearance and character a typical soldier of the Ottoman empire, being fanatical, and brave and very frugal. He is regarded as one of the most invincible soldiers of Europe in a fight behind breastworks, being more of a defensive than offensive general.]

Saad Eddin Pasha, who has been appointed to command the Turkish troops at Janina, in Epirus, has also started for the frontier with his suite.

The Turkish government has issued the following statement regarding the campaign in Thessaly:

A reconnoissance, with a force of infantry, six batteries of artillery and a cavalry division, enabled Naim Pasha to occupy a position with eight battalions and some field batteries opposite the Greek forces centered south of the Milguna and Siulva passes. Hakki Pasha, with 12 battalions, advanced towards Neraly, on the plain, in order to threaten the retreat of the Greeks at Koskrena. Naim Pasha defeated the Greeks and occupied the important heights of Karadja and Viran. Hamid Pasha captured the fortified summits of Cordonan and Garbika, commanding the passes.

FROM VARIOUS POINTS.

Anxious to Throw Off Turkish Yoke.

Paris, April 24.—The Politique Coloniale publishes telegrams from the Sporades and the island of Samos, off the coast of Asia Minor, declaring that the inhabitants are impatiently awaiting the arrival of the Greek fleet as a signal to shake off the Turkish yoke.

French Volunteer Nurses.

Paris, April 24.—A number of ladies have offered their services at the Greek legation here to act as nurses with the Greek armies in the field. This has caused the officials of the legation to announce that their services would be gladly accepted, but no funds are available to pay for their journey to Greece.

Santi Quaranta Bombarded.

Corfu, April 24.—The western Greek squardon is bombarding Santi Quaranta and doing great damage to the towns. All the government and private buildings have been destroyed, with the exception of the Austrian agency. All the stores and merchandise on the quays have been burned. Fifty refugees, who had embarked on ships, have been landed here.

Greeks Occupy Karya.

Salonica, April 24.—The news is received here that on Tuesday, after a fierce battle, the Greeks occupied Karya. Fighting continues all along the line.

Clara Barton Assents.

New York, April 24.—Solon J. Vlasto, editor of Atlantis, a Greek paper in this city, has received a dispatch from Clara Barton assenting to his request, asking her to appeal to the American Red Cross society to go to the relief of the Greeks wounded in battle.

Shot the Motorman.

St. Louis, April 24.—James E. Thorp, a motorman, was shot by Ira Stansbury, in front of city hall, yesterday. Stansbury was in a buggy, which he was driving on the track. Thorp ran his electric car up behind the buggy and sounded the gong. Stansbury refused to turn out, and Thorp ran his car into the buggy, and bumped it off the track. Stansbury stopped his horse, lowered the top of his buggy, drew a revolver and shot the motorman through the thigh. When arrested, Stansbury was perfectly calm. He said he had as much right on the street as a car.

ELECTRIC HANSOM CABS.

They Are Now Successfully Operated In New York City.

Much attention is now being attracted in New York city by a number of electric hansom cabs which are in regular operation on the streets. These cabs differ from the usual hansom in that they have four wheels instead of two and an extension for the batteries. The batteries are contained in this rear compartment, upon which the driver's seat is mounted, and consist of four sets of cells, weighing together about 1,000 pounds.

The steering is effected by a lever which the driver handles with his right hand. With his left hand he controls the current by operating a small hand wheel. The brake is operated by foot, as is also the whistle. Two motors of the Lundell type drive the front wheels by means of spur gearing.

All the wheels are provided with heavy pneumatic tires. The front pair is fixed, the cab being steered by the rear wheels. The rear axle is also fixed. But to permit of steering, the rear wheel hubs are hollow and are provided with ball joint journals, so that they move independently of the axle. The side lights are small incandescent lamps, and a lamp is also provided on the inside of the cab.

The cabs have a maximum speed of 15 miles per hour, which is found to be more than necessary to meet all the requirements of city and country travel, although in case a greater speed is called for it can be had up to a rate of 20 or 25 miles per hour, but of course only at the expense of the total distance which the vehicle can travel. The vehicles have a maximum mileage on one charge of battery of about 25 miles, depending largely on grades and surface conditions to be overcome.

The cost of operating, with properly equipped stations, is said to be about one-half that of horses—that is to say, assuming that, on an average, it costs about $1 per day to keep a horse, including the life of the horse, the cost of operating one of these vehicles capable of doing the same amount of work as a horse will not exceed 50 cents per day. As the size of the battery at present used only has a capacity of eight horsepower hours, the cost of charging, where power is produced at the station, should not exceed 2 cents per horsepower hour, or 16 cents, and when obtained from central station 5 cents per horsepower hour, or 40 cents. To this, of course, must be added 10 per cent depreciation per annum chargeable to battery renewal, etc.

One of these cabs is employed by a theater for advertising purposes, and an electric delivery wagon built by the company will shortly be put in service by a large New York dry goods house —Electrical Engineer.

Nursing Bottle Tubes Condemned.

Dr. Werde, health officer of Buffalo, has succeeded in having an ordinance passed prohibiting the use of long rubber tubes on nursing bottles. The long tube has had, and may continue to have, advocates who think it is valuable as a preventive of "sucking air"—a proceeding not fully determined by scientists—and incidentally as an economizer of time. By its use an infant can feed itself indefinitely, and to this, as well as its hygienic shortcomings, is due much of the trouble with which it has been charged. The plain old style nipple in its facility of cleansing leaves little or nothing to be desired.

Artificial Diamonds at Niagara Falls.

Dr. Johnstone, a Washington scientist, is about to erect a laboratory at Niagara Falls for the manufacture of diamonds by crystallizing pure mineral carbon with an electrical current of enormous power derived from the Niagara Electric works. The inventor is very sanguine and declares that by his process he will eventually produce diamonds surpassing the Kohinoor in size, color and purity, only a few days being required to turn carbon into diamonds. —Popular Science News.

To Detect Silver.

Dr. Ackell uses a concentrated solution of silver nitrate. Genuine silver remains bright if moistened with the liquid. Spurious articles turn black. Lacquer, if present, must first be rubbed off. The writer mentions also the 10 per cent solution of chromic acid. A drop of this liquid produces on silver a purple red spot, but on other metals (except gold and platinum) a grayish black.—Chemical News.

Removing Blood Stains.

Dr. Blenkiser says that surgical instruments, sponges, the hands of the operator and blood stained articles may be readily cleansed by washing them in a tepid solution of tartaric acid and rinsing in water without soap.—Popular Science News.

A tiny electric light attached to a pencil enables French reporters to take notes at night.

Man-of-war Pets.

Books about pets seem to have been set going in great numbers by the London Spectator's collection of "dog stories." The classifications are rapidly extending. We have already had soldiers' pets, and a correspondent writes to the London Daily News to ask why there should not be a volume on man-of-war pets. To this the answer was given:

"The parrot has been Jack's prime favorite in all ages, and at least one story told of Jack's pet beats all the stories ever told of Tommy's pets. This particular parrot was an inmate of Cochrane's ship on the occasion of a cruise on the Norwegian coast. The hospitable Norwegians were invited to visit the British frigate. Ladies were hoisted on board by means of a chair fastened to a rope running over the yard. Whenever the chair reached the deck the order was given, 'Let go!' While one of the lady visitors was still in midair the ship's parrot yelled out, 'Let go!' And down she went into the sea, chair and all. The seamen thought it was the boatswain's order. And if it be suggested that the excuse was insincere the fact is vouched for that the parrot's habitual imitation of the boatswain's pipe was so perfect that it sometimes brought up the ship's company at the run. In battle or in a storm the parrot's orders might easily play havoc. But the glorious old tar was much too superstitious to wring the bird's neck. And the only remedy left was to blow up the parrot in language as lurid and limited as its own. Perhaps there may be some subtle sympathy between the parrot and human beings strongly emotional but linguistically weak."

Approves Purloining of Umbrellas.

At a banquet given in London by the Guild of Metropolitan Cabmen, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Record, the Prince of Wales, who was in the chair, bore a glowing tribute to the honesty of the fraternity, mentioning that during the last year several thousand pounds in money, jewels and securities that had been forgotten in London cabs had been either restored by the drivers to the losers or else turned over to the police. The prince added that there was only one form of lost property which no hack driver ever had been known to return—an umbrella. This, however, he declared could not be considered as in any way affecting their honesty. In the first place, the appropriation of an umbrella was under no circumstances contrary to the ethics of honor, and, secondly, the cabman would be a very distinct sufferer from a professional point of view if he were to dream of restoring an umbrella to its owner, for a man who is overtaken by the showers that fall each day in the British metropolis and who happens to have no umbrella invariably hails a cab if he happens to have in his pocket enough to pay his fare, whereas, if he is provided with an umbrella he usually dispenses with a cab.

This, I believe, is the first occasion on which the purloining of umbrellas ever has been commended publicly from the steps of a throne and may be regarded in more senses than one as a sign of the times.

Secondhand Silver In the White House.

"It seems that when the executive mansion was again occupied by Mr. Monroe after its destruction the United States purchased at an appraisement his private furniture, and with it a 'small service of plate,'" writes ex-President Harrison in The Ladies' Home Journal. "In 1833 the most important purchase of silver plate was made for the executive mansion, and at secondhand. The pieces constituted the outfit of a Russian nobleman, M. le General Baron de Tuyll, who had been the minister resident of Russia at the court of Portugal. The total cost was $4,308.82. The silver service consisted of 338 pieces, and there was a gold plated dessert set of spoons, knives, forks, etc., consisting of 140 pieces. These 'gold spoons' were perniciously active in the campaign of 1840. Much of this old silver is still in use—and a piece or two has been added now and then, but the White House plate is now meager compared with that to be found in the home of many a private citizen who at the time it was bought was playing in his bare feet about the cabin door of a pioneer. The silver service recently presented by the citizens of Indiana to the battleship of that name cost $7,785.10—much more than the scrivce used in the White House."

The Manufacture of Pins.

The largest pin factory in the world is that of Birmingham, England, where 37,000,000 pins are manufactured every working day. All the other pin factories in England together turn out about 19,000,000 pins every day. The daily output of pins in France exceeds 20,000,000, and Germany and other countries in Europe manufacture about 10,000,000 more daily, so that the total production of pins amounts to about 86,000,000 every day in Europe alone. The question naturally arises, "What becomes of all these pins?" According to a statistician, only a minimal part is broken, worn out or spoiled by bending, but almost 99 per cent are lost. Taking the population of Europe at 250,000,000, every third person must lose a pin every day to use up the production of pins per day. The value of this loss would be $5,000.

A Surprise Party.

A New York woman, only a day returned from securing a Dakota divorce, was holding a reception in celebration of the event when a messenger arrived announcing that he had a present for her. The large parcel on his arm secured his admittance. The hostess stepped forward to take the package, but instead was served by the messenger, a lawyer's clerk, with a summons and complaint, under the late decision of the New York supreme court, in a suit for separation and custody of their son begun by her husband. The woman fainted, and the party broke up in confusion.

When a man is ruined and there is no help for it, a good wife is the one stay and comfort left to him. But no man, who is a man, wants to put his wife to the extremity. For a woman in her gentle nature suffers with the husband she comforts and consoles. It is a humiliation to a proud woman that the man of her choice should prove at last a failure—broke in purse and in spirit. Back of all business failures lies ill-health. No man who is suffering from brain fag, nervous prostration and debility, due to impure blood and a disordered digestion can long succeed in business. Every woman should make it her duty to see that her husband takes proper care of his health.

The best medicine in all the world for hard-worked business men is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is medicine for both body and mind. It makes the digestion good, the liver active, and the appetite keen. It fills the blood with the life-giving elements that build new tissues. It invigorates and purifies. It is the one great blood-maker and flesh-builder. There is nothing in the market "just as good."

A. L. Purdy, Esq., of Otterpond, Caldwell Co., Ky., writes: "I herewith inclose 31 one-cent stamps to pay postage on one of your cloth-bound Medical Advisers. I know your book to be a good one. I had suffered seven years with liver complaint when I read about your 'Golden Medical Discovery' in one of your books. After using a few bottles of the 'Discovery' and three vials of the 'Pleasant Pellets' I was completely cured."

One copy of a good, practical, medical work is worth more in a home than a shelf of novels and works of fiction. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the best home medical book extant. NEURALGIA BOUND HIM WITH BANDS OF PAIN

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, chronic neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, on the right side of his face, along the upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases are, that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimonial by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Puritana in the Spring.

The universal custom of taking a spring remedy is founded on a natural instinct implanted in us for our own good.

The heat-producing foods of winter leave the system clogged. Confinement in warm rooms, with lack of outdoor exercise, makes all the organs weak and torpid. Those who neglect to use a remedy or fail to get the right one are inviting serious troubles. Most chronic diseases start in the spring. The end of winter finds thousands with such symptoms as these: A general unfitness for work with either head or hands. A worn-out, tired-out feeling that cannot be overcome. There is sleeplessness, or restless sleep. Numbness of hands or feet. A sense of pressure in the head, with a feeling of gloom or despondency. There may be fluttering or palpitation of the heart. Frequently a pain in the heart or under the left shoulder. There may be rushes of blood to the head, or throbbing in the ears at times.

Kidney and liver troubles may be looked for if your digestion has not been perfect. There is fulness or pain in the right side, or pain under the right shoulder. Distaste for food, with nausea in the morning. Complexion is blotched or sallow. Tongue is coated or mouth foul. There is a dull, sleepy feeling, with disinclination to breathe deeply. If the kidneys are in danger there will be pain, weakness, or soreness in small of back, and perhaps occasional sharp pains. Urine is scanty, high colored, and on standing becomes cloudy, or deposits a red sediment. There are apt to be frequent headaches. Sores and skin eruptions frequently come.

All these various symptoms are common to spring, and show that the vital organs need renovating and prompt repair. Bright's disease, jaundice, rheumatism, and heart troubles start from such conditions as these. No two persons will have the same set of symptoms, but any of those enumerated are important. The organs must be strengthened and repaired. Repair can only come through active digestion, and Puritana is the remedy to rely on. It will vitalize the entire body and give you a spring of buoyant, vigorous health. Clear complexion, sharp appetite, and the power to do things, is the sure reward of taking Puritana.

Visit to Mexico.

LETTER NO. VII.

Our first day's ride in Mexico, on the 21st day of February, over the International railroad, was very warm, dry and monotonous. We doubt if any one in our car would accept of a thousand acres by the side of the railroad as a gift, providing the deed required the receiver to come and reside there for five years.

There were odd looking huts or houses, and queerly dressed people, but nothing particularly attractive. It appeared as though the inhabitants had made but little progress, and lived in the most primitive manner.

When we left Diaz on the Rio Grande river we were 722 feet above the level of the sea, and our train continued to climb all day. At Nova, 24 miles away, it was 1200 feet above; at Monclova, 147 miles from Diaz, 1926; and at Jarel, 100 miles farther, we were up 3753 feet.

The next day, Feb. 22d, the editors decided to celebrate in a patriotic manner. Although far away from home, they could not allow Washington's birthday to pass without notice. Soon after the noon hour, at a small station called Canitas, we got off the cars and did honor to the occasion by the following programme:

SONG:—"Star Spangled Banner," by the Chorus.
PRAYER:—By G. A. Patterson, editor of Newspaperdom, New York.
SONG:—"Mount Vernon Bells," by a Double Quartette and Chorus.
SPEECH:—"The American Republic," by H. J. Knapp of the Auburn Advertiser, Auburn, N. Y.
SALUTE TO OLD GLORY:—Waving of handkerchiefs flags and tri-colored ribbons, with cheers by the entire Assembly, except the astonished Mexicans.
ADDRESS:—"George Washington." by Hon. Harry James of the Daily Local, Ashland, Pa.
HYMN:—"America," by the Assembly.
ADDRESS:—"Daughters of the Revolution," by Mrs Isadore Miner of the Dallas Texas News.
ORIGINAL POEM:—"Patriots Abroad. by Hon. Addison B. Burke of the Philadelphia Ledger.
DOXOLOGY:—"Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," by the Assembly.

The original poem was so good we cannot refrain from giving it to our readers:

PATRIOTS ABROAD.

From wintery blasts we seek relief
In balmy southern air,
And try to make ourselves content
Within the hot sun's glare.

But the balmy air is filled with dust
And as we southward roll,
The stuffing of our bronchial tubes
Brings anguish to the soul.

The Greasers' land is not the place
To win a Yankee's heart;
Its desert lands are hot and dry
And dirt the chiefest part.

Of all its men and women—ragged souls
Who have no other use
Than to serve as ugly models
For the kodak's fiends abuse.

And on its anniversary day
Our thoughts revert to home
And thankfully our country's praise
We sound in speech and "pome."

That "time is money" we have seen
For here they discount time,
Just as they discount dollars,
And give us leave to rhyme.

Those who have made mistakes in life
Should turn another leaf
And we must turn a second page
Before we get relief.

Yet all our sufferings will not fail
To yield a full return,
If when we homeward wend our way
Our hearts with fervor burn.

For that true land we've left behind
Where promises to pay
Are good as gold, and for whose good
We evermore shall pray.

What then tho' winter breezes blow
We'll never want to roam,
But feel content with kodak views
Of other lands than home.

A short distance from Canitas the train ran onto a side track and then out again to the main line—a queer proceeding, we thought, till the reason for it was given: The night before, a freight train had run over and killed a native at the switch. By the laws of the country the body was left on the track, a rude shelter built over it, and a messenger despatched to Zacatecas, the capital of the state, (some 65 miles distant) to inform the district judge and bring back the official. The messenger was conveyed by a burro, so it was said the remains must lie on the track some three days before being removed. The locomotive engineers, we are told, are very nervous over such an accident, as they are liable to be imprisoned. One engineer lay in jail eight months for a similar accident and when released his only article of clothing, it is reported, was a pair of drawers; the jailer had stolen everything he had on but the drawers.

A little farther along the train was signaled to stop, and here we found a young native boy with one hand badly crushed while coupling cars. Fortunately two doctors were in our party, and between them the wounds were well dressed. The excitement occasioned by this accident had hardly subsided ere an alarm of fire was given and the train stopped. The wood on the locomotive was ablaze, caused by sparks thrown out while ascending the grade. The "fire brigade" turned out, armed with the never-failing (?) extinguishers which adorn parlor cars. Luckily the conflagration was not a disastrous one. It gave sport, anyway, for half an hour.

The Tropic of Cancer was crossed Monday afternoon about 5.30, and in a short time the train arrived at Calera, 7051 feet above the sea. We knew we were "pretty well up," for several of the party were nearly prostrated from short breathing and exertion therefrom.

Tuesday morning came in bright and clear and found us drawn up at the station at Aguas Calientes, the first Mexican city of any considerable note that we had yet seen. The morning was one of those bright and beautiful ones, such as are peculiar to the magnificent climate of Mexico in winter time. Not a cloud obscures the sun from rising to setting, and the temperature is soft and warm as June with us.

This interesting old city has a population of about 40,000 and has long been noted for its hot springs as well as for its healthful climate. Its altitude of 6,260 feet gives it cool nights, whatever it may be at midday beneath the torrid sun, and even then the interior of the stone buildings have a refreshing coolness. The city is said to have been founded in 1575 and it has an ancient look which bears out that statement.

As we stepped from the train we saw on every hand men, women and children selling the beautiful Mexican drawn work. This is the place of the whole republic in which to purchase it, and it forms such a wonderfully pretty and easily carried souvenir, many of the ladies and some of the men, soon parted with some of their silver dollars.

The first thing that attracted our attention after leaving the station, and only a few rods away, were the handsome bath houses of stone, built ages ago by the Spaniards, and which are still in good repair. There are swimming tanks as well as bath tubs. Each room is some twelve by twenty feet, with stone steps leading down to the bath-tubs, hollowed out of the stone floor. The water is let in direct from the hot springs, and is just of the right temperature; and you can have it just as deep or as shallow as you please. The charge is twenty cents, Mexican money.

The street cars, drawn by mules carries one from the depot to various parts of the city. The fare is either three cents or five cents, according to class, and one is as good as the other. The driver blows a horn before he comes to a cross street, or when anybody gets in his way, and he belabors the little beasts who draw him, with a raw hide whip, which keeps them on the run. Very often they run upon the sidewalks, for the streets are narrow, but paved, and all slope from the sides to the middle, instead of the reverse, as with us. Every little while we met droves of little burros with their burdens; but we never saw a horse or carriage while in the city. Most of the Mexicans walk.

At every turn around a corner the driver slacked up and blew a horn, for if any one should be run over he would be held responsible. Fortunately for him, the donkeys do not travel at such speed as to greatly endanger either pedestrians or the driver.

Mexicans have sometimes been called "Greasers," and they return the compliment by calling us "Gringoes," but everywhere we go we are treated with the utmost politeness and deference by the people. We met some American children and learned that eleven of them went to a private school here, their parents being here on business or for health.

The markets contain much that is of interest to tourists. Everything is sold there; and even the streets, which are kept scrupulously clean about the market places, are used for the display of numerous wares. A blanket is laid down on the pavement and under a high umbrella which is spread over his head, the merchant invites you to trade. There are stands for every sort of old truck as well as new, and among second hand nails, hinges, lamp burners and an infinite variety of other articles, we noticed a set of second hand false teeth.

We visited the governor at his residence in the city and were received with great courtesy.

Everything appeared to be done in the slow and primitive manner of past ages. The energy and drive of our New England country was nowhere apparent. Women were seen engaged in weaving gingham, upon the old hand looms of our ancestors.

But time did not permit us to see many of the wonders in this old city, and we were obliged to hurry back to our train, so as to continue our journey farther in this ancient country.

SENATE TO ORGANIZE.

Republicans Accept Democratic Proposition on Committee Question.

Senate Amendments to Indian Bill Agreed To.

Navy Department Has a Plan to Put Vessels on Reserve List.

Washington, April 24.—The Republican senators in caucus have decided to accept the proposition made by the opposition for the filling of the senate committees, leaving the arrangement of the details to Senator McMillan's committee on committees.

The caucus also considered the question of filling the elective offices of the senate, and the managing committee was authorized to negotiate with the opposition, to the end of securing a division of these places.

Both the secretary and the sergeant-at-arms of the senate are Democrats, and the Republicans think they should be allowed to name a man to fill one of these places. The details of this negotiation will be left to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. McMillan, Lodge and Spooner.

The appointment of this committee was made upon the recommendation of Senator Baker, who suggested that the Republicans should be given the secretaryship of the senate. He also said there should be a readjustment of the patronage of the places, which would ensure to each senator his full share in accordance with the arrangements of two years ago.

IN THE HOUSE.

Indian Appropriation Bill Amendments Agreed to and Sent to Conference.

Washington, April 24.—The house yesterday completed the consideration of the senate amendments to the Indian appropriation bill and sent the bill to conference. The main contention centered about the senate proposition to open the Uncompahgre Indian reservation under the mineral land laws.

Finally an amendment was recommended to the effect that no corporation should be allowed to obtain possession of the gilsonite deposits, but that the government should lease the lands in limited areas and for limited terms of years. The senate amendment striking from the house bill the provision for the ratification of the oil and gas leases, made by the council of the Seneca Indians last December, after a sharp debate, was agreed to.

Mr. Bland of Missouri attempted early in the session to secure action on the resolution relative to the Union Pacific railroad mortgages, which he tried to offer last week, but the speaker ruled that the resolution was not privileged. A resolution was adopted by which a committee of 25, the speaker to be chairman, was appointed to attend the dedication of the Grant tomb in New York on Tuesday, and the house adopted a program of three-day adjournments next week.

EXCURSION PROGRAM.

President, Cabinet and Diplomatic Corps to Attend Grant Celebration.

Washington, April 24.—Final arrangements for the presidential trip to New York have been completed. The presidential party will go by special train on the Pennsylvania road, leaving Washington on Monday next at 10:30 a. m. The first car will be occupied by the president and family and Secretary Porter. The private car of Frank Thompson, president of the Pennsylvania company, has been made available for the president's use on this occasion. Two Pullman parlor cars will be assigned to the members of the diplomatic corps, headed by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, each foreign representative being accompanied by a secretary and a servant.

Another Pullman parlor car will be occupied by the members of the Grant family, and by members of the cabinet and by representatives of the supreme court, the army and navy, with their families. Mrs. U. S. Grant has been assigned one of the staterooms of the car; while the others will be occupied by Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, Algeron Sartoris, Miss Vivian Sartoris and Miss Mary Rose Sartoris.

The cabinet party will be made up as follows: Secretary Sherman and daughter, Mrs. McCallum; Secretary Gage, Mrs. Gage and Mrs. Shumway; Secretary Long and daughter; Secretary and Mrs. Alger, two daughters, Private Secretary Mason and Adjutant General Ruggles; Postmaster General Gary, wife and daughter; Attorney General McKenna, Secretary Wilson, Justice Peckham of the United States supreme court and wife; General Nelson A. Miles, commander of the army, wife and son; Admiral Brown, senior officer of the navy, wife and daughter. Secretary Bliss and wife will join the cabinet party in New York.

Reserve List of Warships.

Washington, April 24.—The navy department has perfected its plans for the creation of a reserve list of war vessels. The first vessel to be made the nucleus of the reserve fleet is the Columbia. She will not be taken out of commission, but will be laid up in reserve at League Island as soon as she returns from the New York celebration next week. Of her crew of 400 men, only 77 will be retained on the ship. They will be commanded by four commissioned officers and three warrant officers. Drill will be constantly kept up, the engines and secondary machinery will be operated at short intervals and the ship will be kept in such condition as to be able to put to sea within 20 days after orders for active service.

AS SEEN BY MRS. FITZ.

The Wife of the Champion Pugilist Indulges In Reminiscence.

"It doesn't do to talk too much," said Mrs. Fitzsimmons recently, when asked to talk about her husband's fight with Corbett. "Now, Bob didn't promise me to win, did you, Bob, dear? But he said, 'Rose, don't you worry,' and from that time I felt perfectly confident that he would win. I was terribly downhearted when he left me to go to Carson City. We've been married three years, and that was the first time we had ever been separated at all. My mother was too ill for me to leave, so the two things together put me into a state of despair. I knew I ought to be with my mother, and still I felt that I wanted to be with Bob; that he needed me at such a critical time.

"I got to Carson City about ten days before the fight. Carson City is a dreadful little place, and we had to put up with all kinds of inconveniences, but we had a comfortable little cottage.

"I wondered if the 17th of March would ever be over. I kept getting more and more anxious every day as the time for the fight approached. I wasn't uneasy about the result, but I hated to see Bob training, and he just would up to the last minute," with a loving look toward him.

"Really, I never was so embarrassed in my life as I was when the day came and I walked into that box and saw all the people looking at me.

"Well, I was no farther away from Bob than I am right now. I wasn't more than eight feet and could talk to him in an ordinary tone. But I do want to say one thing—I did not yell out and tell him to kill Corbett and punch him in the wind, and I didn't coach him and tell him how and when and where to deliver his blows. Why—why, I couldn't have said what the papers claimed I did. Bob knows his business and I know mine, but I don't know his. After each round, when he returned to his corner, I spoke encouraging words to him. I asked him how he felt and called him my good boy about 1,000 times, but that was all I could say, I was so excited. I can't tell you how I felt as round after round was fought, but, oh, that terrible sixth!

"Corbett gave Bob a—what was it, Bob?"

"An upper cut," he answered, laughing.

"Yes, an upper cut—that was it. I remember now. It cut his lip, and the blood streamed—ugh!" she exclaimed, with a shudder. "It made me feel so sick and faint, but when Bob winked at me and smiled I knew it was all right. After that horrid sixth I was, oh, so happy! Every blow Bob delivered told, and I could see Corbett weakening. I don't know what was the matter with him. I kept getting more and more excited, but I didn't yell like a Comanche chief. I'm always a very composed woman, and anyway I knew he would win.

"When the thirteenth round was beginning, I did call to Bob: 'This is your lucky round. Go in and win.' I thought sure he'd win that round, but he didn't. He won the next, though, and I was so thankful I didn't know he'd been fighting with a broken thumb."—New York Sun.

Bierbauer to Retire.

Louis Bierbauer, one of the greatest ball players and best second base man that ever touched out a runner, announces he will retire from active participation in League baseball. This will be a crushing blow to the hopes of the St. Louis cranks and Chris Von der Ahe, manager of the Browns. Bierbauer was disposed of by Pittsburg to the St. Louis team last fall, and it was thought he would materially strengthen the somewhat weak kneed aggregation that has been representing the Missouri metropolis on the big circuit.

Bierbauer is a resident of Erie, Pa., and during the winter engaged in business in that place. A few days ago he bought a controlling interest in a large restaurant and saloon there and finds business so good that he will stay at home this summer and attend to it. He realizes that he is taking an important step, but says he might as well be dead as to play ball in St. Louis. He was deeply offended at the action of the Pittsburg management in disposing of him to Von der Ahe, who does not find favor in his eyes as a baseball president. —Chicago Times-Herald.

Too Many Boxing Matches.

At last the matchmakers of boxing clubs in the large cities are awakening to the fact that three, four and five, and even six, boxing shows scheduled for one night means that the supply exceeds the demand. They are naturally the last men in the world to realize that there is such a law. As a matter of fact, one big boxing club with a large arena would supply all the demand for boxing, but as such an arena has yet to be discovered or constructed, the smaller clubs are enabled to play to fair business on nights when they are not running conflicting shows.

An Ideal Game.

On the diamond of green 'twas a sunshiny day
And the rooters were out in their finest array.
All the bleachers were merry and beamed with the joy
That is brightest when seen on the face of a boy.

Like the buds of the springtime when April is green
Many boys with their eye at the knothole were seen.
Like the leaves of the autumn as red as hot coals
Were the small boys that swarmed up the telegraph poles.

Oh, the rooter was there in his rapture to root,
And the lad with his fish horn betootled his toot,
And the froth lit the beer like the foam of the sea,
While the peanut unroasted itself in its glee!

Oh, the ball it was swatted with many a swat,
And 'twas caught [illegible] like a shot,
And the crowd never swarmed like the waves of the sea
To embrace the poor umpire and kick him care free!

—R. K. Munkittrick in New York Journal.

Tailor Made Costumes.

It is a thing to be thankful for that the trim, simple, elegant tailor costume never goes out of fashion. Its minor details and features may vary from year to year, the skirt grow fuller or narrower, the coat longer or shorter, but the general idea remains. Through all the chances and changes the sensible fundamental principle is left unaltered. This season the coat is very short and smart in effect, but a trifle longer than those of the past winter, only in certain materials and for certain figures. The spring and summer skirt models are almost, if not absolute perfection in their lengths, varied shapes and modified widths, and for utility gowns—shopping, traveling, cycling, etc.—serge and mohair remain the favored materials. If there was ever a time in the history of dress when women might be content with what they have it is now, when fashion has reached the acme of all that is graceful, normal and harmonious in outline, coloring and effect. All this is beautifully illustrated in the great domain of dress. In millinery we behold at present the most hideous, startling models, exhibited in every shop window and fashionable emporium, that are tangible expressions and proofs of deplorable and astonishing French dementia worthy the close consideration and study of brain specialists.—New York Post.

A New Occupation.

According to a writer in the Denver Daily News, a woman has developed a new occupation in connection with the Colorado legislature. He says:

I know one woman interested in the workings of the Eleventh general assembly who is making a rather good thing out of it. She can't be accused of lobbying, but she has cleared up more money this session than any of the people who are employed to push or pull bills. She is well posted on the sadly mixed political situation and is simply selling her information. She knows the residence and the political color of every member of the legislature, has a copy of all bills introduced, and keeps track of them. She knows into what committee hands the different measures have fallen and can give the personnel of the committee at a moment's notice, and has a hint as to the members that will listen to talk for or against a measure. That's the kind of information that is in demand, and whenever a man calls and commences to make inquiries about a measure the little bundle of information possessed by the woman in question is placed at his disposal—for a consideration.

The Poke Bonnet.

An interesting element in the general plan of constructing the fabric of fashion in spring is the tendency to effect a revival of some old style, and each season the poke bonnet is vigorously launched and as promptly and vigorously rejected, so it rarely leaves the seclusion of the milliner shop. But this season, no doubt, an extra effort will be put forth to make it popular in honor of the queen's jubilee. The old poke bonnet of 1837 is about as ugly and unbecoming a piece of headgear as it is possible to imagine, and the modern woman has no desire to hide her wealth of waved hair in its depths, but the English fashion writers assure us that the poke bonnet in the hands of a modern artist is a charming possibility even in 1897. In shape it is almost exactly like the one the queen wore the year of her accession to the throne, and it is fine black straw, with a wreath of pink roses around the face inside of the brim. An aigrette of white ostrich feathers trims one side. White moire ribbon passes around the crown, where it is fastened with rhinestone buckles, and ties in a big bow under the chin.

Phœbe Couzins.

Phœbe Couzins, the lifelong advocate of woman's suffrage, has been brought from California to St. Louis, stricken with rheumatism beyond hope of recovery. Speaking of her work for woman's suffrage, Miss Couzins said:

"Three times I have seen women under fire and as many times I have seen them fall, and that ignominiously. I presume this will be looked upon as treason, but the conclusion is reached from long experience, close observation and rare opportunities such as have been accorded to few women.

"Moreover, I look upon the outside life, impelled by necessity, as in a majority of cases to be simply experimental. It cannot be conclusive, for the vast majority of women prefer the quiet domestic life, while man by nature seeks the conflicts of the outer world and its theories and grows therein. Woman in public life will never prove satisfactory. She is naturally a homekeeper. I would advise all young women to marry and become housekeepers."

Rev. Harriet E. Williams.

Rev. Harriet E. Williams, pastor of the Congregational church at Lone Rock, Wis., has personally gone from house to house throughout the village, visiting all the merchants and saloon keepers, and has secured signatures for a measure prohibiting the sale or gift of cigarettes to minors. This petition was presented to the town board and carried. In addition to driving 14 miles each Sunday she preaches three sermons, conducts two Bible classes and is always at the Endeavor meeting. Since Mrs. Williams began work with this church the Sunday school attendance has increased from 25 to 60, and church attendance has doubled. — Woman's Journal.

Trying Again.

The South Dakota legislature has voted by a good majority to submit a woman suffrage amendment. About five years ago a similar amendment was submitted in South Dakota and beaten, but the South Dakota women are eager to try it again. Perhaps they remember that in Kansas the women suffrage amendment got only 9,000 votes when submitted for the first time, but received 95,000 votes when submitted for the second.—Boston Transcript.

EQUINE HISTORY.

In Christian art the horse symbolizes goodness and generosity.

It is said by competent persons that over 100,000 horses are every year killed for food in Paris.

Assyrian monumental records show that cavalry and war chariots were used at least 2,500 years before Christ.

Arabian horses were introduced into Europe during the crusades, the Barbary horses during the Moorish occupation of Spain.

The most famous horse in Spanish literature was Don Quixote's Rosinante, and the most famous donkey Sancho's Panza's Dapple.

During the most heavily armored period of warfare all evolutions requiring celerity were executed by infantry, the cavalry being the slow moving arm of the service.

As early as the time of Julius Cæsar, 54 B. C., British horses were famous for their size and strength. In his writings Cæsar mentions them as exceeding in most particulars those of the continent.

Most Christian readers will be surprised to learn that the archangel Gabriel is provided with a steed named Haizum. To Mohammed, in the Koran, is due the credit of mounting Gabriel in good style.

The standard of the Saxons was a white horse. It is worthy of note that the hair of the Saxon woman was not red, but yellow; therefore the joke about the redheaded girl and the white horse, though ancient, is of later date than the eighth century.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

An aspirant for honors in the field of necromancy and its contingent features will be offered the American public next season in the person of Clivette.

Mary Hampton will resign from E. H. Sothern's company, and Virginia Harned will resume the part which she originated in "An Enemy to the King."

Isabel Irving has been engaged as leading lady for John Drew's company next season. She will temporarily replace Agnes Miller in "Never Again."

FIGS AND THISTLES.

There is no safe side in any kind of sin.

Nothing can make people go blind any quicker than filling their eyes with gold dust.

When the right kind of a man is taken out of the miry clay, he knows enough to stay out.

The fact that there is so much stuff that shines like gold makes the story of disaster one of the saddest chapters ever written.—Ram's Horn.

MILL TREASURER GONE

Efforts Being Made to Trace Frank Howland of New Bedford.

Several Big Mill Corporations on the Shoals.

One Treasurer Died Under a Cloud and Another Has Disappeared.

New Bedford, Mass., April 26.—The mystery of the disappearance of William D. Howland, the treasurer of the Howland, Rotch and New Bedford mills, is still unsolved, so far as New Bedford is concerned, although a clew is now being followed out which may support a theory which has been advanced that Mr. Howland, after remaining in one of the buildings near the wharf all day, wandered off after nightfall and reached Fall River, where he took a train for Providence.

Frank Haskell, a teamster of Dartmouth, reports that on Friday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, he fell in with a man on the Tucker road, Dartmouth, answering the description of Mr. Howland. The man had been walking, and asked for a ride, saying he was very tired. The teamster gave him a ride to the northward, and the man talked with him a little about farming and general topics. Haskell set the man down at the Smith mills, and the man went in a northerly direction. The theory is, if this was Mr. Howland, he was en route for Fall River and perhaps to Providence.

The river is being dragged this morning.

More and more evidence is accumulating to show that none of the banks in the city will be at all affected by the mill troubles. They are solid as a rock.

The expert is not through with the examination of the books, so nothing new can be stated concerning the condition of the mills. The directors, at a meeting Saturday afternoon, considered the subject of going into a receiver's hands. The stock may be reduced in order to meet indebtedness.

The missing man is 44 years old, stands 5 ft. 6 in. in height and weighs 140 pounds. His face is full blooded, and its most prominent feature is a large, hooked nose. He has an iron gray mustache, the ends slightly curled. His eyes are large, and dark gray in color. He has dark, heavy eyebrows; has dark brown hair, which curls slightly over the temples, and is bald on top of his head. He was dressed in a sack suit of dark brown cloth, and wore a spring overcoat of a brownish color.

Last week was an awful one in the mill history of New Bedford. Five great corporations, with a total capitalization of nearly $4,000,000, have lost much of the confidence of the business world.

Two of them, the Columbia and Bennett mills, are badly wrecked, and their building spirit, Frank B. Hadley, lies dead in his magnificent home, carried off by the grim reaper when the hand of the law was about to descend on him for perjury.

As for the Howland, Rotch and New Bedford mills, the troubles which sent their treasurer off looking for oblivion was inability to get funds to further carry notes to the amount of $2,000,000.

The storm gathered when the Bennett and Columbia mills went down. The Boston and local banks which were holding the paper of three Howland corporations told Treasurer Howland to look for his funds. He left his beautiful home on Ash street, knowing that the crisis could not be staved off any longer.

An examination of only a few hours' duration by an expert called upon by the banks had disclosed that Mr. Howland has misrepresented to the secretary of state the condition of his trusts, and the directors of all the banks had decided not to stand behind Mr. Howland for the indebtedness of the corporations.

FOUND IN KELLEY'S ROOM.

False Mustache, Goatee and Murdered Cashier's Keys to Bank.

Somersworth, N. H., April 26.—Deputy Sheriff McDaniel and William H. Rich of Berwick searched the room of Joseph E. Kelley, in Mrs. Mary Wilkinson's boarding house in Berwick, last evening and found the keys of the Great Falls National bank, which were taken from Cashier Stickney's pocket by Kelley at the time of the murder. The keys were on a common wire ring, together with a brass tag, on each side of which was engraved the name of J. A. Stickney. A Roman coin was also found attached to the ring. Among other things, the officers found a box containing a dark mustache and a goatee. These articles were discovered in the chimney of the house, where Kelley dropped them through a funnel hole, after his return from the orchard.

In the corner of the room the officers discovered a white shirt, on the sleeve of which were some small blood spots.

Charged With Attempting Murder.

Springfield, Mass., April 26.—Mrs. John C. Condon was arrested on the charge of forging the name of E. L. Leonard of Holyoke to notes given to Miss H. M. Silcox, and will be held on the charge of attempting to poison Mrs. John Hunt, widow of a veteran conductor in the Boston and Albany railroad's employ. She owed $500 to Mrs. Hunt, and it is thought, took this method of avoiding payment. This money was secured by two notes, fraudulently endorsed. Mrs. Condon gave Mrs. Hunt a bottle of wine. The next day Mrs. Hunt drank part of it and was taken instantly sick. A doctor was summoned, and her stomach was pumped out in time to save her life. Mrs. Hunt was taken sick at the home of Miss Silcox, and while there Mrs. Condon came to give Miss Silcox some of the same wine, which was thus avoided. Mrs. Hunt will live.

Indorsed by Labor Union.

Fall River, Mass., April 26.—At a meeting of the Central Labor union yesterday, resolutions were passed endorsing Mary E. Halley for reappointment as state factory inspector. The resolutions, which were drawn up by Secretaries Howard of the spinners', Whitehead of the weavers' and Tansy of the carders' unions, will be forwarded to Governor Wolcott. It is expected that other labor unions in the city and also in New Bedford will pass similar resolutions. Miss Halley's time expires next month, and Miss Mason of Lowell is understood here to be also a candidate for the position. The latter, however, is a shoeworker, while Miss Halley is a weaver. The textile workers here claim that as a bulk of the work is in textile institutions, she should be retained.

Maine Law Court Decisions.

Augusta, Me., April 26.—The law court has rendered the following decisions: Penobscot county—Inhabitants of, Bangor vs. inhabitants of Orneville, to recover for support of insane persons at hospital. Judgment for plaintiff for $101.02, with interest from December 19, 1894. Piscataquis county—C. E. Richardson vs. D. F. Hoxie et al, to enforce lien claim on logs. Exceptions overruled. Waldo county—R. D. Bennett vs. Sarah E. Talbot, to recover for building wharf. Exceptions to ruling of court, directing verdict for defendant. Exceptions overruled. State vs. J. F. Thompson, for illegally having partridges in possession for shipment out of state. Demurrer overruled. Case to stand for trial.

Two Men Drowned.

Lawrence, Mass., April 26.—Charles Murphy and Henry Donovan were drowned in the Merrimac river yesterday afternoon by the capsizing of a sailboat just below Pine island. Patrick McEaney, Frank Kennedy and two young men named Wright, succeeded in rescuing two of the party. John McLaughlin and Michael Garvin. Donovan was caught in the rigging of the boat and went down with it, while Murphy had almost reached the north bank when he gave out and went down.

Harvard's Crack Runner Suspended.

Cambridge, Mass., April 26.—Dick Grant, the crack Harvard one-mile runner, will not compete in the Harvard and University of Pennsylvania dual games on May 9. Last week, after having been forbidden by Captain Vincent of the Mott Haven team, he participated in the Marathon run of the Boston Athletic association, and for this breach of discipline he will not be allowed to represent the college at the games. The absence of Grant means the loss of several points to Harvard.

Injured by Runaway.

Stamford, Conn., April 26.—Representative Dr. Charles E. Rowell and wife were seriously injured in a runaway accident yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Rowell had two ribs broken and, it is feared, is injured internally, and Dr. Rowell was seriously cut about the head and was badly bruised and shaken up. The accident was due to the horse being frightened by a trolley car.

Bishop Bradley Going to Rome.

Manchester, N. H., April 26.—Right Rev. Bishop Dennis M. Bradley delivered his last sermon at St. Joseph's cathedral yesterday previous to his decennial visit to Rome. He will sail from this country on the Gallia, Saturday, May 1, and will be accompanied by Rev. P. J. Finnegan of Claremont. The bishop will be absent three months.

Found Dead In Hotel.

Boston, April 26.—Last evening a man registering as "Warren W. Spaulding, Waterville, Me.," was found dead in his room at Hotel St. James, Beach street. The death of the man was recorded as probably due to alcoholism.

Definition of an Earned Run.

Washington, April 26.—President Nick Young of the National Baseball league makes the following announcement: To baseball scorers: I have received several communications asking for an official interpretation of the rule (section 9, rule 71) relative to earned runs. An earned run is a run that reaches home base without the aid of a fielding error. A "stolen base" cannot cut any figure, although there is no chargeable error, still some one is at fault in one of the several ways which would not justify the scoring of a fielding error. A base runner who makes a base hit and is advanced a base by a successful sacrifice hit is entitled to the credit of an earned run, if he reaches home base before chances have been offered to retire his side. The section must be considered intelligently as a whole, and not in part, and admits of no other fair interpretation.

GRANT MEMORIAL DAY

Tomorrow's Celebration at New York Will Be Long Remembered.

Only Bad Weather Can Interfere With Program.

All of the New England States Are to Be Well Represented.

New York, April 26.—If the crowd to witness the parade and other exercises in connection with the dedication of General Grant's tomb on Tuesday continues to increase in proportion to the number of arrivals during today, it will be necessary for some of the late comers to bring their bedding with them. All of the first class hotels are filled to the roofs, and have been for several days. A conservative estimate of the number of visitors is 300,000, a liberal estimate is 1,000,000.

"Everybody as is anybody," from President McKinley to Queen Lilluokalani, is going to be present.

New England is going to make quite a showing in the parade. Every one of her states will be represented.

Nothing but the wrath of the elements can prevent Grant day from being a glorious day, on which will be witnessed a popular demonstration of a great national hero.

The great rush into New York began this morning. Regiments of the regular army and of state militia are coming every hour. With them come a great throng of people from all parts of the country. Guests, officially invited by the city, including President McKinley and the other principal officers of the federal government, together with the representatives of foreign governments in this country, have also arrived. By tonight all the principal hotels in the city will be filled with guests, according to present indications, and all of the armories and many of the big public halls will be turned into barracks for soldiers.

From one end of the city to the other the Stars and Stripes are displayed with prodigal profusion. This decoration is not confined to points which will be the centers of attraction during the cerebration or to the line of march for the parade, but is general. Before morning the city will be fairly swathed in the national colors.

Final arrangements for receiving and escorting President McKinley from the ferry to the Windsor hotel, where he will be quartered during the Grant day ceremonies, were completed last night by General Daniel Butterfield. General Butterfield telegraphed to Washington to learn the president's wishes in the matter, and received a reply, stating that the president desired that everything should be left to General Butterfield. The honor of acting as military escort to the president was then tendered to cavalry squadron A. The squadron is composed of about 250 men.

The Pine Tree Party.

Augusta, Me., April 26.—A number of prominent people left Augusta yesterday, to meet Governor Llewellyn Powers in Boston, and thence proceed to New York, to attend the dedication of the Grant mausoleum. Governor Powers left for Boston Saturday afternoon, and was preceded by Mrs. Powers, who went Friday. The governor's staff and members of the executive council are included in the party, together with state officials. The party is made up as follows: Hon. Llewellyn P. Powers, governor of Maine, and Mrs. Powers; General Selden Connor of Portland, adjutant general; the following gentlemen, members of the governor's council, and their wives, Hon. Elias Dudley Freeman of Portland, Hon. E. P. Spofford of Deer Isle, Hon. H. W. Mayor of Hamden, Hon. B. I. Coffin of Harrington, O. A. THE MEETING of the City Council this evening should be the most important of the year, as the annual appropriation order will come up for its second reading and may possibly reach its final stage, and it will be decided whether Quincy shall make an appropriation for the introduction of a sewer system. In recent years the appropriation order has passed as reported, but there has already been one amendment this year and there is a desire on the part of some to reduce the taxes, if possible. The trouble is that no individual item appears extravagant or much more than is actually necessary. The only reductions hinted are in the Hospital appropriation, the water department, and school department.

The city has in the past appropriated $1000 annually for the Quincy Hospital but is permitted by law to appropriate $5000. The Mayor and Treasurer recommended an increase to $2000, but the Finance Committee raised it another $1000. Many believe that as the city has no control over this institution it should not contribute largely to its support, any more than to the Woodward Institute or Adams Academy. They argue that under Article 45 of the city charter a separate vote is necessary on the increase from $2000 to $3000, as the section says: "No gross appropriation of money, and no item thereof, in excess of the recommendations of the Mayor and City Treasurer, in case they shall agree in such recommendations shall be passed by the Council, except by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members present and voting and in no case by less than a majority of all the members of the Council."

Until some way is devised to secure for the city the necessary income to support its regular departments without oppressing taxpayers, it should go slow in helping institutions. The City Hospital is worthy of all support, and our citizens will continue in the future as in the past to meeet all requirements.

The appropriation for the maintenance of the water department is regarded to be the most generous of any city department, particularly as the department has a large additional sum each year for construction.

Inasmuch as the Finance Committee has already reduced the school appropriation, it is improbable that there will be a further reduction.

The sewer appropriation will meet opposition for different reasons. Some wish to postpone the expense and the assessments. Others want light upon the assessments. A majority probably will vote for the appropriation, but the two-thirds vote is in doubt.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. THE JESTERS.

Greeted by a Large Audience at Unitarian Chapel.

The comedies presented by "The Jesters" of Trinity college on Saturday evening at the Unitarian chapel drew a large audience, and the proceeds go to the Quincy Hospital. The young men will long have occasion to remember their visit to the "City of Presidents" as they received many attentions from Mrs. Wainwright, Mrs. Breed, the Hospital Ten King's Daughters and others.

The programme opened with piano selections by Mr. Gordon.

"The Bicyclers" was first presented, the scene being a drawing room of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Perkins at Gramercy Square, New York, late in October. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley start to make them a visit, the former by the L, while the latter rides alone on her wheel and gets into a police station. Mr. Bradley is induced by the experts to ride and he and Mr. Perkins have thrilling experiences. There were many amusing incidents. The cast was:

Mr. Robert Yardsley, an expert, H. B. Pulsifer
Mr. Jack Barlow, another, R. A. Benson
Mr. Thaddeus Perkins, a beginner, W. S. Danker
Mr. Edward Bradley, a scoffer, Mr. Brines
Mrs. Thaddeus Perkins, a resistant, H. C. Owen
Mrs. Edward Bradley, an enthusiast, J. H. Lecour, Jr.
Jenny, a maid, E. S. Travers.

Between the plays there was music, Miss Emery giving a solo to piano accompaniment by Miss Rodgers, and violin by Mr. Porter. Miss Emery responded to an encore. Miss Rodgers also gave a pleasing piano selection.

The comedy "Between the Acts" was the best of the evening, and the discomforture of Mr. Comfort and the tangle in which all were involved, just because he did not let his wife into the secret, caused much merriment. The cast:

Dick Comfort, Married, yet single, E. S. Travers
George Merrigale, an Unfriendly Friend, J. H. Decour, Jr.
Alexander Meander, Dick's Uncle, blamed but blameless, W. S. Danker
Harris, Comfort's Man Servant, Mr. Brines
Mrs. Clementina Meander, Dick's Aunt, blameless but blamed, H. B. Pulsifer
Edith Comfort, Dick's Wife, unknown, unhonored and unsung, H. C. Owen
Sally, Mrs. Meander's French Maid, R. A. Benson

An Old Offender.

January 23, Officer Ferguson arrested a young man who gave his name as James Fairnan, for being a professional beggar. When arrested Fairnan apparently walked lame. At the police station Dr. Welch examined the sore and pronounced it a fake, having been caused by irritation and then aggravated by the free application of vaseline. He was taken into court the next day and sent to Dedham for four months for obtaining money under false pretences. Some weeks ago the police had inquiries about the young man from police of Pontiac, Mich., where he is wanted for breaking and entering. Saturday Sheriff Leenan arrived in Quincy from that city with requisition papers for Fairnan, whom he will take back to Michigan. Fairnan's sentence has not expired as yet but in order to hasten matters he will be pardoned Tuesday and as he leaves the jail he will be arrested upon the Michigan warrant.

Not a Man.

When the train due at Wollaston at 11 45 P. M., arrived at that station Friday night the engineer reported that when nearly opposite the Wollaston freight depot he thought he struck somebody and rolled him over into the ditch near Newport avenue. He and part of the train crew went back, when the train pulled up at Wollaston, and made a search but could find nothing. They reported the matter to Officer Connelly who made a search but found no one. He did however find a long pile of dirt, which had been left by workmen, which resembled a body somewhat and this was evidently what the engineer saw.

Changes at Depot.

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. had a large gang of men at work at the Quincy depot Sunday making a number of improvements. The platform on the west side of the tracks has been entirely removed and a new drain built to carry off the water which always accumulated under the old platform. This done the place will be filled up with fine gravel and levelled off even with the tracks. The use of the waiting rooms on that side of the track has been abandoned and it is understood that the building will be moved away.

Whitewash Administered.

The Quincy, Jr., base ball team opened the season by defeating the Dublin Stars 14 to 0. The team promises to be the strongest junior team in Quincy. In the game fine work was done by the battery. Hanson, the pitcher struck out nineteen men. The suits for the club will arrive next week. The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Quincy Jr.,	3	0	0	0	2	3	3	3	0	—14
Dublin Stars,	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 0

"Zoe, the Octoroon," to be given under the auspices of Paul Revere Post, G. A. R., on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, will be presented by nearly the same cast as twelve years ago.

Mr. Alexander McKay of the Western Theological Seminary, Alleghany, Pa., preached in the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning on The Christian's Rest. His sermon was very acceptible for its sound and plain presentation of the truth.

Sunday was a warm summer day and people moved out of doors. The electric cars carried thousands on all routes. The Houghs Neck line was well patronized, and it was the liveliest day of the season at the beach.

Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of Cohasset supplied the pulpit of Bethany Congregational church on Sunday, in exchange with the pastor, and large congregations greeted him. He preached able sermons morning and evening although suffering from a cold.

The three days' fair of the Swedish Lutheran church at Faxon hall came to a successful end Saturday night when the attendance was the largest of any of the three nights. The entertainment provided, which was of a pleasing nature, consisted of music by the orchestra; song by Sunday school children; piano duet by Mrs. J. W. Eckman and Mrs. Carlquist; song by the Ladies' quartette; violin solo by Charles Chilstedt. The $100 bicycle was secured by Miss Gertrude Walker.

Yachting News.

The fame of the Quincy Yacht club has extended across the continent to a mining camp in the Bitter Root spur of the Rocky mountains in British Columbia, as was evinced a short time ago by a letter which the secretary of the club received from a gentleman in that locality. This gentleman was in need of a lanyard and having heard of this yacht club wrote to its secretary for the article. A Boston concern that deals in sailors' clothing was notified of his wants and he is undoubtedly in possession of the coveted lanyard ere this.

The Wollaston Yacht club's new quarters in the Stewart building at Norfolk Downs are ready for occupancy and will be dedicated on the evening of May 4.

The secretary of the Quincy Yacht club has made arrangements with the Weather Bureau to have the weather forecasts posted daily in the club house the coming season.

Lelois had 53 yachts hauled up in his yard this winter.

The Winona, a 46 foot steam yacht, is the latest addition to the Wollaston yacht club's fleet.

Harold Faxon's boat, the Gnome, met with an accident while racing at Dorchester on Saturday. She had rounded the first stake and was second when she was plunked just abaft the standing room by another boat, cutting an ugly hole in her stern. She had to withdraw. The Gnome is 20 ft. overall; 12 ft. 6 in. w. l.; 6 ft. beam, and draws 5 inches.

Capt. "Charlie" White, of the Quincy Yacht club, came flying up the river Sunday afternoon in his new knockabout Jeannette. The Jeannette behaved well under a three-reefed mainsail as the heavy puffs of wind dropped on her. She is 29 ft. overall; 24 ft. w. l.; 10 ft. 4 in. beam, and draws 15 in.

Ex Vice Commodore William H. Shaw's new jib and mainsail yacht, Vexer, was expected to arrive off the Quincy Yacht club house on Sunday from Gloucester. A. J. Shaw went down the bay in the Moondyne to meet her.

The Scammell boys have their trim little boat, Alpha, in the water. She lays off Lelois' yard.

Sunday was the warmest day thus far this year, the maximum temperature being 81 degrees. Today is a little cooler, the temperature at noon being 70 degrees.

The funeral services over the remains of the Rev. Francis G. Gratz, took place from his late home on Taylor street, Wollaston, on Saturday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.

Y. M. C. A. Training School.

"The Young Men's Christian Association Training School, its Works and Needs," was the subject of a very interesting talk at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, by Mr. Joseph E. Merritt. Mr. Merritt is now a student in the physical department of the school, and gave a very comprehensive idea of the work.

The school was founded in 1885 by Rev. David Allen Reed, then pastor of Hope Congregational church. It was then a department of the school for Christian workers, well known to C. E. workers. The object originally was to prepare men to be general secretaries of the associations. Later a department was organized to prepare men for physical directors, and more recently the educational department, which aims to prepare men to become educational directors.

The school has a large tract of land on the banks of Massasoit lake where two fine buildings have been erected, a gymnasium and a dormitory. It also contains one of the finest athletic fields in western Massachusetts. The total value of this property is about $100,000. The course of study covers three years.

In general, all of the studies pursued group themselves about four subjects: (1) The Bible; (2) Man; (3) The Young Men's Christian Association; (4) the practical application of the instruction thus furnished.

A large percentage of the secretaries and physical directors of the United States and Canada have received their training in this school. About fifty young men are now attending. Quincy has another representative in addition to Mr. Merritt, Mr. C. R. Tucker, formerly a teacher in our High school who is taking a special course in the educational department and also teaching one or two branches.

The school is greatly in need of financial aid, for current finances, for the endowment of the various departments and for the erection of buildings for the library, educational department, etc. A small collection was taken Sunday which Secretary Colton hopes to increase considerable by private subscription. A beautiful booklet containing many half-tone pictures of the grounds, the interior and exterior of buildings, etc., was given as a souvenir and a few more can be secured by calling at the rooms.

THE LAW USELESS.

No Provision For Enforcement In Maine Anti-Cigaret Bill.

Augusta, Me., April 26.—The anti-cigaret bill, passed by the last legislature, and which will go into effect on May 1, contains no provision for its enforcement.

This is another illustration of the bungling legislation of the last body of lawmakers. Through an engrossing clerk's mistake, the game commissioners are having no end of trouble with the game laws, and other important errors have been discovered in various laws.

In regard to the cigaret law, there is considerable comment as to whether the error was made by design or not, it being well known that at the time of the passage of the measure there was opposition from several members, who did not wish to go on record as voting against it.

Congress Will Take Vacation.

Washington, April 26.—There will not be a quorum in the senate during the present week, owing to the absence of a large numbers of senators in New York, in attendance upon the ceremonies over General Grant's tomb. Consequently, no business of importance will be transacted. Probably a majority of the senators desire to adjourn from today until Thursday and from Thursday again until Monday, without transacting any business of general moment, and this program is likely to be followed. If the wish of the Republicans of the finance committee is acceded to, the tariff bill will be reported Thursday, but it is most probable that this will be postponed until next week. The work of preparing for the reorganization of the senate committees will proceed informally. Under the arrangement made on Friday, the house will transact no business this week. The house met formally today and adjourned until Thursday, when an adjournment will be taken until Monday.

Traction Cars Cause Three Deaths.

Pittsburg, April 26.—The traction roads are responsible for three deaths in this city yesterday. John R. McKelvy, aged 27, son of John H. McKelvy, late president of the White Lead trust, was killed by a Consolidated Traction car on Forbes street. It is supposed McKelvy in corssing the street miscalculated the distance, or the speed of the car, and was run down. He was dragged 200 feet and horribly mangled. Mr. McKelvy was manager of the Armstrong & McKelvy Lead and Oil company, and was prominent in business circles. While Christian Wachter was driving on Second avenue, with his wife and two children, his horse became frightened and jumped in front of a traction car. The car struck the vehicle with terrible force. Mrs. Wachter and her 2-year-old babe were killed almost instantly, while the husband and other child were injured, but not seriously.

Suspicious Fires at Somerville.

Boston, April 26.—The city of Somerville was yesterday the scene of a series of fires, each of which originated under peculiar and suspicious circumstances, and footed up a total loss for the day of more than $40,000. By the first fire, three wooden buildings were destroyed, with a loss of $10,000. The second or more properly the series of fires occurred in the afternoon in one of the most dangerous and most densely populated portions of the city, where all but very few buildings are built of wood and dry as tinder. By this visitation the Somerville iron foundry was burnt to the ground, and two vinegar manufactories badly gutted. About 10 dwelling houses were also more or less damaged.

Roar-Admiral Meade Quite Sick.

Washington, April 26.—The condition of Rear Admiral Richard W. Meade, retired, who has been sick here for some days, is not so favorable. About 10 days ago he was operated upon for appendicitis. Until yesterday an improvement was noticeable, when the admiral had a chill, which left him in a weakened condition. From this there was some rally during the evening. He is very weak, and takes liquid nourishment, but if no new complications arise his physician believes the admiral may recover.

Canadian Factories Closing.

Montreal, April 26.—W. C. McDonald, the largest manufacturer of plug tobacco in Canada, employing 700 hands, has closed down his factory in this city. The reason for the shutdown is uncertainty over the clause in the new tariff bill relating to increase of duty on tobacco. The Dominion Wire company, whose factories are at Larchine, closed down their barbed wire works on Saturday, in consequence of the placing of barbed wire on the free list. They employed about 300 men.

Aged Educator Attempts Suicide.

New York, April 26.—Professor J. D. Dennison, 73 years of age, one of New Jersey's educators, who has a record remarkable for fidelity and hard work, is dying at his home in Haledon, a suburb of Paterson, as the result of self-inflicted wounds. He gashed his wrist and throat with a razor. His attempt at suicide was a most pathetic one. He had grown helpless, and sought by suicide to relieve his wife of the burden of his support.

"The Cat Is Out."

London, April 26.—The Times' correspondent at Paris telegraphed that the object of Prince Hohenlohe's visit to M. Hanotaux, the French foreign minister, was to discuss the situation in the Transvaal, and to persuade France, and through her, Russia, to support Germany in resisting Great Britain's imperious attitude toward the Boers, in exchange for Germany's support of France in the Egyptian question.

Mexican Naval School.

City of Mexico, April 26.—President Diaz has issued a decree establishing a naval school at Vera Cruz, to be opened July next. Youths desiring to enter the navy or adopt careers as pilots or marine engineers will be admitted.

Veteran Accidentally Asphyxiated.

New York, April 26.—Frederick Hoffman, a Union veteran of the Ninth New York volunteers, on furlough from the soldiers' home at Togus, Me., was accidentally asphyxiated by illuminating gas in the Hotel Hatfield.

For Three Years He Suffered — Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

A. M. RAMSEY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this, August 4th, 1896.

GREEKS TO PERSEVERE

Determined Stand to Be Made Against Victorious Turks.

Hellenic Campaign Has Been Badly Managed.

Troops Worn Out by Useless Marching on the Larissa Plains.

Athens, April 26.—The Greek government has decided to persevere in the struggle with Turkey and to resist the further advance of the enemy with greater energy than has hitherto been displayed. It is officially declared that the new line of defense is far stronger than the frontier, where the Turks gained their advantage in consequence of the superiority of their positions.

The official in charge of the telegraph office at Larissa, observing a cloud of dust, raised by the advancing cavalry of the Turks, asked leave to dynamite the office. He was directed to leave it. Since Saturday the Larissa office has made no response to calls from Athens.

A dispatch from Revent says that Edhem Pasha, on learning that the Greeks had been ordered to fall back, attempted to deliver a crushing blow with a considerable force which had been resting 36 hours, and succeeded in breaking through the Greek lines in several places.

A dispatch from Arta reports that the Greeks have captured Plaka. Another dispatch says that Plaka and Pentepigadia have been occupied by the Greeks, after being abandoned by the Turks, who have also abandoned Kaletzia. Colonel Manos, in force, has advanced beyond Pentepigadia, en route to Janina. It is reported at Arta that a rising has occurred in the interior of Epirus.

It is useless to deny that a very gloomy view of the war prospects is taken here by the better informed. There are, however, no signs of a panic. The city exhibits an attitude of dignified endurance, while many still show an unabated enthusiasm for fight. This symptom is particularly noticeable among the wounded now in Athens. Their one desire seems to be to be healed, in order that they may rejoin the colors. Naturally, this spirit is much fostered by the confirmation of the reports that the Turks have burned the Greek wounded in a church at Kurtziovali. The Turks lighted fires on hte bodies of wounded Greeks. Many of the wounded implored their comrades to kill them; others committed suicide.

Although it is said that the Greeks carried off all their guns from Tyrnavo and Larissa, and also destroyed all the provisions at both places, they could not transport the guns to Pharsala.

It is reluctantly believed by some in Athenian circles that the retreat was somewhat disorderly and that some of the guns were abandoned with but feeble defense. It seems probable, however, that in the main the retreat was in good order.

Naturally all sorts of rumors are advanced as to why the Greeks retreated, the more candid admitting that the Turks were too strong. It is also pointed out that the Turkish cavalry did much to turn the scale in favor of Edhem Pasha's movements.

The Greek fleet is also the subject of many curious reports, one of which asserts that the eastern squadron has bombarded Dedeagatch. It is known that the Turks ordered that all the lanterns in the lighthouses on the Gulf of Salonica should remain unlit. Five ironclads and four torpedo boats are operating along the coast between Platamona and Katerina. The British and French subjects residing at Volo have wired to their respective envoys here, begging for the dispatch of warships to Volo to protect them. The envoys have wired to their governments and to the admirals at Canea, but at Athens it is considered unnecessary to comply with the request, as an attack upon Volo is no part of the Turkish program.

Dispatches from Arta somewhat modify reports and tone down the glowing prospects, although the Athenians are still hoping that the capture of Janina may come as an offset to the retreat from Thessaly. There is no confirmation of the report that a white flag has been seen flying over Prevesa citadel; and Pentepigadia has not yet been captured.

Colonel Caimandouros, with a battalion of 1200, engaged 2500 Turks Saturday on the plain, in front of Pentepigadia. The battle lasted until 7:30 in the evening. The result is not yet known here, though it is understood that the Greeks lost 150 killed and wounded. Colonel Caimandouros had no artillery.

Colonel Manos has returned to Arta with the Third division. The Second brigade, under Colonel Bozares, is 20 kilometres from Arta. Its forward movement is reported interrupted.

King George Going to the Front.

London, April 26.—The Daily Chronicle's Athens correspondent says: King George means to go to the front and to make a decided stand at Pharsala, which was the line of defense advised by General Vossur and some members of his staff from the very beginning. The Greeks have destroyed the railway from Larissa to Volo. It is reported that the Greeks have arrived in the vicinity of Janina.

END BELIEVED TO BE NEAR.

European Rowers Believe Time Has Arrived For Intervention.

London, April 26.—What seems likely to be the last week of the war is entered upon. It is difficult from the tangle of telegrams to understand the exact position of affairs.

Following the Greek defeats at Larissa, London opinion is almost unanimous that the end is in sight, and this view is probably shared by the powers, as they are already moving to intervene.

It is believed that intervention will first take the form of a suggestion of armistice, to which the combatants would no doubt agree. Since Saturday afternoon, the British foreign office has been in close communication with the other members of the European concert, Great Britain suggesting that the time has now arrived for them to act. The French he German and the Italian governments have already responded, offering to agree, though the German government adds as a condition that it will be necessary first to exact a pledge from Greece to obey the mandate of Europe when this mandate is again given.

The British foreign office believes that Greece will agree to this undertaking, as the disasters which have overtaken her have demonstrated that Turkey still possesses a formidable fighting machine, a fact which must have a sobering effect upon the popular demand for war at Athens, and which will permit the Greek nation to climb down without disgrace, after a superb vindication of the personal courage of the Greek troops, and a gratifying demonstration of Hellenic patriotism.

If the Greeks listen to reason and the arguments which will be pressed by England at Athens, and by Russia at Constantinople, it is not improbable that a decision will be reached by tomorrow, before which it is not supposed here that Edhem Pasha or Osman Pasha will have time to do more that to appear at Pharsala.

The situation is curious and perplexing. Each day there have been actions carried out with every circumstance of war by one organized army against the other; yet so far as is known here, there has been no declaration of war. The old military adage that war often declares itself, evidently applies in this instance. The Turks have invariably been the aggressors, and when the Greeks at various points have gallantly repelled the enemy and followed up their successes, orders have been invariably received compelling them to stop just short of the complete occupation of the conquered positions.

These orders in many cases have involved the abandonment of the fruits of much fighting, with heavy loss, and the spectacle is repeatedly witnessed of a victorious force retiring to its old positions. This state of things creates the utmost astonishment, and gives rise to very free adverse comment. The Greek troops can only suppose that political instead of military reasons govern the situation. For three days in succession were the Greek troops drawn up in battle array in front of Tyrnavo and opposite the mouth of Milouna pass, with intervals of brief artillery duels, sometimes with the sputtering fire of sharpshooters, with a constant marching and countermarching all over the field, itself a most wearsome exercise, and this kind of thing may speedily become demoralizing, as it assuredly is most confusing.

IN SULTAN'S CAPITAL.

News of Edhem Pasha's Victories Received With Gratification.

Constantinople, April 26.—The triumphant march of the Turkish armies has caused the liveliest satisfaction here. The telegram from Edhem Pasha is posted everywhere:

Larissa has been occupied by the cavalry of the imperial army. The Hellenic troops fled in disorder, abandoning a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

EDHEM PASHA.

This has been put up as a bulletin in many places, while the people are also reading Edhem Pasha's dispatch announcing his possession of a strategic position in front of Tyrnavo, which runs as follows:

The hill of Lesdaki, the most important dominant point to the north of Larissa, was taken by the Ottoman troops on Friday. Hamdi Pasha's division having left Koskesi (Karya), effected a juncture with the other imperial troops at Millorin. The town of Tyrnavo, which is situated two hours from Larissa, was occupied by the Elassona army corps. The Ottoman troops continue to advance toward the plains of Larissa.

Osman Pasha has been given secret instructions. A dispatch from Smyrna says that the Redifs, who were called out, are intended for the towns of Smyrna, Vurla and Scalanova, in order to prevent disturbances by the Greek residents there.

The consuls at Janina telegraphed the foreign embassadors here that the Albanian battalions had mutinied and were refusing to march, as well as they were threatening to attack the town. The Mussulman population, according to these advices, has quitted Janina en masse, some fleeing into the country and others taking refuge in the fortress. The consuls describe their own position and that of the Christian element at Janina as most critical, the vali having refused to distribute arms and ammunition to enable the inhabitants to defend Janina against the Albanjans. The envoys immediately called the attention of Twefik Pasha to the matter and demanded the adoption of effective measures to protect the inhabitants.

The sultan has conferred high decorations upon Edhem Pasha and upon the commanders of the six divisions of the army engaged in Grecian territory.

It is said here that the sultan has promised the Bulgarian diplomatic agent to grant three berats (warrants for the appointment of Bulgarian bishops in Macedonia) as soon as the war with Greece is over.

The Servian minister has also secured Imperial irades replacing the Greek metropolitan, Ambrosius, at Uskub, by a Servian, and granting the privilege of opening numerous Servian schools in the villayets of Monastir and Salonica.

Ahmed Hifzi, commander of the Turkish forces in Epirus, telegraphs that the Turks have captured Pentepigadia fortress. The Greeks had 300 killed and 219 wounded. The Turks had 51 killed and three wounded, and they captured 62 Greeks. A large quantity of stores, ammunition and Gras rifles was abandoned by the Greeks.

Osman Pasha Arrives at Salonica.

Salonica, April 26.—Osman Pasha arrived here Saturday evening, and was received with great enthusiasm. He went forward at once to the scene of conflict. Greek subjects here, on agreeing to place themselves under the Turkish authorities upon a certain condition, will be allowed to remain.

DEATH RECORD.

At North Adams, Mass., Shepherd Thayer, aged 71, one of the most prominent citizens of that city. Mr. Thayer had practiced law in that city for many years. He served in the lower branch of the state legislature in 1867 and 1869. In 1871 and '72 he was elected to the state senate, where he took a leading part in the fight to secure an appropriation to build the Hoosac tunnel. He was appointed special justice of the district court in 1873 and held the position until December, 1894, when he was appointed judge to succeed Senator George P. Lawrence. His resignation as judge was sent to Governor Wolcott in March to take effect May 1, and Caelton T. Phelps was appointed his successor Thursday. Judge Thayer is survived by his wife, two sons, ex-Senator S. Proctor Thayer and C. D. Thayer of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Edward A. Wright of New York.

At Williamstown, Mass., Cyrus Morris Todd, aged 70, for the past 27 years professor of mathematics at Williams college, of inflammation of the bowels. Professor Todd graduated from Williams in 1855, and taught mathematics and Latin at Jefferson college and the Indiana state university until 1870, when he was called to Williams. He was a fine Latin scholar and literary critic of much ability.

At Beverly, Mass., Ex-Mayor Charles H. Odell, aged 68, of Beverly. In 1864 he was elected to the Massachusetts house. He was also elected to the legislature in 1865. He was appointed collector of the Beverly and Salem district by General Grant in 1873, and was postmaster under Harrison.

At Brockton, Mass., William W. Cross, aged 64, a prominent business man, was taken sick in the Porter Congregational church and died within 15 minutes, having, meantime, been able to walk to his home. Death was due to heart trouble.

At Boston, Edwin Morse, aged 65, the veteran pool seller and bookmaker, widely known among race track habitues.

Iowa Railroads Washed Out.

Ottumwa, La., April 26.—The river has broken over the levees and flooded the bottoms, carrying several houses down stream. In some places the water is above the first story. One Burlington main line track is impassable, and hundreds of men are at work attempting to prevent damage to the other line. The situation is critical, but it is not believed that the Burlington will keep the main line open. The Wabash and Milwaukee tracks are gone here for a distance of 200 feet, and both roads are tied up. The Rock Island has miles of track under water. No attempt is being made to run trains. The river is rising slowly.

White Squadron Off Grant's Tomb.

New York, April 26.—The white squadron left its anchorage off Tompkinsville, S. I., yesterday, and sailed up the North river to its new anchorage, off Grant's tomb, where it will remain until Wednesday or Thursday. Large crowds gathered at the Battery and the piers of the North river front to see the vessels pass by. The New York, the flagship of the squadron, with Admiral Bunce in command, took the lead. The dispatch boat Dolphin, from which President McKinley will review the naval parade, brought up the rear.

Weather For Grant Memorial Day.

Washington, April 26.—Chief Willis L. Moore of the weather bureau has issued the following special weather forecast for Grant memorial day in New York: Heat showers will pass during today, probably leaving fair weather and moderate temperature in New York city on Tuesday.

AMERICANS HONOR MEMORY OF GRANT.

Estimated That Over a Million Visitors Are In New York.

PARADE NEVER BEFORE EQUALLED

Boys In Blue and Confederate Veterans Marching.

PATRIOTISM THAT IS CONTAGIOUS.

Monument Reared to World's Greatest Hero Is Fittingly Dedicated—Over Sixty Thousand In Procession. Biggest Crowd Ever Seen In New York—New England Well Represented.

New York, April 27.—Nothing could better indicate how great Grant really was than today's demonstration in this city. It is 12 years since he died. Most men, no matter what their services, are forgotten in much less time. Grant's last years were clouded with the most distressing financial troubles. His enemies—and he had many, as all strong men have—used his money difficulties in an endeavor to smirch his good name. His political opponents dragged him through the dust of a dozen scandals. Yet out of it all the figure of the soldier and the statesman comes today more glorious than ever. Twelve years of calm, critical study of his life has served to confirm and strengthen the judgment of the people who beheld in this splendid personality the greatest military hero of the world.

A million people are here today to honor the memory of the deliverer of his country. Patriotism is in the air. In the magnificent parade of thousands of soldiers and citizens of the greatest country in the world, are men who fought each other with shot and shell on Southern battlefields a generation ago. Today they are united under one flag, and they join hands, voices and tears in loving tribute to the greatest general, the noblest citizen, and the most magnanimous conqueror in all the world's history—General Ulysses S. Grant.

Truly it is an inspiring sight. Trudging along before countless thousands of onlookers are the grizzled Boys in Blue, many of them made feeble by exposure and wounds, and many on whom accumulated years are now bearing heavily. These gallant old patriots seem again to be filled with the fires of youth, and no doubt many of them are rejuvenated spirits of dark days of war when they left home and loved ones to respond to their country's call.

MRS. U. S. GRANT.

Not less inspiring is the spectacle which follows. Another body of veterans, most of them tall and straight, with strong, courageous faces and slouch hats, comes marching along to the music of the famous Stonewall Jackson band. These are the members of the Confederate Veterans' association, who are today honoring the leader to whom they laid down their arms. As these men pass the grandstands the air is rent with a mighty roar from a myriad of throats. The world has never beheld such a spectacle as this, and it is safe to say that it never will again be equalled.

New York is choked with people. The crowds are larger than ever dreamed of. Hotels and boarding houses are filled to the roofs, and the demand for room increases as the day wears on. Thousands will be compelled to remain in the city tonight because they cannot leave—the trains are not adequate to transport them to their homes.

In the city are the President and Vice President of the United States, the diplomatic corps, senators and representatives, a platoon of governors of sister states, and many of the great survivors of the war. There are more troops in the city than have been mobilized since 1865, and, happy augury of a Union indivisible, they come from both above and below Mason and Dixon's line.

New England is perhaps better represented than any other section. All of her six governors are in the parade, with the crack regiments of their respective states.

It is conservatively estimated that over 60,000 men are in the procession, and the last division will not reach the reviewing stand until late in the afternoon.

Over 5000 regular troops, the flower of the United States army, and including the West Point cadets, are in line. National Guard of the several states, to the number of 30,000 or more, follow. Then comes the Grand Army and other veteran organizations. The civic bodies complete the parade

New York has excelled all former efforts at decorating. Flags and bunting, artistically arranged, cover every structure in the principal part of the metropolis. Portraits of General Grant by the thousand are everywhere to be seen. The grandstands and balconies are crowded beyond their capacity and are hidden by the national colors.

The exercises of the day are being carried out precisely as arranged weeks ago. The president and other distinguished guests left the Fifth Avenue hotel at 9:20 a. m., and, escorted by a squadron of cavalry, proceeded to the tomb, where a stand in the open air had been set apart for them. At 10:30 a. m., the head of the parading column moved from Madison square. At 11 o'clock the exercises at the tomb, prayer, singing by a great choir and speeches began, and at 1 o'clock p. m., when the bands of the procession were heard, the exercises concluded.

When the head of the column reached the tomb, the fleet fired a salute of 21 guns, and the review of the parade began.

NELLIE GRANT SARTORIS.

At 2 o'clock the naval parade will move, and at 5 o'clock President McKinley will leave the reviewing stand at the tomb and embark on the dispatch boat Dolphin, to review the warships' manœuvers. This evening the president and the other guests of the city, including the officers of the warships in port, will be entertained at receptions.

How They Marched.

The parade is marching in the following order, under command of Grand Marshal Dodge:

Military Grand Division.

First Division—United States army forces, Major General Merritt, commanding. United States navy, Captain James H. Sands.

Second Division—New York militia, Governor Frank S. Black.

Third Division—Pennsylvania militia, Governor Griggs; New England states' militia; Ohio militia, Governor Bushnell; Illinois militia, Governor Tanner, and independent companies.

Fourth Division—Military school cadets, Captain E. L. Zalinski, U. S. A., marshal.

Veteran Grand Division.

Major General O. O. Howard, Marshal, Grand Army of the Republic, Commander-in-Chief Clarkson commanding, and other veteran organizations.

Civic Grand Division.

Consisting of fraternal, social and labor organizations.

New England Delegation.

Following are the New England military organizations which marched in the third division:

Connecticut—Governor L. A. Cooke; General George Haven, adjutant general and staff. Escort, Governor's Foot Guard, National Guard state of Connecticut.

Massachusetts—Governor Roger Wolcott; General Samuel Dalton, adjutant general, and staff. Escort, First Corps of Cadets, Lieutenant Colonel Thomas F. Edmunds; Massachusetts volunteer militia; Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. (The Fifth regiment and Veteran Corps, Fifth regiment, Maryland National Guard, marched with the Ancients.)

New Hampshire—Governor George Ramsdell; General Augustus D. Ayling, adjutant general, and staff. Escort, Amoskeag veterans.

Rhode Island—Governor Charles Warren Lippitt; Brigadier General Frederick M. Sackett, adjutant general, and staff.

Vermont—Governor Jobiah Grout and staff; First regiment, and First, Second and Third battalions Vermont National Guard.

New England was also well represented in the veteran grand division.

REWARD FOR HOWLAND.

Brother of Missing Man Offers $100—Mills Ask For Receiver.

New Bedford, Mass., April 27.—Since the mysterious disappearance of William D. Howland, nearly everybody in New Bedford claims to have seen him somewhere on Friday afternoon or evening, but many of these people must be mistaken.

Standish Bourne and R. W. Albiston, two leading merchants, whose words are to be relied upon, declare that they saw Mr. Howland pass their places of business on Second street, in the centre of the city, Friday afternoon. There is a possibility that they may be mistaken in the day, although they are positive it was Friday. The direction in which Mr. Howland was going would take him back to the wharf, which he is believed to have left earlier in the day.

Policeman Sisson declares he saw Mr. Howland going west on Main street Friday night about 6:30 o'clock. This would tally with the story of the servant girl, who claims she saw Mr. Howland on Allen street later in the evening. The police went to Dartmouth and interviewed Frank Haskell, who gave a stranger a ride on his sand cart last Friday. From the description they believe the stranger was not Mr. Howland.

The missing man's brother, Richard S. Howland, of the Providence Journal, has offered a reward of $100 for information of the missing treasurer's whereabouts.

Eliot D. Stetson, attorney for the Kotch & Howland mills and the New Bedford Manufacturing company, has applied to Judge Sheldon of the superior court for the appointment of receivers for the three mills. Judge Sheldon issued an order of notice returnable in this city, Tuesday, May 4. A meeting of the stockholders of the three mills has also been called for next Tuesday. The expert has not yet finished his examination of the books.

Lasting Agreement.

Boston, April 27.—An understanding has been reached by the several shoe lasting machine companies by which the legal and trading contests that have been going on fiercely for the past few years will come to an end. It is said that each of the five companies doing business in this section will preserve its separate corporate existence, but that headquarters of the united concerns will be opened in Boston. The companies included are the Chase, Continental, McKay-Copeland, Boston and Consolidated Hand Method. Men who are posted on shoe machinery think that one result of the deal will be a new machine, combining the best points of each of the present machines. An expense for litigation averaging from $150,000 to $200,000 a year will be saved by the agreement.

Chicago Water Front Case.

Washington, April 27.—The Chicago lake front case, on which hinges the possession of lands in the Chicago city limits valued upwards of $15,000,000, was given a hearing at the general land office yesterday. The case is the famous one arising upon the application of Mathias Benner and Harvey M. La Follette to locate, with McKee scrip, lands in fractional section 10, north of the Chicago river and east of the United States Meander line of 1821. The hearing, which will occupy three days, is before Commissioner Herriman, Assistant Commissioner Best and Chief Shaw of the public lands division also sit with the commissioner.

Platte on the Rampage.

Maryville, Mo., April 27.—Maryville is almost completely water-bound. The floods are the worst ever known. The Platte, which runs through the eastern part of the county, the One Hundred and Two, which runs through the center, and the Nodaway, which runs through the western end, are all out of their banks. Each is about a mile wide, and considerable damage is being done. The Platte and Nodaway are still rising, while the One Hundred and Two remains stationary. All the roads in the county, the Wabash, two branches of the Burlington, and the Chicago and Great Western are unable to reach the city.

Date of Departure of Commission.

Bloomington, Ills., April 27.—Adlai Stevenson has left for Nashville, where he will attend the formal opening of the Tennessee exposition. APPROPRIATION FOR SEWER.

City Council Also Passes Annual Appropriation Order—Hearing at Street Railway Location.

Every member was in attendance at the important meeting of the City Council last evening showing a faithful attention to the business of the city. It was nearly a midnight session as there was a debate on the sewer appropriation and a lengthy hearing on the street railway extension to Squantum. The annual city appropriations were made.

Jurors.

Mayor Adams assisted by Councilman Phillips and City Clerk Keith drew the following traverse jurors: William Crathorne, 2d, Michael T. Sullivan and James Bisson.

Communications.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Board of Health calling attention to the disposal of garbage after collection, as the present contract with Mr. Lovett expires May 1, and he can not take it after that. As yet the board had been unable to make any plan for its disposal without a great deal of expense. Laid on the table.

President Bryant said he had forwarded a communication from Boston by mail this morning from the School Committee to the Clerk of Committees, objecting to the reduction of the school budget.

A communication from the Mayor reappointing Edward B. Marsh registrar of voters for three years was received, and the appointment confirmed.

Petitions.

C. H. F. Stoddard and Abel L. Cain petitioned for State aid. Referred.

A large number of petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

A petition was received from local peddlers asking for some legislation excluding out of town peddlers. To Committee on Legislative matters.

A petition was received asking that the boundaries of Sea street at the causeway be defined. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from residents of Billings street asking the Council not to grant any privilege to lay tracks on that street. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received asking that Nightingale avenue between Centre and Roberts streets be accepted as a public way. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Murray offered a petition of W. A. Smith for rebate of $44 80 personal tax. To Committee on Finance.

Cemetery Investigation.

The special committee appointed to investigate and report on the charges preferred by Hugh Cameron against James Nicol, Supt. of Public Burial Places, of dishonesty and improper conduct in the performance of the duties of his office reported that they had considered the same and fully investigated said charges and had before them to testify all persons who they knew, or were informed of, had knowledge of such conduct, and reported that in their opinion said charges are unfounded, and that proper care and due respect has been given to the remains of all persons entrusted to his care for burial or removal, and that in the regrading of the lots in Mt. Wollaston cemetery the work has been done in a proper and careful manner. Report accepted.

Other Reports.

The Committee on Licenses reported favorable upon petitions for several minor licenses which were granted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported as correctly engrossed the order establishing street lights on Glencoe place, corner of Rawson road and Billings road, corner of Station and Wilson streets; corner of Station and Hillside streets and four on Goffe street. Passed to be ordained. Councilman Geary alone voting in the negative.

The Squantum Location.

From 8 to 9 o'clock a hearing was given on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a location on Sagamore, Prospect, Billings and Squantum streets to Squantum.

Hon. J. F. Merrill, appeared for the company, and said the new route would develop territory and make taxable property, and the company was ready to build.

In reply to Councilman Nickerson he said the directors usually laid out the route.

To President Bryant he said that a girder rail and paving would be burdensome, and probably the location would not be accepted.

To Councilman Badger, he said there would be no objection going in the centre of Prospect street.

John A. Duggan believed time had come for building of the route. The streets upon which location were asked were but little travelled. Street railway would bring Squantum land into the market. He presented petitions of Squantum and Atlantic people for the railway which he claimed were signed by 90 per cent. of adjacent property holders. Mr. Duggan wanted to reserve the right to question remonstrants but the President ruled that only Councilmen had that privilege.

Nelson V. Titus reminded the Council that Quincy had objected to Squantum being set off to Boston, and thought no objection should not be made to its development. The railway would increase the value of property at Squantum and property holders would expect to pay more taxes.

In reply to Councilmen Field he said the causeway was wide enough. It was necessary that this location should be secured before the taking for the boulevard, as park commissioners would grant no location on boulevards.

In reply to Councilman Sprague he did not think Squantum would be a drinking resort. He had himself broken up drinking parties. Should of course expect police protection.

Ex-Councilman Read opened for the remonstrants. It was not right or proper he contended for the Council to grant locations on streets which were not wide enough, particularly where residents seriously objected. He appreciated the position of Mr. Titus, and did not object to Squantum having a street railway, but it should not run through Billings street or the narrow part of Squantum street between Billings and Atlantic streets. To widen Squantum street at the point named would cause removal of large trees on one side or the other which were much prized. He objected further to the drunken crowds that the street railway would carry. Would not object to location on Atlantic street, but Atlantic street people did not want it.

In reply to Councilman Badger he did not consider it necessary that Atlantic people should have electrics to take them home from the depot.

W. S. Hammond of Billings street objected to location on that street. Practically all the abutters opposed.

Mr. Duggan was allowed to speak in rebuttal and mentioned some of the petitioners in favor of the railway. Billings street was of the same width as Atlantic street. Trees would not be disturbed by widening Squantum street.

To Councilman Nickerson he said he regarded Billings street as the best location. On Atlantic street it might interfere with boulevard. Railway was principally for benefit of Squantum but not wholly.

To Councilman Sprague's suggestion that route be by Prospect street and extension, he said it was not practicable.

Mr. Read was allowed a few minutes in closing and objected vigorously to location on Billings and Squantum streets and suggested Sagamore, Newbury avenue and Atlantic streets.

The hearing closed at 9 o'clock, and the order with petitions was recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

Copeland Street.

Following the public hearing on the street railway location to Squantum came the hearing on petition for a single track in the centre of Copeland street from Water street to Crescent street, and revocation of location on the side of said street.

Peter T. Fallon and John R. Walters appeared in favor of the petition as they considered the location of rails on the side of the street dangerous.

There were no remonstrants and the hearing was closed. The matter was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Reports.

The Committee on State Aid reported an order granting Sarah E. Brown $4 per month and Louis G. McIntyre $6 per month. Adopted.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on the petition of Henry Curtis for State aid. Adopted.

The joint Committee on Finance and Public Buildings, to whom was referred the matter of remodelling City Hall, offered an order appropriating $100 for services of architect for sketches for the remodelling of City Hall.

Councilman Sprague offered an amendment that the money be spent under direction of Commissioner of Public Works. Adopted.

Councilman Phillips asked if city did not have plans.

Councilman Sprague said yes, but not such as the committee would like to authorize an expenditure of $20,000 without advice of architect.

The order was adopted.

Motions, Orders, etc.

Councilman Little offered an order granting the Quincy & Boston street railway a location in the centre of Copeland street

APPROPRIATION FOR SEWER.

between Water street and Crescent street. To Committee on Streets.

Upon motion of Councilman Cain the petition of M. R. Sparrow for a common victualler's license was taken from the table. Councilman Cain then offered an order granting the same which was passed.

Calendar.

The order granting the street railway leave to change its rails between City Hall and Franklin street came up and took its second reading.

The rules were suspended and the question was on passing to be ordained.

Councilman Geary offered an amendment that when it was found necessary to change the grade the grade of the whole street should be done at the expense of the street railway.

Councilman Field said the street railway had no right to change grade.

Councilman Poland said there were some places where the grade was changed on Hancock street and he favored the amendment.

Councilman Geary withdrew his amendment and moved to lay on the table.

Councilman Nickerson hoped order would pass. The street was in a good order and it was simply to change the rail.

Commissioner Knowlton in response to a question said no one could change the grade unless permitted by order. Continuing he said there was one place where the city would be benefited by changing the curve a little.

Councilman Nickerson asked if the Commissioner knew of this change why he did not bring it before the committee?

The Commissioner replied that his services were at command of the Committee on Streets. He did not think he was called upon to force his opinion on the committee.

President Bryant asked by what authority the rails and sleepers had been deposited along the street.

Commissioner Knoulton replied he had given no authority. They were put there for reconstruction. He did not understand the Commissioner was called upon to enforce the ordinances.

The motion to lay on the table was lost and the order was passed to be ordained.

Sewer Appropriation.

The order for $120,000 for sewers came up and took its second reading, and was referred to Committee on Ordinances.

Upon motion of Councilman Pinkham the reference was withdrawn and the question was on the suspension of the rules.

Councilman McGrath said the committee were not unanimous on the report but it was allowed to come to the Council that it might be debated. He did not oppose it, but he did not favor it at the present time. The $60,000 appropriated last year was not available and we are now at the question whether we shall commence the sewer. He did not think the time opportune, as the people were recovering from a business depression. People on its line can not pay their taxes now. It will mean much to them and will cost them considerable to enter it. He believed if it came to a vote of citizens they would not vote to commence now. There were other things more desired now than the sewer. There were a few sections that needed it bad but it was too bad to put on this burden at present. Voters never thought works were to cost a million.

Councilman Nickerson asked how many years from now he thought it would be time to begin.

Councilman McGrath replied he could not tell as it depended on the condition of business.

Councilman Nickerson said it was a large vote by the popular vote for sewer. The people decided the question and it was for us to say how it should be paid for.

Councilman Pinkham said the greater part of voters thought city should pay $400,000 and abutters the balance. The million means when the city is completed it would then cost a million dollars but that is some time away. The principal objection to delay is the metropolitan system. If we put it off we will have to pay our share of those trunk lines besides our own. There is great danger of waiting. We need sewers today. The premium on bonds will pay the assessment for first few years. The city would not be burdened any more by passing order now than by waiting.

Councilman Anderson said the thing people of Quincy have got to do is to get people into Quincy. Within three years the electric system on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. will be installed. Then the place that is in condition to receive people is going to get them. The first duty is to get into condition and that is best done by a sewer and sidewalks. The construction of the sewer will give employment to a large amount of labor until the granite business revives.

Councilman Phillips said order is but an entering wedge which must soon call for other large amounts. In view of the present financial condition there is a widespread feeling that this should be deferred but he was in favor of a sewerage system. It has taken time to bring this matter where it is and he knew of no advantage to be gained by putting it off longer. The same objections would be made ten years from now.

Councilman Badger thought it a great mistake to keep waiting when everybody wants it. People are asking when it is coming. It will bring people to our city. He could not see where the great item of expense was coming. It will take time to get it completed and could not see why we should wait.

Councilman McGrath said if it was a fact that the laborers would get a job it would be all right, but the men who are loafing about out streets are not the ones who will build it, yet it will come out of their taxes. The people did not vote to commence work in 1897 after four years of the greatest business depression.

Councilman Field said he could not vote for sewer under the present conditions. It would be a cheap luxury to some but those who have spoken for it have not made a figure. Was no danger of the Metropolitan system stopping it for they can not take our right away to enter. He was sorry to see the City Solicitor use a citizen as he did him at the State House hearing. He would never vote for it unless we had proportionate annual payments. All of the committee did not have notice of meeting.

The gentleman from Ward Five is afraid to give us any figures. He did not think people would have voted for an expenditure of a million dollars. If they could have a chance to vote on it they would vote to put it off. Councils were inexperienced. He did not believe money could be borrowed as cheap under this law. It was only an entering wedge and if you start it you do not know where it will end. The assessment of one-half would not be equitable in some sections of the city. The gentlemen from Ward Five do not want to meet this question. The amount of assessment should be settled first.

Councilman Nickerson asked what the last speakers objections were.

Councilman Field replied if the law made annual proportional payments and the assessment is figured out then the Council might decide.

Councilman Nickerson said it would take several meetings to settle the assessments.

City Solicitor Blackmur asked for a question to privilege to reply to Councilman Field. He appeared at the State House for the city and denied that he had been disrespectful to Councilman Field. The bill was drawn so as to borrow money on the best terms which could not be had under the other law.

Councilman Badger thought the sewer had gone beyond the matter of luxury to a necessity.

Councilman Little asked if Council passed order it had a right to instruct the Commissioners as to what labor they should employ.

City Solicitor replied no.

Councilman Pinkham said there was a new law that all municipal contracts should be given to citizens of Masssachusetts.

Councilman Edwards said everybody favored sewer and he thought this was the proper time to commence it.

Councilman McGrath was then called to the chair.

President Bryant, taking the floor, said we had got to do something to increase our revenue and the only way is to bring other people here to live. Because the granite business was at a low ebb was no reason why we should not go ahead. We want new houses. The gain in valuation of buildings in Wards Five and Six since 1893 was $520,575 while in Wards Two, Three and Four it was $253,640. By wards the gains in valuations were as follows:

	1893.	1896.
Ward One,	$4,271,980	$4,553,050
Ward Two,	1,517,350	1,576,675
Ward Three,	1,840,760	1,970,900
Ward Four,	1,983,395	1,999,125
Ward Five,	2,382,425	2,807,980
Ward Six,	1,609,765	2,091,700

Councilman Bryant then gave the number of houses built by wards:

	Wards 1, 5 and 6.	Wards 2, 3 and 4.
In 1892,	155	79
In 1893,	126	41
In 1894,	94	59
In 1895,	97	60
In 1896,	91	30

The wards that contribute the largest amount want the sewer. People will not continue to come here unless we can hold out to them the inducements that other cities do. We can not build any cheaper than now. The soil is full of sewerage and an epidemic may break out at any time. Material is cheap and we can borrow money cheaper now. It was the duty of every man in the Council to carry out the wishes of the vote of the people.

The rules were suspended and the order passed to be ordained by the following vote:

YEAS,—Anderson, Badger, Bryant, Cain, Edwards, Geary, Hultman, Little, Murray, Nickerson, Packard, Parker, Phillips, Pinkham, Poland, Sidelinger, Sprague, Swithin—18.

NAYS—Field, Johnson, Nash, Rideout—4.

Not voting—McGrath.

Appropriation Order.

The annual appropriation order already published in this paper then took its second reading and the question came on suspending the rules that the order might go through its final stage.

The School Committee objected to the cut which had been made in their estimates, and said they would be unable to support evening schools if reduction was made.

Councilman Geary and Sprague opposed increasing.

No motion was made.

Councilman Johnson asked why the fire department items were not itemized, and Councilman Anderson explained.

Councilman Sidelinger asked why Chief Engineer was to receive more for keeping horse, and Councilman Anderson said committee regarded it just.

The order was passed by a vote of 20 to 1, Councilman Johnson being alone in negative.

Adjourned at 11.20, to meet again next Monday evening.

Matinee Whist.

Adams chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, had another successful matinee whist party Monday afternoon, the closing one of the season. It was held at Faxon hall and was largely attended, there being twenty-three tables. Many big scores were made, Miss Wild leading with 55 and receiving the first prize, a book. Mrs. Henry W. Sprague scored 51 and took the sugar tongs. The others stood in the following order, their prizes being: Mrs. Nightingale, vase; Mrs. Pindar, purse; Mrs. W. S. Glover, vase; Miss Moxon, emery and wax; Mrs. E. C. May, bon-bon dish; Miss Cleaves, perfume bottle; Mrs. Magee, paper cutter.

Grant Day.

The Coddington school already noted for its observance of public days, was abreast of times today and fond parents were surprised this noon that their young hopefuls knew so much about General Grant. The first hour of the morning was devoted to exercises in harmony with the celebration at New York today. Although largely impromptu, they compared very favorably with those of John Adams' day; but differed somewhat, in that a great many pupils had a word to say regarding Grant. The upper grade pupils are now busy writing out a sketch of his life.

AMERICANS HONOR MEMORY OF GRANT.

In making up the parade, the grand marshal, General Grenville M. Dodge, had to exclude many civic bodies which asked for places and has given room to the regular army, the militia of the several states and the G. A. R. and kindred organizations.

AT THE TOMB.

General Horace Porter's Beautiful Eulogy of General Grant.

The massive mausoleum in Riverside park was completed only a few days ago, and has been handsomely decorated with flowers and bunting. The grounds between the tomb and the river are not yet arranged as contemplated. Today huge stands cover the lawns and all the available grounds about the tomb, and the scene is impressive, and every foot of ground where a human body can find room is occupied.

The exercises as the tomb began at 11 o'clock, with a prayer by Bishop Newman of Washington, who was one of General Grant's closest friends. General Horace Porter, president of the Grant Memorial association, then presented the tomb to the city. Mayor Strong, in a brief speech, accepted on behalf of the city, and then President McKinley delivered the dedicatory oration. The president finished his speech about 1 o'clock, and went to a stand on the west drive, to review the procession. The dedication exercises closed with a benediction, pronounced by Archbishop Corrigan.

In presenting the tomb to the city, General Horace Porter said, in part:

It is all like a dream. One can scarcely realize the lapse of time and the memorable events which have occurred since our hero president was first proclaimed one of the great of earth. The dial hands upon the celestial clock record the flight of more than a generation since the legions of American manhood poured down from the hilltops, surged up from the valleys, knelt upon their native soil to swear eternal allegiance to the Union, and went forth to seal the oath with their blood in marching under the victorious banners of Ulysses S. Grant. Today, countless numbers of his contemporaries, their children and their children's children gather about his tomb, to give permanent sepulture to his ashes and to recall the record of his imperishable deeds.

It is peculiarly fitting that this memorial should be dedicated in the presence of the distinguished soldier who marched in the victorious columns of his illustrious chief, and who now so worthily occupies the chair of state in which he sat. There is a source of extreme gratification and a profound significance in the fact that there are in attendance here not only soldiers who fought under the renowned defender of the Union cause, but the leaders of armies who fought against him, all uniting in testifying to the esteem and respect which he commanded from friend and foe alike.

This grateful duty which we discharge this day is not unmixed with sadness, for the occasion brings vividly to mind the fatal day on which his generous heart ceased to beat, and recalls the grief which fell upon the American people with a sense of pain which was akin to the sorrow of a personal bereavement, and yet it is not a noccasion for tears; not a time to chant requiems or display the sable draperies of public mourning. He who lies within the portals of yonder tomb is not a dead memory; he is a living reality. He has been consigned to the chamber of death, but not to the realms of forgetfulness. Our grief is calmed by the recollections of the blessings his life conferred and the fame he has left to the custody of his fellow citizens. We consecrate this day to a tribute to the memory of the departed worth. The story of his life is the history of the most eventful epoch in his country's annals. Upon an occasion such as this it would seem more fitting to stand silent by the tomb and let his story alone speak, but it has been deemed proper that living witnesses to his virtues should pay the grateful tribute of their testimony. The allotment of time permits only a brief allusion to the achievements of his marvellous career.

Ulysses S. Grant sprang from the loins of the American people and derived his patent of nobility direct from God. He possessed an abiding confidence in the honesty and intelligence of his fellow countrymen, and always retained his deep hold upon their affections. Even when clothed with the robes of the master, he forgot not that he was still the servant of the people. In every great crisis he was content to leave the efforts to his countrymen and the results to God.

GENERAL HORACE PORTER.

His countrymen have paid him a tribute of greatful hearts, that have reared in monumental rock a sepulchre for his ashes, a temple to his fame. The fact that it has been built by the voluntary contributions of the people will give our citizens an individual interest in preserving it, in honoring it, and it will stand throughout the ages upon its conspicuous promontory, this ideal site. It will overlook the metropolis of the republic, which his efforts saved from dismemberment; it will be reflected in the noble waters of the Hudson, upon which pass the argosies of commerce so largely multiplied by the peace secured by his heroic deeds. The tolling of passing bells will replace the echo of his hostile guns. It was not necessary for his renown that this memorial should be reared. A nation's prosperity is his true monument; his name will stand immortal when the granite has crumbled and epitaphs have vanished. In the movement for the erection of this memorial, it was not his reputation that was at stake, it was the reputation of his countrymen. They owed a sacred duty, which they could not fail to perform. They have reared his monument to a majestic height; but, if it towered above the eagle's flight it would not above the eagle's flight it would not reach as high the summit of his fame. Its flawless granite is typical of the spotless character of his reputation. Its delicate lines and massive proportions will remind us of the childlike simplicity which was mingled with the majestic grandeur of his nature. The hallowed memories clustering about it will recall the heroic age of the republic. Its mute eloquence will plead for equal sacrifice should war ever again threaten the nation's life. In this tomb, which generosity has created and which his services have sanctified, his ashes will henceforth rest, but his true sepulchre will be in the hearts of his countrymen.

Among those on the speakers' stand at the tomb are: Mrs. U. S. Grant, Colonel Fred D. Grant, Jesse D. Grant, Nellie Grant Sartoris, the widow and children of General Grant. Mrs. Sartoris' children and Jesse Grant's children were also present. Others on the stand are President McKinley, Vice President Hobart, the members of the cabinet, supreme court and diplomatic corps; Mayor Strong and General Horace Porter and the invited guests of the city of New York.

THE MAUSOLEUM.

Beautiful Monument Built by Popular Contributions of Americans.

Shortly before his death, General Grant expressed a desire to be buried in one of three places: West Point, Galena, or New York. West Point he preferred above the others, but for the fact that his wife could not be placed beside him there, New York was finally selected, by those upon whom the responsibility fell, not only because it was the last place named by General Grant, but also because it met the wishes of his family, who resided here. The site was offered by the city of New York, which gave Mrs. Grant the choice of any of the city parks. She selected the spot at Riverside drive and One Hundred and Twenty-second street, where the body now lies.

The mayor of New York called a meeting of citizens at his office, July 28, 1885, five days after General Grant's death, to take action for the proper interment of the body. The organization, known as the Grant Monument association, with ex-President Chester A. Arthur as presiding officer, was formed in Feb. ruary, 1886. Contributions to the amount of $100,000 for the erection of a suitable monument had been received up to this time.

In February, 1892, General Horace Porter assumed the presidency of the organization. At the same time, James C. Reed accepted the position of secretary and Frederick D. Tappen that of treasurer. Before this time the contributions had been comparatively few in number, but large in amount. It was now thought the better plan to have the fund increased by a popular subscription. All classes and conditions of people were appealed to by General Porter. Meetings were held by prominent business firms and subscription books were taken in charge by committees of all lines of business. The newspapers gave their moral and financial support. Within 60 days the fund had been increased over $200,000 under General Porter's management. Individual subscriptions ranged from a penny to $5000.

The total number of contributors to the fund when it was completed was 64,788. The amount raised was about $600,000. With the sums contributed, and accrued interest the amount is sufficient to complete the structure and sarcophagus.

GRANT'S TOMB.

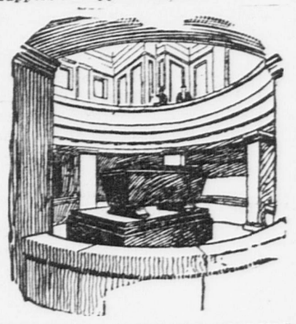

Additional money will have to be raised, however, to place in position the statue of General Grant that it is hoped some time to erect in front of the tomb, and also for the sculptured groups on the entrance and drive.

But even as it stands today without any of these ornaments, the tomb is the most wonderful structure in America, in many respects the most wonderful in the world. It promises to surpass in point of durability the Washington monument, which cost nearly twice as much and took three or four times as long to build. There is something awe-inspiring in a study of its solidity. As General Porter said in one of his addresses, it was "built for the centuries," and for centuries it will certainly stand. It is difficult to see how it can ever be destroyed or crumble away. There seems no good reason why at the end of a thousand years, with ordinary care, it should not be as strong and enduring as it is today. With no care at all, the elements would find it no easy task to wear it away. The upper part, the dome, which is of iron, would probably yield to time, but the main walls, of marble, granite, cement and brick, from 10 to 25 feet thick, ought to defy time almost forever. Everything was constructed with this end in view.

As for the sarcophagus, which receives General Grant's body today, it will endure as long or longer than the tomb itself. It was quarried in one piece and hollowed out. It is made of red porphyry, obtained at Montello, Wis. An exact duplicate will be placed to receive the body of Mrs. Grant when she dies.

The tomb was planned by John H. Duncan, a New York architect. It is a perfect square at the bottom, measuring 90 feet on a side. This square portion finishes with a cornice and parapet 72 feet above the grade line. On the interior four piers at the angles give a cruciform interior plan. The spaces between these piers are connected by arches 40 feet in span, the crowns being 50 feet from the main floor. These arches and piers carry the weight of the superstructure, a drum with an interior gallery looking down on the main floor, and an outer collonade of the ionic order, surmounted by cornice and conical tops. The apex is to receive a bronze figure of Union, the head of which will be 165 feet above the street.

The interior of the tomb is white. It is finished mainly in marble, with the sections under the dome and arches in polished cement. The four allegorical groups, "War," "Death," "Truth," and "Peace," are modelled in relief between the arches of the dome. The crypt where the sarcophagus rests is reached by a flight of steps from the main floor of the tomb. They give access to a circular corridor that runs between marble columns six feet wide, which support the upper structure.

THE SARCOPHAGUS INSIDE THE GRANT TOMB

Ex-Governor Boutwell Overlooked.

Boston, April 27.—Ex-Governor Boutwell of Massachusetts, who was secretary of the treasury under the late President Grant, has not received an invitation to be present at the memorial exercises at the Grant tomb in New York. Mr. Boutwell would not discuss the seeming negligence of those in charge of the affair when seen at the Brunswick hotel. "It is true I have received no invitation to be present," said he, "but whether they have no place for me, I don't know. I have no theory whatever, and thus assume nothing."

Grant Dinner at Boston.

Boston, April 27.—The annual dinner of the Middlesex club was held last night with nearly 250 members and guests in attendance, included among them being Congressmen Robert G. Cousins of Iowa, Richard Pearson of North Carolina, Marriott Brosius of Pennsylvania, President George P. Lawrence of the state senate, ex-Governor George Boutwell, secretary of the treasury in Presirent Grant's cabinet; Colonel Albert Clarke, Captain J. G. B. Adams, State Senators Irwin and Dallinger, and others. Senator Mason of Illinois, who was expected to be present, was detained by illness in his family. The speeches were all in eulogy of General Grant, and were enthusiastically applauded.

Refusal of Democrats.

Washington, April 27.—The Democratic members of the finance committee will not accept the proposition made by their Republican colleagues to allow the tarift bill to be reported direct to the senate without passing through the hands of the full committee, and have so notified the Republican members.

Haverhill's Temporary Mayor.

Haverhill, Mass., April 27.—The city council in joint session last night elected ex-Mayor Thomas E. Burnham acting mayor until June 1, when the special election will be held.

Too many mothers are helpless invalids. A mother's proudest and happiest privilege is to help an ambitious son in his early struggles to attain eminence in his chosen walk of life. To such a son, a robust mother, a grand mother with a healthy mind in a healthy body, is the best counselor and the best spur. Many mothers are sickly, fretful, helpless creatures tortured beyond endurance by the pains of their own wrecked constitutions. An ambitious youth receives but little encouragement or sound advice who appeals to such a mother. Most ill-health among women is due to weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. If these parts are weak and diseased the entire system suffers.

The most wonderful remedy for all weakness and disease of the distinctly female organism is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It allays inflammation, soothes pain and imparts vigor and health to these delicate organs. It makes healthy mothers and capable wives. It prepares a woman for motherhood. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period and makes parturition easy and almost painless. Over 90,000 women have testified to its virtues, in writing. Druggists sell it.

"It is with pleasure I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to suffering ladies," writes Mrs. J. Fergusoh, Box 29, Douglas Station, Selkirk Co., Manitoba. "After suffering untold tortures I thank God I found relief and cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

It don't pay—sickness. Constipation often causes it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, forty of which are contained in a two-inch vial. Druggists sell them and have nothing else "just as good." They regulate the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

A BICYCLE TOUR

Three gentlemen for a European tour purchased new hundred dollar bicycles. One a Columbia—the others of well-known high-grade manufacture. They had an agreeable trip—particularly the Columbia rider. Before returning to America, it being late in the year—and wishing to buy new machines in 1897—they sold their wheels to a London dealer. The Columbia bicycle brought $65.00. The others $40.00 and $35.00 respectively. But one of the many proofs of Columbia superiority. If you look a year ahead there is wise economy in

CROWDS HURRIED HOME

Residents of New York Resume Their Interrupted Business.

Closing Features of Grant Celebration.

Reception to President at Union League Club Last Night.

New York, April 28.—The city today presents the usual appearance after a big celebration. Bedraggled decorations and dismantled grandstands present an unpleasant sight to the eye. But the recollection of yesterday's great demonstration dispels any sombre thoughts which might arise. The metropolis is proud of yesterday's achievement. Although the crowd was the largest ever gathered here, all were well taken care of and but few, comparatively speaking, suffered any inconvenience. The multitude of visitors hastened homeward last night and this morning.

The military hosts were last to depart. Many companies left last night by special trains, but the majority remained over until today. The regular army troops have departed, and the city is again busy with everyday affairs.

Yesterday's celebration will never be forgotten by the residents of Manhattan, or the visitors who were here. The patriotism and veneration of a grateful multitude was omnipresent. The occasion was not marked by the customary blaze and fanfare which accompany patriotic celebrations of national holidays. The boom of cannon from the fleet assembled at North river seemed to have a different intonation than usual. The spirit of the great soldier and statesman, in whose honor over a million people assembled, seemed again to be a living presence.

During the day there were very few accidents, and they were all of minor importance. This is remarkable, when the size of the crowd is considered. The line of massed spectators stretched a distance of over six miles, and a more solidly packed mass of humanity could not be imagined.

The solemn service of dedication seemed to throw a strange hush over this vast throng. The president stood bareheaded in the wind when he spoke. He was heard distinctly by the 5000 persons who stood directly in front of him. General Porter's oration in honor of the hero seemed to impress the crowd less than the sight of that pale-faced, bare-headed president standing beside the widow of the dead general, ex-President Cleveland and the grey-headed statesmen and soldiers. It was their presence rather than their words that lent solemnity to the occasion.

And when it was all over, when Mayor Strong had formally accepted from the nation the trust of the tomb, and when the persident and his party disappeared in the luncheon tent, a sigh of relief went up from the crowd, for at last the hero lay in the tomb befitting his renown, and fittingly dedicated by a grateful nation.

When the cheering was at its loudest and when the wind had somewhat died away, a touching scene was enacted, which was seen by but few. Silently Mrs. Grant stole away from the president's reviewing stand, where she had been watching the gallant troops go by, and leaning on the arm of her son, Colonel Fred Grant, made her way to the tomb, followed only by members of the Grant family. The bronze doors were swiftly opened, and the widow of the hero passed into the tomb. For about 10 minutes she stayed there, and then, with her face hidden in her hands, she left the scene which crowned her husband's victories.

When night fell, and the grandest of military, naval and civic parades ever seen here was at an end, the city assumed a gala aspect. The streets were full of uniforms of all nations, while sightseers from every part wandered from place to place, and discussed the wonders of the day.

The 125 men of the Eighth Massachusetts regiment remained here over night. They were quartered at Arlington hall. The men leave at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the steamship Stonington.

A Fitting Close.

A fitting culmination to the magnificent pageants of the day was the reception to the president and vice president at the Union League club in the evening. The exterior and interior of the commodious clubhouse presented a brilliant scene. The decorations consisted chiefly of American flags and potted plants and flowers.

Nine o'clock was the hour set for the reception, but it was 40 minuets later before the president arrived. He was preceded by Vice president Hobart and the members of his cabinet. The president was escorted by General Porter and J. Addison Porter, secretary to the president.

The crowd in front of the clubhouse set up a cheer, and the Mexican band, which was drawn up on the opposite curb, played "Hail to the Chief."

More than 1000 invitations had been issued and fully half that number were accepted, judging from the large assemblage.

The invited guests included the diplomatic corps, Bishops Potter and Newman, Archbishop Corrigan, and a host of dignitaries. Many of the army and navy officers in the city were present. A costly luncheon was served and valuable souvenirs of the occasion were presented to the distinguished guests.

A dinner in honor of Mrs. McKinley, the wife of the president, was given last night by Mrs. Abner McKinley in the grand banquet hall at the Windsor hotel. Covers were laid for 50 guests. Those present, beside the guest of honor and the hostess, were Mrs. W. T. Strong, Mrs. Horace Porter, Mrs. Daniel Butterfield, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. M. F. Williams, Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mrs. C. N. Bliss, Miss Bliss, Mrs. Anson G. McCook, Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, Mrs. Robert P. Porter, Mrs. D. Parker Morgan, Mrs. E. H. Wetherbee, Mrs. J. S. Wise, Mrs. Aborn, Mrs. W. H. Hawk, Mrs. William McKinley Osborne, Mrs. Thomas L. James, Mrs. McCallum, Secretary Sherman's daughters, Mrs. John I. Millholland, Mrs. J. Addison Porter, Mrs. Betts, Mrs. William R. Grace, Mrs. Gary, Mrs. Russell Alger, Mrs. Griswold, Mrs. G. A. Hubbard, Mrs. Griggs and Miss Mabel McKinley, niece of the president.

Just at the close of the banquet, Mrs. Strong, wife of Mayor Strong, was taken suddenly sick. While conversing with Mrs. McKinley, she swooned and fell to the floor. She was at once removed to Mrs. McKinley's room, and a physician was summoned.

Mrs. Strong's indisposition proved to be slight, and later in the evening she attended a musicale in the hotel parlor.

Incidents of the Parade.

While a portion of the militia was passing beneath the triumphal arch, the crowd on the north side of the arch, which was under the control of the park police, broke through the lines, and for a few minutes it looked as if there might be serious trouble. The gray coats were finally forced to call upon the municipal police to assist them in compelling the unruly spectators to fall back within the line.

When the Vermont division of the parade, headed by Governor Grout, reached Sixty-fourth street, there was a sudden mix-up. A horse, belonging to one of the aides, became frightened, and dashed against the mount of the governor. The latter was unseated in the general confusion which followed, and General T. S. Peck and Colonel John C. Clark were also unseated. No one was injured, and after a block of 10 minutes and considerable excitement, the line moved on.

The Bay state guardsmen acquitted themselves right nobly in passing the nation's chief executive, and were greeted with great applause while passing the grandstand. Governor Wolcott was forced to raise his hat time and again, in acknowledgment of the applause. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery came in for a goodly share of the applause. The Second company had its mascot with it. The mascot was a small-sized brindle bull, wearing a bright green blanket, and it trotted behind the men as if it realized the attention it was attracting.

GENERAL GRENVILLE M. DODGE.
[Grand marshal of the parade at the Grant tomb dedication.]

A mounted park policemans' horse became unmanageable near the triumphal arch, threw its rider and attempted to run away. It dashed into the third company of the Third regiment of the New Jersey State National Guard, and Edward Rogers, a member of the company, was knocked down and trampled upon. Another member of the company was knocked down. Rogers was removed in an ambulance. Another of the militiamen, named Snyder, was run over directly in front of the reviewing stand by a horseman. He also was removed to the hospital.

As each G. A. R. veteran passed the tomb he showed a touching tribute to the memory of General Grant by removing his hat and walking past it with bared head.

There was one company in green uniform, and it was very properly named the Emmet Guards. They came in for a lot of cheering, and they deserved it, because they showed the president lots of tricks in military maneuvers as they stepped past the reviewing stand.

The militiamen from New Hampshire wore continental uniforms, and marched with precision, to the accompaniment of a quickstep by the band.

THE CITY COUNCIL of 1897 surpassed all records at its meeting this week in appropriating $514,350.15. This is an unusually large sum to appropriate at one meeting, or in a month or even a year. All the appropriations of 1896, including annual and specials and the $60,000 for sewers which was inoperative, amounted to but $537,854.17, and without the $60,000 the total was $487,854 17. This large sum of over half a million dollars included $234,895.00 for current city expenses, to which is to be added $14,500.00 for maintenance of water department, and $28,624 94 for interest on water bonds; also $93,220.00 for maturing debt, and $23,011.21 for interest, and finally $120,000 for sewer construction, which will increase the interest account $2,400 this year.

It is evident after this lavish appropriation that the Council of 1897 must proceed cautiously. Only very urgent needs will warrant the passage of any special appropriations. Among the important ones pending are: a fire station in Ward Five, a police station, the remodelling of City Hall, and the paving of Copeland street.

THE STATEMENT was made in the City Council this week that the premium on sewer bonds would help out on the maturing yearly payments, but this we understand is not the case. Section 12 of the Acts of 1895 provides that premiums shall be applied to the reduction of the principal, either by purchase and retirement of a portion of the outstanding bonds or by the payment of bonds at maturity. It would seem as if the appropriation of $120,000 for sewers, requiring a payment of $3,000 annually, would require an annual appropriation of $7,800 of which of $4,800 is for interest.

IT IS fortunate that the cemetery investigation terminated as it did. It would be unpleasant for people to suspect that the bodies of deceased relatives and friends had not been treated with respect.

Sudden Death.

The remains of Mrs. Harriet W. Rood, daughter of Mr. Charles Taylor of Wollaston, who died in New York Sunday, were brought to Quincy Tuesday for burial. Brief services were conducted by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, the interment being in the old Hancock cemetery. The death came suddenly and came at a time when the lady had made plans for a European trip.

TO BOOM MEMBERSHIP.

Quality Rather than Dollars Desired by the Y. M. C. A.

There was a meeting Tuesday evening of the active members of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association at the hospitable residence of Theophilus King on Adams street. It was called to consider means of increasing the membership of the Association, and several plans were outlined by Secretary Colton and discussed by those present.

The "Red and Blue contests" which have created so much interest in other cities were considered, but it was thought that the influence was not the best, as methods used were often criticised. That such a mushroom growth was not beneficial. The "Get One" plan and house-to-house canvass were considered. The prevailing idea was that permanent membership rather than one-year members were desired, and that they should be secured by interesting the young men in the Association, rather than by application for financial assistance. That the privileges of the Association were worth more than the small fee charged for dues. The change of bylaws making the annual dues one dollar larger than the first year, was favored but it will not go into effect until adopted at the quarterly meeting.

It was voted to make a house-to-house canvass during the month of May, and all the gentlemen present promised to assist in the work. All parts of the city were represented and the work will be prosecuted in all wards. The following ward chairmen were appointed: Ernest Gourd, T. B. Pollard, Peter Dakers, Robert C. Allen, Dr. Johnson and W. F. Cummings.

Any man of good character of any class creed or color, who is sixteen years of age or over, may become a member. No affiliation with any church is required; but those who desire to engage in the religious work are known as active members, while non-church members are known as associate members. The fees are $2 and $5 according to the privileges.

During the canvass readers of the LEDGER will be posted daily upon the progress. An increase of 200 members is expected.

Mr. King served ice cream and cake and the latter part of the evening was spent socially.

Refused Aid.

There was quite an accident on Merrymount road Tuesday afternoon but fortunately no one was injured and not much damage was done.

Gore & Co.'s steam roller was at work on Hancock street near the High school when L. M. Pratt & Co.'s two horse Boston team with a load of goods approached. The horses were somewhat frightened at the steam roller and did not wish to pass it. Mr. Gore and Mr. Wilson stepped forward and offered to lead the horses by the roller. The driver refused their aid however and determined to drive by unaided, and the result was as might have been expected; the horses became more frightened and turned into Merrymount road, and then turned sharply to the left into the field, where the wagon was upset and its contents strewn about.

Gore & Co.'s men were quickly on the spot and righted and loaded the team. The driver then continued on his journey and the next time he is offered assistance under the same circumstances he will probably accept it.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Gilraine was fined $10 for disturbing the peace at Quincy.

The continued cases of Thomas Hanna and Thomas F. Gagan for drunkenness were called and they paid a fine of $5 each.

The liquors seized from William S. Tracy at the Brunswick house, Braintree, were forfeited.

The liquors seized from W. L. Field at the Cleveland house, Braintree, were forfeited.

The liquors seized from Mary Sider at Quincy were forfeited.

Christian Endeavor Rally.

An unusually large and enthusiastic convention of Christian Endeavors of this county was held Tuesday evening in Franklin, in the Congregational church. For convenience, cheerfulness and beauty this new church edifice must rank among the first in the State. The chief address of the evening was given by Dr. Wayland Hoyt of Philadelphia, and was a masterly effort in every respect. Revs. Edwin N. Hardy of this city and Warren F. Low of Holbrook, took part in the exercises. The banner for largest attendance was awarded the Norwood Society. In spite of the rain the audience filled the church.

FIERCE FIRE AT NEWPORT NEWS.

Pier and Vessels Burned—Total Loss Will Reach $2,000,000.

Newport News, Va., April 28.—Fire broke out in the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad company's pier 5 yesterday, and before the flames were checked damage to the extent of $2,000,000 had been done. Two of the company's immense piers were destroyed, three vessels burned to the water's edge, a tugboat entirely destroyed and eight persons burned, some of them seriously.

The fire spread with such rapidity that it was impossible to make any headway against it. A fierce north wind fanned the flames furiously and swept them across the docks to pier 6, which was soon burning.

The British steamer Clintonia, which was loading with oil, tobacco and general merchandise at pier 5, was soon ablaze. Tugs pulled her out into the middle of the river, where an ineffectual battle was waged at terrible odds against the flames that were raging in her inflammable cargo. She was burned to the waterline.

The Norwegian steamer Solveig, which was loading grain at pier 5, next caught. The crew managed to escape by climbing down the hawsers to the pier.

The Chesapeake and Ohio tug Wanderer burned to the water's edge. The German sailing ship J. D. Bischoff, taking on staves from the north side of pier 6, also caught. The flames obtained such a hold on her that they could not be conquered, and she went to the bottom.

The crew of this vessel had a very narrow escape from being cremated. They were rescued with the greatest difficulty, after the captain and the boatswain had been badly burned. The heavy north wind and the heroic efforts of the fire department saved the large grain elevator of the Chesapeake and Ohio company from destruction. The fire was rapidly spreading across the conveyors that connect the elevator with the piers, but with the aid of a locomotive and an immense chain, the conveyors' supports were pulled out, the conveyors themselves torn down and this danger averted.

Single Tax Dinner.

Boston, April 28.—The friends of the single tax doctrine, to the number of nearly 150, attended the dinner of the Massachusetts Single Tax league last night, and listened to addresses by William Lloyd Garrison, Rev. Father McGlynn and Charles B. Fillebrown. The guests also included Fred Kneeland, president of the Building Trades council, and wife; Harry Lloyd, president of the General Carpenters' union; William Hogarth, business agent of the Waiters' union; R. J. Braley, president of the Workingmen's Political league, and wife; Arthur Davis, secretary of the Typographical union, and wife; Edward O'Donnell, secretary of the Central Labor union; T. J. Murphy, vice president of the Central Labor union, and wife; Jacob Rheinstalter, president of the Barbers' union; D. A. White of the Moulders' union and wife; Frank K. Foster, editor of The Labor Leader, and wife; B. Parigny of the Bakers' union; Timothy Keefe, president of the Carpenters' union; A. A. Carlton and wife; W. W. Knox, president American Railway union, and wife; John F. O'Sullivan and wife; Mrs. W. T. Allen, secretary and treasurer Waiters' union; Frank S. Pickett and wife, and Dr. Longstreet. At the close of the speaking there was a general discussion, when many questions were asked of the speakers.

Canada, Too, Has Tariff Troubles.

Montreal, April 28.—Considerable doubt is being expressed as to the success of the effort of the new Liberal government to establish preferential trade with Great Britain. The latter country has now "most favored nation" treaties with Germany, Belgium and other countries, which expressly provide that in none of the colonies of Great Britain shall the produce of these countries be subject to higher import duties than the produce of the United Kingdom. The action of the Dominion government in making a reduction in the duties on goods coming from Great Britain has accordingly already brought forth a protest from those other countries. The consuls in this city for Belgium, Germany and Switzerland, state that unless the same rebate allowed on British goods is extended at once to the exports of their countries they will report the fact to their respective governments, which will make immediate protest to the imperial government.

To Celebrate Queen's Jubilee.

Boston, April 28.—A meeting of the British Charitable society was held last night, to hear the reports of the committee on the question of celebrating the 60th anniversary of Queen Victoria's coronation on June 21. Forty different societies from all over New England were represented, it being their desire to cooperate in making the celebration a success. It is proposed to have a banquet in Mechanics' hall, with speeches and a ball following. The committee reported that it had a conference with Senator Hoar, and claimed that he is in favor of making the presentation to the state of the log of the Mayflower, which has recently been brought to this country, a special feature of the occasion. It was also stated that a British war vessel will be present in Boston harbor at that time, and that British Admiral Erskine and his officers will participate in the festivities of the day.

Preferred Death to Disgrace.

Chicago, April 28.—"It is a disgrace and the penitentiary or the lake—and I have chosen the latter," wrote John Sheldon, the leading banker of Sheldon, to his confidential friend and attorney. The receipt of the letter in Paxton was followed by the closing of the leading bank of Loda, the assignment of four of the leading business firms and the individual assignment by as many of the leading citizens of the town. In addition, it is said, Banker Sheldon's financial troubles involve the funds belonging to the school trustees of Loda township, and that trust estates involving between $200,000 and $250,000 went down in the general crash.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. The Pimples

That Bloom in

The Spring

At no other season are Pimples and Humors so abundant or so annoying as in the Spring.

An unseasonably warm day, before change of winter clothing, heats the blood, and these Pimples and Humors itch and burn, and their annoyance, the suffering they cause, is known only to those afflicted.

If your blood is not right (and whose is?) you are liable to be one of these sufferers this Spring.

A course of Hood's Sarsaparilla begun now and faithfully pursued will save you suffering and give you rugged health, so that you can thoroughly enjoy all the pleasures of the coming summer.

My general health is greatly improved, and I feel very thankful for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has already done for me." MISS JANE JABROSKY, Burnham, Illinois.

A Clear Complexion.

Boils, Blotches, Sores, Pimples.

"I have been afflicted for many years with impure blood, which manifested itself in erysipelas, boils, blotches, sores and pimples. I have used many medicines and found Hood's Sarsaparilla to be the best. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all who are affected with impure blood." ISAAC P. MARTIN, Walnut Hill, Ill.

Annoyed by Eruptions.

"I had eruptions caused by impure blood and at times they were very annoying. I was treated by physicians without benefit, and last winter I took a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and found it helped me. I kept on until I had taken five bottles, and I am no longer annoyed with eruptions." W. R. HUDSON, Natrona, Pa.

The French say "it is the impossible that happens." This has proved to be the case with the Mount Lebanon Shakers. The whole scientific world has been laboring to cure dyspepsia, but every effort seemed to meet with defeat. The suffering from stomach troubles has become almost universal. Multitudes have no desire for food and that which they do eat causes them pain and distress. Sleepless nights are the rule and not the exception, and thousands of sufferers have become discouraged.

The Shakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to the front with their new Digestive Cordial, which contains not only a food already digested, but is a digester of food. It promptly relieves nearly all forms of indigestion. Ask your druggist for one of their books.

REVOLUTION IN THE AIR.

King George's People Are Becoming Uncontrollable.

All on Account of Blunders In Thessaly.

Believed War Will Soon Be Ended by Intervention of Powers.

Everything now points to the conclusion of the Turco-Greek campaign by the intervention of the powers. There is no confirmation of the report that the Greek ministry has fallen. It is probable that a coalition cabinet will be formed. It is stated that preparations are being made on King George's property at Smidstrup, Denmark, with the view of having the castle ready for its owner in case of his abdication or deposition.

Everything sent on from Athens by the special correspondents emphasizes the increasing gravity of the situation there, and the rapid development of revolutionary feeling. This condition of things appears to have resulted largely from the cessation of hostilities in Epirus. While there is no doubt that the Turks are occupied in establishing their lines of communication, it is equally evident that the Greek disaster in Epirus is much more serious than was at first supposed. It now looks like a hopeless task to renew the advance upon Janina, as Turkey is in a position to send overwhelming re-enforcements.

The irregulars co-operating with the Greek forces show up in a very bad light as mere bandits, more intent on plunder than fighting.

SITUATION AT ATHENS.

Downfall of Greek Ministry Said to Be Certain.

Athens, April 28.—The fall of the ministry is now regarded as certain.

Popular feeling points to a revolution in favor of a republic. The citizens are greatly excited by the revelations made by former Minister Ralli as to the conduct of the campaign. Large meetings have been held in Constitution square and other places of public resort, and fiery harangues have been delivered by well known orators in denunciation of "those who would betray Greece."

Yesterday afternoon, 500 men formed themselves into a volunteer body, forced their way into the gunsmiths' shops, armed themselves with rifles and revolvers and paraded the streets in front of M. Ralli's residence. Several deputies addressed them, exhorting them to remain calm and to await the progress of events. Finally they proceeded to the royal palace, where, after making a demonstration, they dispersed without further disorder. But the incident has made a great sensation.

Colonel Manos telegraphs from Arta: Fighting has been in progress at Pentepighadia. The result is not known here. The Greek troops occupied stronger positions in the pass. Another engagement took place at Plaka, the result of which is not yet known, since the enemy maintains its positions, though the Greek artillery have inflicted great damage at the villages of Kalentzi and Fortosi, where the Turks were consentrated. The Turks left the route from Pentepighadia to Janina open. The Greek cavalry reconnoitered without encountering the enemy until about eight hours' ride from Pentepighadia, when they met 300 Turks, who fired upon the Greeks, though without effect.

The Turks have abandoned the entire Lourches valley and the country around Soull. The situation at Prevesa is satisfactory. The Turks appear to be much discouraged, and their garrison has been diminished by wholesale desertions. We need re-enforcements and mountain batteries. We have captured large quantities of ammunition, especially for artillery use, in the positions abandoned by the Turks.

KING GEORGE'S DENIAL.

He Repudiates Responsibility for the Fiasco on the Frontier.

London, April 28.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Athens says:

King George emphatically repudiates all responsibility for the precipitate retreat of the army. He asserts that he received a telegram from his aide-de-camp, Colonel Sapountsake, asking him to allow the retreat. The king replied, "I am at Athens and cannot form an adequate judgment as to what should be done in Thessaly; whereas, you are on the spot, acquainted with all the data and, therefore, in a position to act according to the circumstances of the case. Exercise your best discretion."

Colonel Sapountsake replied: "Retreat is absolutely necessary, and I shall take upon myself the responsibility of ordering it." This explanation has not been made known to the public here, but even if published it would not avail, because the politicians say that Colonel Sapountsake was the king's favorite, and had never distinguished himself in the army, and had not the shadow of a claim to be entrusted with the conduct of the war.

For all this the king is made responsible. It is further urged against him that he has virtually commanded the fleet, through Prince George, who has only obeyed the palace orders, and thus rendered serious operations impossible.

The correspondent of The Standard at Athens says:

The Greek campaign in Epirus has been suspended for the time being. On account of events here, the king has induced the minister of marine to retain his office for the present. The rumor that M. Ralli had been summoned to form a cabinet was untrue. According to an official note, the king told M. Delyannis that he would for the future refrain from interfering in any way with the direction of the campaign.

Russians Pleased.

St. Petersburg, April 28.—In political circles here pleasure is experienced at the defeat of the Greeks, as it is looked upon as calculated to avert dangerous complications in the Balkans, which might have jeopardized the peace of Europe.

Italians Determined to Fight for Greece.

Rome, April 28.—The papers state that 600 Italian volunteers have evaded the police and embarked on a steamer at Cornetotarguinia for Greece.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health. Yours truly,

JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

CANNIBALISM AT SEA.

Survivors of Wrecked Fishing Vessel Brought to Port.

Four Maniacs Found In a Small Dory.

One Recovers Sufficiently to Relate Horrible Tale.

St. John's, N. F., April 28.—One of four maddened wretches found floating about on the ocean in a small boat and brought to St. Peirre yesterday by the schooner Victor Eugene, has been able to tell the tale of shipwreck and horror through which they have passed.

This romance of misery from the sea comprises the sinking by an iceberg of the French fishing vessel Vaillant in the darkness of night, the death in the collision of many members of the company of 74 men, a fight for the four small lifeboats, which could accomodate only a few of the men; the sailing away from the doomed vessel, the loss somewhere on the ocean of three of the boats and the rescue, after days of agony and starvation, that finally drove them to cannibalism, of four of the seven men who escaped from the sinking ship in the fourth boat.

The Vaillant, a brigantine, commanded by Captain Pierre, and owned by Costee & Co. of St. Pierre, Miquelon, left St. Malo on March 18 for the French colony of St. Pierre, off the south coast of Newfoundland. She was one of the great French fishing fleet of 150 vessels that crosses the Atlantic every spring for the codfishing on the Newfoundland banks. She carried a crew of 20 men, and had also aboard 54 fishermen, who were to engage in the colony during the season and return to their families in France in the fall.

An immense icefloe was sighted near Flemish Cap, 100 miles off St. John's.

The vessel struck an iceberg about midnight, and the men took to the boats, of which there were only four small dories.

It is certain that only one boat escaped the whirlpool caused by the sinking of the brigantine. The other dories may have gone down or they may be floating about the ocean, freighted with their dead.

With such haste did the sailors escape from the sinking vessel that not only had they no clothing with them, but they were unable to secure water and food, and in the morning the seven men in one of the boats found nothing aboard with which to sustain life.

On the second night two of the men died from exposure, and their bodies were thrown overboard. Next morning a young man named Felix Dix died, and he, too, would have been given to the fishes if his companions had had strength enough to lift the body, but they had not, and so the body lay in the bottom of the dory while the four remaining sat on the side seats and waited.

On the fifth day, crazed beyond all doubt, they ate their dead shipmate.

On the 12th day of their shipwreck, the lookout of the schooner Victor Eugene saw the dory of the Vaillant, with the four miserable men still aboard—raving maniacs.

They were rescued and tenderly cared for, and as soon as the Victor arrived in port they were removed to a hospital.

The doctors say that their frozen limbs must be amputated, and that if they live it will be minus both arms and legs.

With one exception, the survivors have only mumbled like wild men since being rescued.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 28.—A number of changes in the election laws were recommended yesterday in connection with the report on Secretary Olin's codification of the laws, the report on the conduct of caucuses, and the various petitions that have been handed in. The house spent a large part of its time in debating the McCarthy bill for the speedy termination of the affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit Life association, many strong arguments being made in favor of closing the association's business, during the course of which discussion the present insurance commissioner was roundly scored. People who wish to have a separate state department for children established answered arguments of the objectors to the scheme, and the hearings on the children's department were closed. The committee has not yet announced whether it will give hearings on the bill for penal and insanity departments.

Alarm at New Orleans.

New Orleans, April 28.—A feeling of alarm has again become general. The wall of water has been rising to overwhelming height at Vicksburg, and all of this, as well as much of the crevasse volume, must come down to the gulf. With the river here at 19 feet above low water, this means 20 feet. If it comes quickly, the weakened banks will hardly be able to hold it. The city, which can easily hold its front, but would be endangered by a crevasse in the Ponchartrain system, has begun to build the protection levee above the city to almost double its size.

Maine Summer Schools.

Augusta, Me., April 28.—The state superintendent of schools, Hon. W. W. Stetson, announces that the season of summer schools will commence July 13 and close Aug. 27. There will probably be five schools this year. In 1896 there were four. It is the superintendent's plan to have from two to three weeks' session at each school. They will be held in York, Lincoln, Aroostook, Washington and Kennebec counties.

OBSTRUCTION TO TARIFF BILL.

Democratic Members of Finance Committee Demand Time to Consider Measure.

Washington, April 28.—The Democratic members of the senate finance committee have followed up their refusal to allow the tariff bill to be reported direct to the senate with the announcement that they would expect to be given opportunity for a thorough examination of all the schedules of the bill as amended before it is reported to the senate. They have already employed one expert and will employ others to take up the bill in their behalf, as soon as it is presented to them. They expect to be able to examine the bill sufficiently to permit it to go to the senate in about two weeks' time after they receive it.

There has been some talk among the Democratic senators of granting hearings by the full committee, but this proposition does not appear to have met with general favor. The Democratic members of the committee fear that insistence upon this course would be construed into a determination to delay the bill for the sake of delay, which they insist is no part of their program.

The decision of the Democratic members may have the effect of causing a postponement of the presentation of the bill beyond tomorrow. Some of the Republican committeemen now say that they may not conclude their work before Monday morning, as there are still various matters which are not definitely decided, and which become necessary to fix absolutely before going into the full committee. They are still working with the hope of presenting the bill tomorrow, but are less hopeful than formerly.

The Republicans think they discover in the present attitude of their Democratic colleagues a disposition to delay the passage of the bill which they had not previously counted upon, and are making their preparations for a long siege in the senate as well as in committee. Some of them express fear that the bill will not become a law before the first of August.

Colonel Anderson Fatally Injured.

New York, April 28.—Colonel Finlay Anderson, a special aide on General Dodge's staff, was thrown from his horse in the parade and received probably fatal injuries. Colonel Anderson was adjutant general on General Hancock's staff during the late war. He returned to this city from San Francisco a week ago. He was invited to join the parade. Having no horse, he borrowed a spirited animal from Colonel William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill"). The colonel is an expert horseman, and smilingly told Colonel Cody that no horse was too spirited for him to ride. When passing the corner of One Hundred and Thirteenth street and the Boulevarde, Colonel Anderson's horse became frightened at the cheering of the crowd, and threw his rider over his head. The colonel struck on his head on the asphalt pavement and lay motionless. He was quickly surrounded by a crowd of soldiers, who lifted him into a St. Luke's hospital ambulance, which was near at hand, and he was taken to the hospital. The physicians there said he was suffering from concussion of the brain, and it was thought that his skull was fractured.

Cured by Puritana

More Voluntary Testimony.

Strong men and frail women depend upon their stomachs for life from day to day.

When they are weary and weak—
When they suffer—
When they are unfitted for work or enjoyment—
When they think life is hopeless—
Then Puritana can save them.
Why?
Because it has saved others.
Puritana does not fail.
Its marvellous success is built on merit.
Here are a few specimen cures.
Thousands of the same sort could be given.

Mr. Luther P. Shattuck is a shoemaker and lives in Rowley, Mass. For years Mr. Shattuck has been troubled with derangement of the stomach. He tried a number of remedies, but derived no benefit from them until he used Puritana. He says:

"For years I have had trouble with my stomach. I was unable to eat anything without it causing me great distress. I would have severe pains across my chest and in my bowels. In the morning there would be belching of wind, and after my day's work at night, I would be troubled with sourness of the stomach, which was so bad sometimes I would be obliged to go to bed without eating a mouthful. My weight was also gradually wasting away, and my fellow workmen thought I was going into Consumption, and said I could not live long in the condition I was, and, indeed, I do not believe I could. Oftentimes after I had managed to eat a scanty meal, I would vomit up everything I had eaten. Last fall a friend urged me to try Puritana. I began to use it, and before the first bottle was gone, I knew the medicine was helping me. I kept on using it, and I can honestly say that Puritana cured me. I can now eat three meals a day without any distress. I have no belching of wind in the morning, or sourness of the stomach at night. I think Puritana a grand medicine, and shall always praise it." (Signed)

LUTHER P. SHATTUCK.

Mrs. T. Ridge of Westville, Conn., gives her own interesting experience. She writes as follows:

The Puritana Compound Co.

Dear Sirs:—

A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these lines regarding your valuable medicine. I have been sick a number of years. I was so weak that I could not walk nor do my housework. I had a tired feeling all the time; was very despondent. The food I ate did not seem to do me much good; I was dizzy, could not sleep. I have taken various medicines, but they did not benefit me but a little. They gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I read about Puritana, and thought that I would try it and see if it would help me. I am glad to state that Puritana has overcome all these obstacles, for that tired feeling is gone. I sleep good; it has given me an appetite; my head feels better than it has in years, and I am better in every way. I can work all day, and do not have that tired feeling. I take pleasure in recommending Puritana to all that are sick.

(Signed) MRS. T. RIDGE.

ANGER OF ELEMENTS.

Mighty Wall of Water In Oklahoma Sweeps All Before It.

Recent Heavy Rainfall Cause of the Disaster.

Scores of Lives Probably Lost and Many Farms Ruined.

St. Louis, April 29.—A special from Guthrie, O. T., gives meagre details of a terrible catastrophe in that section. West Guthrie is a scene of desolation, and many lives have certainly been lost. Early yesterday morning a gigantic wave swept the town from the face of the earth. Without warning the cataclysm broke, and today the place is a miniature of the great Johnstown flood of seven years ago.

Dozens of lives are known to have been lost, how many may not be known for weeks; hundreds of houses were wrecked; many farmers were completely ruined; bridges and tracks were washed out, and railway traffic in every direction is at a standstill. The efforts of rescuing parties have in many cases proved in vain. Many persons floated down stream before they could be reached, and their fate is unknown. Others passed the night in trees in midstream, or perched on housetops. The property loss is placed at something near $1,000,000. Fully two-thirds of the victims were colored. Business has been suspended in Guthrie, the stores and banks being closed.

As thorough an organization for relief as possible has been made, but all aid has been necessarily retarded by the confused condition of things.

It will be impossible to explore the houses until the water subsides, as many of them are submerged. As darkness gathered over the scene, many overturned houses were seen far out in the flood, but it could not be learned whether their occupants escaped. The river is 30 feet above its ordinary level. A heavy rain began falling yesterday afternoon.

The flood is supposed to have been caused by a cloudburst, supplemented by heavy rains.

When darkness settled over the city last night the wildest stories of loss of life were afloat. The estimates ran all the way from 50 to 250 persons drowned. While the larger figure is undoubtedly an exaggeration, it is known that the loss of life will reach, if not exceed, the lesser number.

At dark last night but two bodies had been recovered.

The bodies recovered are Anna Kaiser, a school teacher, and Frank Masters.

Others known to have been drowned are: George Owens, J. H. Calhoun, wife and child; Charlie Rufner and wife, Rastus McGill, Lena Burk, Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Wesley McGill and five children, John Metz, Mrs. H. James Montgomery, Mrs. Frances Moore, John Beard, Mrs. Sue Wilson, Jennie Taylor, Sammie Jackson, George Smithers, Mrs. Dummills, Jim Lilly, Mrs. Dumas, H. H. Beckfinger.

It is believed that loss of life has also occurred south of Guthrie, along the Cottonwood river. Many farmers in that district are reported to have been swept away. Seven miles south of here, at Seward, Hunt's store and the postoffice were swept away.

Four thousand dollars was raised in Guthrie yesterday afternoon for the relief of the sufferers.

DISASTER AT EL RENO.

Second Downpour and Tornado Completes Work of Devastation.

El Reno, O. T., April 29.—The dry spell was broken Saturday when a fierce storm, that turned the streets into torrents, washed away crossings, tore out sewers and moved small buildings, broke upon the town. Saturday at midnight the situation was intensified by a hurricane blowing 46 miles an hour, which drove blinding sheets of water through the roofs of already damaged houses.

Persons were driven in terror to storm cellars and caves, and spent the night in momentary expectation of being borne away by the flood.

Sunday morning shone bright and clear, and the gauge showed a fall of 5.1 inches since Saturday noon. The streets had been plowed with gullies, small buildings toppled over, and here and there, bits of furniture and other household effects floated about. The valley of the Canadian, which Saturday had been a beautiful stretch of farms and homes, on Sunday displayed a network of lakes and islands, dotted with half flooded houses, and horses and cattle struggling for places of safety.

Yesterday a heavy cloud swept up from the west, and another deluge descended upon the town.

The water fell in sheets, and by 6 o'clock in the evening the rainfall amounted to over five inches. About 7 o'clock an intensely black cloud moved toward the city from the west. It was a typical tornado, indicated by a peculiar whistle of the wind, which almost universally accompanies a "twister," and the streets were soon filled with running, shouting people, seeking cave or cellar.

Stores and homes were deserted, and the people huddled together awaiting the blow. The center of the storm passed over the southeastern corner of the town, striking the hills across the valley, wrecking all it touched.

With the tornado came the heaviest fall of rain ever recorded here in a like period, over two inches falling in 30 minutes. All day the river had been rising, reaching the sleepers of the railroad bridge and moving it out of line. The wagon bridge went out when the water reached its floor, and the bridge drifted, serving as an obstruction, forced the water out over the bottom, washing out crops, moving houses and drowning stock. A dam on the Ellison ranch gave way and carried out a bridge on the fort Reno road; swept the fair grounds clean, and flooded the yards of the Choctaw railroad. Rising into the houses of the bottom land, it compelled the farmers to desert their homes. The rescue of many families was made at great danger to the lives of the rescuers.

Lightning played havoc, striking the Presbyterian church, and totally wrecking it. The schoolhouse for colored children was struck at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the structure shattered and about 50 pupils more or less seriously hurt.

Several other houses were struck by lightning, but no one was killed. Further west, the lightning killed much stock. The electric light wires went down and the town was in darkness Tuesday night. Reports from surrounding towns are meagre, as the telegraph wires are down, and trains have all been stopped on account of washouts. It is known, however, that many homes have been washed out in towns adjacent to El Reno, and it is feared that many lives have been lost.

Brooklyn Will Be Sent to England.

Washington, April 29.—The navy department has issued an order modifying the original order to Admiral Miller to proceed to take command of the Pacific station, so as to delay the execution of that order until further notice. The admiral will be relieved of the command of the Boston navy yard as originally projected, but it is the purpose to send him to England on the Brooklyn to represent the United States navy on the occasion of the celebration of the queen's jubilee.

Ian MacLaren Not to Be Tried.

London, April 29.—At the meeting of the Presbyterian synod, held yesterday at Sunderland, the business committee decided to reject the petition, containing charges of heresy, which had been presented against Rev. John Watson, D. D (Ian MacLaren). The only way in which the petitioners can now revive the matter is by moving an amendment to the committee's report. But such an amendment would have little chance of adoption.

Canard Nailed.

New York, April 29.—Secretary Bliss of the department of the interior, says, concerning the report that he intended to resign his portfolio in President McKinley's cabinet: "I am at a loss to know the authority for such a statement. I do not wish at this time to make any extended statement, other than to deny the report of my intended resignation from the cabinet. There is absolutely no foundation for the article published."

Crowds Gather at Special Session of Legislature.

Nothing Done Because of No Quorum---Little Fighting Being Done.

Athens, April 29.—While the resentment against King George and his advisors has somewhat subsided, it has by no means died out, and startling incidents may happen at any moment. At this moment the Greeks are simply waiting results, and should there be any disdisasters like those of last week on the frontier, the reigning dynasty may well look to its personal safety.

News from Thessaly and Epirus is to the effect that hostilities are almost suspended, temporarily, perhaps, but just now both armies are quiescent.

The downfall of the Delyannis cabinet is taken for granted, though it has not actually occurred. M. Ralli, who is likely to succeed Delyannis, was equally keen for war.

Little or nothing seems to be known here as to the movements of the Greek fleet. The only news of actual fighting in progress comes from Velestino, which commands the road to Volo. Possibly this indicates an intention of the Turks to march southward.

It is said that Edhem Pasha has sent a white flag to Volo, with the assurance that the Turkish troops will inflict no damage upon the city or citizens. There seems little doubt, therefore, that he intends to occupy Volo.

The Greek forces now extend in a 14-mile line from Pharsalos to Velestino. Pharsalos commands the Turka pass and the road leading to this place by way of Larissa.

The extraordinary session of the legislative assembly, convened last evening and adjourned because a quorum was not present, was awaited with the greatest anxiety. A dense crowd gathered in the vicinity of the chamber, to get the first news of such action as might be taken. There was, however, no disorder. Many of the ministerialist deputies declare that they will vote against the government on the question of confidence.

It is rumored that the Greeks are still fighting in front of Pentepigadia.

There was an ineffectual attempt yesterday to pillage the shops of the gunsmiths. The headquarters of the Greek army are being removed to Dumokos, a long way south of Pharsalos.

Edhem Pasha has issued a proclamation inviting the Greeks to return to Larissa.

King George, on receiving a distinguished caller yesterday, said to him: "I am ready to accept all my country's wishes. What I desire is that not a drop of blood shall be shed on my account."

Greeks Leave Boston.

Boston, April 29.—Another party of young Greeks left Boston last evening for New York, from which city they will sail Saturday morning for Marseilles. There were about 30 in the party that left Boston, and they were to be joined at Fall River by a party of 25 Greeks from Lowell. A young Greek of 21, Costys Yeanopulos, is in command of the party, and he will accompany them to their native land. These men carried nothing with them but the clothing they wore and sufficient money to defray the expenses of transportation and equipment for battle. Their brothers, sisters, mothers, fathers and sweethearts were at the depot to see them off and to wish them good luck, and there was a scene of mingled tears and hysterical laughter.

Patriotic Greek Millionaire.

Paris, April 29.—A newspaper of this city says it learns that M. G. Averoff, the Greek millionaire, who was instrumental in reviving the Olympian games, subscribing 1,000,000 drachmas toward the expense of the restoration of the stadium, and who offered, at the outbreak of the trouble with Turkey, to provide the Greek army with 40,000 uniforms, has subscribed a total of 30,000,000 francs ($6,000,000) to the war fund.

The Tariff Bill.

Washington, April 29.—The Republican sub-committee of the senate finance committee, which is preparing the tariff bill, has decided definitely not to attempt to report the bill to the full committee before next Monday. The Democratic members of the committee, when the bill is presented, will ask for time sufficient to examine the bill in detail, with the view of suggesting any amendments they may consider it possible to have accepted by the committee. They expect to make this examination apart from the Republicans, and to sit with them only when a conference is necessary.

KNOWING THE feeling of the residents of Billings street against the location of an electric railway on the street, we were surprised that more did not speak in remonstrance at the hearing. The proper location for a line to Squantum would seem to be on Atlantic street from Hancock street, or wholly on Squantum street from Hancock. Either would be handy for passengers from Quincy or Boston, going to Squantum or even Atlantic. It is hardly probable that cars would be run in connection with the trains at Atlantic, any more than at Norfolk Downs or Wollaston where tracks have been laid and abandoned. Cars from Squantum to Quincy via Atlantic street would pass very near the depot on Hancock street.

TO EXEMPT the town of Milton from the provisions of the Metropolitan water bill because she is rich and can get a water system cheaper, is unjust to the less favored communities which are called upon to meet the enormous expense of introducing water into the Metropolitan district. The action of the Senate on Wednesday was a surprise, and should be reconsidered. Rich towns are not the ones which should get the best end of legislation.

THE MALDEN school board are again debating a rule which requires married ladies to resign as teachers. The argument is that married ladies should be supported by their husbands, while single ladies, "who have not been so successful in the matrimonial field," should be given a chance to earn a living.

THE MILL TAX for schools goes along swimmingly in the Legislature, and our School Committee may receive enough to offset that cut in estimates.

The Painting Fund.

There was quite a large gathering at the vestry of the Universalist church last evening. It was the gathering in of the "merry-go-rounds," which were circulated for the purpose of raising funds toward's painting the church. It proved a great success; about $110 were collected; which together with that obtained last year, is thought to be sufficient to paint the church two good coats.

There was a pleasing entertainment, which was listened to with much pleasure, and all returned to their homes, much gratified at the good success of the evening. Messrs. Benjamin F. Curtis and Elias A. Perkins, two gentlemen who reside near the church, each gave five dollars towards the fund; and Mr. William North, of Medford, an old friend of the church, also sent five dollars.

Braintree Concert.

The second concert of the Choral society of Braintree last evening was another grand success. The chorus work was particularly good, and there was a large enthusiastic audience.

This concert closes the work of the society for the season, and the managers have reason to be pleased with what has been accomplished. The chorus was not as large as in the first concert but the soloists were far ahead and as a whole the evening's entertainment was the best given in Braintree for years.

Among the outside talent was Mr. Cone, reader, of Boston, whose card appears in the LEDGER. The audience was charmed with his sweet melodious voice and graceful easy manner of giving his selections.

Mr. King a Receiver.

Theophilus King, of Quincy, Mass., Andrew G. Pierce, Jr., of New Bedford, Mass., and Valentine P. Snyder, of New York city, were appointed in New York on Wednesday, as receivers of the property in New York state of the Bennett Manufacturing Company and Columbia Spinning Company, of New Bedford, Mass., on application of Charles L. Robinson, stockholder. The receivers are to furnish a bond of $30,000.

PROUD OF THEIR ORDER.

Odd Fellows Celebrate their Seventy-Eighth Anniversary.

There was a gathering of over 200 Odd Fellows and lady friends at Mt. Wollaston's observance of the 78th anniversary of the order on Wednesday evening. William Westland, the Noble Grand, presided and with a few words introduced the speakers and artists.

The programme included popular music by Mr. J. E. Hanson, violin, and Fred H. Lord, piano; readings by Miss Rice which invariably were encored; vocal numbers of the usual excellence by Mrs. H. T. Drake; pleasing harmonica solos with banjo and piano accompaniment by Charles Barron, he being recalled twice; a solo by Mr. Everett Baker; and remarks by Past Grand Master Crawford and District Deputy Litchfield of Weymouth.

Bro. Crawford's address was of historical and statistical interest. Odd Fellowship to him was a reality and a responsibility, and he told what it was and what it was accomplishing. When and where it originated he could not tell and it was not known, but it dated back before 1745 in England. It was implanted in America at Baltimore, April 26, 1819, although some claim Massachusetts had a lodge earlier. However in Massachusetts it was not continuous, while in Baltimore it had been. It was revived in Massachusetts in 1841 and since the earlier 60s it had grown rapidly. Astounding figures were presented showing the membership of order, amount paid in benefits, etc. Odd Fellowship is progressive and the greatest institution of modern times.

Following the entertainment ices and cake were served, and then dancing and whist vied with each other as attractions until midnight.

Wollaston Celebration.

The 78th anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was celebrated by John Hancock lodge, No. 224, of Wollaston, on Monday night, April 26.

The committee in charge was Mr. Fred Coombs, Edward Mitchell, Frank Griffin and G. A. Wardwell. The programme consisted of the regular anniversary exercises by Noble Grand Levi P. Milberry, assisted by Past Grand E. M. Dunn, and Chaplain Brown. Then followed selections by the Quincy quartette: Mr. John W. Rose gave two very laughable recitations in his usual able manner, a piano duet by Edward Mitchell's two boys, then a series of tableaux were given by Miss Hermione Eldred, assisted by Mrs. Charles Tanner and Past Grand Dunn's little daughter-Nellie, as follows:

Music, A Floral Offering, A Secret, A Vow, A Sorrow, Mother's Pet, The Evening Prayer, The Dove, The First Love Letter, and Whirlwind. The tableaux were very prettily and effectively given.

Music was furnished by Robinson's orchestra, a collation of ice cream, cake and coffee was served and the gathering broke up at a late hour, and to judge by the remarks of those present John Hancock lodge has kept up its past reputation of being able to give as an agreeable entertainment as any lodge in the state.

The Driver Replies.

Editors of the Ledger:

Wednesday's LEDGER criticised me somewhat for the manner in which I unloaded my wagon Tuesday in the field near Merrymount road, and I trust you will print the following in regard to the affair.

The horses that I drove that day were the same that I have driven past the steam roller almost every day for the past two weeks and they have behaved very well, although somewhat frightened by it. The horse that caused the trouble Tuesday is a high tempered and very excitable animal, therefore the attempt to grab her head only served to rattle her the more. The gathering of a crowd and the gestures of the men as they all attempted to tell me what to do at the same time, somewhat rattled me and I told them all to get out of the way, which they failed to do, until in some unaccountable manner the horse above referred to got her head under the reins of the other horse, and the snap of her rein entangled in the rein of the other horse she became unmanagable. Then there was a scattering of the crowd and I did not fail to notice that some of those most eager to get hold of the horse when she was standing quietly were the most eager to get out of the way. I drove these same horses past the steam roller Wednesday without any trouble. O. C. F.

ST. GEORGE DAY.

It Is Observed by Granite Lodge With Entertainment and Dance.

The members of Granite lodge, 193, Order Sons of St. George, together with their ladies, gathered in "goodly numbers" at Doble's hall, Wednesday evening, to celebrate St. George Day, which they did by an entertainment and dance.

Grand Assistant Messenger and Past President, James Rapson, presided and the entertainment which was of a pleasing nature consisted of sorgs by Samuel Tuttor, Mr. Knight, Miss Maggie Bradbury, Grand Past President Blackburn, Grand Deputy Kershaw and Grand Messenger Jaques, and readings by James Rapson.

At the conclusion of the entertainment a collation was served, which was followed by a social dance, the grand march being led by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Halvossa. This march was a very pretty affair as during its progress the letters of the Grand lodge were formed. Philip Halvossa had charge of the floor and was assisted by John Spargo.

Hospital Whist.

The matinee whist, given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Eugene N. Hultman, for the benefit of the City Hospital, was most successful. Mrs. Hultman, who is a charming hostess, threw open her whole house to the ladies, and to her untiring efforts is due much praise for its success. Some twenty tables were in play during the afternoon and at its conclusion prizes for the best scores were awarded as follows: First, a dresden ornament, contributed by D. E. Wadsworth & Co., to Mrs Danforth; second, a wedgwood match safe, contributed by the Five-Cent store, to Miss Carrie F. Spear; third, a box of confectionery, contributed by McGovern Bros., to Mrs. Edwin W. Newcomb; fourth, a fancy dish, contributed by the Five-Cent store, to Miss Annie Sturgess; fifth, three bottles of olives, contributed by George F Wilson & Co., to Mrs. J. H. Gilbert; sixth, silver salt and pepper bottles, contributed by L. M. Pratt & Co., to Miss M. L. Furnald; seventh, a fancy spoon, contributed by Mrs. Lapham, to Miss Wild; eighth, a match safe, contributed by Arthur Hultman, to Mrs. E. W. H. Bass.

ZOE, THE OCTOROON.

Dramatic Presentation of Life in Louisiana by Local Talent.

"Zoe, the Octoroon," or life in Louisiana, was presented at Hancock hall last evening under the auspices of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R. The attendence was not as large perhaps as might have been desired but what the audience lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm. The drama is full of stirring incidents and pathetic scenes, and while at times it dragged a little, it was on the whole admirably presented, and what little defects there were will probably be remedied tonight.

Zoe, the Octoroon, could not have been better impersonated than it was by Miss Mary Parker, who was certainly a winsome miss, and it was no wonder that George Peyton fell desperately in love with her. The character of George Payton was impersonated by John Walsh, who needs to put a little more force into character.

Miss Ellenore Roche made a capital Mrs. Peyton, and Miss Gertrude Boyd as Dora Sunnyside, who was in love with George, was also a typical love sick maiden. Salem Scudder the Yankee was correctly portrayed by William H. Warner, and John Ross as Jacob McCloskey, the villian, was perfect. Wahnotee the partly civilized Indian could not have been better impersonated than it was by Thomas F. Ferguson. John Phelan, as Old Pete; Master Walter Barrey as Paul, the boy slave; and Isaac M. Holt as the auctioneer, Col. Pointdexter, were also good, especially that of Old Pete.

The other characters were impersonated by Miss Alice Foley, Miss Nellie Warner, Miss Julia Roche, M. T. Sullivan, Warren Dunbar, W. C. Hart, Edward Richardson, Charles H. Stoddard, L. H. Parrott, Jr., D. M. Warner and little Miss Maud Dyer.

The several tableaux throughout the drama were well carried out and added to the effectiveness of the piece. Richardson's orchestra furnished music.

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

For Indigestion, Sick and Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Heart Failure, Fever, Chills, Debility and Kidney Diseases, take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful medicine in the world.

VAILLANT SURVIVORS.

Three of Rescued Men Not Expected to Recover Consciousness.

Impossible to Get Coherent Details of Wreck.

Physical and Mental Sufferings of Men Are Something Terrible.

St. John's, N. F., April 29.—Three or the four survivors of the ill-fated French brigantine Vaillant, which was wrecked by colliding with an iceberg, off the Grand Banks, are almost sure to die. They are in a comatose condition. But little hope is expressed that the fourth will live.

Their physical and mental sufferings are terrible. It was necessary to amputate the arms and feet of three. Their ears and noses were shockingly frozen, and the flesh presents a ghastly and leprous-like appearance. As if this were not wretchedness enough, their reason is temporarily, if not permanently, gone. As they lie in their cots they rave of their awful experiences.

It is scarcely possible to get any definite details of the disaster, but it seems from what can be learned from their incoherent cries that four dories were overturned at the moment of the wreck. Two of the men on board the rescued dory were taken from the water almost drowned. These were the first to perish. The third who died was a young fellow, about 18. He made a stubborn fight for his life. Four boats are known to have got safely away from the ship, but the captain's boat was the only one afterward seen by the occupants of the rescued dory.

The hardships suffered by the survivors were almost indescribable. Ordinarily, castaways can get some sustenance from leather boots, but these poor fellows had only wooden sabots for footgear. The intense cold made it almost impossible for them to do anything toward navigating the dory, and they were compelled to drift helplessly.

The most horrifying incident of the experience was the cannibalism, to which they were driven by the resistless pangs of hunger. The dead body which they used for food was frozen so stiff that they were scarcely able to hack off the flesh with their knives. For two days the lives of the survivors were sustained by this food.

Everything that is possible is being done to find the missing boats, if it should have been their good fortune to have survived. Outgoing vessels will make a close search of the waters north and south of St. John's. But there is little hope of further rescues.

Bay State Lawmakers.

Boston, April 29.—Leave to withdraw was reported by the committee on election laws on the petition of S. W. George for a change in the methods of nomination by nomination papers. Mr. Gibbs of Brookline procured a reconsideration of the engrossment of the salary bill for the justice of the Roxbury district court, and Mr. Coleman of Cambridge moved again his amendment to make the salary $3000, instead of $2700, as in the bill. The amendment was carried, and the bill was again passed to be engrossed. Ought to pass in a new draft was reported by the committee on metropolitan affairs on the recommitted bill to provide for surface drainage in Boston. In place of an adverse report on the petition of William N. Tyler, clerk of the First district court of eastern Middlesex, for an increase of salary, Mr. Brown of Everett moved a bill to make the salary $1600 instead of $1300. The bill was substituted by a large majority and was referred to the committee on counties. The committee on judiciary has been unfortunate in securing the attendance of senators in consideration of the newspaper libel bill. The bill has been assigned for consideration to 9:30 Friday morning of this week, and it is hoped to reach a final decision then.

Child Recovered.

Haverhill, Mass., April 29.—Albert Bell, who disappeared from Haverhill a few weeks ago with his child and all the family funds, has been located in Danville, P. Q. Mrs. Bell started for there the first of the week, and a dispatch has been received stating that she has recovered her child.

CRIMES AND ACCIDENTS.

Fire in Z. A. Hubley's shoddy mill at Worcester, Mass., caused a loss of $8000.

James P. Cullen, aged 52, was instantly killed by a car of the New Haven Street railway last night.

James Lewis, colored, charged with outraging Mrs. Ida Reidel, a white woman, was found guilty at Alexandria, Va. The jail is guarded by militia, as lynching is feared.

Frank Linn, one of five men under arrest, charged with having originated the fire that swept the city of Portsmouth, Va., on the night of March 28, has made a confession.

Alfred Glynn, a steeple climber, aged 19, of Amherst, Mass., while at work on the belfry of the state lunatic hospital at Worcester, Mass., fell a distance of 55 feet to the pavement. He suffered one fracture in each limb, two of them compound, and was badly cut about the head. His recovery is doubtful.

A triple tragedy is reported from Redbank, Cal., a farming settlement, 30 miles from Fresno. As a result, Mrs. John Qualle and her daughter, Lulu, are dying, and their assailant, James Brooks, is dead. Brooks was formerly employed as a laborer on Qualle's ranch, but was discharged for persistently making love to Miss Lulu. Brooks shot the girl and her mother. Brooks left the house, after setting fire to it. He then went to a neighboring barn, to which he set fire, went inside and was burned to death.

Angered because he was asked a civil question, Frank Duhammels of Streator, Ills., seized a spade and instantly killed 5-year-old John Lebo by splitting open his skull. Duhammels, who is a worthless character, called at the Lebo house and was given a job in the garden. While Mrs. Lebo was preparing a meal, her little son toddled into the yard and watched the man at work. The child asked him a question, and the murder followed. Only the prompt action of the chief of police in getting the murderer out of the city prevented a lynching.

MILITIA REPORT.

Military Affairs Committee Gives Result of Recent Investigation.

Boston, April 29.—The legislative committee on military affairs reported in the senate yesterday, as a result of the recent investigation of the state militia, a bill making important changes in the present organization of the citizen soldiers of the commonwealth.

The most important provision retires Brigadier Generals Peach and Bridges after the next encampment, and limits the term of service of brigade officers hereafter to seven years without re-election.

The disbandment of battery A is approved by the committee, although the suggestion is made that it should not have been done until an inspection had taken place.

The board which discharged Major Copeland of the Eighth regiment is found to have been partial. Personalities are found to have prevented the retirement of Major Ward with a higher rank.

It is recommended that three years service in the state militia or service in the United States army or navy be required of candidates for the governor's staff.

Many other changes in the law are recommended, among them that the adjutant general should no longer be inspector general.

Several important changes in regard to the manner of discharging enlisted men and officers are recommended.

EXTRAVAGANT WAGE EARNERS.

Labor Troubles Said to Be Largely Due to Living Beyond Income.

Concord, N. H., April 29.—The biennial report of the state bureau of labor has just been made public. It devotes a long chapter to the shoe industry, and shows that there are 64 establishments in New Hampshire engaged in the manufacture of shoes, paying for wages $2,469,918 annually, giving employment to 8069 people. The cost of material used is $6,749,322; annual product, $11,986,008, an increase during the decade of 7.81 per cent; in number of establishments of employes, 45.94 per cent; in amount in paid wages, 43.27 per cent; in material used, 29.44 per cent, and in value of product, 29.67 per cent.

The report says in regard to wage earners in this industry: Of 1815 who responded to inquiries from the bureau, 74 reported an increase in wages, and 175 reported a reduction in wages, and 750 (or 42.2 per cent of the total number) reported having saved a portion of wages earned, and 1056 report no saving whatsoever. By this showing it is shown that 58 per cent of all reporting to the bureau acknowledge living so extravagantly as to expend all their wages, and some of them pleaded guilty to living beyond their full income from all sources; in short, the report of the living expenses of shoe workers received by the commissioner of labor indicates that perhaps much of the feeling of unrest and consequent disatisfaction, which leads to strikes and other labor troubles, may be due to living beyond incomes.

Slavonian Catholics Excited.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 29.—The parishoners of St. John's Slavonian Catholic church are greatly excited here on account of a change of priests. The former pastor, Rev. Father Formaueck, has been exchanged for Rev. Father Pribye of Hazelton, Pa. Father Pribye is a Bohemian, while the congregation is strongly Slavish. Upon the priest's arrival at the church, he found the doors and gates bolted and a large crowd collected, who refused to let him enter. Many threats of bodily injury were made if he insisted, but the priest ended matters by quietly going away, refusing police assistance in gaining entrance to the church. At a meeting held by the congregation, they refused to accept him as their pastor, and declared their intention of using force to keep him out of the church. Father Pribye will go to Hartford and consult Bishop Tierney before taking farther action.

Governor Wolcott Returns.

Boston, April 29.—Governor Wolcott and his staff arrived in Boston last evening on their return from New York, where they attended the dedication of the Grant mausoleum. Governor Wolcott said: "We had a delightful and interesting visit, and it was a very imposing affair. Massachusetts made a very fine showing, and much was said in praise of her representatives in the parade. The Cadets, the Lancers, the Second regiment and the representatives of the Eighth and Ninth regiments made a good appearance in the line, and they were highly spoken of in many quarters."

Died on the Road.

Kingston, Mass., April 29.—Peleg T. Brooks, agent for the New York and Boston Despatch Express company, left town yesterday afternoon, to drive over to Duxbury. Later he was found in the road, dead. He had been troubled with heart disease for some time, and this was probably the cause of death. Mr. Brown was born in Duxbury in May, 1830. Previous to 1870 he drove a stage route for 20 years, since which time he had been in the express business. He was a Democrat, and served in the legislature in 1886-87.

Boutwell Was Not Overlooked.

Boston, April 29.—Some comment was provoked last week over the fact that ex-Governor Boutwell, secretary of the treasury under President Grant, had failed to receive an invitation to attend the Grant memorial exercises. In a letter, Mr. Boutwell explains that the invitation was forwarded to New York and delayed there until Monday, when it was forwarded to Boston, reaching the addressee too late for use. Mr. Boutwell says that the misdirected letter puts at rest all criticism of the committee in charge.

Senator Butler at Boston.

Boston, April 29.—Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina is in the city. He will be a guest at the People's party banquet tonight. In an interview, he said, regarding the Dingley bill, that the Populists were inclined to favor the passage of the bill after it had been amended somewhat. The Populist party, he went on to say, believes in protection, and is distinctly not a "tariff reform" party. The Populists will be thoroughly satisfied if the Republicans bring back prosperity.

Woman Opened Another's Letter.

Manchester, N. H., April 29.—Mrs. Agnes Tucker of Londonderry was arrested in this city yesterday by United States Marshal Campbell, charged with opening a letter mailed to another person. The letter belonged to Miss Mary Webb, and it was charged that she wanted to find out who the correspondent was, and what the letter said. Mrs. Tucker was bound over.

A pickpocket is despised, dreaded and avoided. He is a sneaking, despicable foe who robs a man unawares. Men hate him worse than the more bold highwayman whose attack is made in the open. There are some diseases that are like pickpockets. They are sneaks. If men only knew it, these sneaking diseases are more to be dreaded than small-pox or yellow fever. The sneaking disease begins with some slight disorder of the digestion and sluggish action of the bowels. The blood becomes disordered and the body receives insufficient or improper nutriment. Emaciation follows and the sufferer is troubled with nervous prostration, brain fag, and debility, and very likely falls a victim to that dread destroyer, consumption. All this happens before the sufferer fairly realizes that he is in danger.

These sneaking diseases that undermine a man's constitution, and rob him of his health are conquered by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts strength into every fiber of the body and replaces the lethargy of sickness with the buoyancy of health. It is the best blood-maker and flesh-builder known to science.

Mr. A. W. Caynes, of Elkhart, Elkhart Co., Indiana, writes: "I send you a testimonial in regard to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and what it did for me in acute inflammation of the liver, about six years ago, when I had an attack in Los Angeles, Cal., and also one since I came here. I consider Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery one of the best medicines offered to a suffering people to-day. It has only to be given a fair trial to prove itself such."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser has had a larger sale than any other book of this class ever offered the public. This book of 1,008 pages with 300 illustrations is full, from cover to cover, of practical advice on health matters. This great book, in heavy manilla covers, is now offered FREE to whoever will send 21 one-cent stamps to pay for mailing only. COL. COVENEY DEAD.

Postmaster of Boston Expires Suddenly From Pneumonia.

Served Gallantly In 28th Massachusetts.

Deceased Was Ex-Chairman of State Democratic Committee.

Boston, April 30.—Postmaster Jeremiah W. Coveney died last night at his home in Cambridgeport, of pneumonia. The end was sudden.

Colonel Coveney had been sick about three weeks and was considered to be convalescent, and his physician, who called just before he died, said that his patient was improving and that he would be much better today.

Colonel Coveney was born in this city in 1840. He entered the Civil War as a second lieutenant in the Twenty-eighth regiment, Massachusetts volunteers, and rose to be colonel of the regiment, his war record being particularly brilliant. He was one of the best known and hardest working Democrats in the state. He served for eight years in the Cambridge city council, four years in the legislature, two years as Governor Russell's private secretary and two years as a member of the state gas commission. From 1881 to 1886 he was chairman of the Democratic state committee, being succeeded by Josiah Quincy.

JEREMIAH W. COVENEY.

In 1893 he was appointed postmaster of Boston by President Cleveland, and he has proved one of the best and most popular officials who ever held the position.

He leaves three children, his wife having died about two years ago.

Postmaster Coveney was a member of the American-Irish Historical society, and is the first member of that organization to pass away. The council of the society will take appropriate action.

COST OF STRIKES.

Massachusetts Statistics Show That Labor Always Sustains Heaviest Losses.

Boston, April 30.—Hon. Horace G. Waldin, chief of the bureau of statistics of labor, has issued section 2 of the Massachusetts labor bulletin. The first portion covers strikes and lockouts in the 7½ years from Jan. 1, 1887, to June 30, 1894.

Of the 1050 strikes, 592 were ordered by labor organizations; 2453 establishments were involved, of which 1007 were closed for a number of days, aggregating 20,804, an average of about three weeks' loss of productive time to each establishment.

In the case of 1048 establishments the strikes succeeded, partial success was won in 260 others, while in 1145 the strikes failed.

The aggregate loss to employes was $4,561,588; assistance rendered by labor organizations, $573,417; loss to employers, $1,939,108. The actual strikers numbered in the aggregate 86,277, and there were 134,546 thrown out of employment because of the strikes.

Of the 1050 strikes, 503 occurred in these four cities: Boston, Lynn, Fall River and Haverhill. The boot and shoe industry leads in the number of strikes, 282, with a wage loss of $1,692,979; cotton goods, 143 strikes, $565,806 loss; building trades, 131 strikes, $333,233 loss, and others with smaller numbers in each.

During the same period there were 63 lockouts, which resulted in a closure of establishments aggregating 6315 days. The number of establishments involved was 377. The wage loss was $1,162,675, and to employers, $539,901.

The period covered by this record of strikes and lockouts begins with years of exceptional prosperity, includes a year of serious depression, 1893, and closes at a time when the effect of the depression was still seriously felt.

The second section treats of prison industries, covering a period from Sept. 30, 1887, to Sept. 30, 1896. The total number of prisoners increased during the 10 years from 533 to 796, the number engaged in productive industries from 158 to 571, while the number engaged in miscellaneous work declined from 217 to 185. The gross average receipts from labor in all institutions, although incomplete, was $313,337.82. The gross cost of the maintenance of the state prison, the Massachusetts reformatory and the reformatory prison for women was $405,-261.73, and the net profits, $81,393.81.

CLOSED ITS DOORS.

New Hampshire Bank at Nashua Has Suspended Business.

Nashua, N. H., April 30.—The New Hampshire Banking company has suspended. Solomon Spalding, father of Charles W. Spalding of the broken Globe Savings bank of Chicago, is president of the institution. For the past four years the bank has been gradually losing depositors, and for more than a year past has refused to honor withdrawals to a larger amount than $250 a month.

The suspension caused no surprise, and has been expected for some time. Vice President Charles Holman of the board of trustees, states that none of the trustees have withdrawn any of their deposits. The bank is a guarantee bank, with a guarantee fund of $125,000, and had a surplus and interest account of $34,-193.70 at its last report, April 1. The amount due depositors on April 1 was $849,352.51.

Treasurer Farley makes the following statement: "This action was voluntary on the part of the officers, and was done for what they considered the best interests of depositors. While the bank will probably sustain some losses from the numerous financial troubles in the past few months, the guarantee fund will probably cover all shrinkages which are in sight at this time. The restoration of confidence and resumption of deposits seem to be put so far in the future by recurring financial disturbances that it would cause the bank to continue to sell its securities to meet the demand upon it, thereby reducing its earning capacity and ability to earn satisfactory dividends before it was reasonable to expect a return of business, hence the action which has been taken was deemed advisable by all interests."

Adjutant General Dalton's Report.

Boston, April 30.—The report of Adjutant General Dalton on the condition of the Massachusetts volunteer militia for 1896, just issued, says, among other things: The past year has been the most satisfactory year for work and progress I have ever known. All commands as a whole have been energetic, great advance has been made in practical work, troops have a better idea of what they are for and what is expected of them by the commonwealth, officers and men better realize their own importance, and study and work has been continuous, showing excellent results. I can safely say that the militia as a whole is in a most satisfactory condition, well equipped, earnest and ready to perform its whole duty. Officers and men are entitled to commendation for hard, earnest work and a desire to further improve the service.

Dow Murder Case.

Exeter, N. H., April 30.—The trial of John M. Dow of Seabrook, charged with the murder of Josiah E. Brown, on July 17, 1896, was begun in the supreme court yesterday morning before Judge William M. Chase. John M. Dow, the man charged with the murder, made a striking figure as he sat in the courtroom behind his counsel. He is 71 years of age, and has long gray hair hanging far down on his neck. He was dressed in a blue suit, without vest, collar or tie, and his feet were incased in a pair of old carpet slippers. Dow admitted stabbing Brown, but claimed that he acted in self defense.

Aged One Hundred and Two Years.

Augusta, Me., April 30.—Augusta has one of the oldest, if not the oldest woman in the state, of which there is record, in Mrs. Hanna Robinson, who reached 102 years of age today. She retains her faculties to a remarkable degree, and is considered to be in better condition today, physically and mentally, than she was a year ago. She knits almost all day, eats and sleeps well. She lives at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. C. C. Hunt. Two children are still living—Mrs. S. G. Sargent of this city, aged 75, and Charles G. Richard of Mobile, aged 78.

Suicide at Lincoln.

Concord, Mass., April 30.—Samuel Phillips, aged 68, of Lincoln, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting. He lived with his only child, the wife of Rev. E. E. Bradley of the Congregational church in Lincoln. She missed him, and upon searching found him back of the barn. He was living at the time, and physicians were summoned, but Mr. Phillips survived only an hour. Deceased had no business, and despondency is the only cause that can be given for the act. The remains will be taken to Andover, where his wife is buried.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, April 30.—After a discussion of the bill to abolish the contract system upon public works yesterday, the measure was refused a third reading in the house by a vote of 68 to 31. The bill provided that when the commonwealth or any county, city or town therein hereafter determines to have work done of any character, such work shall not be let out to any contractor or contractors, or any corporation, partnership or firm engaged as contractors. In the senate the various militia bills were advanced one stage.

THE OKLAHOMA FLOOD.

Death List Not So Great as at First Reported.

Over Five Hundred Homes Are Ruined.

Water Recedes, Leaving Scene of Desolation. Score Killed.

Guthrie, O. T., April 30.—In the flood-stricken valley of the Cottonwood river yesterday was one heroic effort towards the rescue of those unfortunates whose lives were still endangered, and for the relief of the hundreds of destitute and hungry. It seems a certainty that the loss of life in the deluge will not exceed a score.

All day, persons who were supposed to have been drowned were found clinging to bushes or driftwood down the stream on the west bluffs, or scattered in farmhouses for miles.

During the latter part of Wednesday the torrents cut off communication with the submerged district, and in the excitement the death list was swelled to hundreds.

The family of Wesley McGill, reported as drowned, was found safe. Among the bodies found during the day were those of Mrs. Fannie Ruffin and five children, all lodged in a pile of driftwood. These, with George Owen, drowned while rescuing others, Frank Meyers, Mrs. Jane Watt, Mrs. Francis Moore, Mrs. Drummond, Mrs. Dennis and child, and Mrs. Watson, are the only identified dead, though many are still missing.

The receding flood has left an immense pile of wreckage at the railroad bridge, six miles below the city. Search for the dead at that point has begun, and when the work was stopped the bodies of a white man and a colored baby had been recovered. It is claimed that several other bodies have been sighted in the debris there.

An attempt was made to poll the residents of West Guthrie, but the count taker is not considered at all accurate. It shows 82 persons missing, most of them being negroes.

During the day systematic relief was perfected and carried on. Ferries plied across the river, carrying provisions and clothing, and returning with injured.

Such were carefully cared for in private homes in Guthrie. By nightfall ample arrangements had been made for the immediate relief of the homeless, and there was an assurance of no further suffering at least for the time being.

Five hundred homes were swept away; 150 houses were wrecked and 20 stores were destroyed, leaving 1000 people homeless and half as many destitute, as a result of the floods.

Children Allege Mother Is Insane.

New York, April 30.—An order has been signed in the supreme court directing Mrs. Harriet E. Beach, or Rogers, widow of Alfred E. Beach, editor of The Scientific American, to show cause why a committee should not be appointed to take charge of her person and property, and why a commission should not pass upon her sanity. She is 69 years old, and has a one-third interest in her late husband's estate of $250,000. Her children allege that she has twice been confined in insane asylums, because of monomania or spiritualism, and that she is now the dupe of Henry R. Rogers, a medium, who has married her in order to obtain her money.

Senate Proceedings.

Washington, April 30.—When the senate met yesterday, Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota raised the question of whether any business was to be done this week. He proposed that the senate direct a conference on the Indian appropriation bill. Mr. Chandler objected to any business being done, because there was a tacit understanding that nothing was to be done during the absence of senators who went to New York to attend the Grant celebration. Several senators claimed that no agreement had been made. A large number of resolutions and memorials were introduced, and the senate adjourned to Monday.

Cornell Has a Woman's Crew.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 30.—Cornell is to have a woman's crew. Sage college has organized a boating association, and the crew has been selected. Coxswain Colson of the first 'varsity has been asked to coach the women. The fair rowers have begun practice. The crew is: Bow, Miss Dunning; 2, Miss Jewell; 3, Miss McNary (captain); 4, Miss Reed; 5, Miss Whipple; stroke, Miss Kellar; coxswains, Misses Young and Rhodes. Miss Kellar is substitute at 4 and Miss Wait at 5. Great interest is being manifested by the athletic young women, and a race with Wellesley college is being considered.

The New Hall.

The foundation for the new block of stores on Hancock street is being put in heavy enough for a hall on the second floor, and it is probable that Quincy will have the much-wanted large hall. Plans have been laid out for a "dandy" hall with all the appertenances, which will be completed next week, then estimates of the cost will be obtained. The promoters have not received as many replies to their postals as they had hoped, and are surprised that more interest is not taken. Why not help along the project?

Granite Contracts.

The Granite Railway Company has secured the contract of Quincy granite for a large bank building in Philadelphia. They are also cutting all the granite used for the remodeling of the Bulfinch front of the State House, Boston.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

All Parts of the City Receiving Attention of Commissioner.

Commissioner Knowlton is a very busy man just at present and there is no ward in the city that is not receiving his attention. On account of the limited amount of money which he has at his command not as much is being done perhaps as many would like but the worst places in our streets are receiving attention. Besides the several streets, where repairs have been made of which mention has been made, Quincy street between Pleasant and Marsh street has received a coat of gravel dressing.

The entrance into Granite street from Hancock street has been improved by the laying of new curbing on both sides as far as the bridge, and the street is now being resurfaced.

On Quarry street at its entrance a much needed improvement is being made by putting on a coat of granite chips which are bound by clay and the whole rolled down hard. On Garfield street the sidewalk curbing, which has long been twisted and out of shape is being straightened and the sidewalk filled up.

On Willard street near the corner of Robertson street a drain and catch basin are being put in to carry off the surface water.

That part of Grove street near Bryant avenue, which has always been a damp muddy place all the year, has been filled with gravel and the people in that vicinity are happy.

Beach street, Wollaston, has had its grade raised by gravel and the holes on Beale street have been filled.

On Hancock street near the corner of Atlantic street is a drain which ran under and across Hancock street. This drain had become clogged which makes the water in the field become offensive, and here the Commissioner has a gang of men at work digging up that drain to repair it.

There is also a gang of men at work grading the Gridley Bryant school lot.

The Commissioner has done some work on Independence avenue and Centre street which at present is not an improvement. Whether it is contemplated to do more is unknown but people are kicking vigorously. One gentlemen brought to the LEDGER office Thursday several good sized stone chips, one weighing ten pounds, and says the streets are strewn with these, so that passage over the street is dangerous even when extra caution is used. If it is the intention to cover the chips it should have been done long ago. Centre street between Liberty street and Braintree is particularly bad.

May Day Tomorrow.

The Universalist parish of Plymouth has invited all their friends to come tomorrow and enjoy a dinner at their Bagnell Chapel banquet hall. There are a lot of Mayflowers in Plymouth woods and barges and carriages at the depot to carry those who wish to go to ride.

Those who wish to visit Pilgrim Hall can purchase tickets of admission at the Chapel for 15 cents. The regular price of admission to the Hall is 25 cents.

Trains leave Boston at 8.45 and 12.45, stopping at Quincy. Round trip ticket from Quincy, including dinner $1.35. Dining coupons should be exchanged for dinner tickets on arrival at the church.

Immense Block of Granite.

An immense block of granite, weighing not less than 1217 tons, was recently put in place at St. Petersburg, as the pedestal for the new statue of Peter the Great, the block having been transported four miles by land over a railway and thirteen miles in a caisson by water. The railway consisted of two lines of timber furnished with hard metal grooves, between which grooves were placed spheres of hard brass about six inches in diameter; on these spheres the frame, with its load, was easily moved by a force of sixty men working at the capstans with treble-purchase blocks.—New York Tribune.

Not in Same Class.

It is evident that the Adams Academy base ball nine is tackling clubs which are in higher classes, for the Boston college freshmen had a picnic with them on Thursday at the park. The score by innings was:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Boston College,	1	10	2	2	0	1	2	—18
Adams Academy,	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	—3

Daniel Chester French stands today in the very front rank of American sculptors. His career has been a most brilliant and successful one, and his contributions to American art have been most important. The completest survey of his life and work which has ever been given in any of the magazines appears in the May number of the New England Magazine. This admirable article is written by Mrs. Helen B. Emerson, and is magnificently illustrated, almost all of Mr. French's great works finding representation. The frontispiece of the magazine, accompanying the article, is a picture of the monument to John Boyle O'Reilly recently dedicated in Boston.

This is the time for spring changes, and like all the others, the "Wabash" will soon be trying to make improvements in train service. In the mean time, the old favorite through cars from Boston to Chicago and St. Louis will continue to run. Newly-wedded couples (and others) please note that these cars run via Niagara Falls. Apply to the New England agency, 292 Washington street, Boston, for detailed information, maps etc. apr 17 tf

WATER EXTENSION.

Eleven More Streets to Have Supply, Including Rock Island.

At the meeting of the Water Commissioners Thursday evening it was voted to make the following extension of water mains:

Russell Park, 400 feet of six inch.
Gass place, 400 feet of six inch.
Quincy avenue, 100 feet of eight inch.
Squantum street, 350 feet of eight inch.
Rustic place 400 feet of two and four inch.
Hillside street, 300 feet of six inch.
Morton street, 200 of four inch.
Willow street, 200 feet of six inch.
Rock Island, 1500 feet of six inch.
Putnam street, 300 feet of four inch.
Independence avenue, 175 feet of six inch.

The board also voted to put in hydrants as follows: one four-way on Hancock street opposite J. R. Wild's carriage manufactory; one four-way on Temple street near McGovern Bros.' store; one four way on Beale street near the Wollaston hotel; one three-way on Sumner street near the Quincy Shoe Co. factory.

It was also voted to shut the water off from all premises where the water rates remain unpaid May 1.

DEATH OF LINEMAN.

Quincy Man Falls from Electric Light Pole This Morning.

A telegram received from Northampton announces the death, today, of Richard Cotter, of Quincy. The telegram says that he fell from an electric light pole this morning and received injuries which resulted in his death shortly after.

Cotter, who was deaf and dumb, was a lineman and belonged in Quincy, and was for some time employed by the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. Recently he went to Northampton, where he was employed by George H. Vorhees, formerly superintendent of the Quincy company. Cotter's body will be brought to Quincy for burial.

Y. M. C. A. Athletics.

A pentathlon of the Y. M. C. A. athletic league will be held at Worcester June 5. The events will be 100-yard dash, one-mile run, running high jump, throwing 12-pound hammer and pole vault. For this contest each association will be allowed to enter five men. There will be a 10-mile bicycle race open to teams of three men from each association, also a 100-yard dash for novices, and the following events open to all amateurs: 100-yard dash, 220 yard low hurdle race, and a quarter-mile run. The Pawtucket Y. M. C. A. has won the pentathlon two years, but must win it once more before it becomes their property. The Chicopee Falls Y. M. C. A. has won the bicycle shield twice, and must win it again before it is their property.

HOUGHS NECK.

Joseph F. Costello has purchased the Casino building occupied by him at Houghs Neck last summer, and will make many improvements, including new bowling alleys and a better dancing floor.

The season has been unusually forward at the beach and May 1st will bring many more residents. The electric cars are making regular trips.

MILTON.

A union service of the Congregational and Baptist churches of East Milton will be held at the latter church on Sunday evening, when Rev. W. C. Wood of Boston will speak on "The Sabbath and Necessity of its Proper Observance."

An ice cream social will be held by the Baptist ladies on Monday evening at the residence of Mr. Beatty, corner of Adams and Beale streets. An entertainment will be given.

Good Understanding.

Some of the members of Quincy's night police are possessed of large understandings and although they usually feel a little delicate about having attention called to them, one of the bravest consented Wednesday evening to have his shoes measured. The measurement was made as small as possible yet his right foot measure twelve inches in length and six inches across the bottom. With police with such large understandings it is safe to say that it will be unnecessary for Commissioner Knowlton to send his steam roller to the ward which the above officer guards.

Clerks and Police.

Civil service examinations of applicants for the clerical service and police service will be held in Quincy at an early date. Male and female citizens of the United States who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, and of Quincy for the six months last past, have a right to apply for clerical work, but women must be at least eighteen years of age. Blank applications may be obtained of Christopher A. Spear.

Surprise Party.

The friends of Mr. Peter Gomez of Washington street gave him a surprise party on Thursday evening. The Universalist choir and others to the number of about fifty filled his home much to the joy and pleasure of all who participated; and to the utmost surprise of Mr. Gomez. The evening was very pleasantly spent in singing, games, etc.

Tonight regular prayer meeting of Calvary Baptist church Franklin street. A cordial invitation to those desiring a church home and christian fellowship. All are welcome.

John R. Gourd has quite a call for his spherical granite watch charms, and recently furnished a large order for the directors of the New England Monument company as mementoes of the Grant tomb, being inscribed "N. E. M. Co.—Grant Tomb."

A May day party has been planned for the children to take the form of a hurdy-gurdy party to be held Saturday afternoon at Faxon Hall. All the children are delighted for they have attended dancing school this winter and are glad to have this opportunity to enjoy what they have learned and to attend a regular dance.

Owing to the storm of Friday, April 9th, Guy & Shaw were obliged to postpone the baking exhibition advertised for that date, and it will be given today, Friday, April 30th, from 1 to 5 P. M. A barrel of Washburn-Crosby Gold Medal Flour, furnished by A. J. Richards & Son, Quincy Agents, will be baked in the Magee Grand Range.

At last the striker has been put on the bell of the Memorial church, in Atlantic, and the citizens were more than gratified this morning to hear the musical tones go out at the 7 o'clock stroke. Though a little dead at first, it will probably be adjusted so it can be heard distinctly in all parts of the city.

The people of Atlantic who reside on the west side of the track are in a peck of trouble. This week the railroad people have cut off their avenue leading to the station and they are obliged to take an extended walk up to and around the bridge, which means a long walk and a very great inconvenience to them.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Frank J. Smith of Randolph for assault was called and he paid a fine of $5.

THE PERMANENT MEN.

Fire Department Reorganized According to Ordinances.

The amendment to the Fire Department ordinance by the City Council providing permanent men for Hose companies 2 and 3, and Chemical 2, and the reducing the number of call men of the above companies and Hose 4, necessitated a reorganization of the department as far as these pieces of apparatus are concerned.

Although the amendment to the ordinance was passed some weeks ago Chief Williams decided that May 1 would be the proper time for the changes to go into effect, which would give him time to carefully consider the matter, as his idea has been in the make up of the new companies to improve the department and retain the best men.

This he has done and the make up of the several companies as it goes into effect Saturday, May 1, is as follows, the driver in each case being the permanent man:

Hose 2.

TO SQUANTUM.

But How Shall the Street Railway be Extended.

Atlantic Agitated Over the Probable Location.

Billings Street People Object and Atlantic Street Don't Want It.

Few object to Squantum having connection with the outside world by electric railway, but quite the reverse, many hope the street railway will be extended to this delightful spot, which was very popular years ago, when picnics by barges and carriages were more general, but which of late has lost its prestige and is even unknown to many of the new comers to Quincy.

But Squantum must be reached through Atlantic and there seems to be objection to the route proposed, and residents of other streets don't want the line through their streets. The petitions with signers will be of interest:

Your petitioners, citizens and tax payers in Ward Six of the city of Quincy respectfully represent that in their opinion public necessity and convenience and the proper and rapid development of Squantum and Atlantic require the construction and operation of an electric railway between the Atlantic station and Squantum over the route petitioned for by the Quincy & Boston street railway company. We therefore request that the prayer of the petitioners be granted on such reasonable conditions as will warrant the immediate construction of said railway.

The Remonstrants.

We, the undersigned, property owners and residents of Billings street, Atlantic, would respectfully request your honorable body not to grant any company the privilege of laying tracks and running electric cars on Billings street. The street is but forty feet wide, including sidewalks, and is already disfigured with poles and wires for the telegraph and fire alarm services, as well as electric lighting, several trees of value having been seriously injured to provide for these necessities. Whilst believing it important that in the residential part of our city cars should be run only on broad avenues, we would not stand in the way of their passing any other street of Atlantic, if a majority of the residents on that street so desire:

A Third Petition.

We the undersigned offer no objection to the location of a street railway track upon Billings street providing the street is 40 feet wide and that the location be in the centre of the street.

George H. DeHuff,
Mrs. John Ramsdell.

It is claimed by the remonstrants to the location that many of the petitioners signed without considering the location but merely to give Squantum a street railway. On the other hand the petitioners say that several of the Billings street remonstrants are only tenants, and that husband, wife and children have in some cases signed. That the location proposed is the best for Atlantic as it passes post office, depot, stores, etc, and is in the heart of the village.

Billings street is about 2500 feet long and had in 1896 forty poll taxpayers. The value of property at interest or the number of families has not been ascertained.

New Fire Wagon.

A sample of the first class work done at Tirrell & Sons carriage manufactory is seen in the handsome new fire department wagon built by them for Dover. The wagon, which is fitted with a pole for a pair of horses, is fourteen feet long. The body is painted in lake and the running part in vermillion and on the panels of the body are the letters "D. F. D." The wagon carries six chemical extinguishers back of the drivers box, while on a rack in the body of the wagon is a 30 foot extension ladder, a 30 foot roof ladder and a 25 foot gutter ladder. Besides this it carries six shovels, six hoes, three rakes, two axes and two crowbars, while two lanterns are hung on the sides of the driver's box. Beneath the wagon is a box in which the firemen's coats, ropes, etc., can be carried. One of the important features of the wagon is the scissors brake with which it is equipped. As its name implies, it works on the plan of a pair of scissors and enables the driver to apply a pressure to the brake on the rear wheels almost equal to a steam brake. The wagon will be sent to Dover today.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

DELYANNIS STEPS OUT.

Greek Premier Was Forced to Resign by King George.

M. Ralli Forms a New Ministry.

Policy of New Regime Is to Reorganize the Army.

The situation at Athens is less acute than for several days past. Yesterday the Delyannis ministry was deposed and an Opposition cabinet, formed by M. Ralli, was installed.

M. Ralli's policy may be described as honorable peace secured through war. Reports as to the prospects of the intervention of the powers are very conflicting, while the news from the seat of war is very indecisive. It appears that the Turks are preparing simultaneously to attack the Greeks at Pharsalos from the east and the west. Already there are rumors that the Greeks find their positions untenable and are preparing to fall back on Thermopylae.

Athens, April 30.—Following is the official make-up of the new cabinet:

Premier and minister of marine, M. Ralli.
Minister of war, M. Tsamavos.
Minister of finance, M. Simopoulo.
Minister of education, M. Carapanos.
Minister of the interior, M. Tebtaoki.

M. Delyannis has made the following statement: "King George summoned me to the palace and declared that exceptional circumstances compelled him to replace the cabinet and to form a new ministry from the ranks of the opposition. He begged me to second his efforts. I refused to tender my resignation, not because of my love for power, but in order that such a step might not be misinterpreted. I urged the king to use the privilege of the crown, declaring that I was ready to sign the royal decree, provided the latter cast no blame upon us. I added that there was no reason to fear that such a measure would be considered by Europe as a censure upon the government's policy. Judgment would be formed as to that after the new cabinet had been tried. I cannot divulge the policy which I considered necessary. I can only say that the country would have emerged from its trial without loss of territory and would have obtained a ratification of the northern frontier by abandoning Crete, according to the demand of the powers. The latter measure would have facilitated the task, inasmuch as the principle of Ottoman integrity would not have been impaired, while the peace of Europe would have been assured, because of the ratification of the frontier line adjudged in the treaty of Berlin."

During the negotiations for the reconstruction of the ministry from the opposition, M. Ralli opposed the proposal to make M. Sotiropoulo premier, and said: "Setting aside all false modesty, I must be recognized. I am the premier designated by events."

The opposition leaders acquiesced in this view but M. Deligeorgis refused to join the ministry unless the premier were chosen outside the reconstituted parties in the boule. To this M. Ralli replied that he could not and would not attempt to form a ministry without the support of the other opposition sections in the assembly, and he tried to induce M. Deligeorgis to join.

The public tension is much relieved by the change of ministers, and it is now believed that all serious danger of internal disorders is removed.

Yesterday evening's session of the legislative assembly was attended by only 40 deputies. In the absence of a quorum, the president adjourned the chamber, after which crowds paraded the streets, shouting "Long live Admiral Kanaris!" There was no other incident of special importance.

M. Ralli, in an interview, says: "My policy will consist in the reorganization of the army, whose recuperative forces are practically inexhaustible, and the re-establishment of order, together with a satisfactory solution of our foreign relations. We refuse to accept a mandate from the king or from the chamber. We must have an absolutely free hand."

The Greeks have captured the magazine at Philippadia, with a large quantity of ammunition and 10,000 shells. There were a number of minor skirmishes yesterday along the line.

LONDON PRESS DISPATCHES.

The Times.

London, April 30.—A dispatch to The Times from Volo says:

The Turks tried to cut the railway to Velestino. The Greeks fought bravely, losing three officers killed and many wounded, but they were finally repulsed.

Panic continues here without cessation. After dark the populace oscillates between recklessness and terror. The town is entirely destitute of control, as there is no military, and apparently no civil authority. The telegraph office has been closed and postal matter is refused at the postoffice.

A dispatch to The Times from Arta says:

The Greek soldiers are pouring into the town in an almost unbroken column, coming apparently from every point of the Turkish territory hitherto occupied by the Greeks. The Greek soldiers show no signs of a desire to continue the fight against the Turks, and their presence crowds the town five fold above its normal capacity, causing serious inconvenience and threatening, unless something is done to relieve the pressure, serious danger.

A dispatch from Pharsalos says: General Smolenski's brigade was engaged yesterday afternoon in a fierce conflict with a Turkish army corps beyond Velestino, in the direction of Alviale. A battalion of Evzones and a battery of artillery have been sent to reinforce the Greeks, whose position appears to be favorable.

A dispatch to The Times from Canea says that the admirals of the international fleet have visited the insurgents at Akrotiri and had a prolonged conference with the leaders. Admiral Kanevaro informed them of the fall of Larissa and of the retreat of the Greek army. They were greatly moved, and asked to be allowed to go to Greece to fight for King George.

The admirals then announced their intention to relax the blockade, which, they said, was not intended to starve the islanders into subjection. They assured the insurgents that they would be permitted to come into the towns, provided they came unarmed, to purchase anything they might need, and, moreover, that they would be furnished with an escort to guard them against any fear of Mussulman attacks.

The Mail.

All the talk now, says The Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent, is of the intervention of the powers. Even Germany wishes to save Greece from the consequences of defeat, and it is stated in Berlin official circles that the powers will intervene of their own initiative if Greece does not invite them.

According to a dispatch from Constantinople to The Lokal Anzeiger, the sultan will accept the following conditions as the basis of peace:

The withdrawal of the Greek troops from Crete and the re-establishment of the frontier of 1831, Greece to be excluded from all the advantages of capitulations and to pay indemnity.

The Daily Mail's correspondent says the news from Greece continues alarming, and he understands that a Russian ship is lying at Piraeus, the port of Athens, ready to embark the royal family.

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Paris has had an interview with the ambassador of one of the powers of the driebund, who emphatically denied that "any accord" exists between the triple alliance and Turkey. The ambassador declared that not even Germany had entered into a treaty with the sultan.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Rome says that the powers will oppose by force, if necessary, the blockade or bombardment of Salonica, in view of the damage that would be done to foreign commerce. It is believed in Rome that the new Greek ministry will treat for peace, in the hope of preserving the territorial integrity of Greece.

[It is officially announced at Vienna that Greece has assured the British and French ministers at Athens that the Greek fleet will not bombard Salonica.]

The Chronicle.

The Rome correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says it is asserted at the Italian foreign office that Greece has privately addressed France, England and Russia for the purpose of invoking their mediation between her and Turkey.

Henry Norman, The Daily Chronicle correspondent at Athens, says: I have the very best reason to believe that Greece is now disposed to recall her forces from Epirus, and even to evacuate the Island of Crete. Two hundred thousand women and children are homeless and destitute in Thessaly, and the government is unable to relieve their needs.

The Standard.

The Athens correspondent of The Standard says:

The Turkish army, or its advance guard, has followed up its success before Larissa, and at 6 o'clock last evening began an attack in force on the Greek position at Pharsalos.

A Turkish army corps from Larissa has occupied Trikala unresisted.

The Greeks have fallen back on Pharsalos. Railway communication between Volo and Pharsalos has been restored. The advance guards of the Turkish divisions have moved forward from all points, and taken up various positions on the Thessalian plain. Both armies are now in immediate contact and a great battle is believed to be imminent.

The courage of the Greek army is reviving. Crown Prince Constantine is visiting the various camps and inspiring confidence and hope.

General Mavromichali, late chief of the Greek staff, has left the Greek camp and is returning to Athens.

In the direction of Trikala, the Greeks have two battalions of infantry, several batteries of artillery and a squadron of cavalry.

The Standard's correspondent at Constantinople says:

Nechat Pasha's division is resting at Tyrnavo, awaiting reinforcements. Over half its strength has been placed hors du combat by the recent fighting. Hamdi Pasha's division is slowly following the remnants of the shattered Greek army toward Volo. The division of Nemdoub Pasha is marching on Trikala.

Edhem Pasha expects that the Turkish forces at Janina will remain on the defensive until they are reinforced, or are ordered to co-operate with him in Thessaly. Although there is no good reason to believe that Bulgaria and Servia will disturb the peace, the Turkish staff is studying a plan of campaign to be followed in the event of Servian and Bulgarian aggression.

It is rumored that a large force of Turkish troops is being quietly gathered at Smyrna, with a view of landing in Crete to expel Colonel Vassos.

Turkey Asked to Grant Armistice.

Berlin, April 30.—The Frankfort Zeitung publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying that owing to the Greek foreign minister having made the request to the Russian minister at Athens, the ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Russia at Constantinople have asked the Turkish government to grant Greece an armistice.

To Assist Greeks.

Boston, April 30.—Two meetings were held in Boston yesterday, having for their object the assistance of Greece. At one, 35 natives of that country volunteered to go to Athens and fight for their country, while at the other an organization was perfected to raise funds to provide assistance to the destitute and care for the wounded. The volunteers were provided with funds, and they left Boston for New York to take the steamer for Greece. Today 25 more followed. Contributions of funds will be received by Kidder, Peabody & Co., and of provisions and clothing by Mr. Rodocanachi.

War Talk From Japan.

San Francisco, April 30.—According to advices by steamer, the Japanese government is aroused over the refusal of the Hawaiian government to permit Shinshou Marou immigrants to land there, and has ordered warships to Honolulu to enforce what the Japanese immigrants consider their rights. The foreign office instructed Hiogo Kencho at Kobe, on the 9th inst., to stop departure of immigrants for the islands at once. Grave complications have arisen, according to Japanese official newspapers, over the action of the United States government in sending the Philadelphia to Honolulu. Japanese official organs claim the cruiser has been sent there as a menace to the Japanese governmnt, and is significant in that it foretells annexation of the islands to the United States. Japanese official newspapers are full of war talk. The Chowe states that a telegram has been received by the Japanese authorities, to the effect that England has sent an intimation to the United States government that she objects to the intended annexation by the latter of the Hawaiian republic.

Simpson's "No Quorum."

Washington, April 30.—The house was in session seven minutes yesterday. The journal was not read. The objection that there was no quorum present was interposed by Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.), whereupon Mr. Payne (Rep., N. Y.) made a motion to adjourn. C. W. Stone (Rep., Pa.), who was in the chair, held that an adjournment under the order of the house, made last Friday, would be until Monday next. Mr. Simpson protested vainly that it was unconstitutional to adjourn for more than one day without a quorum, and he asked an opportunity to be heard. But the "regular order" was loudly demanded, and Mr. Payne's motion was put and carried—74 to 14—most of the Democrats voting with the Republicans. The chaplain, in his invocation, prayed for the recovery of General Henderson of Iowa, who lies dangerously sick at his home in Dubuque, Ia.

He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. G. Durgin.
